- (2)² For the purposes of these Service Regulations, "permanent employee" means any employee of the Office who has been appointed as probationer or on a permanent basis by a written instrument of the appointing authority.
- (3) These Service Regulations shall apply also to former employees of the Office in all cases expressly provided for in these regulations.
- (4)³ These Service Regulations shall apply to the members, including the chairmen, of the Boards of Appeal and of the Enlarged Board of Appeal and to the President of the Boards of Appeal (hereinafter referred to as "members of the Boards") in so far as they are not prejudicial to their independence.
- (5)⁴ These Service Regulations shall apply to the President and vice-presidents employed on contract unless their contract of employment expressly provides otherwise.

² The term "permanent employee" shall be replaced by the term "employee", be those terms in their singular or plural form, in all articles of the Service Regulations except: Article 1 (1) and (2), Article 41, Article 46, Article 84 and Article 114. Decision of the Administrative Council CA(D 2/18, Article 1.

⁴ Modified by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/18.

- (6)¹ These Service Regulations shall apply to principal directors of the Office employed on contract unless their contract of employment expressly provides otherwise.
- (7)² These Service Regulations shall apply to other employees on fixed-term appointments unless their letter of appointment expressly provides otherwise.
- (8)³ With the exception of Article 15, the provisions of Chapter 1 of Title II shall apply to all employees of the Office, regardless of appointing authority or type of employment or of any provisions in the contract of employment.

Article 1a⁴ Non-discrimination

Without prejudice to Article 5, paragraph 1, Article 8, Article 54, Article 62b and Article 72, any discrimination in the application of these Service Regulations based on any ground such as gender, race, colour, ethnic or social origin, genetic features, language, religion or belief, political or any other opinion, membership of a national minority, property, birth, disability, age, or sexual identity or orientation shall be prohibited.

Article 1b⁵ Protection of personal data

- (1) The Office endeavours to ensure respect for the fundamental rights to privacy and to the protection of personal data of all individuals whose data are processed by the Office, and to guarantee accountability in this regard.
- (2) This Article, Article 32a and their Implementing Rules shall apply to the Office's processing of personal data wholly or partly by automated means and to its processing other than by automated means of personal data which form part of a filing system or are intended to form part of a filing system; in applying them, due regard shall be had to the independence of the Boards of Appeal in their judicial capacity. The scope of this Article, Article 32a and their Implementing Rules shall extend to all natural persons not covered by Article 1 whose personal data are processed by the Office.
- (3) Personal data which are, by their nature, particularly sensitive in relation to fundamental rights and freedoms merit specific protection, as the context of their processing could create significant risks to those fundamental rights and freedoms. Such personal data shall not be processed unless the specific conditions set out in the Implementing Rules for Articles 1b and 32a are met. Those personal data may include personal data revealing racial or ethnic origin; the use of the terms "race" and "racial origin" in these Service

- (5) Where personal data might lawfully be processed because processing is necessary to carry out tasks in the exercise of the official activities of the European Patent Organisation or in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, which includes the processing necessary for the Office's management and functioning, a data subject shall nevertheless be entitled to object to the processing of any personal data relating to his or her particular situation.  - (c) to qualify for compensatory leave or remuneration for one hour's overtime, the extra time worked must have been more than thirty minutes.
- (4) If an employee is travelling on mission, the time taken to reach the place of assignment shall not be treated as overtime for the purposes of this Article. As regards hours worked at the place of assignment in excess of the normal number of working hours, compensatory leave or remuneration, as the case may be, may be allowed by decision of the President of the Office.
- (5)¹ Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs 3 and 4, remuneration for overtime worked by certain groups of employees in job groups 5 and 6 in special conditions may be paid in the form of a fixed allowance, the amount and terms of which shall be laid down by the President of the Office.

Article 58 Shift work

- (1) An employee who is expected to work regularly at night, on Saturdays, Sundays or public holidays when doing shift work which is required by the exigencies of the service or safety rules shall be entitled to compensation in the form of time off, or, where this cannot be granted, in the form of payment per hour of shift work performed. Chapter 2

Leave

Article 59²

Annual and special leave

- (1)³ (a) Permanent employees shall be entitled to annual leave of thirty working days per calendar year. For the purposes of this chapter, Saturdays shall not count as working days. - (b) Permanent employees aged 65 and over having accrued 35 years of reckonable service for pension entitlement and having thus reached the maximum rate of retirement pension will benefit from 12 days' additional annual leave per calendar year.

Any review of this decision may take place only after a special decision by the President of the Office upon a reasoned request by the employee.

1 Revised with effect from 1 April 2013 by decision of the Administrative Council of CA/D 3/13. Employees who were granted home leave outside the territory of a Contracting State in line with the provisions in force prior to the entry into force of this decision shall continue to benefit from their entitlement to home leave in terms of both days off and travel expenses. - (1) An employee who has lodged an application for the adoption of a child and started the adoption procedure shall be entitled to paid leave if, on the date the child is recognised as dependent within the meaning of Article 69(3)(b), the child is under 18 years of age and neither resident with the employee, his spouse or the other adopting parent, nor already mainly and continuously supported by the employee, his spouse or the other adopting parent.
- (2) The leave shall amount to 20 weeks, rising to 24 weeks in the case of the adoption of a disabled child⁵. Each adopted child shall confer entitlement to only one period of leave, which may be shared between the adoptive parents if both are employees. The leave must be taken without interruption and within 12 months from the date of adoption. It shall be granted only if the employee's spouse or the other adoptive parent engages in a gainful activity at least half-time. If the spouse or the other adoptive parent benefits from comparable leave, a corresponding number of days shall be deducted from the employee's entitlement.

Chapter 3^{3/4}

Absences for health reasons

Article 62⁵

General principles

- (1) The present provisions on absences for health reasons offer a framework conducive to health recovery and return to work. The system relies on the responsible use and active contribution of the employee.
- (2) The system covers three phases:
- sick leave;
 - extended sick leave;
 - incapacity.

It allows flexible working arrangements and a partial return to work at all phases. Regular medical appointments will take place during the three phases depending on the employee's health situation.

- (3) The President of the Office may lay down further terms and conditions necessary for the implementation of this Chapter.

Article 62a⁶

Sick leave

- (1) An employee who is unable for health reasons to perform all or part of their duties shall be entitled to sick leave subject to the conditions laid down in the present Article.

1 Inserted by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/18.

2 Inserted by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/18.

3 Inserted by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/15. See also Article 9 CA/D 20/17.

4 See also the transitional measures in Articles 71 to 74 in CA/D 2/15. See also Article 9 CA/D 20/17.

5 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 20/22.

6 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 20/22.

- (2) The employee concerned shall notify the Office of their inability to perform their duties as soon as possible on the first day of absence, and at the same time state their present address and telephone number. They shall provide evidence of their inability to perform their duties on the fourth day of absence at the latest if they are absent for more than three working days and on the first day of absence if they have already taken uncertified sick leave for three working days in a given calendar year.
- (3) If, during annual or home leave, an employee's state of health would justify sick leave, the corresponding period shall, subject to production of evidence, be deemed to be sick leave and shall not be deducted from their annual or home leave.
- (4) If an employee's state of health so requires or if a member of their household is suffering from a contagious disease, they may be required to take compulsory sick leave after examination by a medical practitioner under Title VI.
- (5) If an employee wishes to spend sick leave elsewhere than at their place of residence within the meaning of these Service Regulations, they shall obtain prior permission of the President of the Office.
- (6) The President of the Office may verify by means of medical examinations whether the employee's state of health justifies sick leave. These medical examinations may be conducted at the present address of the employee. The terms and conditions for performing such examinations, which may also be conducted by external service providers, shall be laid down by the President of the Office.
- (7) Sick leave shall be
 - (a) granted for an initial period of up to a maximum duration of 125 working days, either in one unbroken period or in several periods within any rolling period of 18 consecutive months;
 - (b) extended up to a total of 250 working days within any rolling period of 36 consecutive months if the employee is still partially or totally unable to perform their duties.

Regardless of any working time arrangement or applicable salary deduction, for the purpose of computing sick leave accumulation, any absence on a working day shall be counted as a full day of sick leave.
- (8) An employee on sick leave may be authorised to work by using partial sick leave by decision of the President of the Office upon medical opinion assessing the appropriate duration and extent of a reduction in working hours.
- (9) During a period of full or partial sick leave an employee shall retain the right to
 - (a) the remuneration they would be entitled to if their health enabled them to perform their duties, subject to a 10% deduction of the basic salary and of the allowances payable under Articles 68 and 72 during the period mentioned in paragraph 7(b);

- (b) annual and home leave, it being provided that
 - leave taken during such periods shall be deducted in full days from their leave entitlement, irrespective of the percentage reduction in their working time,
 - taking fractions of days' leave is not allowed;
- (c) full benefits under the social security and pension schemes, including, where applicable, participation in the salary savings plan.

The employee's contributions to the social security scheme, to the pension scheme and, where applicable, to the salary savings plan shall be calculated on their full basic salary. The above applies subject to Article 56, paragraph 4.

- (10) Where an absence results from a medical condition which gives rise to a claim against a third party by an employee, the award of the benefits provided for in this Article shall in principle be made subject to the beneficiary's assigning to the Office their claims against such third party, up to the amount of such benefits.

However, the Office may waive its right to take action pursuant to such subrogation against the third party concerned where special circumstances justify such a waiver.

- (11) At the expiry of the applicable maximum period of sick leave, the rights and obligations of the employee who is still partially or totally unable to perform their duties for health reasons shall be governed by the provisions of Article 62b.
- (12) Entitlement to sick leave shall lapse upon expiry of a fixed-term appointment."

Article 62b¹ Incapacity during service

- (1) If an employee has reached the applicable maximum period of sick leave set forth in Article 62a, paragraph 7(b), the President of the Office shall declare them unable to perform their duties for reasons of incapacity upon medical opinion proving that the necessary conditions are fulfilled: being partially or totally unable to perform their duties or similar other duties which might reasonably be assigned to them, i.e. which correspond to their situation, their knowledge and their capabilities.

In such case, they shall be partially or totally discharged from performing their duties by decision of the President of the Office.

The proportion and period of time of such discharge from duties shall follow the medical opinion. In case of partial incapacity, any discharge from duties shall not exceed 80% of the normal working time. The minimum degree of incapacity for a total discharge from duties shall be 70%.

- (2) A medical opinion assessing incapacity shall be based on a medical examination of the employee concerned. The medical practitioner's conclusions shall indicate:
 - (a) the degree of incapacity, i.e. the extent to which the employee is unfit to work;
 - (b) the identification of any specific restrictions in the exercise of the employee's duties or similar other duties assigned to them;
 - (c) the proportion of any possible working time;
 - (d) the foreseen duration of incapacity;
 - (e) the date on which a new examination should take place;
 - (f) any suggestions as to specific measures which could be taken to improve the employee's state of health.
- (3) During a period of incapacity pursuant to this Article, the employee shall be entitled to
 - (a) a proportion of their basic salary and of the allowances payable under Articles 68 and 72 equal to the time worked;
 - (b) 70% of the basic salary and of the allowances payable under Articles 68 and 72 at their grade and step for the time they are discharged from duties for reasons of incapacity, whereby the combination of (a) and (b) shall not result in an amount lower than 120% of basic salary at grade G1, step 4, unless this minimum would result in a basic salary higher than that payable if the employee were not prevented from performing their duties;
 - (c) their other allowances in full;
 - (d) annual leave in proportion to the time actually worked;
 - (e) home leave, if applicable;
 - (f) full benefits under the social security scheme provided for under Chapter 2 of Title V.

Contributions to the social security scheme shall be calculated on the basic salary which the employee would have received for normal full-time work.

- (4) Contributions to the pension scheme and where applicable to the salary savings plan shall be calculated in proportion to the actual salary drawn, and the employee shall accrue correspondingly reduced benefits.

At the employee's request, contributions to the pension scheme and where applicable to the salary savings plan shall be calculated on the basic salary which they would have received for normal full-time work, in which case they shall accrue full benefits.

- (5) A part-time arrangement approved in accordance with Article 56 before a period of incapacity shall remain unaffected. In such case:
 - (a) the proportion of any possible working time during incapacity shall be determined by reference to the normal, full-time working hours;

- (b) incapacity benefits under paragraph 3 shall be payable only for the fraction of time defined as working time under the pre-existing part-time working arrangement and not worked for reasons of incapacity.
- (6) If during a period of partial incapacity the employee's state of health so requires and subject to the provision of evidence, they may temporarily be discharged from the entirety of their duties. Their rights and obligations for such absence shall be determined by this Article. In addition, Article 62a, paragraph 6, shall apply.
- (7) An employee's state of health shall be periodically reviewed in order to determine whether or not the conditions for incapacity laid down in paragraph 1 are still met and, if so, whether the proportion of incapacity and its duration should be adjusted.
- (8) The incapacity of an employee pursuant to this Article shall end
 - (a) by decision of the President of the Office upon medical opinion concluding that the employee no longer meets the conditions for incapacity laid down in paragraph 1. In such a case, they shall resume their duties or be charged with similar other duties;
 - (b) on termination of service according to Article 50, unless the employee becomes eligible for the incapacity cover provided for under Article 62c.
- (9) During a transitional period after termination of incapacity under paragraph 8(a), sick leave may initially be granted for a maximum of 20 days. For any further absences for health reasons, the employee shall receive incapacity benefits under this Article.

Such a transitional period shall end once the employee has accumulated a maximum of 20 days of absences for health reasons within any period of 18 months.
- (10) During a period of incapacity, the provisions in Article 62a, paragraphs 2 to 5, shall apply.

Article 62c¹

Incapacity for fixed-term employees upon termination of service

- (1) If a fixed-term employee is on authorised absence for medical reasons when their service terminates, a medical opinion shall be sought to determine whether they fulfil the conditions for total incapacity: being totally unable to perform duties which correspond to their situation, their knowledge and their capabilities. In such a case, the former fixed-term employee shall be deemed on incapacity by decision of the President of the Office.
- (2) The minimum degree of incapacity required to qualify for total incapacity shall be 70%.

- (3) A medical opinion assessing total incapacity shall be based on a medical examination of the employee concerned. The medical practitioner's conclusions shall indicate:
 - (a) the degree of incapacity, i.e. the extent to which the former fixed-term employee is unfit to work;
 - (b) the foreseen duration of incapacity;
 - (c) the date on which a new examination should take place;
 - (d) any suggestions as to specific measures which could be taken to improve their state of health.
- (4) During a period of incapacity, a former fixed-term employee shall be entitled to
 - (a) 70% of the basic salary paid at the last step they had reached in the last grade held by them. The amount may not, however, exceed the basic salary for grade G1, step 4;
 - (b) full benefits under the social security scheme provided for under Chapter 2 of Title V.
- (5) The former fixed-term employee shall continue to pay one-third of the total contributions to the social security scheme only, which shall be calculated on the basic salary which they would have received for normal full-time work.
- (6) A former fixed-term employee's state of health shall be periodically reviewed in order to determine whether or not the conditions for incapacity laid down in paragraph 1 are still met and, if so, whether the proportion of incapacity and its duration should be adjusted.
- (7) The incapacity of a former fixed-term employee shall end
 - (a) by decision of the President of the Office upon medical opinion concluding that the former fixed-term employee no longer meets the conditions for total incapacity laid down in paragraph 1; or
 - (b) on expiry of each 12-month period from termination of service, unless the President of the Office decides otherwise upon, inter alia, medical opinion concluding that the former fixed-term employee continues to meet the conditions for total incapacity laid down in paragraph 1, and after taking into consideration evidence of sources of income provided by the former fixed-term employee; or
 - (c) when the former employee starts drawing a pension, or
 - (d) in any event at the age of 65.
- (8) The total contribution required to meet payments under this Article, calculated by reference to the basic salary, shall be set by the President of the Office, on the basis of an actuarial study. One-third of such contribution shall be charged to the fixed-term employee.

Chapter 4¹

Unauthorised absence and non-fulfilment of duties²

Article 63³

Unauthorised absence

- (1)⁴ Except in case of inability to perform their duties for health reasons, an employee may not be absent without prior permission from their line manager. Any unauthorised absence which is duly established shall be deducted from the annual leave of the employee concerned. If the annual leave has been used up, the unauthorised absence shall lead to a deduction of the employee's remuneration for the equivalent period in accordance with Article 65(1)(b).
- (2)⁵ In particular, an employee shall be considered to be on unauthorised absence if they fail, without legitimate reason, to
- (a) provide evidence pursuant to Article 62a, paragraph 2;
 - (b) undergo a medical examination ordered pursuant to Article 62a, paragraphs 4 and 6;
 - (c) obtain permission prior to spending their sick leave elsewhere than at their place of residence pursuant to Article 62a, paragraph 5;
 - (d) return to work at the end of a period of sick leave or incapacity or where a medical practitioner advising the President of the Office concludes that sick leave is not or no longer justified under Article 62a, paragraphs 6 or 7(b). If these medical conclusions are contested and confirmed following the arbitration procedure laid down in Article 91, the employee shall be considered on unauthorised absence as from the date when the contested medical conclusions were first communicated to them.
- (3) Notwithstanding paragraph 1, and taking due account of the circumstances, any unauthorised absence established under paragraph 2(d) following an arbitration procedure may lead to a deduction from the basic salary of the employee concerned for the period prior to the outcome of the arbitration procedure.
- (4) Application of paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 shall be without prejudice to any disciplinary measures that may apply.

The salary withheld shall be the twentieth part of the employee's basic salary for every day of non-compliance since the date of the written request or order, until such time as the employee fully complies with it.

- (2) (a) An employee whose service terminates for reasons other than retiring may, on request, continue to be insured as provided for in paragraph 1(a) on condition that they cannot be covered by another public and/or private healthcare insurance. However the total contribution shall be borne by the then former employee.
- (b) The request should be made before termination of service and the insurance may continue (i) for a maximum of twelve months or (ii) in the case of employees with continuous service of less than one year, for a period equal to their fixed-term appointment unless the President of the Office, following an examination made by a medical practitioner designated by the President of the Office, decides otherwise; in this case it must be established that the employee is suffering from a serious or protracted illness which was contracted before leaving the service and notified to the Office within six months of leaving.
- (c) An employee entitled to a deferred retirement pension whose service terminates after the age of 50 or has a total of at least 25 years of reckonable service may, on request, continue to be insured as provided for in paragraph 1. However, after a period of time exceeding 10% of the years actually served at the Office, the total contribution shall be borne by the employee. The amount of contribution shall be calculated by reference to the final basic salary for the grade and step held.

When an employee entitled to a deferred retirement pension has a spouse in active service in the Office, this option will be compulsory unless the employee is primarily covered under another healthcare insurance scheme.

- (d) Insured persons who cease to fulfil the conditions of paragraph 1(a) may, on request, continue to be insured by way of an individual contract, excluding the cover referred to in paragraph 6. Ad hoc premiums for such a contract shall be set by the President of the Office on the basis of an actuarial study which should have regard to the age of the insured persons concerned.

- (3) (a) An employee who has remained in the service of the Office until they retire shall be entitled to the cover provided for in paragraph 1(a) once they retire. An employee who has continued to be insured according to the provisions of paragraph 2(c) shall be entitled to the cover provided for in paragraph 1 once they become entitled to a retirement pension. The amount of contribution shall be calculated by reference to the amount of pension.
 - (b) Benefits shall also apply to the person entitled to a survivor's pension following the death of an employee who was in active employment, or who remained in the service of the Office until they retired, or have continued to be insured according to the provisions of paragraph 2(c), provided the survivor was insured under the present insurance scheme at the time of the death of the employee or former employee. The amount of contribution shall be calculated by reference to the amount of the survivor's pension.
- (4) A person entitled to an orphan's or dependant's pension shall not be entitled to the cover provided for in paragraph 1(a) except at their request. The contribution shall be calculated by reference to the orphan's or dependant's pension.
- (5) Where applicable, the portion of remuneration owed on termination of service as a result of compulsory participation in the salary savings plan shall be reduced by the amount of the healthcare insurance contribution, a third of which shall be borne by the employee, provided that they are entitled to a pension.
- (6) Where the total medical expenditure not reimbursed for any period of twelve months exceeds half the employee's monthly basic salary or half the pension paid, special reimbursement shall be allowed by the President of the Office. In addition, in the case of medical expenditure which exceeds one-fifth but is less than one-half of the monthly basic salary, or of the pension, an additional reimbursement shall be allowed, coverage for which is to be met as laid down in paragraph 1. For a pension paid under the new pension scheme, reference shall be made to 70% of final basic salary rather than to the pension.
- (7) Any person entitled to the foregoing benefits shall declare the amount of any other reimbursement to which they or any other person provided for in paragraph 1(a) are entitled for the same expenditure. Where the total which they would receive by way of reimbursement exceeds 100% of the expenditure incurred, the difference shall be deducted from the amount to be reimbursed pursuant to paragraphs 1(a) and 6.

IMPLEMENTING RULE FOR ARTICLE 64 OF THE SERVICE REGULATIONS FOR PERMANENT AND OTHER EMPLOYEES OF THE EUROPEAN PATENT OFFICE¹

PROCEDURE FOR ADJUSTING THE REMUNERATION OF PERMANENT EMPLOYEES OF THE EUROPEAN PATENT OFFICE, APPLICABLE WITH EFFECT FROM 1 JULY 2014

CHAPTER I GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 1² Adjustment timetable

- (1) The levels of the basic salaries and allowances set out in Annex III to the Service Regulations are adjusted each year, with effect from 1 January, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter II of the present procedure and on the basis of a proposal drawn up by the President of the Office after consulting the General Consultative Committee.
- (2) The annual adjustment proposal shall be submitted to the Administrative Council for approval at its meeting in December of the year preceding its application. An estimate of the cost of the proposed adjustments, together with the scales concerned, is submitted to the Budget and Finance Committee at its autumn meeting, if they are available in time.
- (3) Before submitting his proposal, the President obtains confirmation from independent experts, appointed by him, that it is consistent with the provisions of this rule.
- (4)³ The amounts of the young child allowance and the education allowance set out in Annex IV to the Service Regulations, the daily subsistence allowance set out in Annex V to the Service Regulations and the kilometric allowance referred to in Article 79 of the Service Regulations are adjusted by applying the arithmetic average rate of annual salary adjustment for Austria, Germany and the Netherlands to those in place.

1 Revised by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 3/14.

2 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 4/20.

3 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 4/21.

CHAPTER II

ANNUAL ADJUSTMENT OF THE BASIC SALARIES AND ALLOWANCES SET OUT IN ANNEX III TO THE SERVICE REGULATIONS

Article 2¹

Annual adjustment of the reference scale: Belgium

- (1) With effect from 1 January, the basic salary scale and allowance amounts set out in Annex III to the Service Regulations and applicable for Belgium are adjusted by a percentage corresponding to the Harmonised Index of Consumer Prices calculated for that country, corrected by the index for remuneration trends in the central government services of the reference countries ("specific indicator"), calculated in accordance with the procedure described in Article 3.
- (2) This percentage adjustment is applied to the basic salary scale and allowance amounts in force as at 1 January of the current year.

Article 3

Calculating the specific indicator

- (1) The central government services of the following eight countries are taken as a reference: Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Spain and the United Kingdom.
- (2)² The specific indicator is obtained by performing the following operations:
 - (a) Establishing correspondence between the grades at each of the reference national administrations and those at the EPO.
 - (b) Calculating, for each of these grades and for each of two marital situations ("unmarried" and "married with two dependent children"), the gross maximum and minimum monthly remuneration as at 1 July of the calculation year and as at 1 July of the previous year. This calculation takes account of all elements making up the remuneration paid to national civil servants. Any one-off payments made during the year are converted into corresponding monthly amounts.
 - (c) Calculating, for each of these grades and for each of the above marital situations, the net maximum and minimum monthly remuneration as at the two comparison dates. This is done by deducting, from gross remuneration, compulsory social security contributions (sickness, death, invalidity and long-term care insurance, pension scheme) and the income tax levied by the central government authority, calculated without taking non-automatic personal allowances into account.
 - (d) Calculating, for each of these grades and for each of the above marital situations, the real-term trend indices for maximum and minimum remuneration. This is done by deflating the net remuneration trend indices by the national Harmonised Index of Consumer Prices over the 12-month period preceding 1 July of the calculation year.

² Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 4/20.

- (e) Determining, for each of these grades and for each of the above marital situations, the average real-term trend indices per grade. This is done by calculating the arithmetical mean of the real-term trend indices for maximum and minimum remuneration calculated under (d).
- (f) Determining an average trend index per grade. This is done by applying to the average real-term trend indices, calculated under (e), weightings of 0.3 and 0.7 respectively for the marital situations "unmarried" and "married with two dependent children".
- (g) Determining an average trend index per reference country. This is done by weighting the grade indices, obtained under (f), by the grade distribution of staff in the central government services of the country concerned.
- (h) Determining the average overall trend index (or "specific indicator"). This is done by applying the following coefficients to the country indices obtained under (g):

Belgium:	7.1%
France:	16.0%
Germany:	21.1%
Italy:	14.3%
Luxembourg:	5.3%
Netherlands:	8.5%
Spain:	11.7%
United Kingdom:	16.0%

- (3) The national remuneration data used for the calculations described in paragraph 2 are those supplied by the national governments for the European Communities and the Co-ordinated Organisations.

Article 4¹

Determining the scales for countries other than Belgium

To obtain the basic salary scale and allowance amounts applicable in a member state other than Belgium, the new basic salary scale and allowance amounts applicable in Belgium are multiplied by the purchasing power parity coefficient relating to the country concerned and calculated with reference to Brussels in accordance with the provisions of Chapter III.

CHAPTER III CONSUMER PRICE INDICES AND COEFFICIENTS OF PURCHASING POWER PARITY¹

Article 5

- (1) The Harmonised Index of Consumer Prices for Belgium referred to in Article 2 and the purchasing power parity coefficients referred to in Article 4 are calculated by the International Service for Remunerations and Pensions in collaboration with the Statistical Office of the European Communities in accordance with the methodology approved by the decision-making bodies of the European Union after consulting national statisticians.
- (2)² The national price indices referred to in Article 3(2)(d) correspond to the Harmonised Index of Consumer Prices calculated by the Statistical Office of the European Communities.

CHAPTER IV PROVISIONAL ADJUSTMENTS AND POSSIBLE CORRECTIONS

Article 6

Provisional adjustments

- (1) Should the civil services of some reference countries not forward the information required under Article 3(3) in time for the President to submit his adjustment proposals in accordance with Articles 2 to 4, the President submits to the Administrative Council a provisional adjustment proposal based on the information available to him.
- (2)³ As soon as he is able to do so, the President submits to the Administrative Council a definitive adjustment proposal in accordance with Articles 2 to 4. This definitive adjustment takes effect on 1 January of the year following that during which it is calculated.

Article 7

Data corrections

- (1)⁴ If there was a mistake in the data used to calculate an adjustment, the President, with the agreement of the independent experts referred to in Article 1(3), may retroactively modify the salary scales in force as appropriate and submit them to the next meeting of the Administrative Council for approval.

1 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 4/20.

2 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 4/20.

3 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 4/20.

4 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 4/20.

- (2) Paragraph (1) shall be applicable to payments made to staff in the administrative statuses provided for in Article 39 of the Service Regulations and to recipients of EPO pension benefits.

Article 8¹ Nominal guarantee

In the event that the annual adjustment leads to a basic salary lower than that currently in force, this negative adjustment shall be set against future adjustments, and salaries and allowances shall be maintained at their level.

Article 9² Sustainability clause

- (1) The overall growth in the basic salary mass resulting from the salary adjustment procedure described under Chapter II shall be limited to that indexed to annual Eurozone inflation +0.2% as at 1 July of the calculation year. To that end, the growth in the basic salary mass is calculated by reference to the increase by site, weighted to reflect the distribution of employees per site as at 1 July of the calculation year.
- (2) If the weighted increase is lower than the limit, each scale and allowance shall be adjusted as per the procedure described in Articles 2 to 4.
- (3) If the weighted increase exceeds the limit, the salary adjustment percentage of all basic salary scales and allowances (scales referred to in Article 4 and the scale for Belgium) shall be reduced in the same proportion.
- (4) If the weighted increase is lower than the limit, any remainder of the previous annual adjustment resulting from the calculated adjustment and the limit set out in paragraph 1 shall be included in the current adjustment up to the limit.
- (5) The updated scales for Germany, the Netherlands, Austria and Belgium shall replace the salary and allowance figures shown in Annexes III to VI to the Service Regulations.

Article 10³ Periodical settlement

- (1) Any positive adjustment resulting from the application of Article 9 and carried forward after three annual salary adjustments will be paid out to employees as a lump sum in proportion to the basic salaries and allowances they received over the three-year period.
- (2) The proposal for such a periodical settlement shall be submitted to the Administrative Council for approval at its meeting in December of the year in question.

1 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 4/20.

2 Inserted by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 4/20.

3 Inserted by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 4/20.

Article 11¹

Exception clause

- (1) If there was a decrease in the real gross domestic product of the Contracting States the previous year and the result of the adjustment according to Articles 2 to 4 and Article 9 is positive, the adjustment shall be delayed. The delayed adjustment shall not be taken into account for the purpose of Article 9 above. The reference values of the gross domestic product are those calculated by the Statistical Office of the European Communities for the EPC Contracting States in the European Union, and by the competent national authorities for the other Contracting States, available at the time of calculation. The decrease in the gross domestic product and the consequences in terms of the date of application of the adjustment are defined in accordance with the following table:

Gross domestic product	Date of payment of the adjustment
-1% to -3%	1 October of the adjustment year
Below -3%	-

- (2) When the application of paragraph (1) has the effect that the value of the calculations according to Articles 2 to 4 and Article 9 does not result in an adjustment of remunerations and pensions, this value shall form the basis of the calculation of a future adjustment once the cumulative increase of gross domestic product in the Contracting States, measured from the year where paragraph (1) was applied, becomes positive.

CHAPTER V

EVALUATION OF THE PROCEDURE AND SUBSEQUENT MODIFICATIONS

Article 12²

- (1) After the present procedure has been in operation for six years, the President will undertake a full review of its results. This review will take account of the EPO's recruitment needs, the competitiveness of its salaries, the overall financial situation of the Organisation, in particular in view of its long-term sustainability, and any difficulties encountered in applying the procedure. The impact of the procedure, including the sustainability clause, on purchasing power will also be examined.
- (2) In the light of this review, the President will make a report to the Administrative Council, and if appropriate submit proposals for change, including in order to secure the Organisation's long-term sustainability and correct a differential in purchasing power resulting from the application of Chapter IV.

² Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 4/20.

However, until such changes are approved by the Administrative Council the present procedure will remain in force.

CHAPTER VI

DATE OF ENTRY INTO FORCE AND APPLICATION OF THE PROCEDURE

Article 13¹

- (1) The present procedure will for the first time apply with effect from 1 January 2021; subsequently, the Administrative Council shall decide on its implementation every year on the basis of an assessment of whether the prevailing circumstances allow the procedure to apply.
- (2) The present procedure will be applied in the light of Articles 33(2)(b) and 46 of the European Patent Convention.

This decision shall enter into force on 1 July 2020.²

GUIDELINES ON BUSINESS EXPENDITURE FOR SOCIAL PURPOSES AND REPRESENTATION

Preamble

Expenditure on representation, entertainment, catering, gifts and staff motivation should be envisaged only where it will benefit the Office. Exceptions to this rule could damage the Office's reputation and cause it pecuniary loss. Line managers and staff are therefore encouraged to apply high standards of governance in line with the principles of economy and sound financial management.

Before a decision is taken to launch an event which will generate expenditure, the competent authorising officer must be contacted and the necessary funds reserved in the Office's financial system (FIPS). PD Finance will provide a budgetary overview of where such expenditure will be booked.

In these Guidelines the term "budget holder" means all senior officers, and in the first line the head of a Directorate-General, responsible for Budget preparation and execution in the sense of CA/69/08 on new budget dynamic and Annex X to the yearly Budget.

These Guidelines apply in accordance with the Financial Regulations of the European Patent Organisation and with the Service Regulations for employees of the European Patent Office, in particular Articles 76(1) and (3) and 82.

Article 1 Scope

- (1) These guidelines apply to all expenditure generated by:
 - (a) representation and entertainment
 - (b) other catering (business breakfast, lunch, dinner, cocktails, snacks, biscuits, drinks etc.)
 - (c) gifts (including promotional products and giveaways)
 - (d) financial participation in events, celebrations, social and travel packages and accommodation packages
 - (e) expenditure under the directors' motivation budget.
- (2) These guidelines cover all activities under the Office's auspices, including training, technical co-operation, the European Patent Academy, fairs, exhibitions, and conferences for external delegates.
- (3) These guidelines do not apply to subsidies to the Amicale and similar bodies.

- (4) These guidelines apply without prejudice to Articles 82 and 87 of the Service Regulations.

Article 2

Representation and entertainment

- (1) Expenditure on representation and entertainment is confined to activities aimed at non-European Patent Office persons or bodies and clearly driven by the purpose of representing the Office. Allowable activities must always be appropriate to the status, obligations and reputation of the Office.
- (2) Meals and all forms of catering in the context of representation activities are governed by the provisions of Article 3, as far as circumstances allow.
- (3) Expenditure generated by other types of business contact - commercial contracts and contract preparation, works visits, etc. - does not pertain to the public representation of the Office and may be covered only under Articles 3 and 4.

Catering

- (1) Expenditure generated by catering may be for either internal or external purposes. Internal purposes include meetings of internal Office committees and working parties, other sizeable or lengthy meetings, and training events. External purposes include catering at conferences and events with external participants. The venue is irrelevant.
- (2) Invitations to meals for internal purposes must be authorised by the principal authorising officer (exceptions: training according to Circular No. 280 and motivation according to Article 6). The principal authorising officer may delegate such power. Invitations to meals for external purposes fall within the normal competence of the authorising officer.
- (3) The maximum rate per person for a meal is EUR 60.00 (EUR 20.00 in EPO canteens); exceptions may be granted only if approved by the principal authorising officer. Tips may be reimbursed in addition, up to a maximum of 10% of the bill.
- (4) As far as circumstances allow, a list of participants should be included with the request for reimbursement.
- (5) The following applies in special cases:
 - (a) Where catering costs are included in a package, the above rates should be used as a guide.
 - (b) The above rates should also be used as a guide for catering costs incurred in connection with meetings of the Administrative Council and its committees.

Article 4

Gifts

- (1) The Office may bear the cost of official presents, small gifts and giveaways for non-European Patent Office persons or bodies. The purchasing policy for gifts is the responsibility of Principal Directorate Communication, which must ensure that due account is taken of the Office's corporate identity and that purchases are cost-effective. The individual value of a gift should be modest. Exceptions may be granted only by the Principal Director Communication.

Article 5

Social events

- (1) The cost of major Office-wide social gatherings, and of comparable events as decided by employees of grade A6 and higher, may be borne in whole or in part by the Office, subject to approval by the budget holder.
- (2) Money may also be spent in other situations of a social nature, on a case-by-case basis (e.g. for sick colleagues, wreaths and obituary notices for staff members who die in service), subject to approval by the budget holder.
- (3) Staff completing 25 years in service with the Office receive a certificate signed by the President, EUR 600.00 and two days' special leave.
- (4) Staff completing 40 years in service with the Office receive a certificate signed by the President, EUR 800.00 and two days' special leave.
- (5) On retirement, staff receive a letter of thanks from the President and EUR 600.00 towards the cost of a leaving party upon presentation of receipts. For the same purpose and under the same conditions, the President may decide another ceiling to be applied to senior managers (grade A6-A7).

Motivation budget

- (1) The managers' motivation budget is set at EUR 30.00 per budget post plus any Article 3010 Euro-contract staff position as on 1 January of each year. The budget is managed by the authorising officer and may not be exceeded. Events must be held in the fiscal year, i.e. before 31 December. Requests for payment may be submitted only by the manager, must be accompanied by originals of all bills and should be received no later than 10 January of the following year.
- (2) The motivation budget may be used, for instance, for invitations to meals, departmental drinks, excursions, or gifts for a directorate (e.g. a coffee machine). The recipients must be staff members of the unit in question or, at the discretion of the manager, temporary staff.

- (3) The budget is for use by directors and heads of units only. However, it may be used by principal directors if the department is not headed by such a manager. Managers are accountable for the use of funds and may be asked to justify such use.
- (4) A list of participants is not required for such events.

Article 7

Invoices

- (1) Invoices for any of the above expenditure must fulfil the mandatory invoice requirements set out in the relevant EU directive. Upon request, Principal Directorate Finance shall clarify the mandatory requirements for invoice processing.
- (2) With regard to VAT reimbursements, only original invoices addressed to the Office and stating the full address will be accepted for reimbursement of expenditure in accordance with these guidelines. When the bill is paid by the employee, the request for reimbursement with the original invoice attached (addressed to the Office) must be posted in FIPS on the employee vendor account. When the original invoice of the company (e.g. a restaurant) is sent direct to the Office, payment must be initiated in line with regular vendor invoices.
- (3) In the case of exceptions to the above, written justification must be provided.

Article 8

Rates

All rates mentioned in these guidelines are net and shall be reviewed regularly in parallel with the preparation of the budget in order to at least compensate for inflation.

Article 9

Reimbursement

Business expenses for social purposes and representation are reimbursed in accordance with the Financial Regulations and with the Service Regulations, in particular Article 76(1), i.e. "a employee shall be entitled (...) to reimbursement of expenses incurred by him (...) in the course of or in connection with the performance of his duties", and Article 76(3), i.e. "unless otherwise provided in [the Service] Regulations, requests for reimbursement (...) must be submitted within six months of the date on which expenditure was incurred. Requests submitted after the deadline provided in this paragraph or otherwise in [the Service] Regulations are reimbursable only in a duly substantiated case of force majeure."

Article 10
Implementation

- (1) Simple forms and advice will be provided to help staff comply with these guidelines.
- (2) These guidelines replace the Guidelines on expenditure for special occasions, catering and other entertainment (2 March 1994), Circular No. 275, the Vice-President DG 4's instructions on the directors' motivation budget (11 April 2005) and relevant local instructions.
- (3) These guidelines enter into force on 1 May 2009.

DIRECTIVE OF THE PRESIDENT CONCERNING ACTIVITIES OF THE AMICALE AND CLUBS

1. Dealings with national authorities

In dealings with national authorities, the Amicale and the clubs are not entitled to present themselves as acting on behalf of the European Patent Office. In particular, in such dealings, they are not entitled to invoke in the name of the European Patent Office the privileges and immunities enjoyed by the European Patent Organisation.

2. Involvement of third parties

In any dealings with contractors or other external third parties, the Amicale or the clubs must take steps (eg appropriate letterhead) to make clear that the Amicale or the clubs are organising the project in question. For implementation of the project, third parties must be given the name of a responsible contact person of the Amicale or the clubs.

3. Publicity work

Any Amicale or club activity which addresses the public and as such involves publicity work must be agreed beforehand with Public Relations Directorate 5.0.1. Publicity work includes in particular the involvement of public authorities or institutions, ministries, consulates, politicians, media or industrial enterprises.

Ingo Kober
President

AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE PRESIDENT OF THE OFFICE AND THE BRANCHES OF THE AMICALE¹

This agreement defines the role and status of the branches of the Amicale, their activities and the resources made available to them by the Office.

A. Role and status of the branches of the Amicale

The role of the branches of the Amicale shall be to promote, encourage and propose cultural, recreational and sporting activities for all Office staff and their families.

Hence the activities of the branches of the Amicale constitute an especially significant factor in the integration of employees coming from differing geographical and cultural backgrounds.

They also help to promote exchange between places of employment and between Office staff and the local environment.

The branches of the Amicale shall be considered to be bodies of a social nature, set up with the consent of the Office. One branch of the Amicale may be set up in each place of employment.

The consent of the Office shall be subject to the submission of rules governing the election of members entrusted with responsibility for managing Amicale activities (Amicale Bureaux/Executive Committees).

An Amicale branch shall be held to have been constituted when its Bureau/Executive Committee has been elected in accordance with the above-mentioned rules.

Once they have been set up, the Bureaux/Executive Committees shall bear sole responsibility for organising activities and managing the resources made available to the Amicale branches. The Office shall liaise directly with them on matters relating to the Amicale branches. The chairpersons of the Amicale branches, constituting an "Inter-Amicale", shall act on behalf of all the Amicale branches on issues of common interest.

The duties undertaken by the members of the Bureaux/Executive Committees under the terms of their mandate shall be held to be part of the services they are obliged to provide, within the limits of the time allocated for that purpose. The employees in question shall suffer no disadvantage from the exercise of such duties.

The provisions of the Protocol on Privileges and Immunities shall be applicable to Amicale activities only in so far as such activities are organised with the direct involvement of the Office and to the extent that said provisions apply to such activities. The Office shall retain sole responsibility for applying those provisions.

When taking part in Amicale activities, Office staff and their families shall be covered by a liability insurance taken out by the Office. The Bureaux/Executive Committees shall inform those involved of the existence of such cover.

B. Activities of the Amicale branches

The Bureaux/Executive Committees shall at their own discretion define the activities which they intend to organise or subsidise.

Some of those activities may be defined and/or organised jointly with the Office, particularly "general activities" which are aimed at a wide public and may involve more than one place of employment.

An annual programme shall be drawn up, in co-operation with the Office administration, to define the jointly organised general activities. Such general activities may include:

- Christmas parties
- receptions for new staff and their families
- organisation of trips to festivities such as Fasching or the Oktoberfest in Munich or the North Sea Jazz Festival in The Hague
- inter-Office events or Office participation in events organised by other companies or organisations
- happy hours (Munich)
- summer parties
- clubs fairs
- "Scorpions day" (Berlin)

C. Resources

Time

Each Bureau/Executive Committee shall have a time quota to cover standard administrative activities (budget management, relations with the clubs, organisation of election etc.) and some "general" activities organised by the Amicale.

This time quota shall be as follows:

• Munich	0.65	staff member per year
• The Hague	0.65	staff member per year
• Berlin	0.4	staff member per year
• Vienna	0.3	staff member per year
total	2.0	staff members per year and shall include 0.6 staff member per year for "general" activities.

The Bureau/Executive Committee for each place of employment shall divide its time quota up freely among its members, save that the quota allowed for any one member must not amount to more than 20% of that member's working time. This percentage shall be reviewed on a yearly basis (calendar year).

In addition to this time quota, extra free time may be granted by the Office for activities organised jointly by the Amicale branches and the Office. As far as possible, this allowance shall be granted within the framework of the annual programme of activities drawn up in co-operation with the Office.

This extra free time must not take the time used by any staff member for Amicale activities to over 40% of that staff member's working time. This percentage shall be reviewed on a yearly basis (calendar year).

Finance

The Office shall grant the branches of the Amicale a total annual subsidy amounting to no more than the global sum specified in Article 3023 of the Budget.

This total subsidy shall be shared out among the branches of the Amicale according to the following formula:

(budget posts at site x) / (budget posts for the Office)

where: S_x = subsidy for site x
 T = total subsidy
 f = a figure between 0 and 1, set at 0.3 barring a request for modification from the Inter-Amicale.

In addition to this direct subsidy, the Office may contribute to the financing of activities arranged jointly with the Amicale branches. This contribution shall normally be granted only as a supplement to financing already covered by the Amicale branches and shall amount to no more than twice the level of such financing.

Should the Amicale at any place of employment cease to exist, the Office subsidy that it would have received shall be allocated as decided by the Inter-Amicale and in the interests of all staff.

Facilities

The Office shall make the following premises available to each branch of the Amicale:

- an office the same size as a standard director's office to allow Bureau/ Executive Committee meetings to be held.
- an adjoining secretary's office, equipped with the office systems assigned to Office secretaries.

Other rooms or areas may be made available, depending on the facilities of the particular place of employment.

Access to reprography, mail distribution and internal communication services shall normally be granted to the Amicale Bureaux/Executive Committees.

The above provisions shall apply from 1 July 1999. For the second half of 1999, the time quota and financial resources granted shall be equal to their annual amount reduced by the amount utilised in the first half of 1999.

- (6) Alleged misconduct by or an unresolved conflict of interest of an investigator shall be reported to the line manager overseeing the investigative unit or to the President.

Article 4

- (1) In order to protect the integrity of the investigative process and the parties involved in it, all information about the investigative process or gained in connection with it shall be treated with strict confidentiality. For the purposes of these Implementing Rules, this means that information shall be shared on a need-to-know basis only, in accordance with the applicable regulations and general principles of law.
- (2) The confidentiality of the fact-finding procedure shall be observed by the members of the investigative unit and by all others involved in the investigative process.
- (3) In order to protect the integrity of the investigative process and the parties involved in it, notifications made by the investigative unit to any party or parties involved in the process shall not, in general, include the names of any of the other parties involved.
- (4) Investigators shall maintain and keep secure an adequate record of the investigative process and the information collected.

- (5) The unauthorised disclosure, whether by intent or negligence, of information pertaining to the investigative process or the identity of any person involved in the investigative process may constitute misconduct.
- (6) The investigative unit shall inform all parties involved of the strict obligation to maintain the confidentiality of the process.
- (7) The investigative unit shall inform the President of the Office of any ongoing investigative processes in cases involving a threat to the operations or governance of the Office or a considerable risk to the reputation of the Office.
- (8) In order to explain their absence from work, parties may inform their line manager that they are to be interviewed by the investigative unit, but they may not disclose any information related to the investigative process or the allegation or indication of misconduct under review.
- (9) All parties involved in the investigative process shall continue to be bound by the obligations in this Article after they have left the service or the contractual relationship has ended.
- (10) Nothing in this Article shall be construed to prevent any persons covered in Article 1 of these Implementing Rules from availing themselves of their rights to seek legal remedy as provided for under Title VIII of the Service Regulations.

Article 5

Reporting misconduct

- (1) Allegations or indications of misconduct shall be reported to the investigative unit direct.
- (2) Where it establishes that a person who has in good faith reported an allegation or indication of misconduct is at risk of being subjected to some form of retaliation, the investigative unit shall take all reasonable measures to protect that person.
- (3) The investigative unit shall periodically inform complainants about the progress of the investigation, unless it considers that providing such information would jeopardise the process, the interests of the Office or the rights of parties involved in the process.
- (4) The raising of allegations of misconduct which are knowingly false or which are made with a reckless disregard as to whether they are true or false is prohibited and constitutes misconduct. The same applies to the giving of testimony or evidence.
- (5) Complainants shall, however, at all stages of the investigative process inform the investigative unit of further facts or circumstances which may be relevant for the investigative process as soon as they become aware of them.

Article 6

Presumption of innocence and the right to defend oneself

- (1) Subjects shall be presumed to be innocent throughout the investigative process and until such time as their appointing authority has taken a decision on whether misconduct has occurred.
- (2) They shall have the right to defend themselves against the allegations or indications of misconduct. This includes the right to present any evidence, including the right to propose witnesses, in their favour.

Article 7

Duty to co-operate

- (1) All persons covered by these Implementing Rules shall co-operate in the investigative process, in accordance with the applicable provisions.
- (2) This obligation includes being available for meetings with the investigators, providing truthfully, and to the best of one's ability and knowledge, all information which may reasonably be expected to have a bearing on the case, and answering all pertinent questions. It also includes the requirement to provide access to all relevant records belonging or pertaining to the Office, or stored in the Office or on devices belonging to or provided by the Office, including those stored electronically.
- (3) A person covered by these Implementing Rules may, however, remain silent on grounds relating to self-incrimination or to incriminating a spouse, civil union partner, or a relative in the first degree.
- (4) The destruction or manipulation of evidence, or attempts to destroy or manipulate it, the interference with or intimidation of witnesses or potential witnesses and the misleading of investigators by any party are prohibited and may constitute misconduct, as may failure to co-operate without legal justification.
- (5) If any party to an investigative process claims that they are unable to attend any interview as provided for in Article 17 of these Implementing Rules, or to otherwise fully co-operate in the investigative process, for medical reasons, the investigative unit may request that their ability to understand and answer questions in the context of an administrative procedure be independently assessed in accordance with Article 26, paragraph 2, of the Service Regulations.

Article 8

Advice and support during the investigative process

- (1) Complainants and subjects may at any time seek advice and support from a colleague of their choice, who may be a staff representative, who is not connected to the matter. In this case, the complainant or subject shall inform the investigative unit accordingly.

- (2) All parties may also seek advice from:
- (i) members of their immediate family;
 - (ii) health professionals; and
 - (iii) at no cost to the Office, an external lawyer of their choice who is not connected to the matter directly or indirectly.

In these cases, they do not have to inform the investigative unit.

- (3) A person is not eligible to provide advice and support if doing so might expose them to the risk of a conflict of interest.
- (4) The sharing of information pertaining to the investigative process and to the allegation or indication of misconduct under review is permitted for the purposes of seeking advice and support under this Article.
- (5) Where such advice is sought, the persons consulted shall keep the matter confidential. The investigative unit may ask the persons consulted to sign a declaration of confidentiality.
- (6) Any party sharing information under this Article must take, and upon request demonstrate, all reasonable measures to ensure the confidentiality of the fact-finding procedure.

Part III

The investigative process

Article 9

Overview

- (1) The investigative process is an administrative fact-finding procedure. The purpose of an investigation is to establish whether there is sufficient evidence to support an allegation or indication of misconduct, and if so, to identify the person or persons responsible.
- (2) The investigative process begins with the registration of the case and is comprised of three stages: an initial review, a preliminary evaluation and a formal investigation.
- (3) Once the investigative process has been completed, if the investigative unit concludes that there is sufficient evidence to support the allegation or indication of misconduct, the case is referred to the respective appointing authority for decision.
- (4) Under normal circumstances, the investigative process shall be completed within twelve months after receipt of the allegation. In cases of an allegation of harassment, the investigative process shall, under normal circumstances, be completed within six months after receipt of the allegations.

Article 10

Registration and initial review

- (1) Allegations or indications of misconduct are registered as such if they meet the following cumulative criteria. They must:
 - (i) fall within the field of application as laid down in Article 1 of these Implementing Rules;
 - (ii) comply with Article 2, paragraph 2, of these Implementing Rules;
 - (iii) not be obviously immaterial;
 - (iv) not be clearly of a vexatious nature;
 - (v) not be the subject of a final decision or judgment under the rules and regulations of the Organisation; and
 - (vi) not be time-barred pursuant to Article 19 of these Implementing Rules.
- (2) If an allegation or indication meets the above criteria, the investigative unit shall carry out an initial review to assess whether it falls within its remit and whether the alleged conduct, if proven, would amount to misconduct. It shall not include any fact-finding, or any assessment of the credibility of the allegation. It shall not prejudice the outcome of any future investigations.
- (3) The investigative unit may also initiate an investigative process of its own motion, based on indications of misconduct obtained in a proactive compliance review or investigative process.
- (4) At the end of the initial review, the investigative unit may:
 - (i) close the investigative process if it finds that the allegations or indications of misconduct do not fall within its remit or that the alleged conduct, if proven, would not amount to misconduct, and if appropriate refer the matter to other units within the Office;
 - (ii) exceptionally defer the process pending clarification of key facts which are outside the sphere of influence of the Office; or
 - (iii) initiate a preliminary evaluation as defined in Article 11 of these Implementing Rules.
- (5) The investigative unit shall inform the complainant in writing of its choice under paragraph 4. If the subject was informed of the investigative process, the investigative unit shall also inform him in writing. If the President was informed of the allegation or indication of misconduct, the investigative unit shall also inform him of this choice.
- (6) Under normal circumstances, the initial review shall be completed no later than three months from the date of receipt of the allegation or indication of misconduct.

Article 11

Preliminary evaluation

- (1) The preliminary evaluation involves collecting, preserving and securing basic evidence and assessing this evidence to determine whether an investigation into the allegation or indication of misconduct is warranted.

- (2) To that end, the investigative unit shall:
 - (i) establish the basic facts and secure basic evidence,
 - (ii) evaluate the credibility, materiality and verifiability of the complaint, and
 - (iii) identify any inconsistencies or outstanding questions.
- (3) At the end of the preliminary evaluation, the investigative unit may:
 - (i) close the investigative process if, on the balance of probability, the allegation or indication of misconduct is without merit, is not supported by the facts, or clearly cannot be substantiated by the evidence obtainable. If new or previously unknown relevant evidence becomes available, the investigative unit may re-open the process;
 - (ii) refer the matter to other units within the Office;
 - (iii) defer the investigative process pending further clarification of key facts which are outside of the sphere of influence of the Office; or
 - (iv) initiate an investigation as defined in Article 12 of these Implementing Rules.
- (4) In the case of paragraph 3(i) to (iii), the investigative unit shall inform the complainant in writing of its choice. If the President was informed of the allegation or indication of misconduct, the investigative unit shall also inform him of this choice.
- (5) The subject shall not normally be notified of the findings unless he - or any other person - was made aware of the fact that allegations or indications of misconduct against him were being evaluated. Other parties involved may be informed about the outcome if such information is deemed necessary to protect the reputation of the subject, or at the specific request of the subject.
- (6) Under normal circumstances, the preliminary evaluation shall be completed no later than four months after the date of receipt of the allegation or indication of misconduct.
- (7) Where an investigation as defined in Article 12 of these Implementing Rules is initiated against a member of the Boards of Appeal or Enlarged Board of Appeal, the investigative unit shall inform the President of the Boards of Appeal.

Article 12

Investigation

- (1) The investigation shall include the collection and analysis of all available pertinent information and evidence.
- (2) Investigations shall be conducted promptly so as to preserve relevant information and documentation and prevent the continuation of the alleged misconduct or the occurrence of further incidents.
- (3) At any time during the investigation, the investigative unit may exceptionally decide to defer the process pending further clarification of key facts which are outside the sphere of influence of the Office.

Article 13
Use of outside investigators

- (1) The investigative unit may at any time request assistance from other units. These other units shall be bound by the same procedural rules and obligations as the investigative unit.
- (2) If the circumstances so warrant, the investigative unit may decide to assign external experts to assist in or to carry out the investigative process in part or in full. External investigators shall be bound by the same procedural rules as the investigative unit and shall work under the authority of the investigative unit.

Article 14
Protective and interim measures

- (1) At any time during the investigative process, the investigative unit may recommend that the President of the Office take interim measures to safeguard the investigation or to protect a party to the investigation.
- (2) When deciding on such measures, due account shall be taken of the legitimate concerns and interests of all the parties and the Organisation, the nature of the harm or potential harm to the complainant or witness, the degree to which delay may worsen the harm done or result in the harm becoming irreparable, and the seriousness of the matter. Such measures shall be temporary and may include, but are not limited to, suspension, restriction of access to Office premises, documents or resources, or transfer or re-assignment of one or more of the parties.
- (3) Where interim measures are taken, the duration of the measures, which shall not exceed six months, shall be laid down in the decision. If, after the end of this period, the President of the Office considers that the circumstances requiring the interim measures still persist, further interim measures may be taken, up to a total duration of eighteen months.
- (4) If interim measures are taken in accordance with this Article against a person appointed by the Administrative Council, the President shall immediately inform the chairman of the Administrative Council.
- (5) If interim measures are in force at the conclusion of the investigative process, these measures shall be lifted no later than two months following the conclusion of the process, unless the appointing authority, within this two-month period, decides otherwise due to the circumstances of the matter, in particular the seriousness of the allegations or indications of misconduct and the potential risk to persons or to the interests of the Organisation.
- (6) Interim measures shall not be of a punitive nature, nor shall they prejudice the outcome of the investigative process in any way.
- (7) The investigative unit may decide, for reasons of protection of the parties, not to disclose the name of a complainant or witness. In such a case, a finding of misconduct cannot be based directly on testimony provided by this complainant or witness, and must be independently substantiated by other evidence.

Article 15

Notification of allegations or indications of misconduct

- (1) The investigative unit shall inform the subject of the allegations or indications of misconduct, and of his rights and obligations under these Implementing Rules, in writing as soon as it is practicable to do so without jeopardising the investigation or the rights of the complainant or witnesses. Such notification shall occur no later than at the beginning of his interview as the subject in accordance with Article 17 of these Implementing Rules.
- (2) Line managers and other parties shall not normally be informed of the allegations or indications of misconduct. They may be contacted and questioned by the investigative unit in accordance with Article 17 of these Implementing Rules.
- (3) If the investigative process is closed without the issuance of a final report pursuant to Article 18 of these Implementing Rules, the subject shall only be informed of the investigative process or the closure of the investigative process if he has a specific legal interest, for example if he was informed of the allegations or indications of misconduct.
- (4) At the specific request of the subject, the investigative unit shall inform other parties about the outcome of the investigative process, insofar as this is in the legitimate interests of the subject.

Article 16

Gathering of evidence

- (1) The investigative unit may seek and collect all relevant evidence, including physical and electronic documents and records, physical items, witness statements and other pertinent information in accordance with the applicable provisions.
- (2) The investigative unit may, in accordance with the applicable rules and procedures, secure, access and search all resources and documents which may reasonably be expected to have a bearing on the case, including desks, offices, computers, mobile electronic devices, physical and electronic documents and data, and physical and electronic mail, and review the records of all communications effected or made possible through means and devices owned or provided by the Office.
- (3) In determining the means and aims of obtaining evidence, due account shall be taken of the principles of proportionality and data protection, and the evidence sought shall be obtained by the least intrusive means possible.
- (4) Whenever the office space of a person working in or for the Office is accessed or searched, an observer who is not in any way connected to the matter under investigation shall be present.

- (5) The investigative unit shall document all its evidence-gathering activities.
- (6) With regard to accessing evidence located outside the Office premises, the investigative unit must abide by all the applicable provisions of local law. In such cases, it may seek assistance from the relevant local authorities.

Article 17 Interviews

- (1) At any time in the investigative process, the investigative unit may, at its discretion, interview persons who may have information relevant to the investigation.
- (2) A person may be interviewed on more than one occasion during the course of an investigation, and shall be obliged to co-operate pursuant to Article 7 above.
- (3) Invitations to interview shall be issued in writing. The invitation shall inform the interviewee of his rights and obligations under these Implementing Rules. It shall be sent sufficiently in advance of the interview to allow the interviewee time for preparation, unless the circumstances of the case suggest that the integrity of the investigative process, or any parties thereto, may be put at risk in case of such advance invitation.
- (4) Interviews shall be conducted in one of the official languages of the European Patent Organisation, where possible in the preferred official language of the interviewee. Interviewees may reply in their preferred official language.
- (5) If, during the course of an interview with a witness or complainant, it becomes apparent that the interviewee may become the subject of the investigative process or of a new investigative process, the interview shall be stopped, or suspended until such time as the interviewee has been duly notified of any allegations or indications of misconduct against him pursuant to Article 16 of these Implementing Rules.
- (6) Notwithstanding the obligation to attend an interview at the invitation of the investigative unit, interviewees may remain silent on grounds relating to self-incrimination or to incriminating a spouse, civil union partner, or a relative in the first degree.
- (7) Interviews shall be conducted by at least two investigators.
- (8) The complainant and the subject may be accompanied during interviews by an Office employee of their choice as an observer. This employee may be neither a member of the investigative unit nor in any way connected to the matter under investigation, and must be readily available to attend.
- (9) Any observer accompanying an interviewee shall maintain the confidentiality of the process and shall not interrupt or interfere in the interview or investigative process. The presence of such an accompanying person shall not relieve the person being interviewed of his obligation to give his full co-operation.

- (10) If an observer interrupts or interferes in an interview, the investigators may, after due warning, exclude the observer from the interview and proceed without him.
- (11) During or after the interview, a record of the interview shall be prepared in the language or languages in which the interview was held. The interviewee shall be given a reasonable opportunity to review the record. The record shall be signed by all interview participants. Alternatively, the investigators may prepare an audio recording of the interview. The recording shall be transcribed and the transcription made available to the interviewee for information and comment.

Article 18

Report on the findings

- (1) Where the subject has been informed of the allegations or indications of misconduct, he shall, at the conclusion of the investigation, be provided with a written summary of the findings.
- (2) The subject shall have the opportunity to respond in writing to the findings within a period of at least seven working days. The deadline set may be extended at the discretion of the investigative unit following a reasoned request of the subject.
- (3) All responses shall be duly considered. The investigative unit may amend its findings based on these responses. The subject shall be notified of any such amendments.
- (4) The investigative unit shall then submit a written report on the findings of the investigation (hereinafter referred to as "the report") to the President:
 - (i) if it finds that misconduct has occurred; or
 - (ii) if the President had been informed about the investigative process pursuant to Article 4, paragraph 7, of these Implementing Rules.
- (5) Where the subject's appointing authority is the Administrative Council and it is found that misconduct has occurred, the report shall be submitted to the chairman of the Council, with a copy to the President. Where the subject is a member of the Boards of Appeal or Enlarged Board of Appeal, the investigative unit shall inform the President of the Boards of Appeal of the findings.
- (6) The report shall include:
 - (i) an analysis of the relevant facts;
 - (ii) the conclusions of the investigative unit, based on a preponderance of the evidence.
- (7) The investigative unit shall attach to the report:
 - (i) all relevant evidence, including witness statements;
 - (ii) the full response and comments of the subject and, where applicable, the complainant.

- (8) Upon submission of the report, the complainant shall be notified of the outcome of the investigative process. Such notification shall not include any information capable of revealing the identity of witnesses or third parties connected with the process.
- (9) The subject shall receive a copy of the report if and when, on the basis of the report, disciplinary proceedings are initiated.
- (10) The investigative unit may, upon request, send an anonymised version of the report to the Board of Auditors.
- (11) The report does not constitute a decision within the meaning of Article 108, paragraph 1, of the Service Regulations. This shall in no way prejudice the right of an employee to have recourse to the available means of redress against any decision taken on the basis of the report as provided for in Title VIII of the Service Regulations.
- (12) If, based on its findings and conclusions, the investigative unit considers it opportune to make recommendations on corrective measures which do not directly concern the subject, it may do so in a separate document.

Article 19 Statute of limitations

- (1) Allegations of misconduct shall be filed in writing within six months of the date of the last incident of alleged misconduct, or the date on which the complainant became aware of it or could reasonably be expected to have become aware of it.
- (2) The investigative unit may decline to initiate an investigative process if, at the time of receipt of the complaint, the period provided for in paragraph 1 has elapsed or if more than three years have passed since the last alleged incident of misconduct.

Article 20 Referral to national authorities

- (1) At any time during the investigative process, the investigative unit may, in view of the nature of the allegations or indications of misconduct and the interests of the parties or the Organisation, refer the matter, with the approval of the President, to the competent national authorities in whole or in part.
- (2) In such cases, the investigative unit may share its findings, the evidence gathered and any other pertinent information with the national authorities as appropriate.

Article 21
Retaining of records

- (1) The investigative unit shall retain all records pertaining to
 - (i) the initial review and preliminary evaluation for three years after the conclusion of the respective stage of the investigative process where it does not proceed to the investigation stage;
 - (ii) an investigation for seven years after its conclusion.
- (2) The Office shall retain, for a period of ten years following its submission, any report which concludes that misconduct has occurred.
- (3) The Office shall retain such documentation beyond the time frames specified in paragraphs 1 and 2 where
 - (i) the matter is subject to litigation; or
 - (ii) there is a reasonable expectation that the matter will become subject to litigation.

Article 22
Final provisions

- (1) These Implementing Rules shall enter into force on 1 July 2017 and shall apply to any investigative process initiated on or after that date. They supersede Circular No. 342 as from that date.
- (2) The investigative unit shall submit an annual report on its activities to the President of the Office and to the Board of Auditors.

- (5) In case of an insufficient number of applicants as referred to in paragraph 3 of this Rule, or when the internal appeals lodged by such applicants are not sufficiently representative of the totality of the internal appeals concerned by the test-case procedure, the presiding member of the relevant chamber shall designate the test-appellants among all the appellants concerned by the test-case procedure.
- (6) The presiding member of the relevant chamber shall suspend the proceedings of all pending internal appeals concerned by the test-case procedure, with the exception of those lodged by the test-appellants.

- (1) The presiding members of the chambers shall determine, and the Secretariat shall prepare, the agenda of the chambers for each relevant session. Consideration is given to the appellant's place of employment if an oral hearing is to be held.
- (2) Internal appeals are in principle dealt with in order of receipt. The presiding member of the relevant chamber may however give priority treatment to a given internal appeal, in particular for reasons of urgency.
- (3) If the presiding member of the relevant chamber considers that an internal appeal could be dealt with in summary proceedings, he/she may have it put on the agenda for decision by the Appeals Committee at its next possible session. The parties shall be informed of this no later than two weeks before the session.

Rule 10
Preparing sessions

- (1) The Secretariat shall ensure that the presiding member and all members of the relevant chamber have access to the complete appeal file in due time prior to the beginning of the session.
- (2) The Secretariat director shall assign a lawyer for each appeal file, who will prepare an internal note. This internal note shall contain a summary of the relevant facts and arguments of the parties, as well as a preliminary assessment of the case. Any such note shall be communicated by the presiding member of the relevant chamber to the members of that chamber in due time prior to the beginning of the session.

Rule 11
Hearings

- (1) Any request by a party for an oral hearing to be held must be filed at the latest within two weeks of the dispatch of the notification by the Secretariat to the parties that the written procedure has been closed.
- (2) If the presiding member of the relevant chamber decides to hold a hearing, he/she shall ensure that the parties are informed, not less than three weeks in advance:
 - (a) of the scheduled hearing; and
 - (b) of the relevant chamber's composition, subject to Rules 1(5) and 2(2) of these Rules of Procedure.
- (3) The presiding member of the relevant chamber may decide that the hearing is to be held by videoconference. In this case, the presiding member of the relevant chamber shall be responsible for the corresponding arrangements and shall inform the parties thereof.
- (4) The parties shall confirm their attendance as soon as possible and at the latest within two weeks of the dispatch of the invitation. In the absence of such confirmation, the presiding member of the relevant chamber may decide to deal with the internal appeal in a written procedure only.
- (5) Participants in a hearing shall be asked by the Secretariat to indicate, at least three weeks before the date of the hearing, which one of the three official languages of the Office they will be using at the hearing.
- (6) The presiding member of the relevant chamber may request interpretation into one of the three official languages. Interpreters shall be bound by secrecy.
- (7) The presiding member of the relevant chamber shall be responsible for conducting the hearing, which, as required by Article 7(7) of the Implementing Rules, shall take place in camera.
- (8) The presiding member of the relevant chamber may decide that the hearing shall be recorded. In this case, the recording shall be deleted no later than the date when the Secretariat is informed that a final decision pursuant to Article 110(4) of the Service Regulations has been taken.

- (9) The presiding member of the relevant chamber may decide to change the date of a hearing only for compelling reasons, which shall be communicated to the parties.

Rule 12

- (2) Decisions by the Appeals Committee shall be taken by majority.
- (3) Without prejudice to Article 13(2) of the Implementing Rules to Articles 106 to 113 of the Service Regulations ("the Implementing Rules"), decisions and opinions by the chambers shall be considered as having been taken by the Appeals Committee as a whole.
- (4) Members shall inform the chair or the presiding member of the relevant chamber without delay if they are unable to act for compelling reasons such as conflict of interest or illness. Where a vice-chair is concerned, he/she shall inform the chair accordingly. Where the chair is concerned, he/she shall inform the vice-chairs accordingly.

The members of the chambers shall be designated from among all the members of the Appeals Committee.
- (2) If a member is unable to act or resigns, the presiding member of the relevant chamber shall, when possible and without prejudice to Article 111(6)

- (1) The enlarged chamber pursuant to Article 111(5) of the Service Regulations shall be constituted before the end of each calendar year for one year.
- (2) The members of the enlarged chamber shall be designated, in accordance with Article 111(5) of the Service Regulations, from among all the members of the Appeals Committee by a drawing of lots. If a member is unable to act or resigns, a new member shall be designated among the remaining members by a new drawing of lots. If a member resigns, the chair shall inform the Office.

Independence and impartiality of the Appeals Committee

- (1) Where an objection has been made by a party with regard to the independence or impartiality of the chair, a vice-chair or a member, the decision to be taken in accordance with Article 112 of the Service Regulations on that objection shall, as far as possible, be taken before any consideration of the receivability or merits of the internal appeal by the Appeals Committee has taken place.
- (2) Where the objection referred to in paragraph 1 is directed against the chair or a vice-chair and there has been a tie in the voting on the objection, the chair or the vice-chair concerned shall be considered unable to act further in the internal appeal.
- (3) Any person against whom an objection has been made shall be given the opportunity to submit written comments upon the objection before a decision within the meaning of this Rule is taken.

Rule 5

Registration fee

- (1) The registration fee referred to in Article 5(3) of the Implementing Rules shall be paid for each separate appeal and by each appellant by making a bank transfer to the Office within two weeks of filing the appeal. Cash payment shall not be accepted.
- (2) The appellant shall at the same time provide the Secretariat with a written proof of payment.
- (3) If the appellant fails to make the bank transfer with regard to the payment of the registration fee within the time limit set in paragraph 1, the internal appeal shall not be registered. The Secretariat shall inform the appellant accordingly.

Rule 6

Appeal file

- (1) Upon receipt of an internal appeal and payment of the registration fee, the Secretariat shall open an appeal file and assign a registration number.
- (2) For the purpose of Article 4(3)(a) of the Implementing Rules, the internal appeal shall be accompanied by any supporting documentary evidence. In particular, the appellant shall produce, when applicable:
 - (a) the request to take an individual decision;
 - (b) the decision challenged;
 - (c) the request for review; and
 - (d) the decision on the outcome of the review.
- (3) If the internal appeal contains minor defects or omissions the Secretariat shall advise the appellant and set a reasonable time limit within which to correct the defects or omissions. If the appellant fails to put the internal appeal in order within the time limit prescribed, the presiding member of the relevant chamber may decide to have the appeal put on the agenda with a view to its being dealt with by the Appeals Committee in a summary procedure in accordance with Article 9 of the Implementing Rules.
- (4) All submissions of the parties shall be placed on file in chronological order and given page numbers.
- (5) Internal communications, memoranda and notes of the Appeals Committee in a given internal appeal shall not be part of the appeal file. They shall be archived internally.

Rule 7

Assignment of appeal files

- (1) The chair shall assign internal appeals to chambers in good time after their registration. The internal appeals shall be assigned or reassigned to the chambers with due consideration given to the connection between cases and to the principle of equitable distribution of workload.
- (2) Before assigning an internal appeal to the enlarged chamber referred to in Rule 3 of these Rules of Procedure, the chair shall consult the vice-chairs.

Rule 8

Test-case procedure

- (1) Having due regard to Article 9b(1) and (2) of the Implementing Rules, the presiding member of the relevant chamber may, at any time during the procedure, decide to initiate a test-case procedure.
- (2) When deciding whether to initiate a test-case procedure, the presiding member of the relevant chamber shall take into account:
 - (a) the type and scale of the contested decision;
 - (b) the number of internal appeals filed;

- (c) the claims and arguments put forward by the appellants in their internal appeals; and
 - (d) the possible consequences of dealing with the internal appeals in a test-case procedure.
- (3) When seeking the views of the parties on the suitability of a test-case procedure, the presiding member of the relevant chamber shall concomitantly solicit applications for possible test-appellants.
 - (4) If the presiding member of the relevant chamber decides to initiate a test-case procedure, he/she shall select test-appellants among the applicants referred to in the preceding paragraph of this Rule, with due consideration given to the representative character of their internal appeals.
 - (5) In case of an insufficient number of applicants as referred to in paragraph 3 of this Rule, or when the internal appeals lodged by such applicants are not sufficiently representative of the totality of the internal appeals concerned by the test-case procedure, the presiding member of the relevant chamber shall designate the test-appellants among all the appellants concerned by the test-case procedure.
 - (6) The presiding member of the relevant chamber shall suspend the proceedings of all pending internal appeals concerned by the test-case procedure, with the exception of those lodged by the test-appellants.
 - (7) The presiding member of the relevant chamber may at any time during the procedure decide to dissociate one or more internal appeals from a test-case procedure.

Rule 9 Session agenda

- (1) The presiding members of the chambers shall determine, and the Secretariat shall prepare, the agenda of the chambers for each relevant session. Consideration shall be given to the appellant's place of employment if an oral hearing is to be held.
- (2) Internal appeals are in principle dealt with in order of receipt. The presiding member of the relevant chamber may however give priority treatment to a given internal appeal, in particular for reasons of urgency.
- (3) If the presiding member of the relevant chamber considers that an internal appeal could be dealt with in summary proceedings, he/she may have it put on the agenda for decision by the Appeals Committee at its next possible session. The parties shall be informed of this no later than two weeks before the session.

Rule 10
Preparing sessions

- (1) The Secretariat shall ensure that the presiding member and all members of the relevant chamber have access to the complete appeal file in due time prior to the beginning of the session.
- (2) The Director of the Secretariat shall assign a lawyer for each appeal file, who will prepare an internal note. This internal note shall contain a summary of the relevant facts and arguments of the parties, as well as a preliminary assessment of the case. Any such note shall be communicated by the presiding member of the relevant chamber to the members of that chamber in due time prior to the beginning of the session.

Rule 11
Hearings

- (1) Any request by a party for an oral hearing to be held must be filed at the latest within two weeks of the dispatch of the notification by the Secretariat to the parties that the written procedure has been closed.
- (2) If the presiding member of the relevant chamber decides to hold a hearing, he/she shall ensure that the parties are informed, not less than three weeks in advance:
 - (a) of the scheduled hearing; and
 - (b) of the relevant chamber's composition, subject to Rules 1(5) and 2(2) of these Rules of Procedure.
- (3) The presiding member of the relevant chamber may decide that the hearing is to be held by videoconference. In this case, the presiding member of the relevant chamber shall be responsible for the corresponding arrangements and shall inform the parties thereof.
- (4) The parties shall confirm their attendance as soon as possible and at the latest within two weeks of the dispatch of the invitation. In the absence of such confirmation, the presiding member of the relevant chamber may decide to deal with the internal appeal in a written procedure only.
- (5) Participants in a hearing shall be asked by the Secretariat to indicate, at least three weeks before the date of the hearing, which one of the three official languages of the Office they will be using at the hearing.
- (6) The presiding member of the relevant chamber may request interpretation into one of the three official languages. Interpreters shall be bound by secrecy.
- (7) The presiding member of the relevant chamber shall be responsible for conducting the hearing, which, as required by Article 7(7) of the Implementing Rules, shall take place in camera.

- (8) The presiding member of the relevant chamber may decide that the hearing shall be recorded. In this case, the recording shall be deleted no later than the date when the Secretariat is informed that a final decision pursuant to Article 110(4) of the Service Regulations has been taken.
- (9) The presiding member of the relevant chamber may decide to change the date of a hearing only for compelling reasons, which shall be communicated to the parties.

Rule 12

Witness testimony and hearing of experts

- (1) The parties may propose witnesses or experts in good time before the hearing. The presiding member of the relevant chamber may direct that any person who is considered to have information relevant to the internal appeal be convened to be heard as a witness or an expert.
- (2) The presiding member of the relevant chamber shall ensure that any witnesses or experts to be heard by the relevant chamber are convened in good time before the hearing.

Rule 13

Deliberations

- (1) The Appeals Committee shall deliberate in private. Its deliberations shall remain secret. The chambers may be assisted by one or more staff members referred to in Article 111(8) of the Service Regulations during the deliberation.
- (2) The deliberation shall in general take place in the session in which the internal appeal has been either heard or dealt with in a written procedure.
- (3) The deliberation shall end by a vote.
- (4) The Secretariat lawyer assigned to the internal appeal shall draw up the draft opinion following the Appeals Committee's vote, for finalisation by the presiding member of the relevant chamber.

Rule 14

Opinions

- (1) Pursuant to Article 13(2) of the Implementing Rules, the opinion adopted by the Appeals Committee shall be signed by the member presiding over the chamber when the opinion was adopted.
- (2) The presiding member of the relevant chamber may set a time limit for the submission of any possible dissenting views. The text of any dissenting views received by the Secretariat within this time limit shall be included in the opinion of the Appeals Committee.
- (3) The opinion of the Appeals Committee shall be forwarded to the Administrative Council together with the appeal file.

Rule 15
Keeping of appeal files

- (1) Appeal files shall be destroyed ten years after their withdrawal or definitive resolution through:
 - (a) a final decision taken by the Administrative Council which has not been challenged; or
 - (b) a judgment by the Administrative Tribunal of the International Labour Organisation; or
 - (c) an amicable settlement.
- (2) Members shall destroy any files or copies of files pertaining to an appeal file two months after the issuing of the opinion of the Appeals Committee.

Rule 16
Final provisions

- (1) These Rules of Procedure shall enter into force on 23 March 2018. They shall cancel and replace any previous rules.
- (2) The Appeals Committee may adopt amendments to these Rules of Procedure, which amendments shall be submitted to the Administrative Council for approval in accordance with Article 111a(2) of the Service Regulations.

Guidelines for leave: Articles 44, 44a, 44b, 59, 60, 61 and 61a of the Service Regulations for permanent and other employees of the European Patent Office

Rule 1¹

Rule 2

Article 44a Parental leave

(a) Entitlement

- (i) An employee is entitled to up to 120 working days' parental leave under the conditions laid down in Article 44a of the Service Regulations. For single parents, the period of parental leave is 240 working days. Any period of parental leave must be completed before the end of the month in which the child reaches the age of twelve. Parental leave may only be taken on a full-time or a half-time basis and may be taken in one or more instalments.
- (ii) For the purposes of Article 44a of the Service Regulations, the definition of single parent covers employees who declare that they are de facto bringing up a child alone. Single parent status is established at the time of each individual application for parental leave. Should the status change from one period of parental leave to the next, the parental leave entitlement changes accordingly. The balance of days is calculated by deducting, from the total entitlement corresponding to the new status, the number of days of parental leave already taken in the previous status. For example, a married employee who has taken 40 days' parental leave and lodges an application for parental leave as a single parent has the entitlement balance converted to 200 days (240 days minus 40 days). The parental leave entitlement reverts back to a maximum entitlement of 120 days for any employee who ceases to be a single parent.
- (iii) If both parents are employees of the EPO, each parent is entitled to parental leave.
- (iv) Employees on parental leave retain the right to advancement to a higher step and promotion in grade and retain their post.

- (v) Staff in job groups 5 or 6 are not entitled to parental leave during the first three months of their probationary period. Staff in job groups 1 to 4 are not entitled to parental leave during the first six months of their probationary period. Parental leave, being non-active status, suspends the probationary period, which resumes at the end of the leave.
 - (vi) Parental leave may not be granted during any period of extended probation in accordance with Article 13(2) of the Service Regulations.
 - (vii) Having regard to the requirements of the service, the commencement of parental leave may be postponed by a maximum of one month. Such a postponement does not have the effect of reducing the parental leave allowance.
- (b) Remuneration and contributions to social security and pension schemes
- (i) Remuneration ceases during periods of full-time parental leave.
 - (ii) Employees on parental leave are paid a monthly allowance corresponding to 25% of the basic salary for Grade G4, step 4.
 - (iii) The allowance is increased to 33% of the basic salary for Grade G4, step 4, for:
 - single parents,
 - fathers for up to 60 working days during maternity leave,
 - either parent during the 60 working days immediately after the maternity or adoption leave.
- If the mother is not an employee, maternity leave is determined by applying the provisions of Article 61 of the Service Regulations by analogy.
- (iv) For periods of half-time parental leave the monthly allowance is reduced by half.
 - (v) Dependants', young child and education allowances paid under Articles 69, 70, 70a and 71 of the Service Regulations continue to be paid in full. No other allowances are payable during parental leave taken on a full-time basis. For parental leave taken on a half-time basis, the basic salary and any other allowances payable are reduced by half.
 - (vi) Contributions to the social security scheme provided for under Articles 83 to 86 of the Service Regulations are paid in full by the Office on the basis of the employee's full-time basic salary. When parental leave is taken on a half-time basis, the Office pays the contributions for the 50% not worked. Long-term care insurance for the employee's spouse continues at the employee's expense unless the employee expressly requests that it be suspended.
 - (vii) The employee automatically continues to pay contributions towards the Office's pension scheme and, where applicable, the salary savings plan unless the employee expressly requests that payment be suspended. The contributions are based on the employee's full-time basic salary. The employee pays one-third and the Office two-thirds of the total contributions. During parental leave taken on a half-time basis, the employee contributes to the Office's pension scheme and, where applicable, the salary savings plan for the 50% not worked unless the employee expressly requests that payment be suspended; the employee then pays one-third and the Office two-thirds of the 50% contributions.

(c) Procedure

- (i) An application for parental leave must be submitted in writing by the employee, via the line manager, to the Human Resources Department at the latest three working days prior to the requested starting date of the parental leave.

Employees who want to take an extended period of parental leave must discuss this with their line manager well in advance.

(d) Other conditions

- (i) Entitlements to annual and home leave cease during periods of full-time parental leave. The annual leave and home leave of an employee who takes parental leave on a half-time basis are reduced in proportion.
- (ii) During parental leave the employee may not engage in any other gainful employment.
- (iii) Any period of parental leave taken, be it full-time or half-time, must amount to at least 7 successive calendar days.
- (iv) During parental leave on a half-time basis the employee may not work overtime, perform shift work or be on call according to Articles 57, 58 and 58a of the Service Regulations.
- (v) Half-time parental leave for the purposes of Article 44a of the Service Regulations is defined as 50% of the working week provided for by Article 55(2) of the Service Regulations.
- (vi) An employee is not entitled to sick or special leave during periods of full-time parental leave. During parental leave on a half-time basis, the employee is entitled to sick or special leave only for the time worked.
- (vii) In case of hardship the employee may request that the parental leave be terminated.

Article 44b Family leave

- (a) Entitlement
 - (i) Employees are entitled to up to 180 working days' family leave under the conditions laid down in Article 44b of the Service Regulations. Family leave may only be taken on a full-time or a half-time basis and may be taken in one or more instalments.
 - (ii) Employees on family leave retain the right to advancement to a higher step and promotion in grade and retain their post.
 - (iii) Only in exceptional circumstances may staff in job groups 5 or 6 be granted family leave during the first three months of their probationary period. Only in exceptional circumstances may staff in job groups 1 to 4 be granted family leave during the first six months of their probationary period. Family leave, being non-active status, suspends the probationary period, which resumes at the end of the leave.
 - (iv) Family leave may not be granted during any period of extended probation in accordance with Article 13(2) of the Service Regulations.
 - (v) Having regard to the requirements of the service, the commencement of family leave may be postponed by a maximum of one month.
- (b) Remuneration and contributions to social security and pension schemes
 - (i) Remuneration ceases during periods of full-time family leave.
 - (ii) Employees on family leave are paid a monthly allowance of 25% of the basic salary for Grade G4, step 4.
 - (iii) For periods of half-time family leave the monthly allowance is reduced by half.
 - (iv) Dependants', young child and education allowances paid under Articles 69, 70, 70a and 71 of the Service Regulations continue to be paid in full. No other allowances are payable during family leave taken on a full-time basis. For family leave taken on a half-time basis, the basic salary and any other allowances payable are reduced by half.
 - (v) Contributions to the social security scheme provided for under Articles 83 to 86 of the Service Regulations are paid in full by the Office on the basis of the employee's full-time basic salary. When family leave is taken on a half-time basis, the Office pays the contributions for the 50% not worked. Long-term care insurance for the employee's spouse continues at the employee's expense unless the employee expressly requests that it be suspended.
 - (vi) The employee automatically continues to pay contributions towards the Office's pension scheme and, where applicable, the salary savings plan unless the employee expressly requests that payment be suspended. The contributions are based on the employee's full-time basic salary. The employee pays one-third and the Office two-thirds of the total contributions. During family leave taken on a half-time basis, the employee contributes to the Office's pension scheme and, where applicable, the salary savings plan for the 50% not worked unless the employee expressly requests that payment be suspended; the employee then pays one-third and the Office two-thirds of the 50% contributions.

(c) Procedure

- (i) An application for family leave must be submitted in writing by the employee, via the line manager, to the Human Resources Department at the latest three working days prior to the requested starting date of the family leave.

Employees who want to take an extended period of family leave must discuss this with their line manager well in advance.

- (ii) The employee must provide the Office's medical adviser with a medical certificate for the family member concerned, giving the diagnosis of the illness or disability. The medical adviser informs the Human Resources Department whether in their opinion the medical conditions of Article 44b are met.
- (iii) If the doctor consulted refuses to issue a medical certificate, the employee must supply the doctor's name and address to the Office's medical adviser.

(d) Other conditions

- (i) Entitlements to annual and home leave cease during periods of full-time family leave. The annual leave and home leave of an employee who takes family leave on a half-time basis is reduced in proportion.
- (ii) For the purposes of Article 44b of the Service Regulations, a family member of an employee is defined as the spouse of an employee, a relative by blood or marriage in the ascending line, a relative in the descending line, or a brother or sister.
- (iii) During family leave the employee may not engage in any other gainful employment.
- (iv) Any single period of family leave taken must amount to at least 7 successive calendar days.
- (v) During family leave on a half-time basis, the employee may not work overtime, perform shift work or be on call according to Articles 57, 58 and 58a of the Service Regulations.
- (vi) Half-time family leave for the purposes of Article 44b of the Service Regulations is defined as 50% of the working week provided for by Article 55(2) of the Service Regulations.

(vii) An employee is not entitled to sick or special leave during periods of full-time family leave. During family leave on a half-time basis, the employee is entitled to sick or special leave only for the time worked.

(viii) In case of hardship the employee may request that the family leave be terminated.

Rule 4

Article 59 Public holidays

- (a) The President of the Office determines the paid public holidays referred to in Article 59(2)b) of the Service Regulations before the end of each year after consulting the relevant joint committee. The staff are notified at the beginning of each year of the holidays so determined.
- (b) The President may decide, in the interest of the Office, to close the Office between Christmas and New Year and/or on a Monday or Friday where a public holiday falls on a Tuesday or Thursday respectively. Staff shall take any type of authorised leave during such closures. The President determines the Office closure days before the end of each year after consulting the relevant joint committee. The staff are notified at the beginning of each year of the closure days so determined.

Article 59 Annual leave

- (a) Annual leave – Periods
 - (i) Annual leave may be taken in one or more instalments at the convenience of the employee concerned and with due regard to the requirements of the service.
 - (ii) Newly appointed staff should normally not apply for leave during their first three months of service unless they have good grounds for doing so.
- (b) Calculation of entitlement
 - (i) Employees' entitlement to annual leave will be calculated by the Human Resources Department at the time of their appointment in respect of the then current calendar year and thereafter at the beginning of each year, and will be displayed on a standard electronic form.
 - (ii) A fraction of a month – provided it amounts to at least six working days – will be taken into consideration when calculating the annual leave entitlement. The calculation will be done by means of the following formula:

2.5 x number of days

and the result will be rounded up to the next half day.

- (iii) Leave entitlement will accrue on the basis of the total length of service completed, including any period of sick leave or annual leave or home leave, as well as any period of notice, even though not actually worked. Periods of unpaid leave, full-time parental leave and full-time family leave will not count towards entitlement to annual leave or home leave.

(c) Procedure

Annual leave shall be taken in units of full or half days. Employees wishing to take annual leave must indicate by means of an electronic form the first and last dates of the period requested. This form is to be submitted as early as possible but at least three working days before the commencement of the leave. It is then automatically forwarded to their line manager for approval and then to the Human Resources Department for registration.

In justified cases, the line manager may agree to waive the three working days limit for obtaining the authorisation.

Save in exceptional cases, employees are not permitted to depart on annual leave until their line manager has approved the leave. In such an exceptional case the line manager must be informed immediately.

At the Office's request, contact details for the leave period should be submitted to the line manager, as soon as they are known.

(d) Unauthorised absence

Line managers must report cases of unauthorised absence on an electronic form to the Human Resources Department within 24 hours of the commencement of the absence.

(e) Leave management and carry-forward of entitlement

- (i) Annual leave should normally be taken during the year in which it is due.
- (ii) Any balance of annual leave, equal to or less than twelve days, remaining at the end of the year, will be automatically carried forward to the following year.
- (iii) Employees may apply to carry forward any balance greater than twelve days only if, for operational reasons certified by their line manager or for other reasons beyond their control, they have been unable to take the whole of their annual leave during the year in question. In such cases, and irrespective of the reasons, the number of days of leave that may be carried forward is strictly limited to 30 days.

- (iv) In special cases, duly justified advances of annual leave may be authorised by the Human Resources Department acting on the recommendation of the line manager of the employee concerned.
- (f) Balance of entitlement – Cessation of employment
 - (i) Upon cessation of employment, the balance of leave due to an employee may not exceed twelve days. The President may allow exceptions in demonstrable cases of force majeure.
 - (ii) Employees who have not taken the whole of the leave due to them when their appointment ends will receive in lieu thereof the corresponding emoluments comprising:
 - salary, calculated on the basis of thirtieths of their monthly salary in accordance with Article 65(1)(b) of the Service Regulations, including any intervening step increases,
 - family allowances,
 - expatriation allowance,
 - rent allowance,
 - language allowance, if any,
 - acting allowance.
 - (iii) For the purpose of calculating the above compensation, the number of days payable in respect of outstanding annual leave will be reckoned in the same way as if the leave had been taken when the employee was still in post.
 - (iv) Employees who have taken leave in advance and in excess of that due to them when their appointment ends must repay the emoluments received for the corresponding period.
 - (v) Contributions to the social security scheme and the pension scheme will be deducted from the emoluments paid in lieu of outstanding leave pursuant to paragraph (ii) above.
- (g) Sickness on leave

Where, during annual leave or home leave, employees suffer from an ailment that would have kept them away from work, their annual leave entitlement will be extended by the period of incapacity duly established by a medical certificate.

Article 59 Special leave with pay

- (1) All applications for special leave, and for additional leave for travel time in connection with any case of special leave, must be referred to the Human Resources Department with the recommendation or otherwise of the person competent to countersign applications for annual leave.

(2) Applications must be submitted on a standard leave form as early as possible in advance of the requested date of commencement of the leave. Where the circumstances are such as to render it impossible for the employees concerned to obtain prior authorisation, they should endeavour to inform their line manager of these circumstances without delay and submit a written application as soon as possible thereafter.

(3) In addition to the cases provided for in Article 59(3), special leave may be granted inter alia in the following cases and up to the following limits:

(a) Death of another immediate relative (e.g. grandchild, brother, sister)	2 working days
Serious illness of parents-in-law	2 working days
Death of parents-in-law	2 working days
Death of any other person related by blood or marriage	1 working day

For the purposes of special leave, dependants within the meaning of Articles 69 or 70 of the Service Regulations will be regarded as children.

(b) Voting in national elections or referenda in the country of origin Court appearances	Necessary periods determined by the President in each case
(c) Transfer to another place of employment	5 working days, including travel time
(d) Further training: examinations

Employees may, on request, be granted up to ten days' special leave per year for further training and/or examinations. In granting such leave, due account will be taken of the requirements of the service.

This provision applies to requests from staff for permission to attend further training courses and to sit examinations on their own initiative.

Special leave for training purposes can be granted in the following cases:

- to enable employees to sit examinations (not to prepare for them)
- for 50% of the duration of the course for attending language courses in one of the three official languages away from the employee's place of employment.

Three days' special leave may be granted, on request, to employees who pass the European qualifying examination, by way of compensation for the time spent preparing for that examination. Employees should apply for such leave within six months of the date of being informed by the Examination Board that they have passed.

- (e) Special leave will be supplemented, where applicable, by the necessary travelling time.

The duration of the journey and the route will be calculated in accordance with the regulations governing duty travel. The following travel times will be considered as the minimum necessary:

- (i) $\frac{1}{2}$ a day when the distance between place of employment and destination in either direction is between 100 and 400 km or the journey in either direction takes between four and eight hours;
- (ii) $\frac{1}{2}$ a day each way when the distance in either direction is between 401 and 800 km or the journey in either direction takes between eight and twelve hours;
- (iii) 1 day each way when the distance in either direction is more than 800 km or the journey in either direction takes over twelve hours.

However, this regulation does not apply where the entire travel time required falls on a weekend or public holiday.

Travelling time for the outward or return journey will be credited if the journey is actually made on a working day (during working hours). This applies even if the weekend or a public holiday could have been used instead.

Example:

- special leave on Monday, 8 July and Tuesday, 9 July
- journey to a destination over 800 km away
- outward journey on Friday, 5 July: one travel day credited
- return on Wednesday, 10 July: one travel day credited

On both travel days the employee is absent from work throughout working hours.

Rule 7

Article 59

Special leave for the birth of a child

- (a) Entitlement
- (i) An employee is entitled to ten working days' special leave upon the birth of a child, under the conditions laid down in Article 59 of the Service Regulations. Multiple births (twins, triplets, etc.) confer a single special leave entitlement.
 - (ii) The special leave may be supplemented once, where applicable, by the necessary travelling time (see Rule 6(3)d)).
 - (iii) The child must be considered dependent within the meaning of Article 69 of the Service Regulations.

(b) Procedure

- (i) The employee must provide the Human Resources Department with the birth certificate issued by the relevant national administrative authority. A certified translation into one of the official languages may be requested.
- (ii) The leave must be taken during the 14 weeks following the birth.

Rule 8

Article 59
Special leave

Hospitalisation of a child of twelve years of age or under, or very serious illness of a child

(a) Entitlement

- (i) An employee is entitled to up to five working days' special leave for the hospitalisation of a child aged twelve or under or the very serious illness of a child under the conditions laid down in Article 59 of the Service Regulations.
- (ii) The special leave may be supplemented, where applicable, by the necessary travelling time (see Rule 6(3)d)).
- (iii) The child must be considered dependent within the meaning of Article 69 of the Service Regulations.

(b) Procedure

- (i) The employee must provide the Office's medical adviser with a medical certificate containing the employee's name, the full name and date of birth of the ill child and the expected duration of the illness. The medical adviser will inform the Human Resources Department whether in their opinion the medical conditions of Article 59(3)(i) are met.
- (ii) In the event of hospitalisation, the medical certificate must also state the dates on which hospitalisation will start or started and is expected to finish.
- (iii) If the doctor consulted refuses to issue a medical certificate, the employee must supply the name and address of the doctor to the Office's medical adviser.

(c) Other conditions

- (i) This leave may not be used in combination with or in addition to special leave for the serious illness of a child according to Article 59(3)(h) of the Service Regulations.

Rule 9

Article 59 Special leave

Death of the mother during maternity leave

(a) Entitlement

- (i) A spouse is entitled to special leave amounting to the number of calendar days corresponding to the remaining maternity leave in the event of the death of the mother during maternity leave, if she is an employee.
- (ii) If the deceased mother is not an employee, the remaining maternity leave is determined by applying the provisions of Article 61 of the Service Regulations by analogy.

(b) Procedure

The employee must provide the death certificate of the mother and the birth certificate of the child to the Human Resources Department.

(c) Other conditions

- (i) This special leave may not be granted in addition to special leave for the death of a spouse according to Article 59(3)(d) of the Service Regulations.
- (ii) This leave is granted in the event of the birth of a viable child.

Article 60 Home leave

(a) Entitlement

- (i) Entitlement to home leave will begin to accrue from the effective date of appointment, or from the date of the change of duty station which has given rise to this entitlement.
- (ii) One period of home leave will accrue in respect of each period of 24 months' service. Subject to the exigencies of the service, it may be taken at any time within that period but not before the expiry of any probation period. The date on which home leave is taken will not be taken into account in determining the date of the next period of home leave.
- (iii) Any home leave not taken during the two-year period during which it accrues will be forfeited except in cases of force majeure, when the period will be extended by three months. No home leave may be granted during the four months prior to the date of termination of service as defined by Article 50. Non-use of the home leave entitlement does not give rise to compensation.

- (iv) Employees may be asked to take home leave in conjunction with travel on mission or change of duty station, due regard being paid to their and their family's interests.
- (v) Where two employees who are married to each other are both non-nationals of the country of the place of employment but are of different nationality and both are serving in the Office or one in the Office and the other in a different Co-ordinated Organisation, they will each be entitled to home leave, either together in the same country if the home of either one is there, or separately in different countries if their homes are in different countries.

(b) Authorisation

Applications for home leave must be submitted to the Human Resources Department at least one month before the date of commencement of the leave. Home leave is granted on the condition that the employees concerned in fact travel to their home. Supporting evidence may be required.

(c) Home leave travel

- (i) For journeys undertaken within Europe, the travel expenses to be reimbursed per person will normally be calculated at a flat rate in accordance with the following rules:
 - for return journeys of 1 000 km or less which do not include a sea crossing and which are measured on the basis of the shortest usual route by rail or other land-based mode of public transport from the place of employment to the place of home leave, the amount will be calculated by multiplying the resulting length of the route, expressed in km, by 50% of the kilometric allowance given in Annex V to the Service Regulations and applicable in the country of employment of the employee. Half the amount calculated in this way will be reimbursed for children under twelve years of age;
 - for all other journeys the amount will be calculated on the basis of half the "business class" or equivalent fare (allowing for any reductions for age) between two airports which are reasonably accessible from the place of employment and the place of home leave. The amount calculated in this way will be supplemented by an amount covering the journey to these airports in accordance with the conditions of the preceding paragraph. The total amount reimbursed will not be less than that corresponding to the reimbursement laid down in the preceding paragraph for a return journey of 1 000 km.
- (ii) Notwithstanding the provisions of (i) above, any employee will be able to request reimbursement of actual expenses incurred. Except in cases of force majeure, applications must be submitted prior to the journey concerned. Reimbursement will be made on the basis of vouchers and on condition that the journey undertaken corresponds to the shortest usual route by the most economical mode of transport, depending on the individual case concerned.

- (iii) In cases of reimbursement of actual expenses incurred and if the journey to be taken necessitates travel by air, or if, for other duly justified reasons, the employee is authorised to travel by air, reimbursement will be calculated on the basis of the most economical fare unless special dispensation is granted by the President of the Office. For duly justified reasons, the Office may reimburse supplementary expenses arising from an alteration in fare resulting from a change in travel dates.
 - (iv) For intercontinental journeys, reimbursement will, in accordance with points (ii) and (iii) above, be made on the basis of actual expenses incurred.
 - (v) Where paragraph (a)(v) above applies, the cost of only one journey each will be refunded every two years (to both spouses respectively and to the dependent children) in respect of each family.
 - (vi) The cost of the return travel expenses in respect of any spouse and dependent children will be repaid to the employee, whether or not they travel at the same time, provided that they travel within the period laid down in paragraph (a)(ii) above, and that the employee takes home leave during that period.
- (d) Repayment
- (i) Where employees fail to take a period of home leave within the time limit set in these Rules, they will repay to the Office any travel expenses borne by it in respect of a member or members of their household for such leave.
 - (ii) Where employees have taken home leave in advance and their appointment terminates by resignation before the end of the relevant two-year period, they will repay a sum corresponding to eight working days' emoluments, plus the amount received in respect of travel expenses. The amount to be repaid will be reduced in proportion to the time actually served during the two-year period.
- (e) Compensation for travel time
- (i) Extra leave on the basis shown below will be granted when the distance, by the approved route, between home and place of employment, in either direction, exceeds 100 km:

100 - 400 km:	½ a day
400 - 800 km:	1 day
over 800 km:	1½ days

- (ii) When the time taken to travel by the approved route between home and place of employment, in either direction and irrespective of kilometric distances, can be proved to exceed a certain number of hours, extra leave will be granted on the basis shown below:

4 - 8 hours:	½ a day
8 - 12 hours:	1 day
12 hours or more:	1½ days

(f) Home

- (i) The home of an employee for the purpose of home leave will be determined in accordance with the provisions of Article 60(2).
- (ii) In the absence of proof and in cases of doubt the President of the Office may fix the home in the capital of the contracting state of which the employee is a national.

Article 61 Maternity leave

(a) Duration

- (i) An employee who is pregnant is, in accordance with Article 61 of the Service Regulations, entitled, on production of a medical certificate, to maternity leave on full pay starting not earlier than six weeks before the expected date of confinement shown on the certificate and ending not earlier than 14 weeks after the date of confinement provided that such leave is not less than 20 weeks. After childbirth, the birth certificate must be submitted to the Human Resources Department as soon as possible.
- (ii) In the event of a multiple or premature birth or the birth of a handicapped child within the meaning of Article 69 of the Service Regulations, or where the pregnant woman has given birth to two or more viable children, or where the household already has at least two children in its care, the maternity leave remains at six weeks before the expected date of confinement but increases to 18 weeks after the date of confinement. Such leave may not be less than 24 weeks.
- (iii) For the purposes of this article, a premature birth is a birth taking place more than six weeks before the expected date of confinement.
- (iv) If she so wishes and provided, as confirmed by a medical certificate, that her state of health permits, the mother may continue working beyond the sixth week preceding the expected confinement and defer her maternity leave.

- (v) An employee on maternity leave retains all her rights to remuneration, advancement, annual leave and home leave. Her post will not be declared vacant.
 - (vi) The employee continues to pay her personal contribution to the social security scheme and the pension scheme.
 - (vii) In the event of termination of service, except in the case of dismissal on disciplinary grounds, the employee who has produced the medical certificate referred to in paragraph (i) will be entitled to her emoluments up to the end of her maternity leave provided she does not enter the service of another employer.
- (b) Extension of maternity leave
- An extension of maternity leave on production of a medical certificate will be deemed to be sick leave.

Rule 12

Article 61a Adoption leave

- (a) Entitlement
- (i) An employee who has lodged an application for the adoption of a child and started the adoption procedure is, in accordance with Article 61a of the Service Regulations, entitled to 20 weeks' adoption leave (24 weeks if the child is handicapped within the meaning of Article 69 of the Service Regulations).
 - (ii) If the legislation of the country of adoption, which is not the country of employment of the employee, requires one or both of the adopting parents to complete a course of instruction or a stay there, additional paid leave may be granted for the length of the course or stay.
 - (iii) Each child adopted confers entitlement to only one period of adoption leave. The period may start from the date on which the child is recognised as dependent within the meaning of Article 69(3) of the Service Regulations. It may not be added to any period granted for another adoption.
 - (iv) If both adopting parents are employees of the EPO, the adoption leave may be shared between them as they wish.
 - (v) If one of the adopting parents is not an employee of the EPO and takes comparable leave, the number of days of such leave is deducted from the adoption leave granted to the employee.
 - (vi) No adoption leave is granted if the spouse or the other adopting parent is in less than half-time paid employment. Instead, by analogy with the special leave for the birth of a child, the employee may be granted ten working days' special leave. This special leave must be taken en bloc within twelve months of the date on which the child is recognised as dependent within the meaning of Article 69(3) of the Service Regulations.

- (vii) Leave is not granted if, prior to the adoption, the child was resident with or already mainly and continuously supported by the employee, the employee's spouse or the other adopting parent.

(b) Procedure

- (i) The employee must provide the Human Resources Department with the adoption certificate or, pending the issue of such a certificate, an official document that proves legal responsibility for the child.
- (ii) An application for adoption leave must be submitted in writing by the employee, via the line manager, to the Human Resources Department one month prior to the requested starting date of the adoption leave.
- (iii) If additional paid leave within the meaning of paragraph (a)(ii) is requested, all the necessary supporting documents issued by the relevant national authorities must be submitted.
- (iv) If one of the adopting parents does not work at the EPO and is entitled to comparable leave, a declaration must be provided stating the length of leave granted. If this leave has partially or in its entirety not been used or will not be used, the employee must submit a statement to the Human Resources Department giving the necessary details.
- (v) Any document required for the granting of adoption leave and/or additional special leave must be presented in one of the official languages. Where applicable, the employee must provide any original documents in a non-official language, together with a certified translation into an official language of the EPO.

António Campinos

Circular No. 34
(28 March 2012, 30 July 2015¹)

Guidelines for applying Article 56(2) of the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the European Patent Office (ServRegs) concerning part-time working

Article 1
Reasons

Authorisation to work part-time may be granted in the following cases:

- (a) in order to look after at least one child below the age of 16;
- (b) in order to attend to a child with a disability requiring continuous care;
- (c) in order to assist the spouse or a parent of the permanent employee or a parent of the permanent employee's spouse, where his/her state of health requires the presence of the permanent employee as a result of an accident or a serious illness;
- (d) in order to allow a smoother transition to retirement for permanent employees who have reached the age of 55;
- (e) as an exception, in other cases adequately justified.

Article 2
Authorisation

- (1) Authorisation to work part-time is conditional upon:
 - (a) such part-time working being deemed compatible with the smooth functioning of the service, and
 - (b) the permanent employee's appointment being confirmed on expiry of his/her probationary period (Article 13 ServRegs).
- (2) Every effort will be made to accommodate the wishes of individual permanent employees concerning a reduction in their working hours.
- (3) In principle, any figure of or above 50% of the normal 40-hour working week may be granted.
- (4) The spread of working hours over the working week must be indicated together with the request for authorisation to work part-time. This spread may be changed by agreement with the immediate superior.

¹ See CA/D 10/14 Article 61 and 62.

Article 3 Procedure

- (1) Applications for part-time working must be submitted to the immediate superior at least two months before the requested starting date, unless otherwise agreed by the immediate superior. The minimum notification period, however, may not be less than one month.
- (2) Authorisation for part-time working will be granted by the immediate superior, upon application by the permanent employee, for a period of six months. Unless the permanent employee has given notice two months prior to expiry of each six-month period, it will be assumed that the reasons for which part-time working was granted continue to apply and the authorisation will be extended without request on the same conditions for a further period of six months.
- (3) If the reasons for which the authorisation was granted no longer apply, the authorisation may, at one month's notice, be withdrawn by the immediate superior before expiry of the period for which it was granted.
- (4) Likewise, at the request of the immediate superior and in agreement with the permanent employee, the authorisation may be withdrawn or changed before expiry of the period for which it was granted. If the authorisation is changed, the amended authorisation will remain applicable for the remainder of the six-month period and may be extended thereafter in accordance with Article 2.

Article 4 Entitlements

- (1) The period of home leave will be correspondingly reduced.
- (2) Entitlement to reimbursement of travel expenses will remain unchanged.

Home leave for part-time staff¹

No special regulations in Office practice

Under Article 60 ServRegs, some EPO staff are entitled every two years to home leave, i.e. eight working days' extra holiday plus travel time (Circular No. 22, Rule 9 (e)).

The home leave entitlement of staff working part-time is correspondingly reduced (see Circular No. 34, Article 4). In practice, at all EPO sites, such staff are also granted a period of eight consecutive working days plus travel time, irrespective of any free (part-) days during that period under their individual part-time arrangements.

with effect from 1 March 2010

Rule 1

- (1) Subject to paragraph (2), a legitimate, natural or adopted child (Art. 69(3) (a) ServRegs) shall be assumed to be mainly and continuously supported by the employee or his spouse if the child is not gainfully employed (Rule 3) and is

- for one child: 6% of the employee's basic salary plus the amount of the dependants' allowance, or 25% of the basic salary of Grade G1 step 4 if this amount is lower;
 - for two children: 9% of the employee's basic salary plus twice the amount of the dependants' allowance, or 45% of the basic salary of grade G1 step 4 if this amount is lower;

- (a) during a period of more than four consecutive months,
- (b) out of gainful employment,
- (c) a monthly income, after deduction of contributions to compulsory social security schemes but before deduction of national income tax, equal to or more than 50% of the amount of the basic salary of grade G1 step 4 (scale for the child's country of residence). Where the child is not resident in one of the member states, a corresponding monthly income shall be fixed using the relevant purchasing power coefficient applied by the European Union for the child's country of residence. Where such a coefficient is not available, a corresponding monthly income shall be fixed, taking into account the standard of living in that country.

(19 February 1981)

Guidelines for the granting of the language allowance

Article 75 (Service Regulations)
Language allowance

- (1) Permanent employees who feel they meet the requirements, laid down in Article 75, for entitlement to one or two language allowances may apply in writing to that effect to the Principal Director for Personnel through their superiors.
- (2) The employee must state in his application:
 - (a) his grade, job and the specific post occupied;
 - (b) his mother tongue;
 - (c) the official languages he is actually required to use in the course of his duties and the type of use (oral; written; contacts within or outside a section, department) and frequency.
- (3) The superior will forward the employee's application to the Principal Director for Personnel.

The former will note on the application his reasons for considering that it would be in the interests of the Office to grant one or two language allowances to the employee and will confirm the accuracy of the particulars given in the application.

- (4) The Principal Director for Personnel will decide whether the application meets the requirements laid down in Article 75. In particular, he will establish that it is in the interests of the Organisation. He will ascertain especially whether knowledge of the languages is required by the job description of the employee or whether such knowledge, although not indispensable, enables the employee more adequately to meet the requirements of his post by substantially improving the quality and quantity of the work performed. If he feels the application cannot be granted, he will inform the employee and his superior accordingly.
- (5) The allowance will be granted only if the applicant has undergone a language test organised by the Office.
- (6) Language tests will be organised twice yearly in each place of employment. Employees will be notified, not later than one month after submission of their application, of their admission to the tests; in that event they will be given at least five working days' notice of the tests. Participation in two successive tests for the same language will not be permissible.

(7) The tests, which will differ for each category, will comprise:

- (a) the writing of a letter, memorandum or report;
- (b) giving a brief talk.

The employees will be informed of the subjects, at the time of the test, in the official language of their choice.

(8) The Principal Director for Personnel will inform the applicant and his superior of the result of the test.

(9) The allowance will be granted to employees obtaining satisfactory results, as from the first day of the month in which the tests were held. The superior will be informed.

(10) These guidelines will enter into force on 5 February 1981.

(26 June 1984)

Assignment of earnings to banks and other financial institutions

Reasons have arisen that make it appropriate to inform employees of Office procedure with regard to the assignment and attachment of earnings:

1. Assignment of earnings to banks and financial institutions on taking up loans

Assignment of earnings is a private legal transaction which does not involve EPO immunity. The Office, in consequence, normally automatically recognises an assignment of earnings made known to it. The proportion of an employee's earnings assigned is retained and paid over to the creditor, after the employee concerned has been informed that the deed of assignment has been presented and is to be complied with by the Office.

2. Attachment of earnings

Attachment of earnings involves measures of national sovereignty which may in principle touch upon the question of Office immunity. However, the sole purpose of this immunity is to ensure that the Organisation is able to function unimpeded and that its employees enjoy complete independence, and not give the latter personal advantage (see Article 19 (1) of the Protocol on Immunities).

In cases of attachment of earnings, therefore, the Office as a general rule waives its immunity regarding enforcement of the attachment order under Article 3 of the Protocol on Immunities in conjunction with Article 3 of the Headquarters Agreement with the Federal Republic of Germany or the Agreement with the Kingdom of the Netherlands concerning the branch at The Hague.

(New version dated 14 June 1999)

Recently, application of Circular No. 135 has given rise to some confusion. The version dated 6 August 1984 has therefore been revised.

The new version makes it clear that supplementary activities of any kind (including preparation and travel time), and acceptance of payment for them, can be approved only if they take place outside working hours.

The General Advisory Committee has given a unanimously favourable opinion on the new wording.

The following version, in which the substantive amendments are printed in bold type, takes immediate effect:

Acceptance of payment by permanent employees of the European Patent Office

- Regulations supplementing Article 14(2) of the Service Regulations -

- (1) Requests for approval of a supplementary activity for which payment is made must be submitted to the President via personnel department.
- (2) In the case of supplementary activities of any kind (such as lecturing, teaching or writing), acceptance of payment by the permanent employee will generally be allowed if
 - the activity (including any preparation and travel time) takes place outside working hours and
 - the Office incurs no costs (eg travel or subsistence expenses) from it.

This also applies to activities directly associated with the permanent employee's official duties or position.

The permanent employee must submit the necessary declarations together with the request for approval.

If the above conditions are not met, but the activity as such has been approved, any remuneration must be surrendered to the Office.

- (3) Normal Office duties must not be affected by supplementary activities of the type referred to. For this reason they are permissible only to a limited extent.

Attention is also drawn to the restrictions laid down in Article 16 of the Service Regulations.

(05 April 2007)

Rights and obligations of EPO staff

Certain isolated cases brought to my attention recently oblige me to remind staff that membership of the international civil service brings with it various rights and obligations. These are laid down in Title II of our Service Regulations.

Article 14 ServRegs ("general obligations") requires staff to work and conduct themselves solely with the interests of the Organisation in mind. Article 15 ServRegs sets out the special obligations of members of the boards of appeal. And under Article 16(1) ServRegs staff must refrain from "any act and, in particular, any public expression of opinion which may reflect on the dignity of their office"¹.

As intellectual property increasingly becomes a mainstream issue in society, individual EPO staff members are often invited to contribute to public events, seminars, forums and the like, or to give their opinions, orally or in writing, on topical issues involving the European Patent Organisation.

To meet this growing public demand for objective information reflecting the Organisation's official views, the Office has set up a number of key bodies and units (such as the Patent Academy, Communication Department, the Issue Management Group and the EPC 2000 Steering Committee) to devise and channel the Office's contributions in this area.

Permission for individuals engaging in such activities is regulated in particular by Articles 14 and 20 ServRegs and Circular 135. It may be withdrawn or, more generally, individuals may be required to discontinue activities which are incompatible with Article 16(1) ServRegs. If they fail to do so, the consequences can be severe (see Article 16(3) ServRegs).

It goes without saying that for EPO staff to contribute to public awareness about complex patent issues is a good thing. Many highly committed staff devote time and energy, even in their leisure hours, to making such contributions. This is recognised and appreciated by the Office and the wider world.

Staff must also realise however that any individual expression of opinion in a public forum that openly attacks a decision taken by the Office or the Organisation (e.g. the Administrative Council) is by definition detrimental to the dignity of their office. Individual staff must refrain from such public criticism, either orally or in writing, because it is incompatible with Article 16(1) ServRegs.

On a final note, this communiqué does not of course in any way call into question the freedom of association guaranteed by Article 30 ServRegs.

President

¹ The word 'office', in this context, refers of course to the individual's professional function, not to the EPO as such.

Directive from the President regarding publications in the name of the Office

(25 October 1996)

1. The following applies to all publications in the name of the Office, such as scientific and legal studies, editorial contributions and comments in newspapers and magazines, and to the dissemination of public portrayals of the Office and its activities:
 - The purpose, content and timing of the planned publication and the arrangements for its distribution must be agreed beforehand with the Public Relations Directorate (Dir. 5.0.1, Mr. Nowak). The consent of Office management may also be required.
2. Modern on-line information and communication services such as the INTERNET or COMPUSERVE open up a whole range of additional publishing facilities. Please therefore note the following:
 - A reasoned request for access to such a service must be submitted to the relevant ISDS department and may be granted only for official purposes. IS is responsible for the technical arrangements and for Office-wide co-ordination.
 - Principal Directorate 5.4 looks after the technical side of the Office's "Home Page" on the INTERNET (HTTP://WWW.EPO.CO.AT/EPO/). Users are not allowed to set up their own "Home Pages".
 - Responsibility for the content of the "Home Page" lies with the Public Relations Directorate, which will liaise with the Directorates-General concerned.
 - Views expressed by staff in on-line discussion forums could be ascribed to the Office. Staff should bear this in mind, seeking clarification from their superiors and, if necessary, Directorate 5.0.1.

Passes

1. Red passes

The planned issue of new red passes by the German Foreign Office in Bonn was first announced in Gazette 10/94. This announcement gave rise to lively discussion in the Office and to extensive correspondence between the President and management on the one hand and the staff representatives on the other. In-depth talks on these passes were held with the staff representatives, and the subject was on the agenda at two General Advisory Committee meetings. The issues have now been resolved.

After some delay due to production bottlenecks at the printers, the first batch of new passes has now arrived. These will be distributed, following notification from the personnel department, to the several hundred members of staff in Munich and Berlin who ordered them. Under the relevant provisions, all non-German staff and non-German family members² (minimum age: 16 years) are entitled to apply for the pass.

As the German authorities are generally more familiar with these new identity cards - which was not the case with the black passes, previously the only ones issued - holders should benefit from considerable practical advantages. In certain situations, not having a red pass might even prove a drawback.

2. Vehicle registration numbers³

3. Black passes

Black passes will continue to be issued by the Office (Article 8(2) of the Headquarters Agreement between the EPO and the Federal Republic of Germany), and existing ones will retain their validity. For German members of staff, the black pass remains the only one available. As stated above, they cannot be issued with the red pass.

1 Update of the contact details.

2 read: "... and their non-German family members", see letter from the German Foreign Office dated 18 August 1997.

3 Replaced by Circular No. 254:

The German Foreign Office in Bonn has reviewed the question of allocating special vehicle registration numbers and - contrary to its earlier opinion - has come to the conclusion that EPO staff (like staff at other international organisations in Germany) are not entitled to be allocated BN vehicle registration numbers. The Office has studied this legal advice and come to the conclusion that it must be accepted.

As a result, BN vehicle registration numbers can unfortunately no longer be allocated. This will not however disadvantage those who already have a BN registration number, since they are not required to reregister their vehicles.

At the Office's instigation, the Foreign Office has said that it will in future be willing to sign the black passes for German staff. However, this will not be compulsory (the staff representatives asked for this to be made clear), and German staff may apply if they wish for signature by the Office. The black passes of non-German staff and family members will in any case be signed by the Office, as the Foreign Office is not prepared to sign black passes in addition to issuing new red ones.

Circular No. 238 - addendum
(29 April 1996, 4 September 2013¹)

Black passes for non-German family members

In Circular No. 238 dated 5 March 1996, which was drawn up in agreement with the staff representatives, Principal Directorate Personnel announced details of the issue of both the red and the black passes.

Since then, the Munich Local Section has requested that - in contrast to present practice - black passes be issued not only to all staff and non-German family members over 16 years of age as before, but also to German family members and non-Germans under 16.

The present practice is based on the fact that children under 16 are not obliged to carry an identity card (which is why the Foreign Office is not issuing the new red passes to that age group) and that none of the privileges attached to the black pass apply to German family members. This has been expressly confirmed by the Foreign Office in Bonn.

It cannot, however, be denied (and has been maintained by the staff representatives) that some form of identification may be useful from a certain age onwards for non-German family members below the age of 16 who frequently cross the German border on their own. In such cases in the past, the Personnel Department has provided written confirmation of the child's status.

On receipt of a reasoned request, however, Principal Directorate Personnel will in future issue black passes signed by the Office for non-German family members from the age of 6. Staff interested in obtaining such a pass should submit a request, giving reasons, to the appropriate HR interlocutor.

(27 January 1997)

Criteria for the granting of home loans

With a view to making better use of the funding set aside for home loans, the President in July 1996 asked the General Advisory Committee (GAC) to consider a proposal aimed at giving priority to applications from staff who have not yet already been granted the maximum loan provided for under Article 3(2) of the "Regulations for the Grant of Home Loans".

The issue was discussed at four successive GAC meetings between August and November 1996 without the Committee being able to arrive at a unanimous opinion. The only solution acceptable to the GAC members appointed by the Staff Committee would involve increasing the amount of funding set aside in the budget.

This funding - which requires Administrative Council approval - has been set at DEM 18.55m for 1997 and DEM 13.8m from 1998 onwards. This gradual discontinuation of further funding will mean that in future the system will be funded only from repayments on existing loans. This solution was adopted by way of a compromise because it was acceptable to the delegations, who had initially favoured doing away with the home loans scheme altogether.

Before considering the possibility of abandoning this compromise, the President felt it was essential to gain a clear picture of actual need. An initial study showed that the annual rise in the number of applications was attributable in part to the fact that a growing number of staff who had already paid off an initial loan were applying again in order to purchase another property or refurbish an existing one.

To use home loans in this way - as a source of permanent and renewable credit - runs counter to the purpose of the scheme and penalises first-time applicants. The President's proposal was therefore intended to establish criteria for the granting of loans that were more in line with the scheme's purpose, which is to help staff entering the property market at their place of employment.

It is regrettable that the staff representatives do not share this concern, but the President feels it is his responsibility to ensure that priority be given to staff taking advantage of the home loans scheme for the first time.

For this reason, in line with the objectives of the home loans scheme - as re-affirmed in CA/22/88 and CA/62/88 - and in application of the provisions of Article 12(1) of the Regulations for the Grant of Home Loans, and having consulted the "General Advisory Committee and the Home Loans Committee", the President has adopted the following directives:

Rule 1

Priority criteria

The following priorities shall apply when applications for home loans are processed:

First priority:

Applications for loans to finance a main residence at the place of employment, provided the total amount of loans granted by the Office does not exceed the maximum provided for in Article 3(2) of the Regulations for the Grant of Home Loans.

Second priority:

Applications for loans to finance a retirement residence, provided the total amount of loans granted by the Office does not exceed the maximum provided for in Article 3(2) of the Regulations for the Grant of Home Loans.

Third priority:

Applications to reborrow to finance a main residence at the place of employment and for an amount equal to or less than the sum repaid following disposal of the property in respect of which a loan had been granted by the Office.

Fourth priority:

Applications to reborrow to finance a retirement residence and for an amount equal to or less than the sum repaid following disposal of the property in respect of which a loan had been granted by the Office.

Fifth priority:

All other applications.

Rule 2

Procedure for applying priorities

Between 1 January and 30 September, first-priority applications which have been approved by the Home Loans Committee will be processed in the order submitted. From 1 October, funding still available for the current accounting period will only be paid out in respect of applications for which payment can be made before the end of that period and in accordance with the above priorities.

Rule 3

Transitional measure

The criteria used for the granting of home loans in 1996 will continue to apply to applications submitted and registered before 20 January 1997.

Rule 4
Transfer of loans

In application of Article 6(5) of the Regulations for the Grant of Home Loans an employee disposing of a property financed with a loan from the Office in order to acquire a new one may be authorised to transfer the amount of loan outstanding on the first property to the second. Such cases, which have no effect on the budget funding available, do not fall within the above priorities.

Rule 5
Date of effect

These directives apply to all applications still awaiting a decision on whether to grant a loan.

Guidelines on personal files for EPO employees

1. General

- 1.1 For the purposes of these guidelines, a personal file shall be the file referred to in Article 32 of the Service Regulations (ServRegs). Documents not subject to that article, such as those relating to duty travel, annual leave, sick leave, home leave, home loans, overtime and internal job applications, as well as other general correspondence, shall be stored separately.
- 1.2 Responsibility for administration of personal files shall rest with the Personnel Department.
- 1.3 Authority to consult the personal file of a current or former employee shall be the strictly personal right of its subject or his successors in title. Unless the legitimate interests of the Office dictate otherwise, a third person may, at the written request of the current or former employee or one of his successors in title, be authorised in a specific case to consult all or part of the personal file in question (or to take part in the consultation).
- 1.4 The right to examine documents contained in a personal file for official purposes shall be strictly reserved to persons who, by virtue of the duties they perform within the Office, legitimately have the need to do so. Such examinations shall be restricted to those documents which are relevant to the stated official purposes.
- 1.5 Any person authorised to consult another person's personal file or to examine the documents it contains is obliged to respect confidentiality in the use of any information thus obtained.

If said person is subject to the Service Regulations, failure to comply with this obligation will be viewed as professional misconduct within the meaning of said regulations.

For any other person, authorisation to consult a personal file or to examine the documents it contains may be granted only after said person has given a written undertaking to respect the confidentiality of the information thus obtained and has acknowledged receipt of the text of the present guidelines.

- 1.6 The Personnel Department shall maintain both a register recording the persons authorised to consult personal files and an automated self-registering audit trail of personal file access. The audit trail shall record the time and date of the consultation, the identity of the person consulting the personal file and the section consulted. Individual staff may view the register of persons authorised to consult their personal file. The audit trail for their personal file shall be available to staff for individual consultation in the Personnel Department.

- 1.7 The Personnel Department shall be responsible for producing and certifying paper copies of documents in the personal file at the request of the employee concerned or for the internal administrative procedures of the Personnel Department. Paper copies may only be made for official purposes by the Personnel Department and shall be destroyed once they have served their purpose.
- 1.8 An employee may request to have documents added to his file.
- 1.9¹ The personal file shall be stored electronically. Every member of staff may view his personal file via a personal access facility from any work station located within the EPO. The EPO Data Protection Guidelines shall apply.

2. Structure of personal files

(14 November 2001, 30 July 2015¹, 1 January 2019, 1 July 2020)

Procedure to be followed and criteria to be applied for assessing the degree of reliance on long-term care pursuant to Article 83b of the Service Regulations for permanent and other employees of the European Patent Office and Rule 11 of its Implementing Rules

Preamble

These rules are laid down pursuant to Article 83b, Article 89 and Article 90 of the Service Regulations (ServRegs) for permanent and other employees of the European Patent Office and Rule 11 of the Implementing Rules to Article 83b ServRegs, following consultation of the General Consultative Committee. The criteria are based on a proposal from the external manager of the scheme.

Part I
Definitions

For the purposes of these rules:

"the EPO" means the European Patent Office;

"the application" means a form for applying for benefits under the long-term care insurance scheme referred to in Article 83b ServRegs and the Implementing Rules thereto;

"the assessment form" means a form for assessing the degree of reliance on long-term care, to be completed, dated and signed by the insured person's doctor;

"the external manager" is the company entrusted with the handling of the medical side of the scheme, i.e. responsible for processing applications and giving opinions on the required level of care;

"the medical adviser" means the doctor acting on behalf of the external manager who, in carrying out their duties, is to be considered as an Office medical adviser;

"dependants" means dependent children within the meaning of Article 69 ServRegs and other dependants within the meaning of Article 70 ServRegs.

¹ See CA/D 10/14 Article 61 and 62.

Part II Procedure

1. The following are entitled to file an application:
 - (i) an employee or a former employee, on behalf of themselves and/or their spouse or former spouse and dependants;
 - (ii) a former spouse, on behalf of themselves;
 - (iii) an insured person, where the employee is deceased.
2. The application must be made using the prescribed form and must be dated and signed by one of the persons referred to in paragraph 1 above. The person signing the application is at all times be responsible for any statements made therein.
3. The application may be sent either to the EPO or direct to the external manager, who will then inform the EPO.
4. An assessment form is then forwarded to the person making the application.
5. The assessment form must be completed, dated and signed by the insured person's doctor, who must indicate, by placing a tick in the appropriate box, the extent to which the insured person is able to perform the said activities without the assistance of a third person.
6. The assessment form must be returned to the medical adviser accompanied by all the relevant medical information, documents, results and reports concerning the physical or mental examinations of the insured person and indicating clearly the diagnosis and state of health of said person.
7. An applicant pursuant to paragraph 1 may also download the application and assessment forms themselves and send them together with the relevant medical reports to the medical adviser direct.
8. The application will only be considered to be complete when the application form, the assessment form and all the relevant medical documents and reports referred to in the assessment form have been filed.
9. When assessing the forms and reports, the medical adviser has the right, whenever they consider it appropriate, to seek clarification of or verify the condition and level of care required by the insured person on whose behalf the application is being made, to check whether the forms have been correctly filled in, to ask for and make use of specialist medical documents, results and reports, and to require an appointment to be made for a visit and/or medical examination of the insured person at their place of residence or elsewhere.
10. When the external manager has all the necessary information, it will examine whether the criteria corresponding to the level of dependence are satisfied, and will communicate to the EPO its opinion indicating the proposed level of benefits, if any, to be granted.

11. Notwithstanding Article 89(5) ServRegs, the EPO reserves the right to have applications reassessed on a random basis by an independent expert.
12. Entitlement to long-term care benefits will be decided by the President of the EPO, on an opinion from the external manager and, where applicable, on the basis of the assessment of an independent expert. The decision will identify the degree of reliance on long-term care and be communicated to the applicant together with the external manager's opinion.
13. The external manager's opinion must indicate the degree of reliance on long-term care and recommend a period for which the care in question is to be granted. The assessment must also communicate a date by which a review of the degree of reliance on long-term care is to take place, sometime towards the end of the approved period. If the applicant wishes payment of long-term care benefits to continue after the approved period ends, they are advised to make an application to this effect well in advance (at least five months) of the review date communicated. If no such application is made, payment will automatically end when the approved period ends.
14. A follow-up check may be performed at any time during the approved period. This involves checking again whether the criteria for the level of care being provided continue to be met and informing the EPO, on the basis of the latest examination, to what extent the level of care needs to be adjusted. Where applicable, the level of benefits may be adjusted accordingly following a decision by the President of the EPO.
15. The long-term care benefits will be paid retroactively from the date on which the degree of reliance on long-term care is established, but in any case no earlier than three months prior to the date on which a complete application within the meaning of paragraph 8 is filed. The insured person must retain all documents, medical or otherwise, relevant for the purpose of establishing the date on which the circumstances giving rise to the reliance on long-term care commenced and submit them to the medical adviser.

Part III

Criteria for insured persons aged 14 years and over

1. Introduction

- (1) For the purpose of assessing the degree of reliance on long-term care, the ability of the insured person to take care of themselves independently and to perform certain everyday and housekeeping activities, with or without assistance, help or care, must be examined.
- (2) The assessment covers the ability of the insured person to perform 11 activities, of a physical and cognitive nature, divided into three categories, as follows:
 - (a) Category 1: Ability to perform basic everyday activities
 - (b) Category 2: Cognitive capacity
 - (c) Category 3: Ability to perform basic housekeeping activities.

2. Categories

For the purposes of these criteria:

- (1) Category 1 ("basic everyday activities") comprises five activities, defined as follows:
 - (a) Mobility: means transferring, moving inside the home and moving outside the home. Transferring means the ability to get into and out of a chair or bed and includes the use of a walking stick, Zimmer frame or other support.
 - (b) Dressing: means putting on and removing clothes, but not tying shoelaces.
 - (c) Washing: means personal hygiene activities, including using a washbasin, showering or bathing, brushing teeth, combing hair and shaving.
 - (d) Eating and drinking: means intake of food and drink, but not including cooking
 - (e) Use of WC: means bowel movement and passing water.
- (2) Category 2 ("cognitive ability") comprises two elements, defined as follows:
 - (a) The ability to conduct one's daily life without the need for supervision means the patient is aware of possible danger or of dangerous situations posing a threat to their physical integrity and/or that of others. Supervision may be required for activities such as turning off taps, safe use of electrical equipment without danger of electrocution, safe use of natural gas including heating appliances and/or oven and going outside.
 - (b) The ability to communicate with others. The need for help may, for example, be caused by physical and/or cognitive impairments. These impairments may include physical elements, such as reduced hearing and/or vision, but only if and to the extent that these physical problems cannot be compensated for by appliances and/or other aids and the patient requires assistance from a third person in order to be able to communicate.
- (3) Category 3 ("basic housekeeping activities") consists of four activities relating specifically to the insured person and excluding any help required for other family members or persons, defined as follows:
 - (a) Preparing meals
 - (b) Cleaning the home
 - (c) Washing and ironing clothes
 - (d) Shopping for basic items and necessities, including food.

3. Ability to perform the activities in each category

In order to assess the ability of the insured person to perform the activities in Categories 1 to 3 defined in Part III 2. above, the doctor must indicate (by means of a tick in the appropriate box on the assessment form) the extent to which the insured person is able to perform the said activities without assistance, help or care provided by a third person, by reference to the situations indicated below. Only one situation per activity may apply.

(1) For Category 1:

- A = The patient is able to perform the activity without any help whatsoever and without having to be encouraged to perform it.
- B = The patient is able to perform the activity without help, but must be asked and encouraged to perform it.
- C = The patient can perform the activity only partly without help, for example due to physical or cognitive impairments, and needs either physical help or comprehensive guidance, i.e. direction and demonstration of the individual steps involved.
- D = The patient is completely reliant on help to perform the activity, for example due to physical or cognitive impairments, and needs comprehensive physical help and/or guidance and supervision.

Where mechanical or other devices allow the insured person to perform the activities mentioned, including independently transferring, they will be considered able to perform that activity without assistance or, depending on the circumstances, with partial assistance only. The devices referred to include, for example, walking sticks, hearing aids, Zimmer frames, wheelchairs, crutches, artificial limbs, orthopaedic soles or shoes, callipers, support stockings, orthopaedic corsets and special lavatory seats, but not alterations to the home, such as the installation of a special lift or bath.

For each of the mobility sub-activities, including transferring and moving around inside and outside the home, the doctor must indicate in the appropriate box on the assessment form, using the above scale from A to D, the ability to perform each of the sub-activities specified.

(2) For Category 2:

- A = No supervision or help required.
- B = Supervision or help required up to three times a day.
- C = Supervision or help required more than three times a day.

(3) For Category 3:

- A = No help required
- B = The patient can only perform the activity with help.

4. Time allocation for each activity in each category

For the purpose of estimating the number of hours of non-medical assistance and/or help and/or care required, the medical adviser must indicate a fixed standard amount of time (number of minutes per day) required for each activity, in accordance with the tables below:

(1) For Category 1:

Category 1	A	B	C	D
(a) Mobility: Transferring	-	5 min.	10 min.	15 min.
(a) Mobility: Moving around inside the home	-	5 min.	10 min.	15 min.
(a) Mobility: Moving around outside the home	-	-	5 min.	10 min.
(b) Dressing	-	5 min.	10 min.	20 min.
(c) Washing	-	15 min.	30 min.	60 min.
(d) Eating & drinking	-	15 min.	45 min.	80 min.
(e) Use of WC	-	10 min.	20 min.	45 min.

(2) For Category 2:

Category 2	A	B	C
(a) Supervision	-	30 min.	60 min.
(b) Communication	-	30 min.	60 min.

(3) For Category 3:

Category 3	A	B
(a) Preparing meals	-	30 min.
(b) Cleaning of the home	-	30 min.
(c) Washing and ironing of own clothes	-	30 min.
(d) Shopping (basic items such as food)	-	20 min.

5. Overall assessment and final recommendation as to the level of care needed

In determining the level of benefits to be paid to the insured person, the following criteria must be taken into account:

(a) Level 1

The insured person requires help in connection with at least three of the seven activities/abilities mentioned in Categories 1 and 2, with the proviso that:

- (i) "Mobility" in Category 1 is to be considered as one activity only.
- (ii) In Category 1, indications under at least C or D are required. If "mobility" is indicated, it must relate to "transferring".
- (iii) In Category 2, indications under B or C are required.
- (iv) The period for which care is required must be at least six months.
- (v) The total amount of time allocated in accordance with the standard tables for Categories 1, 2 and 3 together must amount to at least 120 minutes a day (equalling 60 hours a month).

(b) Level 2

The insured person requires help in connection with at least four of the seven activities and abilities mentioned in Categories 1 and 2, with the proviso that:

- (i) The criteria mentioned in 5(a)(i), (ii), (iii) and (iv) above must be satisfied.
- (ii) The total amount of time allocated in accordance with the standard tables for Categories 1, 2 and 3 together must amount to at least 240 minutes a day (equalling 120 hours a month).

(c) Level 3

The insured person requires help in connection with at least five of the seven activities and abilities mentioned in Categories 1 and 2, with the proviso that:

- (i) The criteria mentioned in 5(a)(i), (ii), (iii) and (iv) above must be satisfied.
- (ii) The total amount of time allocated in accordance with the standard tables for Categories 1, 2 and 3 together must amount to at least 360 minutes a day (equalling 180 hours a month).

Part IV

Criteria for children

Assessing children under the EPO's long-term care insurance scheme

A child is defined as an insured person aged 13 and under.

As in the case of insured persons aged 14 and over, the system provides for three needsrelated levels of long-term care. In the case of children over the age of three, an exceptionally high level of care can be granted under the hardship provision. The need for long-term care must apply for at least six months.

The level of care required is calculated by establishing the difference between the average age-related ability level of a healthy child (see Categories 1 and 2 below) and the ability level of the child in question, and working out how much extra time it takes every day to address that difference.

This type of assessment can only be made for children aged 18 months or over. Even healthy children under that age do not generally have the abilities assessed in Categories 1 and 2. Infants and young children are not independent in any aspect of daily life. The younger the child, the more difficult it is to assess on the basis of the ability level the level of care required above and beyond what an infant or young child would need under normal circumstances. Children have to reach a certain age before it is possible to ascertain how much special help and care they need, based on the deviation from the degree of independence one would normally expect at that age.

This is why infants up to the age of 18 months who require an exceptionally high degree of help are regarded as a group unto themselves and will be assigned level 1 support if needed. This presupposes that they have been diagnosed accordingly with e.g. major problems with eating and drinking. Examples of such diagnoses include cleft lip, cleft palate, cerebral palsy and coronary defects.

Category 3 of the assessment for insured persons aged 14 and over is not taken into consideration when assessing the level of care required by children because in this regard the complete dependence of children on others is taken for granted in the EPO member states.

1. Age-related ability levels

Healthy children reach physiological milestones at certain ages. The following tables indicate the average ability levels according to age for mobility, dressing, washing, eating and drinking and using the WC, as well as for awareness of dangers and the ability to communicate.

Category 1Abilities of a healthy child to perform basic everyday activities*(a) Mobility*Transferring and moving around inside the home

Age	Level of physiological ability
Up to 12 months*	D
12 to 18 months	C
18 to 30 months (2.5 years)	B
From 2.5 years	A
* If the child could theoretically be assigned to two categories, e.g. if it is exactly 12 months old, it is assigned to the next higher category, i.e. 12 to 18 months. This logic applies to all tables referring to age-related abilities.

In the case of moving around outside the home, it is assumed that assistance is required in the case of all children under seven years of age because they need to be supervised (level D). The maximum time allocation for mobility is 40 minutes.

(b) Dressing

Age	Level of physiological ability
Up to 18 months	D
18 to 36 months (3 years)	C
3 to 5 years	B
From 5 years	A

(c) Washing

Age	Level of physiological ability
Up to 24 months (2 years)	D
2 to 4 years	C
4 to 7 years	B
From 7 years	A

(d) Eating and drinking

Age	Level of physiological ability
Up to 18 months	D
18 to 30 months (2.5 years)	C
2.5 to 6 years	B
From 6 years	A

(e) Use of WC

Age	Level of physiological ability
Up to 24 months (2 years)	D
2 to 4 years	C
4 to 6 years	B
From 6 years	A

Definitions

A = The child is able to perform the activity without any help whatsoever and without having to be encouraged to perform it.

B = The child is able to perform the activity without help, but must be asked and encouraged to perform it.

C = The child can perform the activity only partly without help, for example due to physical or cognitive impairments, and needs either physical help or comprehensive guidance, i.e. direction and demonstration of the individual steps involved.

D = The child is completely reliant on help to perform the activity, for example due to physical or cognitive impairments, and needs comprehensive physical help and/or guidance and supervision.

Where mechanical or other devices allow the child to perform the activities mentioned, including independently transferring, the child will be considered able to perform that activity without assistance or, depending on the circumstances, with partial assistance only. The devices referred to include, for example. walking sticks, hearing aids, Zimmer frames, wheelchairs, crutches, artificial limbs, orthopaedic soles or shoes, callipers, support stockings, orthopaedic corsets and special lavatory seats, but not alterations to the home, such as the installation of a special lift or bath.

Cognitive capacity of a healthy child

- (a) Ability to recognise dangers and risks in everyday life and to remain unsupervised without the risk of causing harm to themselves or others

Age	Level of physiological ability
Up to 3 years	C
3 to 6 years	B
From 6 years	A

- (b) Capacity to communicate with others

Age	Level of physiological ability
Up to 12 months	C
1 to 4 years	B
From 4 years	A

Definitions

A = No help required

B = Intermittent supervision or help required

C = Constant supervision or help required

Time allocation for each activity in each category

For the purpose of estimating the number of hours of non-medical assistance and/or help and/or care required, the medical adviser must indicate a fixed standard amount of time (number of minutes per day) required for each activity, in accordance with the tables below:

For Category 1:

Category 1	A	B	C	D
(a)Mobility: Transferring	-	5 min.	10 min.	15 min.
(a)Mobility: Moving around inside the home	-	5 min.	10 min.	15 min.
(a)Mobility: Moving around outside the home	-	-	5 min.	10 min.
(b)Dressing	-	5 min.	10 min.	20 min.
(c)Washing	-	15 min.	30 min.	60 min.
(d)Eating and drinking	-	15 min.	45 min.	80 min.
(e)Use of WC	-	10 min.	20 min.	45 min.

For Category 2:

Category 2	A	B	C
(a) Supervision	-	30 min.	60 min.
(b) Communication	-	30 min.	60 min.

2. Determining the level of extra care required by a sick and/or disabled child

The level of extra care required is determined on the basis of the Table for assessing the level of care required by a sick and/or disabled child below and the child assessment form completed by the child's doctor.

The extra care required is the difference between the physiological ability level of the sick and/or disabled child and that of a healthy child of the same age.

When completed, the table provides an overview of the ability levels assessed in Category 1 (a) to (e) and Category 2 (a) and (b).

"Mobility" in Category 1 is to be considered as one activity only. Even healthy children under seven years of age need help when moving around outside the home, but they do not have regular medical appointments and therapy sessions over an indefinite period. Where a child under seven years of age has to attend such appointments, due consideration must be taken of the time this takes. If, from the time a child is seven (the age at which healthy children start to be independently mobile), help in getting to school is required, this too should be taken into consideration.

3. Level of care required

In assessing the level of care required by children, the following criteria apply:

Level 1 support

The child in question is less able than a healthy child of the same age with regard to at least three of the seven activities and abilities mentioned in Categories 1 and 2

- (i) "Mobility" in Category 1 is to be considered as one activity only, with a maximum time allocation of 40 minutes.
- (ii) In Category 1, indications under at least C or D are required. If "mobility" is indicated, it must relate to "transferring".
- (iii) In Category 2, indications under B or C are required.
- (iv) The period for which care is required must be at least six months.
- (v) The total amount of extra time allocated* must amount to at least 80 minutes a day (i.e. 40 hours a month).

Level 2 support

The child in question is less able than a healthy child of the same age with regard to at least four of the seven activities and abilities mentioned in Categories 1 and 2.

- (i) Criteria (i), (ii), (iii) and (iv) for Level 1 support must be met.
- (ii) The total amount of extra time allocated¹ must amount to at least 160 minutes a day (i.e. 80 hours a month).

Level 3 support

The child in question is less able than a healthy child of the same age with regard to at least five of the seven activities and abilities mentioned in Categories 1 and 2.

- (i) Criteria (i), (ii), (iii) and (iv) for Level 1 support must be met.
- (ii) The total amount of extra time allocated* must be at least 240 minutes a day (i.e. 120 hours a month).

4. Sample calculation

Case: child aged 6.5 years, microcephaly, ataxia, dysphagia, double incontinence

- The child's doctor completes the child assessment form:

	A	B	C
(a) Ability to recognise dangers and risks in everyday life and to remain unsupervised without risk of causing harm to themselves or others			X

With due regard to section 2, Determining the level of extra care required pursuant to Category 1 (a) to (e) and Category 2 (a) and (b), and having examined with a critical eye the ability levels indicated on the assessment form based on the doctor's diagnosis, also indicated in the latter's own words on the form, and resulting illness- or disability-related limitations and additional resources required, the medical advisor enters the following information in the table for assessing the level of care required by a sick and/or disabled child:

- I. The age-related average ability level and time allowance in minutes in the case of a healthy 6.5-year-old child.
- II. The illness- or disability-related ability level indicated in the assessment form and the related time allocation in minutes for the child in question.
- III. The number of activities for which the ability of the child in question is lower than that of a healthy child of the same age (if the number is < 3, long-term care is not needed; see section 3, Level of care required)
- IV. The difference in time allocations for (I) and (II).
- V. The total difference in time allocation.
- VI. The level of care required (see section 3, Level of care required).

Part V

Hardship provisions

1. Medical hardship

For a case to be classified as one of medical hardship, i.e. as requiring an exceptionally high level of care, the following criteria must be fulfilled:

1. The criteria for Level 3 support are fulfilled.
and
2. Constant supervision by a physically present carer is required at all times¹ because there is a high probability that the insured person's considerable degree of restless activity will cause them to endanger themselves or others and swift help must be available at all times. In this case, total benefits amounting to 125% of the basic salary, grade 1, step 4 (G1-4) are payable.
or
3. Constant supervision by a physically present carer is required at all times¹ because the insured person is on technical life-support equipment requiring unscheduled, immediate intervention on the carer's part.² In this case, total benefits amounting to 150% of the basic salary, grade 1, step 4 (G1-4) are payable.
or
4. The insured person has no use of their arms or legs, i.e. has no ability whatsoever to grasp, stand or walk.³ In this case, total benefits amounting to 150% of the basic salary, grade 1, step 4 (G1-4) are payable.

2. Financial hardship

For a case to be classified as one of financial hardship, the following criteria must be fulfilled:

1. The criteria for at least Level 1 support are fulfilled.
and

³ This applies not only where all limbs are paralysed but also e.g. where there is a high degree of contracture, rheumatic stiffness, a high level of tremor and rigidity in the case of Parkinson's disease, or athetosis in the case of Huntington's disease. It does not apply if the insured person can change position in bed unaided, turn the pages of a newspaper or hold a book themselves or hold a spoon or sippy cup to their mouth.

2. The insured person is in need of a nursing home or home care and the associated costs are not fully covered by their monthly income and the monthly income of other members of the joint household.¹

and

3. The insured person can provide evidence of their costs and income situation.

In such cases, total benefits up to 150% of the basic salary, grade 1, step 4 (G1-4), are payable. The additional benefit granted on the basis of financial hardship may not exceed any financial shortfall calculated in accordance with point 2 above.

Part VI

Procedure in the event of disputes

Any dispute relating to the level of long-term care benefits requested must follow the procedure outlined below:

The medical adviser makes an assessment of the level of care required and communicates to the EPO its medical opinion indicating the proposed level of benefits, if any, to be granted. This assessment is considered the first medical opinion according to Article 89(4) ServRegs. The insured person may challenge the medical opinion on the basis of which the President's decision is taken pursuant to Article 89(5) ServRegs. To this effect, the procedure described in Article 90 ServRegs applies.

¹ When determining the insured person's monthly income, the following are typically taken into account: EPO salary or pension payments, salary payments from other employers or sources, pension or other regular payments from any other social security system or source, reimbursements via the EPO health insurance scheme or any other health insurance, and LTC benefits granted by the EPO and/or under any other scheme. This list is not exhaustive; other elements may also be taken into consideration.

AM I OBLIGED TO FILE A DECLARATION
REGARDING THE LONG-TERM CARE INSURANCE SCHEME OR FILE AN APPLICATION FOR SUCH INSURANCE?*PERSONS COVERED BY COMPULSORY INSURANCE

Persons covered by compulsory insurance (employees; former employees receiving a pension for health reasons; former employees receiving an outright retirement pension; their dependent children; their children who receive an orphan's pension) do not need to submit a declaration regarding the long-term care insurance scheme.

Are you an employee?

Are you a former employee?

Do you have dependent children?

Do you receive an orphan's pension?

In this case, you and/or your child/children are covered by compulsory insurance and need take no further action.

PERSONS COVERED BY VOLUNTARY INSURANCE

Persons covered by voluntary insurance include the spouses of employees (provided that they are not employees themselves), former spouses entitled to personal maintenance and other persons entitled to maintenance.

You are married – your spouse is to be insured – their income is less than G4/4?

You need take no further action. Your spouse is insured.

If your spouse has no income or a gross income from employment of less than the G4/4 basic salary – EUR 4 663.38 (DE 01.07.2019) – there is no need to file a declaration regarding the long-term care insurance scheme if insurance cover is desired.

You are married – your spouse is to be insured – their income is greater than G4/4?

You must file an income declaration (Form "E").

If your gross income from employment (annual income divided by 12) exceeds the G4/4 basic salary, you must file a declaration regarding the long-term care insurance scheme on Form "E".

You are married – your spouse is not to be insured?

You must file a waiver declaration (Form "VE").

You were married and you pay maintenance for your former spouse – your former spouse is to be insured?

You are responsible for the maintenance of another person and this person is to be insured?

You must file a declaration regarding the long-term care insurance scheme (Form "FE").

PERSONS INSURED VOLUNTARILY ON AN INDIVIDUAL BASIS

The group of persons insured voluntarily on an individual basis comprises recipients of survivor's and orphan's pensions and former employees entitled to a deferred retirement pension.

You are the widow/widower of an EPO employee or former EPO employee – you wish to be insured – your gross income is less than G4/4?

You need take no further action. You are insured.

If widows/widowers of employees receiving a survivor's pension have no income or a gross income from employment of less than the G4/4 basic salary – EUR 4 663.38 (DE 01-07-2019), or the corresponding figure in the salary scale chosen – there is no need to file a declaration regarding the long-term care insurance scheme if insurance cover is desired.

You are the widow/widower of an EPO employee or former EPO employee – you wish to be insured – your gross income is greater than G4/4?

You must file an income declaration (no special form needed).

If your gross income from employment (annual income divided by 12) exceeds the G4/4 basic salary, you are requested to file an informal declaration of your income (no special form is needed).

You are the widow/widower of an EPO employee or former EPO employee – you do not wish to be insured?

You must file a waiver declaration (Form "VH").

Former spouses/recipients of a survivor's pension

Other dependants/recipients of an orphan's pension

Former spouses/recipients of a survivor's pension and other dependants/recipients of an orphan's pension are only insured if they file a corresponding declaration regarding the long-term care insurance scheme (Form "H").

Former employees with deferred retirement pension

Former employees entitled to a deferred retirement pension are only insured if they file a corresponding written declaration regarding the long-term care insurance scheme.

THE MONTHLY CONTRIBUTIONS

The following are examples of the calculation of contributions to the long-term care insurance scheme – as per salary scales for Germany dated 1 July 2019 and contribution rates valid as of 1 January 2020:

Employee contribution (example)

The basic salary of the employee amounts to EUR 9 000.00

0.6% of EUR 9 000.00 = EUR 54.00

Contribution of a former employee with outright retirement pension (example)

The former employee receives a retirement pension after 20 years of service calculated according to G8/5 (EUR 7 260.35). However, the basis for calculation is a retirement pension after at least 25 years of service.

0.5% of a basic retirement pension after 25 years of service, i.e. 0.6% of 50% of EUR 7 260.35 = EUR 21.78.

Spouse's contribution (examples)

Example 1: The employee's basic salary amounts to EUR 9 000.00.

His spouse has a gross income from employment from the previous year below G4/4, currently EUR 4 663.38:

0.6% of 6% (= 0.036%) of EUR 9 000.00 = EUR 3.24

Example 2: The basic salary of a part-time employee amounts to 50% of EUR 9 000.00. Their spouse has a gross income from employment from the previous year exceeding G4/4 EUR 4 663.38, e.g. EUR 6 000.00 per month:

0.6% of 6% (= 0.036%) of EUR 9 000.00 = EUR 3.24 plus

1.8% of EUR 1 336.62 (difference between EUR 6 000.00 and EUR 4 663.38)
= EUR 24.06 = EUR 27.30 total contribution

Contribution for a former spouse (fixed amount)

The contribution amounts to 1.8% of the G1/4 basic salary (EUR 3 274.67):

1.8% of EUR 3 274.67 = EUR 58.94

The dependent children of employees and former employees are insured automatically; no contribution is payable.

EPO LONG-TERM CARE INSURANCE SCHEME/ OTHER CARE INSURANCE

The benefits under the European Patent Office's long-term care insurance scheme are granted in the event of a need for care and are not offset by benefits from other care insurance schemes.

Before you conclude another care-insurance policy or continue such a policy, you are advised to check whether its benefits will be paid out alongside those of the EPO long-term care insurance scheme.

Circular No. 267¹
(29 May 2009, 22nd December 2011)

Revised version of Circular No 267 regarding basic and further vocational training

The President has decided to adopt as of 01.04.2009 the revised version of Circular No 267:

The guidelines for basic and further vocational training are intended to assist employees to perform their tasks well, in a rational way and to their own satisfaction. They are structured as follows:

Article 1 - Definition of objectives

Article 2 - Areas of training

Article 3 - Types of training

Article 4 - Allocation of responsibility

Responsibility for basic and further vocational training is carried at various levels in the Office. It is shared by:

- the staff member, especially by drawing attention to his needs, by participating actively in training, and by his willingness to pursue further training on his own account
- the line manager, especially by furthering the training of his staff, by releasing them for training and by encouraging them to put what they have learnt into practice
- the Directorate Learning and Development, which collects special needs and implements programmes within budget frameworks and, after consultation of the Training Committee, draws up the draft training budget and reports on training activities
- the Training Committee, which gives advice on the training budget and on measures proposed or implemented

Co-operation at all these levels is necessary to achieve the training objectives and optimise the allocation of resources. The annexes to the training guidelines contain forms for requesting training (for individuals and groups). These are intended to assist all those concerned in determining particular training needs.

Brian McGinley
Acting Vice-President DG4

¹ Circular 267 as amended herewith shall enter into force on 01 January 2012 and shall apply to all applications filed on or after that date.

GUIDELINES FOR BASIC AND FURTHER VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Having regard to the Service Regulations, and in particular Article 29 thereof, and having consulted the General Advisory Committee, the President has issued the following guidelines on basic and further vocational training.

Basic and further training includes all training supplementing school and professional qualifications obtained prior to appointment to the Office.

Article 1

Definition of objectives

The objectives of training are to further the skills and career development of Office staff, in order to help the staff member to:

- meet the present and future demands of his post
- prepare himself for assuming new duties and/or responsibilities.

Far from being restricted to particular periods, training is an ongoing activity which should be pursued throughout the staff member's career, providing him with opportunities to develop in his professional field.

Article 2

Areas of training

Training chiefly covers the following:

- explaining the Office's activities and the specific role and task of the staff member concerned
- improving language proficiency
- supplementing, consolidating and updating professional knowledge and skills
- offering opportunities to broaden professional experience through internal and external contacts.

Article 3

Types of training

Training can take the form of:

- self-training (private study, personal endeavour in the workplace, etc.)
- on-the-job training (with the assistance of a superior, tutor or colleague), supported by work organisation measures (networking, job diversification, job enrichment, job rotation, teamwork)
- courses, seminars or lectures inside or outside the Office
- contacts with internal or external experts.

Article 4

Allocation of responsibility

Responsibility for training is shared by:

the staff member, who

- draws attention to his training needs and, if necessary, makes suitable proposals
- participates actively in training and undertakes to complete it
- pursues self-training and on-the-job training on his own initiative

the line manager, who

- introduces his staff to their duties and supports on-the-job training
- takes work organisation measures to enrich the job
- identifies individual needs, evaluates the proposals submitted by his staff and informs them of the possibilities for training
- submits training requests to the Directorate Learning and Development via his superior
- allows and encourages his staff to put what they have learnt into practice
- evaluates the results of training at the individual level
- plans and organises the work of his unit so as to allow time for training the Directorate Learning and Development, with the task of:

- investigating needs associated with certain specific functions, advise and assist line managers and staff
- formulating specific proposals for training measures
- implementing such measures when approved, within the budget framework is responsible for the following:

- addressing overall needs on the basis of the requests formulated by line managers
- preparing the training budget (Article 3030)
- monitoring the training budget
- organising professional training
- approving contracts with external training bodies
- organising language training

- coordinating special training in (standard) EDP tools/software with Information Management
- organising the training of reporting officers and managers
- supporting training activities for the staff representation
- issuing an annual report on training activities

the Training Committee, which includes one representative from each Directorate General and one representative from each local Staff Committee. A member of Directorate Learning and Development will act as chairman. As a consultative body, the Training Committee will be invited to give opinions on:

- the proposals for budget Article 3030
- the extent to which the training measures proposed or implemented correspond to the objectives defined in Article 1
- the effectiveness of training activities as presented in the annual report issued by Principal Directorate Human Resources

Article 5
Entry into force and revision

These guidelines shall enter into force on 1 April 2009. These Guidelines will be subject of further review in the light of the results of the Professional Development Project.

ANNEX TO THE GUIDELINES FOR BASIC AND FURTHER VOCATIONAL TRAINING

1. Permission to take part in training

Permission to take part in courses, seminars, meetings and other events organised by the Office is given as a rule by the line manager responsible for the department concerned, in agreement with the respective authorising officer for Article 3030.

Approval is to be given if the training measure envisaged is in the Office's interests and is compatible with the proper functioning of services, and if the staff member qualifies for participation.

2. Financial assistance

With a view to fostering staff knowledge and skills, the Office may contribute to the cost of voluntary attendance at outside educational establishments and courses.

The key question is whether the training concerned serves the interests of the Office. In addition,

- the staff member must demonstrate the necessary qualities for participation
- the staff member must be prepared to attend the educational establishment or course until his training has been successfully completed
- the educational establishment or course must be of a standard appropriate to the needs of the staff member concerned
- no equivalent training must be available within the Office at the time required.

If the above conditions are fulfilled, the Office may on request make a financial contribution, normally not exceeding 50%, to cover the fees of the educational establishment and/or the cost of courses and examinations. Financial assistance is limited to an annual maximum of EUR 1 560 per staff member. The Office makes no financial contribution towards course costs of less than EUR 156.

The aforementioned annual maximum limit and the threshold below which no financial contribution is made shall, from and including 1 January 2013, be adjusted with effect from 1 January each year by applying the arithmetical average rate of salary adjustment decided by the Administrative Council under Article 64, paragraph 6 of the Service Regulations for Austria, Germany and the Netherlands and backdated to 1 July of the preceding year.

Regarding payment of advances, see the rules governing duty travel.

Applications for financial assistance must be submitted to the personnel department giving reasons and details of expenses, before enrolling for the course concerned. The personnel department reaches its decision on the basis of the aforementioned criteria after consulting the employee's superior, where appropriate.

3. Special leave

The grant of special leave to enable a staff member to attend an educational establishment or course is governed by Rule 6(3)c and d) of Circular No. 22. Requests for special leave are decided by the personnel department. If the further training is of longer duration than the special leave granted, the difference is deducted from the staff member's annual leave.

4. Evidence of completion of further training

A staff member who is granted financial assistance and/or special leave by the Office under point 3 above to enable him or her to take part in further training of the type specified in point 2 must submit the following documents to the personnel department on completion of the further training:

- a certificate of attendance from the institution providing the training,
- any certificates or diplomas obtained.

Circular No. 280

(10 May 2004)

Guidelines on selecting venues for vocational training

Basic and further vocational training, the subject of Circular No. 267, is a key element in the EPO's drive to become a model organisation. Courses designed and organised by the Office are central to all its vocational training programmes. From 1 June 2004 they will be subject to the following rules:

- If the participants all come from one duty station, the course must be held on the premises of that duty station.
- If the participants come from various duty stations, the course must be held on the premises of the duty station that is projected to incur the lowest travel costs.

Where there are technical or organisational grounds for not applying these rules, courses may by way of exception also be held at a duty station from which a relatively large number of participants come, or outside the Office, in the vicinity of the relevant duty station. The principle of economic resource management must be respected. Decisions on the approval of such exceptions will be taken by the Vice-President DG 4 in consultation with the Principal Directors 4.3 and 4.7.

If a course lasting at least two days is held on Office premises on cost grounds in keeping with these guidelines, the participants may be invited out to a restaurant for an evening meal. The guidelines on catering and other entertainment must be observed.

Circular No. 282

(30 June 2004)

Revision of Article 12 of the Pension Scheme Regulations concerning the transfer of pension rights

Previously, Article 12, paragraph 1, of the Pension Scheme Regulations (Pen-Regs) of the European Patent Office, in conjunction with Rule 12.1/1 thereto, stipulated that staff could only transfer pension rights acquired with the pension scheme to which they belonged directly prior to their entry into the service of the Office. Pension rights acquired under other pension schemes not directly prior to entry into the service of the Office could not be transferred.

At its meeting in June 2004, the Administrative Council decided that all pension rights acquired prior to entry into the service of the Office may henceforth be transferred into the EPO's pension scheme, regardless of whether or not they were acquired under the last pension scheme prior to joining the Office, provided that the schemes under which they were acquired permit such transfers and that the amounts concerned are actually transferred to the Office.

Amounts transferred from schemes other than the last one prior to entry into the service of the Office will be calculated on the basis of the following:

- the amount actually transferred to the EPO and the actual value date on which it enters the EPO's account,
- the staff member's basic salary on the date of transfer, and
- the age coefficient (actuarial coefficient).

Staff wishing to transfer pension rights acquired with a pension scheme other than the one to which they belonged directly prior to their entry into the service of the Office should submit a written application to:

Dept. 4.3.3 Compensation and benefit systems – Pension Administration, Room 361/1, Munich to arrive no later than 31 December 2004.

Application forms can be printed out from the intranet at DG4line > Personnel > Compensation & Benefits > Transfer of Pension Rights.

Forms are also available from your local supplies office. Please note that all applications must be submitted using this form.

For staff still in their probationary period, transfer applications must be made no later than six months after notification of confirmation of appointment as a permanent employee. For contract staff the time limit is six months after notification of confirmation of appointment. Contract staff who are subsequently appointed as permanent employees have a further opportunity to make a transfer application, within six months at the latest after notification of confirmation of their appointment.

Applications to transfer pension rights from the last pension scheme prior to entry into the service of the Office, submitted by staff recruited before 1 July 2004, will be processed in accordance with the previous regulations.

For more information about the revision of Article 12 PenRegs please see the brochure entitled "Information on transferring pension rights" which will be distributed to all staff at the beginning of July 2004. This brochure is also available on the intranet at

Treatment of same-sex marriages and registered same-sex partnerships for the purposes of the Service Regulations

1. Some contracting states have opened up the institution of marriage to persons of the same sex. With a view to taking account of all the different concepts of marriage in the contracting states, the Office some time ago requested the opinion of the Administrative Council on the treatment of same-sex marriages under the Service Regulations.
2. In the light of debate at the 98th meeting of the Administrative Council, the President decided that a permanent employee qualifies for entitlements provided for married employees if the marriage is recognised as valid under the law of the contracting state concerned. At present this applies to Belgium, the Netherlands and Spain, to Norway with effect from 1 January 2009 and to Sweden with effect from 1 May 2009.
3. With effect from the dates given in paragraph 4 below, the Office treats registered same-sex partnerships as equal to marriages provided that they establish a legal relationship of mutual dependence between the partners and that the couple has no access to legal marriage at the time when the partnership is registered. At present this applies to Austria, Croatia, the Czech Republic, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Hungary, Iceland, Luxembourg, Norway (for partnerships registered before 1 January 2009), Portugal, Slovenia, Sweden (for partnerships registered before 1 May 2009), Switzerland and the United Kingdom. In all other cases, the decision to treat a registered same-sex partnership as marriage will be taken upon request of the employee concerned, who must indicate which provisions of the contracting state's law are the basis for that request.
4. The President's decision as regards marriages applies retroactively, which means that benefits are made available as of either the date of marriage or the date of joining the Office, whichever is the later.

The President's decision as regards partnerships in Denmark, Finland, Germany, Hungary, Iceland, Norway (for partnerships registered before 1 January 2009), Sweden (for partnerships registered before 1 May 2009) and the United Kingdom is applicable from 1 July 2006.

The President's decision as regards partnerships in Croatia, the Czech Republic, France, Luxembourg, Portugal, Slovenia and Switzerland is applicable from 1 July 2009.

The President's decision as regards partnerships in Austria is applicable from 1 January 2010.

Permanent employees applying for vacancies to be filled on contract

1. Permanent employees shall be eligible to apply for temporary duties published in notices of vacancies to be filled on contract in their existing grade group.
- 2.¹ Notices of vacancies to be filled on contract shall indicate that permanent employees are invited to apply. Should a permanent employee be selected for a vacancy in his existing grade group, he will be assigned to the temporary duties advertised.
- 3.² Such assignment shall not affect any aspect of his permanent employment; for example, service on temporary assignment will be taken into account for the purposes of step-advancement and obtaining a higher grade.
4. The releasing department may decide, in co-ordination with personnel department, to replace the permanent employee for the duration of the temporary assignment.
5. When the temporary assignment ends, the permanent employee shall resume his former duties in the releasing department.
6. The present circular shall enter into force on 1 October 2005, and shall apply to all vacancy notices to be filled on contract which are published as from that date. One year after its entry into force, its operation shall be reviewed.

Work permits no longer needed in Germany for family members of an EPO employee forming part of the employee's household

The German Ministry of Justice has notified the EPO (letter of 1 February 2005, ref.: Z B 5 - 9515/6-7SH6-Z4 1229/2004) that, following the entry into force on 1 January 2005 of the Federal Law on Immigration (German Federal Law Gazette I 2004, page 1 950 ff), members of the family of an EPO employee forming part of the employee's household no longer need a work permit, irrespective of nationality.

The Office will issue certificates to this effect, on request.

This circular supersedes Circular No. 37 of 5 July 1979.

Circular No. 295
(30 October 2006)

Transfer of pension rights

Information for all EPO staff and pensioners who have acquired pension rights in the Netherlands

1. In principle, previously acquired pension rights can be transferred to the EPO scheme under the conditions laid down in Article 12(1) and Rule 12.1/1 of the Pension Scheme Regulations. However, tax obstacles have made it very difficult to transfer pension rights acquired in the Netherlands. Only recently following the Dutch Decree CPP/2003/200M and after long discussions with the Dutch tax authorities, has a procedure been agreed to allow EPO employees to request tax-free transfers of pension rights without having to give the required guarantee on the deferred income tax assessment, but only a declaration to the EPO.
2. Over the years, various publications have opened transfer windows limited to certain groups of applicants. The legal complexities have in most cases made it very hard even to ascertain whether earlier applications for transfer of Dutch pension rights were formally correct. It has therefore been decided that all employees must apply again, even if they have already filed an application, and that a new time limit is to be set for all staff concerned.
3. To transfer pension rights acquired in the Netherlands, you must apply in writing within a six-month period starting on 15 November 2006 and ending on 14 May 2007. Unfortunately, applications submitted after the time limit cannot be considered. For staff members newly recruited or still in their probationary period as from 15 November 2006, the time limit for application provided for in the EPO Pension Scheme Regulations (Rule 12.1/1 (vi)) will apply.
4. Should your pension scheme in the Netherlands (e.g. AOW) not allow pension rights transfers, you will not be able to benefit from this option. All employees concerned, especially pensioners, are encouraged to check with their scheme if transfers are possible. You must nevertheless ensure that your application is filed within the time limit set out above.
5. Subject to the proviso in paragraph 4, first sentence, the following employees may request a transfer:
 - (i) permanent employees of the EPO
 - (ii) contract staff who have a minimum of five years' service
 - (iii) former employees who retired on or before 15 November 2006, subject to certain conditions under Dutch law.

The descendant or spouse of a deceased employee may not ask for a transfer.

6. Please use the application form on the intranet¹ or available on request from Department 4.3.3 and send it in good time to:

Circular No. 299

The use of assessment centres in management selection procedures in the Office

Dear colleagues,

From 2003, the Office encouraged the use of assessment centres in order to improve the selection procedure for A6 management posts in DG 1 and DG 2. The aim was to ensure that the management skills of candidates could be evaluated in a fully transparent and consistent way. In the course of 2005 a similar practice was extended to A5 and A6 management posts office wide. The assessment centre procedure has become widely accepted within the Office as a means of providing impartial data on candidates' management qualities.

Candidates are assessed in accordance with a management competency model, comprising a set of clearly defined criteria which reflect the essential management qualities needed at the Office. The assessment centre focuses on management behaviour, rather than on specific technical skills for individual posts.

An assessment centre is an important part of the selection procedure, and the data gathered on individual candidates may be used by the selection board to gain a broader picture of the candidate's management style or management potential. It is not, however, the only information source for the selection board's deliberations.

Assessment centres are run on behalf of the Office by external service providers, following a tender procedure concluded in September 2005.

This circular introduces guidelines for the use of assessment centres in the Office.

Curt Edfjäll

Vice-President DG 4

GUIDELINES FOR THE USE OF ASSESSMENT CENTRES IN MANAGEMENT SELECTION PROCEDURES IN THE OFFICE

1. The use of an assessment centre in the selection procedure for A5 and A6 posts does not restrict the authority or competence of the selection board.
 - (a) An assessment centre shall generally, at the discretion of the selection board, be used in the selection procedure for any A5 or A6 post within the Office for which the President is the appointing authority. A mention of this shall be included in the notice of competition.
 - (b) An assessment centre can be organised either as an individual assessment centre or as a group assessment centre. A group assessment centre will have between 5 and 15 candidates. In cases where there are fewer than five candidates, an individual assessment will be used.
 - (c) The assessment centre shall be conducted by an external service provider. The results of the assessment centre shall be passed on to the selection board as input for its deliberations and recommendations.
 - (d) The selection board shall decide which candidates will participate in the assessment centre
2. The selection board may, at the request of any of its members, appoint an internal panel to oversee the procedure of group assessment centres and to ensure that there are no irregularities. Any irregularities in the procedure noticed by the panel shall be reported to the selection board.
 - (a) The members of the internal panel must be selected from the list of nine experts nominated annually, three nominated by management, three by the Central Staff Committee and three by the personnel department.
 - (b) The panel shall consist of one representative from management, one from the staff representation and one from the personnel department. Members of the panel who observe candidates during the execution of the assessment centre exercises must be of the same grade as or of a higher grade than the candidates concerned. To ensure impartiality none of the nominated experts shall be a member of the selection board. The panel members shall exercise the greatest discretion in respect of information from the assessment centre and regarding the selection procedure.
3. Candidates participating in an assessment centre shall receive, with their invitation, notification of the management competencies to be assessed, and of the type and duration of the tests.
4. All candidates participating in an assessment centre shall be invited to an interview.
5. A personal report outlining strengths and development areas in relation to the defined set of management competencies shall be drawn up by the external service provider for each candidate. This personal report shall be communicated to the selection board and to each internal candidate.

- (a) Once the selection procedure has been finalised, the Personnel Department shall invite each internal candidate to a personal feedback session on the assessment centre report. During this exercise, the Personnel Department shall help the candidate to draw up a plan for future development, taking into account the needs of the individual within the wider context of the organisation and the framework of the training budget. The draft plan shall then be discussed between the individual candidate and his line manager, whose support is needed for the successful implementation of the development plan.
- (b) During this exercise, the internal candidate will also be asked for his permission to include the report in his personal file. At the same time, the internal candidate shall be informed that the report, if included in the personal file, may be used by future selection boards for up to three years.
- (c) External candidates shall receive oral feedback from the external service provider regarding their individual performance in the assessment centre. They shall not, however, be entitled to a copy of the written report.

These guidelines shall enter into force with immediate effect.

Guidelines on Office crèches

1. Office crèches

Office crèches are facilities which are subsidised by the Office.

At those places of employment where internal Office demand exceeds availability on the local open market, the Office will at least continue to provide those Office facilities already in place whilst simultaneously encouraging the local community to expand the facilities on offer to staff of the Office.

2. Parental contribution for Office crèches

The parental contribution is determined by the general fee schedule of the crèche operator. The contribution will be paid directly to the crèche operator.

3. Entry into force

This Circular will enter into force on 1 September 2021.

Circular No. 302
(20 December 2007)

Guidelines for applying Article 54 of the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the European Patent Office

Prolongation of service and communication of the date of retirement and annual leave plans

Article 54 of the Service Regulations has been amended to allow permanent employees to work beyond the age of 65 (up to 68) under mutual agreement and to introduce the obligation to communicate the date of retirement and annual leave plans before retiring.

The present Circular is applicable only to those employees for whom the appointing authority is the President of the Office.

I. Prolongation of service beyond the age of 65 (up to 68) under mutual agreement

1. The decision on prolongation of service lies with the President of the Office.
2. A permanent employee in active service may submit a request to carry on working beyond the age of 65 and up to 68 at the latest nine months prior to the date on which he reaches the age of 65.
3. The request shall be submitted via the normal line management channels to the President. A copy of the request will be sent by the immediate superior to the Personnel Department. The request shall indicate the desired duration of prolongation.
4. With the administrative assistance of the Personnel Department and after consulting the employee's superiors, the President will decide on the request. The decision shall be taken with due consideration to the interest of the service, as laid down in the Annex. The decision shall also specify the agreed duration of prolongation of service.
5. The employee concerned shall be notified of the decision within two months from the date on which the request was made and, at the latest, seven months prior to the date on which he reaches the age of 65. The Personnel Department shall also be informed of the decision and charged with its administrative implementation.
6. The prolongation of service expires at the end of the agreed period, at which time the employee is retired automatically.

7. Should the employee wish for a subsequent prolongation, he shall, four months prior to the end of the agreed period, submit a new request according to paragraphs 3, 4 and 5 above, except for the time limit laid down in paragraph 5, which shall be three months prior to the end of the first agreed period of prolongation.
8. In exceptional cases, the Office may waive the time limits set out in paragraphs 2 and 7.

II. Information on the date of commencement of retirement and annual leave plans before retiring

A permanent employee shall inform the Personnel Department in writing, via his immediate superior, of the date of his retirement and of his annual leave plans, at least three months prior to retirement.

III. Entry into force and transitional measures

1. These guidelines will enter into force on 1 January 2008.
2. The time limits for the request and decision on prolongation of service laid down in paragraphs 2 and 5 of section I shall not apply to employees who reach the age of 65 between 1 January and 30 September 2008. Any employee to whom this applies and who is interested in the prolongation of his service shall submit a request by 31 January 2008.
3. Notwithstanding the time limit set in section II, employees who wish to retire between 1 January and 1 April 2008 shall inform the Personnel Department of the date of commencement of their retirement and of their annual leave plans by 31 January 2008.

ANNEX

EVALUATION OF THE INTEREST OF THE SERVICE

A two-step approach will be followed to evaluate the interest of the service relating to the prolongation of service of an employee after the age of 65. The first step will comprise the assessment of the need of the service. Only if the need has been established will the suitability of the employee to fulfil the identified need be assessed.

1. Criteria relating to the service are, inter alia:
 - workload in a specific area
 - necessity of continuity to complete a task or a project
 - management of succession planning (e.g. knowledge transfer, age structure, training needs)
 - other organisational reasons
2. Criteria relating to the individual employee are, inter alia:
 - appropriate qualifications and expertise
 - performance record
 - estimated work capacity
 - staff member's motivation
3. The employee may be requested to undergo a medical examination in order to establish whether it is likely that the physical requirements of the post will continue to be met during the prolongation of the service.

New time limits¹

From 1 October 2006, staff requesting allowances and reimbursements must observe certain time limits

On 30 June 2006, the Administrative Council amended Articles 65 and 76 ServRegs, introducing time limits for requesting allowances and reimbursements. The new rules, effective from 1 October 2006, are explained below.

Article 65 (Payment of remuneration)

Amended sub-paragraph 1(c), new sub-paragraph 1(d)

Allowances under Article 67(1) ServRegs, i.e.

- household allowance
- dependants' allowance
- education allowance
- expatriation allowance
- installation allowance
- rent allowance
- language allowance

must be requested within six months of the date on which entitlement commences, unless the ServRegs provide otherwise (as they do for the education allowance). Allowances requested after that period will be granted retroactively but only for the preceding six months - except in duly substantiated cases of force majeure, such as a long illness.

Any change which may affect entitlement to any of the above allowances (e.g. marriage, divorce, dependent child's completion of education) must be notified immediately to the President of the Office (via personnel department).

Article 76 (Reimbursement and advances)

New paragraph 3

Reimbursement of the expenses referred to in Article 76(1) ServRegs, i.e. incurred

- in the course of or in connection with the performance of EPO duties
- on taking up appointment, transfer or leaving the service
- on taking home leave must be requested within six months of the date on which they were incurred. Requests submitted after that period, or (as in the case of removal expenses) another time limit laid down in the ServRegs, are reimbursable only in duly substantiated cases of force majeure, such as a long illness. The expenses concerned are those referred to in Section 4 of the ServRegs, i.e.

- daily subsistence allowance (Articles 77 and 78)
- duty travel expenses (Articles 77 and 79)
- other travel expenses – on taking up appointment, transfer, home leave, or leaving the service (Article 80)
- removal expenses (Article 81)
- entertainment expenses (Article 82)

In the past, requests for the grant or adjustment of monthly allowances or for reimbursement of travel, removal or entertainment expenses were sometimes submitted a long time after the event. This caused extra administrative work and complicated the request process generally. The time limits in force from 1 October 2006 will help to keep payments up to date and allow requests for adjustments to be dealt with promptly.

This notice is purely for information; only the amended ServRegs provisions have legal force.

Circular No. 308

(25 August 2008)

Permanent employees on fixed-term contracts in a higher grade, group of grades or category

1. The present circular concerns cases where permanent employees apply for a fixed-term contract governed by the "Conditions of employment for contract staff at the European Patent Office" in a higher grade, group of grades or category. Contracts for posts in grades A6 and A7 are expressly excluded from the scope of application of the present circular.
2. A permanent employee selected for duties in a higher grade, group of grades or category for a specific period shall be granted a fixed-term contract governed by the above Conditions of employment. Notwithstanding the express provisions of this circular, such contract shall not affect any aspect of his permanent employment.
3. For the period of the fixed-term contract, the permanent employee shall be assigned to the grade and step corresponding to the duties performed in accordance with Article 49(11) of the Service Regulations. In no case may the performance of higher duties result in a reduction in total net remuneration.
4. However, for the duration of the contract, Titles IV and V of the Service Regulations shall continue to apply to permanent employees holding fixed-term contracts within the meaning of the present circular in lieu of Articles 9 and 10 of the above Conditions of employment.
5. During the contractual period, the permanent employee may be promoted within his former group of grades.
6. Notwithstanding paragraph 5, the contract shall also expressly provide that, upon its expiry, the permanent employee shall resume his former duties in the releasing department or be reinstated in a post corresponding to his former grade within his group of grades.
7. During the contractual period, the releasing department may decide to substitute the permanent employee.
8. The experience gained by a permanent employee during a fixed-term contract shall count towards advancement to a higher step when he returns to a lower grade. Likewise, the experience gained in performing higher duties shall be assessed by the Promotion Board.
9. In the event of termination of service after reinstatement as a permanent employee to his former lower grade, the pension benefits accrued for the period of the fixed-term contract shall be calculated according to Rule 5/3 of the Pension Scheme Regulations. In the event of retirement during the fixed-term contract, the rate of pension shall be calculated in accordance with Article 10(1) of the Pension Scheme Regulations.

10. The present circular shall enter into force on 1 September 2008 and be effective only for contract vacancies published as from that date. The present circular amends paragraph 2 of Circular No. 289 that shall read as follows: "Notices of vacancies to be filled on contract shall indicate that permanent employees are invited to apply. Should a permanent employee be selected for a vacancy in his existing grade group, he will be assigned to the temporary duties advertised."

applying Article 65(3) of the Service Regulations and its implementing rule*Investment strategies and procedures for the salary savings plan:*Article 1 – Introduction

At its 115th meeting in October 2008, the Administrative Council adopted the salary savings plan (SSP) as a complement to the New Pension Scheme applicable to employees taking up their duties on or after 1 January 2009.

In accordance with section I.C(4) of the Implementing Rule to Article 65(3) of the Service Regulations, the Office offers SSP participants the three investment strategies described in section 2 below.

Participants may choose to change their investment strategy once per calendar year. The procedure for communicating this choice is laid down in section 3 below.

The procedure for payment of the SSP lump sum on termination of service is set out in section 4 below.

The investment risk is borne by the participants.

Article 2 – Investment strategies

The Office offers the following three investment strategies through investment manager Fidelity International. More detailed information on the funds is available via the SSP portal provided by Fidelity at www.epo-ssp.eu and in the annex.

(1) Strategy no. 1: Life-cycle strategy as default option

The life-cycle strategy is the core strategy of the SSP and is initially applied by default to all new participants. There are several life-cycle funds covering a range of target dates spread out at five-year intervals. Also referred to as age-based or target-date investment, the life-cycle strategy is aimed at long-term growth while minimising the portfolio's volatility as the target date approaches.

(2) Strategy no. 2: Conservative multi-asset strategy

The conservative multi-asset strategy is based on a conservative portfolio with a maximum of 20% equity. It is designed to generate moderate long-term capital growth through investment in a range of global assets providing exposure to equities, bonds, commodities, property and cash. The aim is to achieve a return on investment above the average return on government bonds, based on a conservative risk profile.

(3) Strategy no. 3: Cash strategy

The cash strategy is based on a Euro Cash Fund. This fund avoids high volatility as it follows a very conservative and steady approach, with no exposure to investments which have higher volatility and risk/return profiles than short-term cash positions. This makes it a low-risk option well suited to short periods of investment with a relatively low expected return but therefore less interesting for long-term investments.

Article 3 – Procedure for communicating a change in investment strategy

For the first six months of employment at the Office, the life-cycle strategy is compulsory and cannot be changed. After that, SSP participants can choose to change the strategy for investment of both their existing savings and their future contributions once per calendar year. They will be reminded of this possibility towards the end of the initial six-month period. They can make the change via the online portal at www.epo-ssp.eu.

Participants may choose one of the three currently available investment strategies. If they choose strategy No. 1, they may select any one of the available target-date funds.

If they change their strategy on or before the 15th of the month, the change will be applied to their savings by the 20th of that month. If the change is made after the 15th, it will take effect by the 20th of the following month. The same goes for their future contributions: a change made on or before the 15th of the month will be applied as from the contribution paid that month; a change made later in the month will be processed in the following month.

For participants who do not opt to change their investment strategy after the initial six month period, the default life-cycle strategy will continue to apply. However, the option of switching to a different strategy will remain open to them indefinitely.

Article 4 – Procedure for payment of SSP lump sum on termination of service

The provisional amount accumulated by a participant in their individual salary savings account, after deduction of any social security contributions, is calculated during their last month of service. This provisional amount (or a portion of it) is then paid out as a lump sum with their last salary.

The individual account will be cleared in the month following termination of service. The final amount of the SSP lump sum will be calculated on the basis of the share value observed at the latest on the fifth working day of that month. If the final amount is higher than the provisional amount, the balance will be paid out to the former employee; if it is lower, the former employee must repay the difference within one month of the date of notification of the final calculation.

Article 5 – Entry into force

This circular enters into force on 1 July 2021.

Circular No. 319

(14 December 2009, 1 March 2012, 1 April 2014, 30 July 2015¹)

Guidelines on duty travel

(See also Articles 77, 78 and 79 Service Regulations)

Rule 1

Implementing the duty travel budget

- (1) Limited funds are available for duty travel every year. Pursuant to the Financial Regulations, budgets must be used with thrift and economy. Meetings should therefore be scheduled so as to use the duty travel budget as efficiently as possible.
- (2) Duty travel may only be approved if it is necessary, that is, if the business cannot reasonably be conducted in any other way, such as by video conference.
- (3) If a permanent employee has to undertake duty travel for several purposes, the events should be combined whenever possible and approved by the budget holder(s) concerned.
- (4) Internal EPO meetings should in principle be held at the place of employment at which the majority of participants are employed.
- (5) In accordance with the provisions of Article 77(1), duty travel at the place of employment does not create entitlement to the daily subsistence allowance. Duty travel cost at the place of employment will be compensated by a lump-sum amount. The lump-sum amount is equivalent to the cost of a one day ticket for use of the public transport network at the place of employment. These lump-sum amounts will be updated regularly on the basis of the cost of public transport and published on the intranet. For the application of this paragraph, the place of employment shall be regarded as the radius up to 25 km from the address of the Office premises where the permanent employee is employed.
- (6) Pursuant to Article 77 (4), transport between Office premises at the place of employment is not duty travel.
- (7) Flights on the main routes shall be booked on the basis of the lowest fare available at the time of booking in the intended travel class. Derogations may be explicitly granted by the budget holder in duly substantiated exceptional situations.

¹ See CA/D 10/14 Article 61 and 62.

Rule 2

Submitting duty travel requests

- (1) Before submitting a request for duty travel, the permanent employee must obtain the approval of his line manager for him to be absent from his place of employment, except where the provisions of Communiqué No. 45 apply.
- (2) Duty travel requests must be submitted via the electronic duty travel system in MyFIPS. The duty travel request will then be automatically forwarded to the budget holder(s) and copied electronically to the permanent employee's line manager. If the line manager disagrees with the permanent employee's absence, he may ask the budget holder(s) to stop the duty travel request, except where the provisions of Communiqué No. 45 apply. Where there is disagreement between the line manager and the budget holder(s), the opinion of the line manager will prevail. No duty travel may be booked until it has been approved by the budget holder(s).
- (3) Approval of the duty travel request by the budget holder(s) is communicated electronically, in the form of a duty travel order, to the permanent employee and the Office's travel agency. Once the permanent employee has received the electronic approval, he should make his travel bookings and, where appropriate, any hotel reservation through the Office's travel agency, bearing in mind the provisions of Rule 3(2).
- (4) On his return from duty travel, the permanent employee should submit his electronic duty travel claim to HR Travel Administration for final settlement.

Daily subsistence costs (Article 78 ServRegs)

- (1) The increase in the daily subsistence allowance to cover miscellaneous expenses within the meaning of Article 78(1)(f) ServRegs is 3.82%. Examples of miscellaneous expenses are: administrative charges for use of a credit card, use of the internet, local transport at the travel destination (excluding transport to and from the airport) and use of a private mobile phone.
- (2) In cases where expenditure on accommodation (room, breakfast and taxes) exceeds 60% of the daily subsistence allowance, payment of a 30% supplement pursuant to Article 78(4) ServRegs is made, on condition that the accommodation has been recommended and booked via the Office's travel agency, or is part of a conference arrangement approved by the budget holder(s).
- (3) If the permanent employee has incurred unavoidable daily subsistence costs which cannot reasonably be considered as being covered by the daily subsistence allowance, the budget holder(s) may approve an exceptional reimbursement. Such reimbursement must be duly justified in writing and based on original receipts.

- (4) Where, pursuant to Rule 4(12), the permanent employee is authorised to organise his own travel arrangements or has extended his travel for private reasons, the departure and arrival times for the daily subsistence allowance calculation are those which would have applied without such private arrangements.

Rule 4

Reimbursement of transportation expenses (Article 79 ServRegs)

- (1) With the exception of the travel referred to in paragraphs 4, 6 to 9 and 12, all travel has to be booked via the Office's travel agency.
- (2) For a journey of 400 km or less and involving no sea crossing, first-class travel by train is considered to be the most economical mode of transport.
- (3) For a journey of over 400 km, the permanent employee is authorised to travel by air, on the following conditions:
 - (a) In the case of travel between the Office's places of employment, the tariff chosen should be the most economical fare at the time of the booking for a direct-flight business-class ticket providing the flexibility to reschedule or cancel. If, exceptionally, it is not possible or feasible to travel back on such a ticket, the Office will allow a single flight with another airline.
 - (b) For all other flights within Europe, the cheapest flexible business-class fare available should be chosen, irrespective of the airline used.
 - (c) For business-class flights outside Europe, the arrangements negotiated by the Office are mandatory, unless they involve more than one stopover in each direction and the additional travel time compared with a direct flight is more than three hours each way. In such circumstances, the cheapest flexible fare available should be chosen (direct flight, or one stopover if no direct flight is available), irrespective of the airline flown.
 - (d) If, exceptionally, overriding scheduling or operational constraints require a deviation from the above rules, the budget holder(s) may authorise the use of specific flights or airlines.
- (4) Where, in the interests of the Office, the permanent employee is requested by the budget holder(s) to travel by his own car, he is entitled to the kilometric allowance applicable at the permanent employee's place of employment, as set out in the Annex to the present Guidelines. Special charges, such as tolls or car ferry charges, will be reimbursed on the basis of original receipts.
- (5) For duly justified reasons, the budget holder(s) may request the permanent employee to travel by a different mode of transport or a different class from that applicable under these provisions. The permanent employee may however refuse to travel on a non-flexible flight ticket.
- (6) Taxi costs are subsidiary expenses within the meaning of Article 79(2) ServRegs. They will be reimbursed in the following circumstances;

- (a) Public transport is not available or cannot be used for justified reasons, such as very heavy or bulky luggage being transported for Office purposes (where possible, prior approval should be obtained from the budget holder(s)).
 - (b)
 - (i) Taxi costs will be reimbursed for travel to the airport, port or trainstation if the plane, boat or train is scheduled to depart before 09.00 hrs or after 20.00 hrs.
 - (ii) Taxi costs will be reimbursed for travel from the airport, port or train station if the plane, boat or train arrives after 20.00 hrs.
 - (c) Permanent employees in job group 2 and higher will be refunded the taxi cost to and from the airport, port, or train station without the limitations set out in (b).
 - (d) On the recommendation of the Office's Occupational Health Physician.
- (7) Taxis should, whenever possible, be shared with other staff members and the fare reimbursement claimed by the permanent employee who paid the taxi driver.
 - (8) Except for the provisions of paragraph 9, reimbursement of taxi costs must be claimed on the basis of original receipts.
 - (9) For transport to and from airports at the EPO's places of employment, a lump-sum amount is paid to compensate for use of public transport or, subject to paragraph 6, taxis. These lump-sum amounts will be updated regularly on the basis of the cost of public transport and the fares charged by taxi providers. Information on the public transport available and the names of taxi providers offering their services for the amounts reimbursed will be published on the intranet.
 - (10) Permanent employees using their own car for transport to and from the airport at their place of employment will be reimbursed the lump-sum amounts referred to in paragraph 9, subject to the conditions set out in paragraph 6, for the start and end of their duty travel, respectively.
 - (11) The budget holder(s) may authorise the use of a rental car, if this is the most economical mode of transport. The car rental must include full insurance and cover accidents involving any passenger who may make use of the car in the interests of the Office. If the car rental period includes private travel time, a proportional amount will be charged to the permanent employee for the number of kilometres or days driven for private reasons.
 - (12) A permanent employee may be authorised by the budget holder(s) to organise his own travel arrangements for journeys to destinations in the EPO member states. If so, he will be paid a lump-sum amount for transport expenses, corresponding to 50% of the average kilometric allowance rate for Germany, the Netherlands and Austria as set out in the Annex to the present Guidelines.

- (13) Permanent employees who organise their own travel arrangements are liable for risks such as cancellation fees and car, passenger and rental car insurance. Any time spent in excess of the approved duty travel is not considered as working time and should therefore be recorded as leave.

Extended duty travel (Article 78(6) ServRegs)

- (1) For the first two months of extended duty travel, the permanent employee is entitled to the full daily subsistence allowance. For the third month, 40% of the daily subsistence allowance is paid. As from the fourth month, 25% of the daily subsistence allowance is paid.
- (2) If, during extended duty travel, the permanent employee is required to undertake duty travel or takes leave, payment of the daily subsistence allowance is not suspended. Other duty travel expenses are payable in accordance with Article 79 ServRegs.
- (3) The permanent employee is entitled to leave on public holidays at the location of the extended duty travel.
- (4) The daily subsistence allowance will be paid in monthly instalments for the duration of the extended duty travel.
- (5) Extended duty travel may not continue beyond 12 months.

Rule 6

Receipts

- (1) It is not necessary to submit receipts for any duty travel expenses compensated for by lump-sum amounts under the provisions of these Guidelines or covered by the daily subsistence allowance referred to in Article 78(1) and (2) ServRegs.
- (2) For reimbursement of duty travel expenses not falling under paragraph 1, the permanent employee must attach scanned evidence to his electronic statement of duty travel expenses for amounts in excess of EUR 50 per item.
- (3) Expenditure not exceeding EUR 50 per item may be reimbursed on the basis of a personal declaration by the permanent employee concerned.
- (4) In order to allow the Office to perform checks, the permanent employee must keep :
 - (a) original receipts of duty travel expenses not covered by a lump sum;
 - (b) original receipts of expenses for which the lump sum for high accommodation expenditure is paid (Rule 3(2));
 - (c) (electronic) boarding passes of flights

Such evidence must be kept until the full reimbursement of the duty travel expenses is made.

- (5) When duty travel is funded by external providers, the budget holder(s) may require original receipts of all the duty travel expenses incurred.

Office's Pension Scheme Regulations:
transitional arrangements

The Office's New Pension Scheme Regulations and the salary savings plan are in principle applicable only to those members of the Office's staff referred to in Article 1 of the Service Regulations who first joined the Office on or after 1 January 2009.

In addition to those members of staff referred to in Article 1 of the Service Regulations who were in post on 1 January 2009 and were members of the Office's pension scheme on 31 December 2008, the following employees are members of the system established by the Office's Pension Scheme Regulations and do not participate in the salary savings plan:

1. permanent or contract staff taking up their duties on or after 1 January 2009 who were employed at the Office as contract staff on 31 December 2008;
2. permanent or contract staff taking up their duties on or after 1 January 2009 who had ended a previous period of employment at the Office as permanent or contract staff before that date, provided either that they have acquired deferred or early pension rights from their previous employment at the Office as permanent staff or that they pay back the severance grant they received on termination of their employment, the break in service in the latter case having lasted no longer than one year;
3. members of the boards of appeal and of the Enlarged Board of Appeal taking up their duties on or after 1 January 2009 who were employed, or had ended a previous period of employment, at the Office in a different capacity before that date, on the same conditions as in the preceding paragraphs as appropriate.

Any request to pay back a severance grant must be communicated by the Office to the employee concerned within six months of the date of his rejoining, and the employee must pay it back within twelve months of that same date. The total amount to be paid back is equal to the amount of the severance grant plus compound interest at a rate of 4% per annum from the date on which the employee received such amounts until the date of full repayment.

If repayment has not been completed by the end of the twelve-month period, the employee will thenceforth, automatically and retroactively, be a member of the New Pension Scheme and participate in the salary savings plan. In that case any sums already paid back will be refunded to the employee. The Office will convert the twelve months of pension scheme contributions into contributions to the New Pension Scheme and the salary savings plan. It will be under no obligation to compensate the employee for any loss in the event that salary savings plan investments return a profit over the said twelve-month period.

This Circular enters into force with effect from 1 January 2009.

Circular No. 336
(18 January 2012)

Method for payments into the RFPSS for the healthcare insurance scheme

1. BACKGROUND

The present circular describes the method for making payments into the RFPSS for the healthcare insurance scheme according to Council decisions CA/D 7/10 and CA/D 13/10. It also outlines the practical arrangements of its implementation. The way in which contributions for working spouses according to Art. 83 (1) (c) ServRegs are handled in this method is given special treatment.

Section 2 describes the general method to be applied from 2014 onwards according to decision CA/D 13/10.

Section 3 describes the transitional method for 2011-2013 under which the staff contribution rate is fixed at 2.4% according to decision CA/D 7/10.

Section 4 describes the practical aspects of the implementation.

2. GENERAL METHOD

According to Article 2 of the Administrative Council's decision CA/D 13/10 setting up a reserve fund for healthcare insurance, the payments to this fund shall be equal to the difference between reimbursements actually made to the beneficiaries and the contributions from the Office and from the insured persons:

"[...]"

- (3) Payments into this reserve fund shall be made from the budget of the European Patent Organisation; these payments shall correspond to the sum of the healthcare insurance contributions from the Office and from the insured persons, after deduction of payments for reimbursements actually made to the beneficiaries. These contributions shall result from application of CA/D 7/10 to the basic salaries, pensions and invalidity allowances paid.

2.1. Contributions for spouses in gainful employment

The term "insured persons" in Art. 2 of CA/D 13/10 includes spouses in gainful employment.

The term "reimbursements actually made to the beneficiaries" means that they are automatically net of costs covered by other schemes, but they must not be reduced by the amount of spouses contributions for the purpose of Art. 2 of CA/D 13/10.

The question is how to treat spouses contributions when making payments into the reserve fund according to Art. 2 of CA/D 13/10. The reasoning is as follows:

- The healthcare insurance scheme must cover the reimbursements to which the insured population is entitled under Art. 83 ServRegs.
- Since 2008 spouses in gainful employment must use their own schemes on a primary basis, so the total reimbursements to be financed by the EPO scheme are lower due to the costs covered by other schemes. These savings are shared by staff and Office at 1/3 and 2/3 respectively.
- By way of exception, a possibility to pay an additional premium was given to those working spouses who are not affiliated to another scheme,
- Therefore, the effect of spouses using their own insurance and the effect of spouses paying the EPO premium should be treated in the same way, i.e. both effects should reduce the total amount of reimbursements to be financed via the 9.2% total contribution rate.
- Indeed, the purpose is to have the same effect as if spouses paying a premium had taken out an insurance of their own. Should a working spouse decide to take out their own insurance and use it primarily, the final effect would remain consistent.
- The actuarial total contribution rate of 9.2% was calculated by the Actuarial Advisory Group to finance the long-term reimbursements made to the beneficiaries, net of reimbursements made by other schemes, but not net of spouses contributions. The reasons for this are technical. Firstly, spouses contributions are not a third party reimbursement which reduces automatically the reimbursements actually made to the beneficiaries. Secondly, the income to the scheme from spouses contributions can be very volatile from year to year and this would make it difficult to make an actuarial assumption.

Hence, in the meaning of Art. 2 of CA/D 13/10, the contributions for working spouses should be deducted from the total contributions of 9.2% of payroll, rather than from the "reimbursements actually made to the beneficiaries".

Also the Actuarial Advisory Group confirm in paragraph 54 of CA/139/10 (Actuarial study on healthcare funding) that the contributions for working spouses are meant as a further source to finance the actuarial total contribution rate of 9.2%, since this is in line with the method used to calculate the actuarial contribution rate:

"54. This [the total contribution rate of 9.2%] will be financed from three sources: the Office contribution, the staff [incl. pensioners] contribution and the contributions paid by working spouses."

2.2. General formula for determining transfers to the RFPSS

Considering the above, the transfer to the fund for a certain year is calculated as follows, after due consideration of Art. 83 (1) (e) ServRegs (i.e. changes to contribution rate from 2014 onwards cannot change more than 10% each year)¹.

Since the spouses contributions paid in a year are only known when the year is finished, for the calculation of the initial contribution rate for staff and Office they must be estimated based on past experience (currently ca. 1m EUR per year).

With a share of contributions of 1/3 for staff and 2/3 for the Office, the initial contribution rates are:

$$\begin{aligned}
 \text{Initial staff contribution rate} &= 1/3 \times (9.2\% \times \text{payroll} - \text{estimated spouses contributions}) \\
 &= \text{ca. } 3.02\% \\
 \text{Initial Office contribution rate} &= 2/3 \times (9.2\% \times \text{payroll} - \text{estimated spouses contributions}) \\
 &= \text{ca. } 6.04\%
 \end{aligned}$$

Transfer to the fund:

$$\begin{aligned}
 &+ \text{ Office contributions (ca. } 6.04\% \times \text{payroll)} \\
 &+ \text{ Staff and pensioners contributions (ca. } 3.02\% \times \text{payroll)} \\
 &+ \text{ Spouses contributions } \\
 &- \text{ Reimbursements actually made in the year (net of costs covered by other schemes)} \\ &= \text{ transfer to the fund}
 \end{aligned}

3. PROVISIONAL METHOD FOR THE PERIOD 2011-2013

Articles 3 and 4 of decision CA/D 7/10 lay down the transitional arrangements for the period 2011-2013 according to which the staff contribution rate for those years is fixed at 2.4% of basic salaries and pensions and the Office shall cover the difference between 9.2% and $3 \times 2.4\% = 7.2\%$, i.e. 2%. This results in a total Office contribution of $2 \times 2.4\% + 2\% = 6.8\%$.

This is equal to saying that the Office pays the difference between the actuarial total contribution rate of 9.2% and the staff contribution rate of 2.4%, which results in a total Office contribution rate of 6.8% of basic salaries and pensions for 2011-2013.

"Article 3

In the years 2011 to 2013, a comparison shall be made between the actuarially calculated total contribution rate and three times the employee's maximum contribution rate specified in Article 83 of the Service Regulations. Any shortfall shall be funded by the Office, primarily by using the credit balance at Vanbreda in the accounts of the Organisation.

Article 4

During the years 2011, 2012 and 2013, the contributions to be paid by staff shall be kept at 2.4% of their basic salaries."

Transfer to the fund:

+ Office contributions (6.8% x payroll)	}	(9,2% x payroll)
+ Staff and pensioners contributions (2.4% x payroll)
+ Spouses contributions
- Reimbursements "net of costs covered by other schemes"
= Transfer to the fund

Since Article 3 is not explicit about how to consider spouses contributions, it is understood that spouses contributions during 2011-2013 are not used as an additional source to finance the actuarial total contribution rate of 9.2% but that they are transferred additionally to the fund. This would improve the funding of the scheme by about 3m EUR over the three years period.

4. PRACTICAL ASPECTS

4.1. Monthly advance payments to the RFPSS and annual final settlement

Monthly advance payments: On a monthly basis, the "reimbursements actually made" (cf. Art. 2 of CA/D 13/10) fluctuate considerably, sometimes even exceeding contributions. Furthermore, reimbursements made in a certain month are only known a few days after the end of the month, i.e. after the monthly contributions of a certain payroll run are known. Therefore the monthly payments to the fund can only be based on an estimation. This estimation is based on the average monthly reimbursements of the previous year plus an inflation factor based on past experience.

Annual final settlement: Once the year is over, a final settlement needs to be made taking into account all reimbursements actually made in that year and all contributions actually paid.

4.2. Provisional method applied since January 2011

Since 1 January 2011, contributions for working spouses are considered as follows:

Fixed staff contribution rate = 2.4% x payroll
 Initial Office contribution rate = 9.2% x payroll
 - 2.4% x payroll
 - estimated spouses contributions
 = 6.67%

On a monthly basis, the following advance payments are transferred to the fund:

---	--	-------------------------

A retroactive adjustment to reflect the method under section 3 above will be made.

Guidelines for overtime, shift work and on-call duty

Articles 57, 58, 58a and Circular No. 38

Decision of the President of the European Patent Office dated 20.12.2012, applicable with effect from 01.01.2013.

Preamble

These guidelines describe the processes, responsibilities and arrangements for the delegation of authority relating to overtime, shift work and on-call duty applicable to permanent employees and contract staff - hereinafter referred to as "employees" - as defined in Article 1, paragraphs (1) and (7) of the ServRegs.

For the purpose of these guidelines, line managers referred to are permanent employees in category A.

I. Overtime (Article 57)

- (1) Pursuant to Article 57 ServRegs an employee may not be required to work overtime except in cases of urgency or exceptional pressure of work. A maximum of 150 overtime hours in any six-month period shall apply.
- (2) Urgency or exceptional pressure of work shall be considered to exist when work cannot be performed within the normal working day by the staff available.
- (3) Any maintenance, repair, test or installation of Office software and equipment that cannot take place during normal working hours for reasons of service requirements may constitute particular circumstances justifying overtime.
- (4) Any request to work overtime shall be justified and the justification kept available for management and audit purposes.
- (5) Compensatory leave shall be granted as soon as possible but at the latest during the month following the month in which overtime was worked. Only when the requirements of the service do not permit compensation during this period may the overtime hours worked be compensated for by the payment of remuneration.
- (6) The guidelines on arrangements for working hours, in particular Article 1, paragraph (2), Article 3, paragraphs (4) and (5) and Article 8, paragraph (3) must be respected. The line manager shall remain alert to any negative consequences for the health and safety of the employee. Except in cases of urgency, this requirement shall be communicated to the employees concerned in advance.
 - (9) Overtime shall be of temporary nature and may not become part of normal working patterns. Any recurrent duties that require work to be performed outside office hours may be subject to the shift provisions of Article 58.
 - (10) The line manager shall be responsible for:
 - (a) except in cases of urgency, issuing detailed instructions to the employees concerned well in advance. These instructions shall justify the requirement to work overtime and set out the possible duration of that requirement.

- (4) The line manager shall be responsible for:
 - (a) submitting a shift-work schedule at least one month in advance to all employees concerned. This schedule must indicate the start and end times of the shifts and the names of the employees concerned and must describe the activities to be performed during the shift work.
 - (b) outlining the roles and responsibilities during shift work in a document which must be accessible to all employees taking part in the shift work activities.

III. On-call duty (Article 58a)

- (1) Pursuant to Article 58a ServRegs, an employee required in the interests of the service to be available outside normal working hours for work when called upon shall be entitled to a flat-rate allowance.

- (5) Once an employee has been called in, the provisions for overtime in Article 57 ServRegs shall replace the on-call provisions of Article 58a ServRegs from the moment when the employee is called in, until such time as the action for which the employee was called in has finished. In the case of employees in category B and C any travel time shall be compensated as overtime. Employees in category A have no right to compensation for overtime, but they may accrue flexi-hours for the travel and working time instead. Any flexi-hours thus accrued in excess of the maximums set out in Article 5(2) of the Guidelines on arrangements for working hours shall be compensated as time-off in agreement with the line manager.
- (6) Employees on any type of absence or leave or on reduced working time or productivity for medical reasons following a recommendation by the Occupational Health Service or a decision by the Medical Committee may not be requested to be on-call.

 - (b) setting out the responsibilities and describing possible actions during on-call work in a document which must be accessible to all employees who are in an on-call situation.
 - (c) ensuring that employees on call can be reached at a distance that will enable them to travel to the Office within two hours from the time of notification. On-call employees who cannot be reached when called during their planned on-call hours or who are not in a condition to perform their duties when called shall lose the right to compensation for the period referred to in paragraph (a).
 - (d) assessing, approving and submitting to HR Services any claim for travel expenses incurred when an employee is called in. Any travel expenses shall be compensated in accordance with Circular No. 319, Rule 4(4).
 - (e) calling in employees who are required for duty. In cases of direct urgency when there is no time to obtain prior approval, an immediate colleague or other service may take the initiative to call an employee who is on-call. All calls must be recorded and confirmed by the line manager without delay.

- (f) providing a justification for calls together with a description of the activities performed.
- (g) keeping for audit purposes a record of incidents in which employees had to be called in.
- (h) The responsibilities of the line manager as stipulated in Part I Overtime, paragraph (10) (c), (d), (e) and (f) shall apply to on-call duty as well.

IV. Line manager deputising arrangements

By way of exception, line managers may appoint a deputy to replace them during periods of absence, in order to guarantee the proper processing of the responsibilities described above. They shall provide HR Services with the names of these deputies.

V. Responsibilities of employees

- (1) In accordance with Article 55(1) of the ServRegs, employees shall be at the disposal of the Office at all times.
- (2) With a view to the provisions of the ServRegs, Articles 57, 58 , 58a and Circular No. 38, employees asked to work overtime, shift work or on-call hours shall be in a condition to comply with the requirements of the service and the provisions of these guidelines.
- (3) Employees shall register any working hours performed under these guidelines on a daily basis via MyFIPS and shall inform their line manager without delay of any difference over the hours requested in advance by the line manager.
- (4) To ensure that HR Services can process them in good time, monthly claims for compensation should be submitted within two weeks following the end of the calendar month in which overtime, shift work or on-call duty has been performed.

In case of any absence from the Office (for example due to sickness or leave), such members shall ensure that their remaining working time is proportionately distributed between these two roles.

Article 5

Redistribution of time exemptions amongst Staff Committee members

Provided that an individual limit of 75% time exemption for each partially exempted Staff Committee member is maintained, the time exemption corresponding to a vacant post amongst the member of his committee may be redistributed upon proposal of the chairman of the Staff Committee concerned in the following cases:

- (3) At the end of his term of office, the Staff Committee member concerned shall at once be reinstated in his post where possible. Part III

Functional allowance (Article 12(2) ServRegs)

A. Definitions and conditions

- (1) An employee requested to perform duties in their grade inter alia involving specific constraints or demands or additional tasks and responsibilities may be awarded a functional allowance.
- (2) The functional allowance is linked to the nature of the duties, be they of a permanent or temporary nature. Employees carrying out duties as listed in Annex I may be eligible for a functional allowance.
- (3) A functional allowance may be awarded to an employee inter alia under the following conditions:

- (a) when, in addition to their usual duties, an employee performs other duties corresponding to their grade, such as those listed in Annex I.
 - (b) these additional duties are not otherwise rewarded.
 - (c) the funds are available in the corresponding budget.
- (4) The functional allowance may be granted when the additional duties or constraints commence and continue to be paid while the extra duties are required.
- (5) An employee may be awarded only one functional allowance.
- (6) The maximum amount of the functional allowance is defined in Article 12(2) ServRegs. The exact amount of the functional allowance awarded to an employee is defined by their line manager, considering inter alia the nature of the tasks, their complexity and strategic priorities.

B. Procedure

- (1) The line manager of an employee discharging duties included in Annex I justifying the award of a functional allowance may request such an award from their superior(s) in advance or at the latest as soon as the duties commence.
- (2) The request for continuation of the functional allowance must be renewed yearly. Deadlines for renewal of such requests will be set, in order to be considered for the budget cycle of the subsequent year.
- (3) A harmonised approach across the Office to the award of this allowance will be ensured, with regard to the:
 - (a) fulfilment of the minimum eligibility criteria; and
 - (b) budgetary envelope availability in the DG.
- (4) Each year (N), following a decision on the funds available for this element for the next year (N+1), a list of employees eligible for the functional allowance shall be submitted in the prescribed form to the President.
- (5) New requests for functional allowances that could not have been planned in the previous year or that arise out of urgency or unforeseen needs may exceptionally be filed during the budget year within the budgetary limits. They must be submitted in the prescribed form for approval to Human Resources, which will ensure harmonised application across the Office and will report regularly to the President on the use of the functional allowance in the different DGs.
- (6) The decision to award a functional allowance rests with the President.

Part IV

Decisions on step advancement, bonuses and promotions (rewards)

A. General

- (1) Depending on budgetary availability Office-wide, a budgetary envelope shall be awarded each year to all DGs for:
 - (a) step advancements (Article 48 ServRegs)
 - (b) bonuses (Article 48a ServRegs)
 - (c) promotions (Article 49(2) ServRegs).
- (2) It is the responsibility of the managers at each level to assess and propose the award of the elements mentioned in paragraph 1(a)-(c) above, and to ensure a harmonised approach, taking into consideration:
 - (a) performance as explained below;
 - (b) budgetary envelope availability in the DG;
 - (c) equal opportunities among all categories of staff (such as but not limited to gender, job group, type of appointment, etc.);
 - (d) that periods of maternity and adoption leave are neutralised by considering that performance prior to and after the leave is continuous;
 - (e) that attention is paid to employees who have not received any step advancement or promotion in several successive reward exercises.
- (3) There is no automatic link between appraisal reports and the reward exercise. While performance is a precondition for the award of the elements mentioned in paragraph 1(a)-(c) above, it may not be sufficient to warrant a reward in view of:
 - (a) the setting by the President of the maximum proportion of employees to be rewarded in a specific reward exercise;
 - (b) the comparative nature of the reward exercise; and
 - (c) Office priorities in the allocation of budget envelopes.
- (4) Decisions regarding the award of the elements mentioned in paragraph 1(a)-(c) above shall be taken by the President, having regard to:
 - (a) the proposals of the managers at each level
 - (b) performance as explained below; and
 - (c) budgetary envelope availability in the DG.
- (4) 1. In advance of the President's decision, each vice-president shall group and rank all proposals regarding the award of the elements mentioned in paragraph 1(a)-(c) above. They shall submit a final proposal subject to budgetary envelope availability in their DG.
- (4) 2. Such decisions concerning the areas reporting directly to the President shall be taken, in the same way as explained above, by the President or by any person delegated the authority to take such decisions.

B. Step advancement (Article 48 ServRegs)

- (1) Depending on budget availability in the DG, an advancement of one or two steps in grade is used to reward performance and demonstration of the expected competencies resulting in a sustained contribution towards the Office priorities and achievements.

Demonstration of such contribution may be for instance:

- (a) achievement of the expected goals and competencies corresponding to grade, seniority and job profile;
 - (b) good balance between expected leadership (where applicable) and functional and core competencies;
 - (c) strength in the core competencies critical for the employee's role;
 - (d) engagement on the priorities of the Office;
 - (e) being a role model within and outside the employee's team.
- (2) Allocation of step may occur only within the same grade. When the employee has reached the highest step in their grade, career progression may occur only through promotion.
- (3) Step advancement shall take effect as of 1 July of that year.
- (4) Decisions in this respect shall be taken annually as described in Part IV.A above.

C. Bonuses (Article 48a ServRegs)

- (1) Depending on budget availability in the DG, a bonus in the form of a lump-sum payment is used to reward high performance and/or additional duties not otherwise rewarded and resulting in specific achievements, such as:
 - (a) contribution to strategic projects or well-defined work packages with a clear budgetary scope and timeline defined in advance;
 - (b) collaborative achievements;
 - (c) extraordinary workload due to specific organisational circumstances;
 - (d) efforts towards a specific development critical to the employee's role;
 - (e) meeting stretched goals.

It is also used to acknowledge performance and demonstration of the expected competencies when step advancement is not available.

- (2) Decisions in this respect shall be taken as described in Part IV.A above within the budgetary year.
- (3) The amount of the bonus shall be defined within the limits of the budgetary envelope. It shall be granted within the budgetary year in one or more payments.. Applicable amounts, including ceilings for the maximum amount that may be received per individual employee, are defined in the President's general guidelines on rewards.

D. Promotions (Article 49(2) ServRegs)a. Definitions and scope

- (1) These Guidelines concern normal promotion procedures within the meaning of Article 49(2) ServRegs: access to the next immediate higher grade within the same post not taking place following a selection procedure or reclassification.
- (2) Employees of the Office shall be promoted by decision of the President.
- (3) Subject to the budgetary limits, promotions of eligible employees in each DG shall be based on the criteria described below.
- (4) Depending on budgetary availability, a budgetary envelope per DG shall be used each year for the purpose of these promotions.

b. Eligibility criteria for promotion

- (1) The eligibility of an employee for promotion shall be assessed over time, taking into account inter alia the following conditions:
 - (a) the employee has reached the last step in their grade in the calendar year prior to the promotion exercise;
 - (b) proven performance and expected goals corresponding to the grade continuously achieved over a long period of time;
 - (c) application and demonstration of the expected competencies corresponding to their job profile over a period of several years and progression in the proficiency levels of the required competencies;
 - (d) broadening or deepening of the employee's tasks, experience and responsibilities.
- (2) The promotion exercise shall consider inter alia appraisal reports covering at least the period up to a given calendar year (N-1) prior to the year of the promotion exercise (N).
- (3) The eligibility criteria shall have been met by 31 December of the calendar year (N-1) prior to the year of the decision for promotion (N).

E. Process

The President shall take appropriate measures to ensure a smooth reward process and may specify the timeline, priorities and other rewards modalities in general guidelines on rewards.

The procedure and responsibilities are described inter alia in Part IV.A above. More specifically:

- (1) Subject to the budgetary limits and eligibility criteria, managers at each level shall propose the distribution of rewards for those employees under their managerial responsibility.
- (2) Each DG, taking into account the budgetary envelope allocated to it and the proposals of the managers at each level, shall submit to the President a list of employees proposed for rewards, as the result of a calibration exercise at different managerial levels including the VPs and President.

- (3) A Harmonisation Committee shall assist the President before conclusion of the rewards cycle by assessing and monitoring trends to ensure a balanced distribution among all categories of staff (such as but not limited to gender, job group, etc.). The Harmonisation Committee shall be responsible for ensuring a consistent approach across all DGs and observance of the applicable criteria Office-wide.
- (4) The Harmonisation Committee shall be chaired by the President and composed of members of each DG appointed by the President. The President may invite observers, who do not have an active role in the Committee but can follow the Committee's discussions. The information and documents provided as confidential must be treated as such by the members and observers of the Harmonisation Committee.
- (5) Rewards will take effect as of 1 July of the calendar year in which the decision is taken, provided that the conditions continue to be met on the date of the decision.
- (6) The list of promoted employees shall be published.
- (7) Upon approval of the President, a report will be published after closure of the reward exercise to provide general information about trends and global statistics.

Circular No. 365
(19 December 2014)

General Guidelines on the EPO Competency Framework

A. GENERAL PROVISIONS

1. Definition of a competency framework

A competency is a demonstrated ability to apply knowledge, skills and attitudes to achieve observable results (according to levels of autonomy and context complexity).

The new EPO competency framework has been developed to effectively support EPO business goals and provide a clear indication of the required competencies for the different roles within the Office. In an organisation like the EPO where staff is a major asset, it is crucial to have a common framework indicating which competencies are necessary to perform a specific job and how progression along the different career paths depends on such competencies.

The competency framework provides staff and line managers with a tool that is coherent and relevant in terms of the Organisation's expectations as regards skills, knowledge and behaviours.

2. Structure of the EPO competency framework

The EPO had already defined the core values which underlie its mission and are intended to guide the actions and behaviour of all staff at the EPO. These values are laid down in its code of conduct as follows:

- respect for the individual
- integrity and accountability
- impartiality and objectivity
- compliance with the rules of law
- quality and professionalism

Based on this foundation of core values, a more extensive competency framework has been built up, comprising three major groups of competencies: core competencies, functional competencies and leadership competencies.

Each competency is defined through a precise verbal definition of the expected behaviour and with a scaling that illustrates how a competency is applied at different levels of proficiency (from basic to master).

- (a) Core competencies (= behavioural competencies) that all employees must possess to enable the organisation to achieve its objectives. The following competencies have been identified as relevant for all staff at the EPO (see Annex I):

- Planning and organising
 - Delivering results
 - Problem solving
 - Interpersonal relationships
 - Communicating and influencing
 - Service orientation
 - Self-development
 - Resilience and responding to change
- (b) Leadership competencies for roles that involve managing and supervising the work of others (e.g. staff appraisal); these competencies are designed specifically for roles with staff responsibility (not intended for other leading roles like strategic leadership or project management) (see Annex II):
- Business understanding
 - Leading, driving and managing changes
 - Performance management and people development
 - Managerial effectiveness and courage
- (c) Functional competencies are specific to functional areas and job groups and include the specific skills, knowledge and behaviour required to perform tasks effectively, efficiently and successfully (e.g. knowledge in particular technical fields or professional areas such as Patent Examination, Legal Services, etc.). These competencies are established by the different DGs, in line with their needs and guided by the general frame of reference below (see the matrix in Annex III).

3. Assessment of competency levels

Competencies define expected behaviours at different levels. Relevant matrixes have been developed to serve as a basis for defining and assessing appropriate proficiency levels for the different competencies.

The proficiency levels are intended to be discrete and cumulative, with each level building on the levels below, i.e. a person demonstrating a competency at level 3 should master levels 1 and 2. Staff members will progress through the different proficiency levels along with their development and increased experience and expertise in their job.

The descriptions are not designed to be comprehensive, but provide understanding and consistency about what is expected from employees who need certain competency levels to perform their role.

All relevant competencies are to be taken into account for assessment purposes – core and functional competencies for all staff, plus leadership competencies for staff on the managerial path.

Competencies are not designed to stand alone but have to be seen in context with the respective tasks and job profile of the staff concerned. Therefore, proficiency levels may have a different meaning, depending on the job context. For example, the core competency "Planning and organising" will be interpreted differently when applied to the position of an administrative employee or of a director.

(a) Assessment of core and leadership competencies

The core and leadership competencies are quite generic and are defined through certain behaviours that staff must have to be successful in their role. Therefore, the proficiency levels are described only through essential behavioural anchors for the respective levels.

The matrixes for the assessment of core and leadership competencies are attached in Annexes I and II respectively.

(b) Assessment of functional competencies

Functional competencies typically comprise several dimensions and different degrees of skills, knowledge and behaviour that are scaled in different levels of proficiency. The dimensions are the following:

- Understanding/knowledge of the subject matter,
- Autonomy and/or supervision required to handle the work
- Complexity and application of the knowledge and skills

The matrix for the assessment of functional competencies is attached in Annex III. On the basis of this matrix, the DGs can develop more specific behavioural descriptions of their functional competencies as appropriate to their practical use.

4. Job profiles and career paths

Whereas the competency framework entails all competencies identified as relevant for an organisation, job profiles form the link to the different jobs and their specific requirements.

Job profile templates are drawn up for the different job groups at the EPO. The term "job groups" is used for jobs that require similar types of education, knowledge and expertise. Accordingly, each job group is associated with a specific range of grades.

(a) Job groups

The job groups are divided into two career paths, in order to provide equal career opportunities to staff with and without managerial responsibilities, a technical and a managerial path, with equivalent grades and development opportunities.

Job group	Technical career path:	Managerial career Path:	Range of grades:
Job group 1:	n. a.	Vice-president	G16 step 3 – G17 step 3
Job group 2:	Principal advisor/ Board of appeal chairman	Principal director	G15 step1 – G16 step 4
Job group 3:	Senior expert/ Board of appeal member	Director	G13 step 3 – G15 step 4
Job group 4:	Examiner/ Administrator/ Lawyer	Head of department/ Team manager	G7 step 1 – G13 step 5
Job group 5:	Expert	Head of section	G7 step 1 – G10 step 5
Job group 6:	Administrative employee	n.a.	G1 step 1 – G9 step 5

(b) Functional areas

A number of different functional areas have been established at the EPO, depending on the different fields of activities. A set of relevant functional competencies is drawn up for each of these functional areas.

Functional areas:
Administration and Management Support
Administration of the Reserve Funds Communication Controlling
Customer Support
Facility Management
Finance
Human Resources
International Relations
IT
Language Service
Legal Services
Occupational Health
Patent Administration
Patent Examination
Patent Information and IP Know-How Procurement
Quality Management

(c) Job profiles

Each job profile consists of a combination of the above two elements, namely the respective job group and the relevant functional area for the job. This concept is also reflected in the title of the generic profile.

A job profile entails the following elements:

- the tasks to be performed,
- the educational qualifications needed,
- the required competencies,
- the functional area and the job group to which the job belongs, along with the range of grades assigned to this job in the salary structure.

Depending on job group and area of activity, each staff member will be assigned such a generic job profile or a more specific sub-profile as necessary for the respective functional area.

5. Use of the competency framework – link to recruitment, appraisal and career development

Competency frameworks are usually interlinked with various HR tools and measures. The competency framework at the EPO serves the following main purposes:

1. Alignment of jobs with organisational values and business goals.
Harmonised job profiles with defined job skills and competencies for all jobs at the EPO.
2. Targeted recruitment and selection on the basis of harmonised job profiles and competency requirements; assessment of candidates against relevant competencies.
3. Clarification of performance expectations through defined levels of competency; enhanced performance appraisal on the basis of the assessment of applied and measurable competencies (amongst other elements).
4. The EPO's competency framework can also be used to help identify skills gaps and training needs. This can then lead to targeted training and development measures.
5. Recognition of attainment and increase of competencies through linking them with step advancement and promotion.

More specifically, the competencies and profiles are applied as follows:

(a) Grading of posts

The different job groups are associated with a range of grades (e.g. G7-G13 for Administrators). The positioning of a particular job within this broad range is determined by the tasks and requirements of the post as defined in the respective job profile together with the required competencies and other relevant aspects.

(b) Recruitment and promotion through selection between job groups

The job profiles with corresponding competencies will serve as the basis for drafting vacancy notices and also for assessing suitable candidates. This will entail identifying the proficiency levels of applicants compared to the proficiency needed for the job for which they are being considered.

(c) Objective setting and appraisal

The appraisal report will entail an assessment of different aspects of performance. Objective setting will set out "what" a staff member needs to achieve. The EPO's competency framework, in turn, sets out "how" a staff member needs to work in order to achieve the objectives set.

The new enhanced performance appraisal involves assessing firstly whether the specific objectives have been met and secondly which applied and measurable competencies (amongst other elements) have been deployed to deliver those objectives.

The process and details are defined in Circular 366 on Performance Management.

(d) Development and training

Following this competency-based assessment, strengths and areas of development will be identified and the relevant development plan established. In cases where a skills gap or training need emerges between the competencies required by a job and the competencies demonstrated by a post-holder (which might for example happen in the event of a change in the nature of tasks to be performed or increased demands), a development plan will be established to close the gap or to meet the need.

The Office-wide training plan will support the attainment and development of competencies as described in the competency framework. Training possibilities will be provided in line with Circular 267 on Training.

(e) Step advancement/normal promotion procedure within a job group

The eligibility of staff for step advancement and/or promotion will depend on the successful deployment and development of relevant competencies as part of the overall performance of the staff member, as set out in Part IV of Circular 364 on Implementation of the career system.

If a skills gap or training need emerges between the competencies required by a job and the competencies demonstrated by a post-holder, the staff member will be given sufficient time and suitable training to achieve the required level.

B. ENTRY INTO FORCE AND TRANSITIONAL MEASURES

1. Entry into force

The competency framework shall enter into force on 1 January 2015.

The first assessment of competencies of individual staff members (based on the generic profiles) shall take place in parallel to the first mid-term review of the 2015 appraisal cycle.

2. DG guidelines

To implement the present Circular, the DGs may develop more specific guidelines as necessary for their areas and in line with the general competency framework.

3. Review

The competency framework and job profiles shall be regularly reviewed in line with the strategic and operational needs of the EPO.

Any future amendments to the competencies and the assessment matrixes shall be approved by the President and published to all staff.

Implementation of this Circular shall be reviewed regularly, beginning no later than 24 months after its entry into force.

Circular No. 366
(1 January 2020)

Guidelines on performance development

I. SCOPE

Within the framework of Article 47a of the Service Regulations for permanent and other employees of the EPO (ServRegs), these guidelines set out further conditions with regard to performance development.

These guidelines apply to all employees under Article 1 ServRegs, with the exception of those under its paragraphs 4 and 5.

II. AIM

The EPO is committed to promoting a culture of merit, based on continuous learning and professional development, which serves both business needs and employee aspirations. Performance development is the process by which managers and employees discuss the contribution to be made by individual employees to enable the EPO to fulfil its mission and where continuous feedback is given to support the employee in developing in their current role or in view of future aspirations.

III. PROCESS

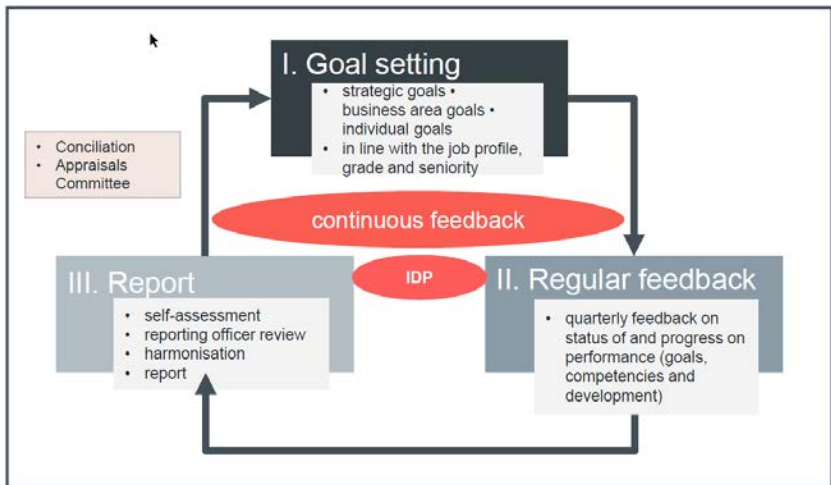

Performance development is a continuous cycle built on collaborative discussions between employee and manager. Each step of the performance development cycle (for details see point VII, "Overview of performance development cycle") should be completed within the timeframe indicated.

An appraisal report is generally drawn up for the period from 1 January until 31 December of a given year. Each employee will have one report per year that will cover their performance over the whole year, even in the event of a change of tasks or a change of manager in the course of the year.

The report will contain comments relating to the employee's ability, contribution and effectiveness, as well as their attitude to work and dealings with others. These aspects are looked at in relation to the level expected in view of the employee's job profile, grade and seniority.

Periods of less than four months (e.g. phases between a probation report and the preceding or following normal report) do not need to be covered in a separate report.

The performance development process is supported by an online tool which covers all the steps in the cycle.

IV. ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

The key relationship in the performance development process is that between the employee and their reporting officer, and is based on continuous feedback and dialogue.

The roles and responsibilities are as follows.

1. Employees

Employees are responsible for meeting the expectations discussed with their manager and set as final for the year as well as for actively driving their individual development.

They are expected to contribute proactively to the goal setting, to review their progress regularly and to actively report to their manager on their progress as well as on potential difficulties.

In order to report on their contribution, employees are asked to carry out a self-assessment at the end of the reporting period, which then forms part of the review meeting with the reporting officer.

2. Reporting officers

Unless otherwise indicated, the reporting officer is the direct line manager of the employee.

Reporting officers are responsible for developing and motivating their reportees to achieve their operational and developmental goals. They are the owners of the performance development process and are responsible for the timely completion of the cycle for each of their reportees.

This includes setting goals as well as maintaining a continuous dialogue with their reportees. Reporting officers are invited to have quarterly exchanges with their reportees for feedback on the status of and progress on performance. They also draft the appraisal reports.

In general, the reporting officer in place at the time when the report is due is in charge of drafting the appraisal report. This applies too in cases where the reporting officer has changed in the course of the appraisal period.

If the employee's reporting officer changes during the appraisal period (e.g. due to a job change or reorganisation), the new reporting officer must seek input from the former reporting officer and make sure that it is reflected in the report. The reporting officer may also consult any other person (e.g. project manager) under whose supervision the employee has worked for at least part of the reporting period and who is therefore able to provide a relevant contribution relating to the performance of the employee during the performance development cycle.

Reporting officers are, together with the employees, also responsible for establishing development plans with their reportees.

The reporting function is a core managerial responsibility and may not therefore be delegated on the manager's own initiative.

3. Countersigning officers

Unless otherwise indicated, the countersigning officer is the line manager of the reporting officer.

In addition to their own reporting officer role, countersigning officers are responsible for defining the goals supporting the delivery of the EPO's strategy and enabling them to be cascaded down through the units.

They are responsible for ensuring the fairness and consistency of reports, the harmonised application of the performance development guidelines in their business area and the provision of necessary support in cases of performance issues that are escalated to them.

Countersigning officers also act as arbitrators who will seek to identify a reasonable way forward in cases where there is a difference in views between the employee and the reporting officer.

V. INDIVIDUAL DEVELOPMENT PLAN (IDP)

Individual development is an integral part of the EPO performance development system.

The individual development plan (IDP) is a systematic process that supports the personal and professional growth of employees as well as the general development of the organisation at all levels. It also serves to ensure the implementation and follow-up of related activities in line with individual and business needs and career aspirations.

In particular, the IDP helps employees close possible gaps between expected and demonstrated competencies, build on and further develop existing strengths and/or develop new competencies.

Each employee should have an IDP and progress should be reviewed at regular intervals. It is drawn up jointly by the line manager and the employee in a dedicated template.

VI. ENTRY INTO FORCE

This circular will enter into force on 1 January 2020. It will supersede any earlier circulars, instructions or guidelines relating to performance management.

The 2020 performance development cycle will be a transition phase where all the deadlines below apply, with the exception of the deadline for the goal setting, which should be completed as early as possible, but at the latest by 31 March 2020.

As a further transitional measure, all pending steps related to the 2019 performance development cycle will be completed in accordance with the guidelines on performance development in their version of 1 January 2018.

Circular No. 367

(11 May 2015, 17 February 2017)

Absences for Health Reasons

Article 1

Article 62a and 62b Sick leave and Incapacity

A) Justification and registration of sick leave

- (1) A permanent employee who is unable for health reasons to perform all or part of his duties must inform his immediate superior, or that person's deputy, by phone on the first day of absence and at the same time state the address and the phone number at which he can be reached. If the employee cannot reach his immediate superior, or that person's deputy, by phone, he must inform him by electronic mail. He must however phone afterwards, and at the latest on the third day of absence.

On the first day of the employee's absence for health reasons, his immediate superior, or that person's deputy, shall complete an electronic form in order to assure the correct registration of the sick leave.

If no information is received from the employee, his immediate superior, or that person's deputy, will inform the Human Resources department as well as the Occupational Health Service.

The Occupational Health Service will call the employee in case no information is received by phone or by email on the first day of absence. The Occupational Health Service will then inform the employee's immediate superior, or that person's deputy, as well as the Human Resources department.

The above procedure also applies to any information on extension of the absence by reason of sickness or accident.

The employee must further indicate the likely duration of the absence and its impact on the proper functioning of the service.

- (2) Where a permanent employee's inability to perform his duties exceeds three working days, or where he has already taken uncertified sick leave for three working days in a given calendar year, he will be required to produce a medical certificate.

That certificate shall state;

- the name and date of birth of the staff member
- the date of issue of the certificate
- the name and signature of the doctor
- the start date and estimated end date of the absence on grounds of health

No diagnosis is to be included.

If the doctor consulted refuses to issue a medical certificate, the employee must supply the Office with the doctor's name and address. This will obviate the need to provide a medical certificate.

The requirement to produce a medical certificate will also be deemed to have been met if the employee phones the Occupational Health Service and provides them with sufficient details about the nature of the illness and the date on which it began. The duration of the absence deemed to be covered by a certificate will be the duration agreed with the Occupational Health Service. The above procedure also applies to justifying any extension of the absence by reason of sickness or accident.

The Occupational Health Service will retain the details of the nature of the illness in accordance with medical secrecy rules.

- (3) A copy of the medical certificate, or the name and address of the doctor who refused to issue a medical certificate, must be sent at the latest on the working day following the third day of uncertified sick leave within a given calendar year in accordance with the instructions given by HR to that effect. In exceptional cases the medical certificate may also be submitted by normal post.

The Office shall conduct random checks of original certificates. For this purpose, employees shall keep the originals of all submitted documents, throughout the period of absence for health reasons and then for 4 years thereafter.

The Office also reserves the right to perform any additional checks on the authenticity of these documents.

In case the employee fails to provide original certificates upon request from the administration, the Office, without prejudice to any other steps under the Service Regulations, may consider the employee on unauthorised absence for the period concerned, and apply the consequences set forth Article 63 of the Service Regulations. In particular, it may recover any remuneration that should have been deducted pursuant to Article 65, paragraph 1(d).

- (4) On resuming his duty after absence due to sickness, the permanent employee must send an electronic form to his immediate superior and to the Occupational Health Service informing both parties of his return to work.
- (5) Decisions on reintegration during sick leave are taken by the occupational health service. The employee may contest such a decision. The contestation shall have no suspensive effect on the employee's obligation to return to work.

B) Sick leave verification

- (1) Pursuant to Article 62a(6) ServRegs, the President of the Office is entitled to verify, including by a medical examination at a permanent employee's address, as provided under Article 23 or 55a(1) ServRegs, whether the permanent employee's state of health justifies sick leave.

- (2) A permanent employee on sick leave must conduct himself in line with his statutory obligations and in a manner conducive to a return to work. He must cooperate at all times with the relevant services and medical practitioners appointed by the President to facilitate a verification of his state of health. In particular, and upon the request by the appointed medical practitioners, he shall provide without delay all necessary information requested by them for a conclusive medical assessment pertaining inter alia to the diagnosis, the treatment and the prognosis of his medical state.
- (3) The President may decide an ad hoc verification upon the initiative of the employee's immediate superior or that person's deputy or the Occupational Health Service.

To that end, a permanent employee on sick leave must be available at the address pursuant to Article 23 or 55a(1) ServRegs from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 and from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. If the employee is not present during these time slots or at an any other announced time when a verification is due to be carried out, he shall provide the Medical Advisory Unit with justification. The latter will assess whether this justification is well founded.

Without prejudice to the outcome of such verification and the corresponding administrative consequences that may apply, the President may decide on further verifications, including medical examinations, to be carried out at the address pursuant to Article 23 or 55a(1) ServRegs or at the Office's premises.

- (4) In addition, the President of the Office mandates the Occupational Health Service to systematically proceed with a medical examination of a permanent employee after every 30 working days of cumulated sick leave over a period of the last 12 months within the initial period of sick leave defined in Article 62a(7) (a) ServRegs.

In such case, the Occupational Health Service will request the permanent employee to undergo the medical examination either at the Office's premises or with the medical practitioner appointed by the President to whom this task was delegated. In case the permanent employee is unable to attend such an examination, he must provide corresponding evidence.

- (5) If the permanent employee fails to submit evidence or to provide a legitimate reason for not being available at his address or attending the medical examination, Article 63 Service Regulations applies.
- (6) Third parties may not attend any medical examinations.
- (7) The permanent employee concerned, the Occupational Health Service, the Human Resources department and the immediate superior of the employee, or that person's deputy, will be informed of the outcome of a verification. If the medical practitioner advising the President of the Office concludes that sick leave is not or no longer justified, the employee shall resume his duties on the following working day at the latest.

- (8) The employee may contest such medical conclusion by written request to the Medical Advisory Unit within one working day following the date of notification. In such case, the arbitration procedure set forth in Article 91 Service Regulations applies. The contestation shall have no suspensive effect on the employee's obligation to return to work.
- (9) The above provisions shall apply during the period of partial incapacity provided in Article 62b(6) ServRegs.

A verification of sick leave of an employee in partial incapacity under paragraph B(3) above, shall be conducted as prescribed therein, during the relevant time slots corresponding to the said employee's agreed working time.

C) Sick leave or incapacity elsewhere than at the place of residence

- (1) Permanent employees must obtain the prior permission of the President of the Office in order to leave their place of residence, as defined in Article 23 of the Service Regulations, during a period of sick leave, extended sick leave, partial or 100% incapacity.

D) Sick leave in the case of spa cures

- (1) Sick leave under Article 62a of the Service Regulations to take a spa cure will be granted to permanent employees, on request, under the conditions laid down in the Implementing Rules for Articles 83 and 84 of the Service Regulations, where a medical practitioner appointed by the President sees it as being an absolute medical necessity within the meaning of section F (b) point 4.8a) of part I of the Implementing Rules for Articles 83 and 84 of the Service Regulations, or else as being a medical necessity within the meaning of section F (b) point 4.8b) thereof, and prescribes the spa cure's duration. In such cases, the medical practitioner appointed by the President will usually examine the permanent employee, taking into account the spa-cure prescription issued by the employee's doctor and submitted to the Office's medical advisory unit.
- (2) The Office's medical advisory unit will inform the Human Resources department, Occupational Health Service and the permanent employee concerned of his conclusions.

If the spa cure is deemed to be an absolute medical necessity within the meaning of section F (b) point 4.8a) of part I of the Implementing Rules for Article 83 and 84 of the Service Regulations, the health insurance provider will also be informed of the decision, and the permanent employee will be granted sick leave for the entire duration of the spa cure.

If the spa cure is deemed to be a medical necessity within the meaning of section F (b) point 4.8b) of part I of the Implementing Rules for Articles 83 and 84 of the Service Regulations, the permanent employee will be granted sick leave and annual leave in equal measure for a spa cure of up to 21 calendar days.

If the spa cure is not deemed to be necessary, or if the permanent employee chooses not to have its necessity certified, no sick leave will be granted.

If, despite this, the permanent employee goes on a spa cure within the meaning of section F (b) point 4.8b) of part I of the Implementing Rules for Article 83 and 84 of the Service Regulations, he must take annual leave for the entire duration of the cure.

E) Working time during partial incapacity

- (1) The working time during partial incapacity shall be determined in full hours or any percentage of the normal 40-hour working week corresponding to the working schedule fixed.

F) Periodic review of incapacity

- (1) Unless another frequency is established by the medical practitioner assessing incapacity, periodic reviews of the employee's state of health shall take place at least every two years. A review may take place earlier on the initiative of the President of the Office or upon reasoned request of the employee.

Article 2

Articles 62, 62a and 62b - Visits to the doctor; medical treatment

- (1) All visits to doctors, dentists or specialists should be made outside working hours where possible. Such visits internally or externally in no way count as working hours. If such absence must occur during working hours, the permanent employee must comply with the applicable provisions on absence. He must make use of leave, flexitime or compensation hours and thus inform his immediate superior prior to the absence of the time and duration of his absence.
- (2) Medical visits during working time resulting from an accident on the EPO premises and/or commuting accident shall be registered as sick leave upon approval of the Occupational Health Service on the initiative of the staff member.

Article 3

Circular No. 392

(9 May 2018)

Guidelines for applying Article 72(1) and (2)
ServRegs concerning expatriation allowance

This circular lays down criteria for the interpretation of Article 72(1) and (2) ServRegs concerning expatriation allowance. It aims to provide clarity and transparency on certain aspects of the expatriation allowance, namely permanent residence, service with national administrations and international organisations, and dual nationality.

Article 1

Permanent residence

- (1) For the purposes of Article 72(1)(b) and (2) ServRegs, the country in which an employee is permanently resident is the country with which he maintains the closest objective and factual links. The criteria for assessing permanent residence include, inter alia:
 - (a) physical presence in the country concerned,
 - (b) length of time spent in that country,
 - (c) intention to remain in that country.
- (2) Permanent residence in a country is deemed to be interrupted only when an employee effectively leaves that country with the intention to settle permanently in another country pursuant to paragraph (1) of this article.
- (3) For the purposes of paragraphs (1) and (2) of this article, an employee may be asked to provide relevant documents such as previous employment contract(s), certificates of registration/de registration with local authorities, tax returns or social security payments.
- (4) Periods of study in the country concerned are taken into account for the relevant periods of permanent residence under Article 72(1)(b) and (2) ServRegs.

Article 2

Service with national administrations and international organisations

For the purpose of calculating the relevant periods of permanent residence under Article 72(1)(b) and (2) ServRegs, the term "service" does not include previous service in national administrations or with international organisations in cases where the national administration or international organisation recruited the employee in the country where he served.

Article 3

Dual nationality

For clarification purposes, Article 72(1)(b) ServRegs also applies to employees with dual nationality including that of the country in which they will be serving.

Article 4
Entry into force¹

This circular enters into force on 15 May 2018.

Munich, 9 May 2018

Circular No. 397

(1 January 2020)

Guidelines for the application of Article 52 of the Service Regulations on professional incompetence

I. Introduction

The EPO's long-term sustainability relies on the performance of its employees. It is therefore expected that all EPO employees provide contributions commensurate with their job profile, grade, seniority¹ and statutory working hours.

However, situations may arise where an employee's overall performance falls to an unacceptable level with regard to the achievement of their objectives and/or the competency requirements of the job profile. The existing framework of Circular No. 365 ("General Guidelines on the EPO Competency Framework") describes the expectations for each job profile and the competencies required (including elements of attitude to work and dealing with others). It is complemented by both Circular No. 366 ("Guidelines on performance development"), which sets out the performance development cycle, and the job description that is drafted for – and given to – each employee, indicating their job group, job profile and a description of their tasks and duties.

II. PROCEDURE FOR REMEDYING CASES OF LACK OF ABILITY AND EFFICIENCY

In cases where performance is unacceptable, it is the responsibility of the reporting officer and the countersigning officer to indicate this in the appraisal report, and to take appropriate support measures to assist the employee in returning to a satisfactory level of performance.

Assisting an employee in returning to a satisfactory level of performance involves providing them with:

- a description of the unacceptable aspects of their performance;
- notification of the improvements that are expected;
- a clear timeline for achieving these improvements;
- support (e.g. in the form of coaching, training, etc.).

If the employee does not return to a satisfactory level of performance within a reasonable timeline, they must be advised that this could lead to a professional incompetence procedure under Article 52 of the Service Regulations. A reference to professional incompetence should be included in the appraisal report.

Sickness management and disciplinary matters are governed by different provisions.

III. PROFESSIONAL INCOMPETENCE PROCEDURE

Professional incompetence is defined as an employee's lack of ability and/or efficiency (as outlined in Circular No. 365 and including elements of attitude to work and dealing with others) in the performance of their duties and in relation to their job profile, grade and seniority¹. For an employee, such incompetence is demonstrated by an unacceptable, i.e. severe and recurring or persistent, departure from the expected standards of performance. It is incumbent upon the Office to take specific measures to deal with cases of professional incompetence.

Cases of professional incompetence are exceptionally rare, and the Office actively seeks to avoid, as far as possible, the need to initiate procedures to deal with them.

The professional incompetence procedure comprises the following steps:

Step 1

- Upon completion of three consecutive annual appraisal reports indicating an unacceptable level of overall performance, the reporting officer and countersigning officer escalate the case to the President with a view to initiating a professional incompetence procedure under Article 52 ServRegs.
- The President, after considering the circumstances of the individual case, decides whether to refer the case to the Joint Committee. If the President decides to do so, the Joint Committee is provided with a reasoned proposal for appropriate measures in accordance with Article 52(2) ServRegs, namely that the employee be downgraded. In the case of downgrading, the employee is assigned to an appropriate step in the next lower grade.
- The President takes a decision after receiving the reasoned opinion of the Joint Committee in accordance with the procedure set out in Article 53b ServRegs.

Step 2

- Following the completion of step 1 and the implementation of the measures provided therein, should the employee receive two further consecutive appraisal reports indicating that their overall performance is unacceptable, the reporting officer and countersigning officer escalate the case to the President with a view to initiating a new professional incompetence procedure under Article 52 ServRegs.
- The President, after considering the circumstances of the individual case, decides whether to refer the case to the Joint Committee. If the President decides to do so, the Joint Committee is provided with a reasoned proposal for imposing one of the measures set out in Article 52(2) ServRegs, up to and including dismissal.

- After receiving the reasoned opinion of the Joint Committee, the President takes a decision in accordance with the procedure set out in Article 53b ServRegs.

IV. ENTRY INTO FORCE

This circular will enter into force on 1 January 2020.

Transitional measure

In addition to assessments carried out in the first quarter of 2020 relating to performance in 2019, consecutive appraisal reports with an assessment described as unacceptable and/or of a box marking "8" and/or including the comment "far below the expected level" issued before 1 January 2020 may be taken into account and combined with staff reports issued as of 1 January 2020 for the purposes of applying the professional incompetence procedure according to Article 52 ServRegs as described under section III. above.

Application of a step 2-measure can be considered only, once a step 1-measure has been applied after entry into force of this circular.

Circular No. 403
(16. December 2019)

Contribution rates to the New Pension Scheme and to the Salary Savings Plan applicable as from 1 January 2020

At its 115th meeting in October 2008, the Administrative Council adopted the New Pension Scheme (NPS) and the Salary Savings Plan (SSP), both applicable to employees entering the Office on or after 1 January 2009 (cf. CA/D 12/08 and CA/D 13/08).

As stated in section I.B.(1) of the Implementing Rule to Article 65(3) of the Service Regulations, the contribution rate to the SSP will be established by the President of the Office on the basis of an actuarial study, after consultation with the General Consultative Committee.

The same paragraph states that the rate for compulsory contributions to the SSP will be equal to the difference between the contribution to the pension scheme applicable to employees already in service on 31 December 2008 and that payable under the New Pension Scheme Regulations (i.e. applying a pensionable ceiling of twice the basic salary for grade G1, step 4).

Article 35 of the New Pension Scheme Regulations states that the contribution to this pension scheme will also be set by the President of the Office, on the basis of an actuarial study.

In the framework of the 2019 actuarial study (cf. CA/56/19) to review pension contribution rates, the President has requested the Actuarial Advisory Group to examine the level of the contributions to the original and new pension schemes, considering the latest actuarial hypothesis and parameters. On the basis of this recommendation, the contribution rates applicable as from 1 January 2020 will be set as follows:

The global contribution rate to both the NPS and the SSP will be raised from 29.4% to 32.7% of the basic salary.

The NPS total contribution rate (Office and staff) will be raised from 24.9% to 28.8% of the basic salary, up to a ceiling of twice the salary for grade G1, step 4.

The SSP total compulsory contribution (Office and staff) will be the sum of 3.9% of the employee's basic salary, up to a ceiling of twice the salary for grade G1, step 4, and 32.7% of the part of basic salary exceeding that ceiling.

Contributions to the NPS and to the SSP by the Office and staff are apportioned two thirds and one third respectively.

Circular No. 405

(15. July 2022)

Extension and conversion of fixed-term appointments*Articles 1(7) and 8(2) and (4) of the Service Regulations*Preamble

The European Patent Office (EPO) is becoming a more agile and adaptable organisation that is better able to respond to the constantly evolving patent landscape. A significant step in this direction was taken with the adoption of the employment framework set out in CA/D 2/18. While establishing that employees on fixed-term appointments may not account for more than 20% of the total budgeted posts at the EPO, it enhances the EPO's ability to create a more flexible workforce and gives it the ability to plan and adapt its workforce to its needs.

The EPO's employees are at the centre of its efforts to respond to the ongoing changes in the patent system and they drive its achievements. The EPO has a responsibility to ensure that, as it achieves a more flexible workforce, its employees have both the predictability they need to plan effectively and transparency in how decisions on fixed-term contracts are taken.

This new circular therefore sets out the conditions provided for in CA/D 2/18 and clarifies the procedure for extending and converting fixed-term appointments for employees in job groups 4 to 6. It outlines a proactive, standard and transparent process that gives employees on fixed-term appointments greater clarity about their future prospects at the EPO.

Central to the concept of creating predictability are an initial fixed term of five years, an extension for another five years and then conversion into permanent employment. Underlying this predictable pattern is the added certainty that, for job groups 4, 5 and 6, a fixed-term appointment may never be extended beyond ten years of continuous service.

Equally important are the conditions for extension and conversion. This circular therefore clearly defines the factors which influence the decision on whether to extend or convert a fixed-term appointment in job groups 4, 5 and 6. Further predictability is provided by clearly stating by when decisions are taken.

The EPO is committed to retaining and developing talented staff. Circular No. 405 provides the tool needed to bringing together the two goals of creating a flexible and adaptable workforce and providing certainty to employees on fixed-term appointments.

Article 1
Term of fixed-term appointments

- (1) Fixed-term appointments are concluded for an initial term of five years.
- (2) Subject to Article 2(2), a fixed-term appointment will be extended once for five years and then converted into permanent employment.
- (3) A fixed-term appointment may never be extended beyond ten years of continuous service. Periods of non-active status count towards the maximum period of continuous service.
- (4) Subject to Article 2(2), the President may decide to convert a fixed-term appointment into permanent employment before ten years of continuous service have elapsed.

Article 2
Conditions for extension and conversion

- (1) Once a year, the President will assess all fixed-term appointments that are due for extension or conversion.
- (2) Fixed-term appointments are extended or converted subject to both:
 - (a) the needs of the service, i.e. the need for a particular role for the EPO's operations and strategic plans;
and
 - (b) the employee's performance over the course of their appointment so far, duly considering the extent to which they have achieved their individual goals and contributed to the overall goals of the EPO. In particular, employees who upon recruitment did not demonstrate the required proficiency in the official languages as set out in Circular No. 364, Part I.2, and were recruited under the alternative set out in Part I.3, will have to meet the following requirements:
 - (i) for job group 4 fixed-term employees, the second official language at B2 level and the third official language at A1 level one year before the date of the possible extension, and the third official language at B2 level one year before the date of the possible conversion;¹
 - (ii) for job group 5 and 6 fixed-term employees, the second official language at B2 level one year before the date of the possible extension.
- (3) The President will assess each fixed-term appointment individually, duly considering the employee's appraisal reports, any input from their line managers and the relevant HR Business Partner and, where applicable, the employee's written comments referred to in paragraph 4.

¹ Levels are as defined in the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages.

- (4) When the President does not intend to extend or convert a fixed-term appointment, they will invite the employee to submit written comments. The employee will have no less than ten working days to do so. If the appointment is then not extended or converted, the employee will be informed of the reasons why.
- (5) The President will inform an employee on a fixed-term appointment of their decision on whether or not to extend or convert the appointment no later than 12 months before it is due to end.

Article 3

End of contract

If a fixed-term appointment ends without being extended or converted, the employee will be entitled to all the benefits set out in the applicable conditions of employment. An employee whose fixed-term appointment ends for any reason other than resignation will also be entitled to outplacement services offered by an external provider selected by the EPO.

Article 4

Transitional measures

For all fixed-term appointments concluded before this circular enters into force, the EPO will extend or convert them in accordance with the general principles as described in the preamble to this circular.

Article 5

Entry into force

This circular enters into force on 15 July 2022.

Circular No. 419

(10. Mai 2022)

Guidelines on new ways of workingPreamble

The European Patent Office is an organization powered by its people. With every generation that has come and gone in the last 45 years, the Office has continued to go from strength to strength based on the efforts, commitment and expertise of its staff. Continuing success has also been based on the ability to adapt. While the patent system and the patent landscape have evolved in the course of the last four decades, so too have the operations and the services of the EPO.

It is this adaptability that has been among the greatest of our values in recent times. When the coronavirus pandemic struck at the beginning of 2020, the Office applied itself to supporting its many stakeholders with innovative solutions. But at the very heart of the Office's efforts to successfully manage the crisis was the roll-out of widespread teleworking. Among all the measures taken by the EPO – whose staff were almost entirely based in physical offices – this has emerged as the key to resolving the apparent contradiction between ensuring the health and safety of colleagues and business continuity.

Aside from the obvious health and safety benefits of teleworking, another significant advantage has also surfaced for the staff of the EPO. In two Office-wide surveys carried out in 2020, many colleagues reported the ability to achieve a greater work-life balance and a sense of well-being. And all without impacting the EPO's services, thanks largely to the unique combination of staff commitment and advances in digital workflows. As a result, the Office committed to developing a more extensive framework for teleworking in its general orientations document for operating in a post-pandemic world: "Towards a new normal: Flexibility, collaboration and community at the EPO".

This circular delivers on that commitment to the staff of the EPO. It aims to provide colleagues with a more flexible framework when pursuing their commitment to excellence. As such, the circular lays out clearly the responsibility of all parties – employees, their managers and the Office.

This may be the first time that many of these rules have been stipulated explicitly in a circular. Yet the relevant provisions have been borne out of the Office's experiences over the last two years. The suspension of core time, for example, has already been tested successfully during the pandemic. After positive feedback, these provisions remain suspended for the duration of this circular. The circular is therefore not so much what might be possible, but what we know is possible, based on lessons learnt and consultation with our stakeholders.

Some of those lessons have involved breaking new ground. One of the circular's most striking provisions is the possibility to reside in any place a colleague wishes within their country of employment. Furthermore, a maximum of 60 days of teleworking is permitted outside the employee's country of employment, in any of our contracting states. This not only ushers in a new era of personal choice, it is also a celebration of our diversity and our European identity. As an Office drawing staff from across 38 contracting states, it is also set to provide a boon to our attraction as a prospective employer in search of the brightest talents.

Similarly, a minimum on-site attendance at the place of employment is also stipulated. The EPO's buildings are the home of its professional community. The teleworking framework recognizes that they play a role in both the professional life of colleagues and in a sustainable future for the EPO.

Despite the level of choice offered by this framework, it is also understood that the provisions will almost certainly not cater for every situation. In addition, there are still some elements of the framework that represent uncharted territory for the Office, and the EPO is committed to balancing the needs of its staff with that of its other stakeholders. For these reasons this circular is introduced initially as a pilot scheme: the Office will observe whether the circular is capable of meeting its objectives in an everchanging environment and propose amendments where necessary.

However, based on the experience of the last two years, we have every reason to believe this teleworking framework will deliver previously unseen levels of flexibility for staff. The hybrid future we have envisioned is not just one step closer, it is one we can look forward to with confidence, as one Office.

Part I

Outline of teleworking

Article 1

Geographical scope

Teleworking may be performed at:

- (a) the primary teleworking place at the employee's residence or at any other location within their country of employment.
- (b) any other location within the territories of the contracting states, as described in the Annex to this Circular.

Article 2

Eligibility and general principles

The eligibility of newly recruited employees during their probation shall be assessed by their line manager with the aim to ensure their smooth onboarding.
- (2) Teleworking is voluntary.
- (3) Teleworking must be compatible with the interests of the service, in particular the proper performance of the employees' duties, the smooth functioning of the Office and effective team collaboration as well as with considerations of health and safety, information security and IT operations.

- (4) The choice of an employee to telework will have no adverse effect on their entitlements to remuneration and leave or to their training, performance appraisal and career opportunities.
- (5) The choice of an employee to telework will carry no costs to the Office unless otherwise provided for in the present circular.
- (6) The President of the Boards of Appeal may adopt general guidelines for the application of the present circular to the members of the Boards of Appeal.

Article 3 Modalities of teleworking

- (c) Working on-site at an EPO location other than the employee's place of employment will be subject to capacity at said location.
- (d) Teleworking under Article 1(b) of the present circular may not exceed 60 working days a year.

Article 4 Sense of belonging

- (1) To foster a sense of belonging and to ensure smooth and efficient team collaboration, a minimum on-site attendance of 60 working days a year at the employee's place of employment is required.

injury suffered by them because of teleworking unless such damage, loss or injury was caused by equipment supplied by the Office.

- (3) Employees hold the Office harmless with regard to any costs or compensation for any damage, material loss or injury suffered by any third party and attributable to teleworking unless such damage, loss or injury was caused by equipment supplied by the Office. This does not apply to any payments due:

A review of this circular will take place not later than two years after its entry into force.
- (2) From the date of entry into force, the present circular will supersede the Guidelines for part-time home working at the EPO which entered into force on 15 May 2018 and the emergency teleworking guidelines.

Circular No. 420

Implementing Article 25
of the Data Protection Rules (DPR)

Article 1 – Purpose

The purpose of this Circular is to clarify the concept of and requirements for the restrictions of the rights of data subjects set forth in Article 25 of the Implementing Rules for Articles 1b and 32a of the Service Regulations (DPR). It also lays down rules on the conditions and procedures under which the Office, when processing personal data for its administrative functioning, namely the processing operations necessary for the Office's management and functioning set out in Article 3, may restrict in accordance with Article 25 DPR the observance of the rights and obligations provided for in Articles 15 to 22, 34 and 35 DPR, as well as of Article 4 DPR in so far as its provisions correspond to the rights and obligations provided for in Articles 15 to 22 DPR.

Article 2 – Definitions

For the purposes of this Circular, the following definitions apply, in addition to the definitions in Article 3 DPR:

"Restriction of the rights of the data subject" means the act of temporarily limiting in an individual case, in accordance with Article 25 DPR and under the requirements for lawfulness set out therein, an existing right of the data subject in relation to processing of personal data by the Office in its administrative functioning. A restriction is an exception made in particular circumstances and under certain conditions to the general rule under the DPR allowing the exercise of rights of the data subject and imposing related obligations. A restriction may be applied when the controller enjoys discretion under the applicable legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation (EPO) as to whether or not to limit the rights of the data subject.

"Exemption to the applicability of the rights of the data subject" means a privilege conferred by a legal provision of the EPO that releases the controller from certain obligations under the DPR or allows the limitation of the rights of data subjects provided for in the DPR. In order to give rise to an exemption, the legal provision of the EPO must clearly identify the scope of the exemption's application and leave the controller no room for discretion as to whether or not the exemption must be applied, even if the practical implementation may vary depending on the circumstances. An exemption is permanent in the sense that it lasts for as long as the legal provision that provides for it is in force.

"Rights of the data subject" means the rights provided for in Articles 15 to 22, 34 and 35 DPR and in Article 4 DPR in so far as its provisions correspond to the rights and obligations provided for in Articles 15 to 22 DPR, as they apply in accordance with Article 25 DPR.

"Legal provisions of the EPO" means the European Patent Convention (EPC) or its constituent parts, international agreements and treaties such as the Patent Cooperation Treaty and any provisions applicable under them, in particular in relation to the procedure for granting European patents on the basis of Article 4(3) EPC and related procedures. They include the provisions governing the publication of patent applications, patents and related information, the constitution, maintenance and preservation of files, file inspection and exclusions from file inspection, communication with parties, correction and rectification, the exchange of information with patent offices and other authorities and disciplinary proceedings against professional representatives, and further legal arrangements made by the President of the Office, rules and instruments enacted by the Administrative Council, as well as circulars, communiqués and all other legal provisions adopted or issued by the President of the Office or by the President of the Boards of Appeal.

"Hard personal data" means objective data such as identification data, contact data, professional data, administrative details, data received from specific sources, electronic communications and traffic data.

"Soft personal data" means subjective data related to a data subject such as reasoning and opinions, behavioural data, performance and conduct data and data related to or brought forward in connection with the subject-matter of proceedings or an activity.

Article 3 – Field of application

- (1) This Circular has the same field of application as provided for in Article 2 DPR. In particular, it applies to processing operations initiated and carried out by the Office throughout the procedures and activities listed in Article 4(1), including prior to commencing them and when monitoring their outcome. It also applies to co-operation, including assistance, between the Office and competent authorities of contracting states to the EPC and/or other competent authorities, for example of third countries or international organisations.
- (2) Subject to the conditions set out in this Circular, the following rights of the data subject may be restricted: right to the provision of information to data subjects, right of access, right to rectification, right to erasure, right to restriction of processing, right to communication of a personal data breach to the data subjects and right to confidentiality of electronic communications.
- (3) When it applies, the right to object under Article 23 DPR cannot be restricted. Data subjects always have the right to object to processing of their personal data under Article 5(a) DPR, i.e. processing necessary for the performance of a task carried out on the basis of legal provisions of the EPO or in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, which includes the processing necessary for the Office's management and functioning. However, while data subjects have the right to object, the controller examining the objection may nevertheless demonstrate that there are compelling legitimate grounds not to grant it.

- (4) When processing data within the framework of its official activities and fulfilling its obligations as regards rights of data subjects under the DPR, the controller must first consider whether the legal provisions of the EPO provide for any exemption to the applicability of the rights of the data subject in the processing operation. If an exemption applies, the controller is not obliged to comply with the obligations laid down in the DPR as regards the rights of the data subject in question.
- (5) When applying restrictions to the rights of the data subject, the controller and the delegated controller must be able to demonstrate compliance with the DPR and with the conditions and requirements laid down in this Circular and justify the application of the restriction.
- (6) This Circular applies to all categories of personal data, including both hard personal data and soft personal data.

Article 4 – Restrictions

- (1) The Office may restrict the application of Articles 15 to 21, 34 and 35 DPR, as well as of Article 4 DPR in so far as its provisions correspond to the rights and obligations provided for in Articles 15 to 21 DPR:
 - (a) pursuant to Article 25(1)(b), (c), (d), (f), (g) and (h) DPR when conducting investigative processes under the Implementing Rules for Articles 21, 21a and 93(2) of the Service Regulations (ServRegs)
 - (b) pursuant to Article 25(1)(b), (c), (e), (f), (g) and (h) DPR when conducting disciplinary proceedings under Articles 93, 95, 95a and Chapter 3 ServRegs
 - (c) pursuant to Article 25(1)(a), (b), (c), (e), (f), (g) and (h) DPR when processing personal data in proceedings related to the prevention and management of grievances under the provisions of Title VIII (Settlement of Disputes) ServRegs and Articles 49, 50, 51 and 52 DPR or in connection with the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims involving the EPO or its subordinate bodies, including arbitration, in order to preserve confidential information and documents obtained from the parties, interveners or other legitimate sources
 - (d) pursuant to Article 25(1)(h) DPR when processing health-related data in medical procedures and files
 - (e) pursuant to Article 25(1)(c), (g) and (h) DPR when conducting internal audits in relation to activities or organisational units of the Office
 - (f) pursuant to Article 25(1)(c), (g) and (h) DPR in investigations carried out by the Data Protection Officer under Article 43(2) DPR
 - (g) pursuant to Article 25(1)(a), (b), (c), (d), (g) and (h) DPR for the purposes of IT incident management and physical security incident reports, whether handled internally or with external involvement
 - (h) pursuant to Article 25(1)(c), (d), (g) and (h) DPR when providing or receiving assistance to or from competent public authorities, including from EPC contracting states and international organisations, or when co-operating with them on activities defined in relevant service

level agreements, memoranda of understanding and co-operation agreements, either at their request or on the Office's own initiative

- (2) Restrictions of individual rights are lawful when they safeguard the important interests listed in Article 25(1) DPR. Data subjects' rights can be restricted only when those interests are at stake and when the restrictions aim at safeguarding such interests.
- (3) Restrictions must always respect the essence of the right that is being restricted. This means that restrictions that are so extensive and intrusive that, in effect, they deprive a fundamental right of its basic substance and prevent the individual from exercising it cannot be justified. If the essence of the right is compromised, the restriction must already be considered unlawful and it is unnecessary to further assess whether it serves an objective of general interest and satisfies the necessity and proportionality criteria.
- (4) A necessity and proportionality test must be carried out in each case before a restriction is applied. Restrictions must be limited to what is strictly necessary to achieve their objective. For accountability purposes, restrictions must be documented in an internal and confidential assessment note that analyses which rights are to be restricted, for how long, for what reasons and on which of the legal grounds listed in paragraph 1 and sets out the outcome of the necessity and proportionality test. This test will also be conducted when reviewing the application of a restriction.
- (5) A restriction is in principle a temporary measure and, as such, must not restrict a right of the data subject indefinitely. Restrictions must be lifted as soon as the circumstances that justify them no longer apply and, in particular, where it is considered that an exercise of the restricted right would no longer cancel the effect of the restriction imposed or adversely affect the rights or freedoms of other data subjects.
- (6) The Office may exchange personal data of data subjects with competent public authorities of EPC contracting states in accordance with Article 20 of the EPO Protocol on Privileges and Immunities and with public authorities of third countries or international organisations under public international law. Where the exchange of personal data is initiated by another authority or international organisation, no restriction will be applied by the Office. When processing personal data received from other public entities for the purposes of performing its tasks, the Office will consult those public entities on potential grounds for imposing restrictions and the necessity and proportionality of any such restrictions unless this would jeopardise its activities.
- (7) The records of processing operations subject to restrictions and, where applicable, the documents setting out the factual and legal basis for those restrictions must be made available to the Data Protection Board upon request.

Article 5 – Specification of the controller, safeguards and storage periods

- (1) Unless otherwise specified in the DPR, the President of the Office acts as the controller of the personal data processed by the Office and is free to delegate competence to determine the purposes and means of processing certain personal data to an organisational unit, represented by its head. Data subjects must be informed of the delegated controllers in the records and data protection notices published on the Office's intranet and/or website.
- (2) The Office must implement safeguards to prevent abuse of, unlawful access to or transmission or transfer of personal data in respect of which restrictions apply or could be applied. Such safeguards include technical and organisational measures and must be detailed as necessary in circulars, guidelines, procedural documentation and administrative instructions of the Office. The measures must include:
 - (a) a clear definition of roles, responsibilities and procedural steps
 - (b) a secure electronic environment which prevents unlawful and accidental access to or transfer of electronic data to unauthorised persons
 - (c) secure storage and processing of paper-based documents
 - (d) due monitoring of restrictions and periodic review of their application

The reviews referred to in point (d) must be conducted at least once a year and at the closure of the procedure in question.

- (3) Restrictions must be lifted as soon as the circumstances that justify them no longer apply.
- (4) The storage period of the personal data processed in the procedures in which restrictions are applied must be no longer than specified in the records and data protection notices for the procedures and activities listed in Article 4(1). At the end of the storage period, the case-related information, including personal data, must be deleted, anonymised or stored in the Office's historical archives.
- (5) When considering whether to apply a restriction, the Office must weigh up the potential risks to the rights and freedoms of the data subject against, in particular, the risks to the rights and freedoms of other data subjects and the risks of hindering the purpose and outcome of the processing operation. Risks to the rights and freedoms of the data subject primarily include, but are not limited to, reputational risks and risks to the right of defence and the right to be heard.

Article 6 – Involvement of the Data Protection Officer

- (1) The delegated controller must inform the Data Protection Officer without undue delay whenever the delegated controller restricts the application of the rights of data subjects, lifts the restriction or revises the period of restriction in accordance with this Circular. The delegated controller will provide the Data Protection Officer with access to the internal and confidential assessment note containing the assessment of the necessity and proportionality of the restriction and any documents concerning the factual or legal context, and document the date the Data Protection Officer is informed in the specific record.

- (2) The Data Protection Officer may request the delegated controller in writing to review the application of a restriction. The delegated controller must inform the Data Protection Officer in writing of the outcome of the requested review.
- (3) The involvement of the Data Protection Officer in the restriction procedure, including any exchanges of information, must be documented in an appropriate form.

Article 7 – Information for data subjects on restrictions of their rights

- (1) The Office must publish on its intranet and/or its website records within the meaning of Article 32 DPR, data protection notices and/or privacy policies which inform all data subjects of the activities involving processing of their personal data and of their rights in relation to a given processing, including information on any potential restrictions of these rights. The information must cover which rights may be restricted, the grounds on which the restriction may be applied and the potential duration of the restriction.
- (2) Where data subjects request to exercise their right of access, rectification, erasure and restriction of processing in relation to their personal data processed in the context of one or more specific cases or in a particular processing operation, the Office will limit its assessment of their request to the personal data concerned only.
- (3) Where applicable, the delegated controller must inform data subjects individually, in writing and without undue delay of current or future restrictions of their rights. The delegated controller must also inform the data subjects of the principal reasons and the legal grounds on which the restrictions are based and the potential duration of the restrictions, of their right to consult the Data Protection Officer with a view to challenging the restriction and of their right to seek legal redress under Articles 49 and 50 DPR.
- (4) In duly justified cases and under the conditions laid down in this Circular, the controller may restrict the provision of certain information where this is necessary and proportionate in the context of the procedures and activities listed in Article 4(1). In particular, the provision of information about the reasons for a restriction and the right to seek legal redress under Articles 49 and 50 DPR may be deferred, omitted or denied in accordance with Article 25(4) DPR if it would cancel the effect of the restriction.
- (5) Where the delegated controller restricts, wholly or partly, the provision of information referred to in paragraph 3, it must document in the internal and confidential assessment note the reasons for the restriction, including a reasoned assessment of its necessity and proportionality, the legal grounds for it and its duration.

- (6) A restriction referred to in paragraph 4 continues to apply for as long as the reasons justifying it remain applicable. An assessment of whether the reasons remain applicable must take place in every case. Once the reasons for the restriction no longer apply, the delegated controller must provide the data subject with the information.
- (7) The delegated controller will review the application of the restriction at least once a year and at the closure of the procedure in question. Thereafter, the delegated controller will monitor the need to maintain any restriction on an annual basis.
- (8) The provisions of this Article do not apply to the right of access to medical data and/or files, for which specific rules are explicitly laid down in Article 8 below.

Article 8 – Right of access to medical data and/or files

- (1) Restrictions of the right of access of data subjects to their medical data and/or files are governed by the specific provisions of this Article.
- (2) Subject to the following paragraphs of this Article, the Office may restrict a data subject's right to directly access their personal medical data and/or files of a psychological or psychiatric nature which are processed by the Office but only if access to those data is likely to adversely affect and pose an immediate danger to the life and health of the data subject or others. The restriction must be proportionate to what is strictly necessary to protect the data subject or others.
- (3) Access to the data referred to in paragraph 2 must be given to a physician of the data subject's choice.
- (4) Where data subjects request to exercise their right of access to their personal medical data processed in the context of one or more specific cases or in a particular processing operation, the Office will limit its assessment of their request to the personal data concerned only.
- (5) Where the Office restricts, wholly or partly, a data subject's right of direct access to personal medical data and/or files of a psychological or psychiatric nature, it must take the following steps:
 - (a) inform the data subject concerned, in its reply to the request, of the restriction applied and of the principal reasons for it and of their right to consult the Data Protection Officer and seek legal redress in accordance with Articles 49 and 50 DPR. The provision of this information may be deferred, omitted or denied in accordance with Article 25(4) DPR if it would cancel the effect of the restriction.
 - (b) document in the internal and confidential assessment note the reasons for the restriction, including a reasoned assessment of its necessity and proportionality which, in particular, evaluates how exercising the right of access would adversely affect and pose an immediate danger to the life and health of the data subject or others, and the potential duration of the restriction.

- (6) Any restriction referred to in this Article will continue to apply for as long as the reasons justifying it remain applicable. Once the reasons for the restriction no longer apply, upon a request of the data subject, the delegated controller will review the need to maintain the restriction.

Article 9 – Communication of a personal data breach to the data subject

- (1) Where the Office is under an obligation to communicate a data breach under Article 34(6) DPR, it may, in exceptional circumstances, restrict such communication wholly or partly. However, the right to this communication must not be restricted in procedures for dealing with harassment.
- (2) The delegated controller must draw up a note documenting the reasons for the restriction, the legal ground for it under Article 4(1) and an assessment of its necessity and proportionality. This note must be communicated to the Data Protection Officer when the personal data breach is notified. (3) Once the reasons for the restriction no longer apply, the Office must communicate the personal data breach to the data subjects concerned and inform them of the principal reasons for the restriction and of their right to consult the Data Protection Officer and seek legal redress in accordance with Articles 49 and 50 DPR.

Article 10 – Confidentiality of electronic communications

- (1) In exceptional circumstances, the Office may restrict the right to confidentiality of electronic communications under Article 35 DPR. Such restrictions must comply with the Guidelines on Electronic Communications.
- (2) Where the Office restricts the right to confidentiality of electronic communications, it must inform the data subject concerned, in its reply to any request from that data subject, of the principal reasons for applying the restriction and of the right to seek legal redress in accordance with Article 49 and Article 50 DPR.
- (3) The Office may defer, omit or deny the provision of information about the reasons for a restriction and about the right to consult the Data Protection Officer and seek legal redress in accordance with Articles 49 and 50 DPR for as long as such provision would cancel the effect of the restriction. An assessment of whether deferring, omitting or denying the provision of information is justified must take place in every case.

Circular No. 421
(16. December 2022)

EPO video surveillance policy

Article 1 – Introduction

- (1) The exponential growth of technologies in which personal data is processed, including video surveillance systems, has raised concerns over the fundamental rights and freedoms of data subjects, especially since the introduction of intelligent video analysis tools as part of them. Despite the genuine safety and security purposes that these systems intend to serve, the impact that they have on privacy and data subject rights deserves special attention.
- (2) The use of video surveillance in accordance with the video surveillance policy set out here (hereinafter "this policy") is part of the Physical Security Guidelines (Circular No. 381). This policy is intended to provide the framework and guiding principles according to which the video surveillance system (hereinafter "VSS") at the EPO is designed, deployed and used. It describes the VSS and the safeguards put in place by the EPO to ensure the protection of personal data, privacy and other fundamental rights and legitimate interests of individuals affected by the VSS and to ensure that the VSS is in continuous compliance with the legal framework applicable to the protection of personal data at the EPO, as enshrined in particular in Articles 1b and 32a of the Service Regulations and related rules.
- (3) This policy will be subject to review by the EPO department operating the VSS under the responsibility of the delegated controller every two years, with the first review being carried out by the end of 2024. During the reviews the EPO will examine the need for the VSS, whether it continues to serve its defined purpose, its scope and the existing alternatives. The review will take into account legislative developments to ensure this policy continues to comply with the applicable legislative framework. Copies of the periodic review reports will be available on the EPO intranet and/or website.
- (4) With the introduction of new Data Protection Rules (hereinafter "DPR") and this policy, the EPO is aligning itself with the highest international standards and the best practices followed in other international organisations and at EU institutions, bodies and agencies in the light of the recommendations of the European Data Protection Supervisor and the European Data Protection Board.

Article 2 – Field of application

This policy applies to all natural persons (hereinafter "data subjects") who, from the moment they are in the direct vicinity of or enter EPO premises, can be identified, either directly or indirectly, and whose personal data is processed by the VSS. This includes the cameras used for automatic number plate recognition (hereinafter "ANPR") that are deployed at some EPO car park entrances to authorise staff and visitor vehicles to enter and make use of the EPO parking facilities.

Article 3 – Principles

In line with the EPO data protection framework, this policy is based on the following key principles.

(a) Lawfulness, fairness and transparency

The use of the VSS is necessary for the correct management and functioning of the EPO. The use of the VSS is lawful in accordance with Article 5(a) and Article 5(e) DPR. In addition, it finds a legal basis in Circular No. 381, which requires the EPO to implement the security principles defined therein and specifies which areas may be covered by video surveillance (Article 7) to protect the EPO's staff, third parties on the EPO's premises and the assets of the European Patent Organisation.

Pursuant to Article 20 of the Protocol on Privileges and Immunities of the European Patent Organisation, the Organisation has the duty to co-operate with the competent authorities of the contracting states, including to ensure the observance of police regulations, which includes security matters. This policy does not detract from this duty.

Personal data can also be considered lawfully processed when it is used to protect the vital interests of data subjects or of another natural person.

Information on the existence of the VSS will be made available to the public. This information will be provided in a layered approach by means of signs and the publication of this policy.

(b) Purpose limitation

The purposes of the processing operations are to be able to address security and operational safety concerns efficiently, verify identities and control access to EPO buildings and information processing facilities (e.g. EPO data centre).

Personal data which is not relevant or necessary to achieve the intended purposes is not collected.

The processing of personal data for other purposes is still possible, provided those purposes are compatible with the primary ones. In such cases, and prior to the processing operation, the delegated controller will perform a compatibility assessment to determine the degree of compatibility of the processing operation. The outcome of the assessment will determine whether the additional purposes are explicitly or implicitly covered and provide the necessary guidance to determine whether the processing is fair and can take place.

The system is used to monitor the perimeter of our buildings and access to the buildings and to areas where sensitive information is processed or stored, thus enhancing the protection of intellectual property and sensitive information.

In the event of incidents such as intrusion, theft or evacuation, the system is also used to support the operational safety activities of the external security contractor responsible for executing the associated processes.

The delegated controller ensures that personal data is processed for the specified, explicit and legitimate purposes for which it was collected (purpose specification), preventing any further processing that may be incompatible with those purposes (compatible use). If the data is processed for several purposes, each of them is explicitly mentioned.

(c) Data minimisation

The VSS is designed to capture only personal data that is adequate, relevant and limited to the intended purposes.

If surveillance cameras or other auxiliary items are equipped with sound-receiving or sound-transmitting devices, these are disabled or turned off. This does not apply to intercom cameras where the sound device is used to facilitate communication with the data subject, but in these cases the sound transmitted or received is not recorded. Similarly, the selection of technical solutions is limited to systems that provide only the functionalities needed, and any functions not required are deactivated.

When selecting technical solutions, the delegated controller will first consider privacy-friendly systems that would allow the scrambling or masking of areas that are not relevant for the intended surveillance purposes, or those that entail privacy concerns.

The VSS processes the following personal data:

- name, surname and staff number of users who access the software applications used to monitor video surveillance cameras
- images of staff, visitors and contractors and their vehicles who access EPO premises, including the images' date and time stamp
- images of staff, visitors and contractors who access or leave the different EPO security zones or are in the high-security or core utilities zones
- number plates of staff and visitors who access EPO parking facilities
- metadata from the images captured by the system (e.g. motion, direction, time, speed).

Metadata embedded in the images is used to identify security breaches such as abandoned items and movements that are suspicious, in unusual directions or erratic, and so to trigger alarms. It optimises use of the system by reducing the time security officers need to spend looking at the images. Metadata also enables faster searches in stored images without the need to spend large amounts of time.

The VSS does not:

- collect any special categories of personal data
- make use of biometric data
- record conversations
- record images of persons in areas subject to heightened expectations of privacy.

The delegated controller will consult the Data Protection Officer (hereinafter "DPO") about any changes to the categories of personal data collected or the areas monitored by the VSS before those changes are implemented.

Areas under surveillance

The EPO has established a security-zoning model in which areas have been delimited based on the security risks that they face and the safety processes that they support. In this model there are five distinct security zones, ranging from the lowest-security level or zone zero, which comprises publicly accessible spaces, to the highest-security level or zone four, where confidential data is processed or stored. The deployment of video surveillance cameras in these zones is based on regular risk assessments by the EPO which are detailed in the record of processing activities for the VSS.

The brand, type, function, location and purpose of each video surveillance camera are included in a confidential document and can be consulted by the DPO and the delegated controller.

ANPR cameras are also deployed and serve as means to facilitate access for staff and their vehicles to the parking areas located on EPO premises.

Areas subject to heightened expectations of privacy, such as offices, leisure areas, canteens, bars, cafeterias, toilets, showers and changing rooms, are not monitored.

A data protection impact analysis is conducted in all cases where the processing operation is likely to result in a high risk to the rights and freedoms of data subjects.

(d) Accuracy

The delegated controller ensures that personal data is accurate and kept up to date, making sure any inaccurate data is erased or rectified without delay, having regard to the purposes for which it is processed.

To apply this principle, the delegated controller puts in place the necessary standard operating procedures (SOPs), which can be consulted by the DPO. The SOPs define the steps taken to ensure that personal data processed or stored in the VSS is regularly checked, ensuring the data collected is up to date and accurate. The SOPs also define the process followed to correct any outdated or inaccurate data whenever found by the delegated controller or reported by the data subject (Article 19 DPR: right to rectification; and Article 20 DPR: right to erasure).

The VSS is connected to the EPO time server, which synchronises the access control and security management system logs, making sure that all events recorded by either are accurately reported.

(e) Storage limitation

Personal data is deleted as soon as it is no longer needed for the purposes for which it was collected.

Considering the lawful basis and purposes established for processing personal data using the VSS, the maximum retention period for images captured is set at seven days¹, after which the images are automatically erased. This retention period can be extended for backups of images related to identified incidents where the footage becomes part of the evidence to support investigations, appeals, litigation or claims. It can be extended until the investigations, appeals, litigation or claims are resolved.

(f) Integrity and confidentiality

The delegated controller ensures that all appropriate technical and organisational measures to maintain the security and confidentiality of personal data are in place, including protection against accidental loss, harm, destruction, damage or dissemination. The security measures are analysed and regularly reviewed and adapted on a case-by-case basis.

Under point 6.9 of the General Conditions of Contract and, where applicable, the conditions agreed in the data processing agreements signed with the companies, all contractors processing personal data ensure that it is processed in accordance with the applicable laws and regulations, in particular with the DPR. Internal staff too are bound by the DPR.

The delegated controller is responsible for implementation of the necessary technical and organisational measures that guarantee the integrity and confidentiality of the personal data processed or stored in the VSS. These measures are proportionate to the risk of destruction, alteration, unauthorised access or disclosure that the VSS entails to the rights and freedoms of the data subjects impacted.

Protection measures

Personal data processed or stored in the VSS is protected in a way that allows the segregation of functions and limits access to personal data based on roles and functions.

As far as technically possible, the delegated controller implements the applicable ISO 27001 controls, especially those established for mobile devices and teleworking, human resource security, asset management, media handling, access control, cryptography, secure areas and equipment security.

¹ The retention periods of other categories of data are indicated in the VSS record of processing activities.

Regular internal checks (vulnerability tests) are performed to verify the integrity, confidentiality and availability of the system and its components, as well as the level of compliance with the controls mentioned above.

Access to the VSS application requires authentication via Business Information Technology tools (password/active directory) plus an additional password for the application¹.

All images recorded are encrypted. All personal data is stored in secure IT applications in accordance with EPO security standards. These include:

- user authentication: all workstations and servers require the standard login, mobile devices require login to the EPO enclave, privileged accounts require additional, stronger authentication
- access control (e.g. role-based access control to the systems and network, principles of need to know and least privilege): separation into administrator and user roles, users have minimum privileges, reduction of overall administrator roles to a minimum
- security hardening of systems, equipment and network: 802.1x for network access, encryption of endpoint devices, antivirus on all devices
- physical protection: EPO access controls, additional access controls to data centre, policies to lock offices
- transmission and input controls (e.g. audit logging, system and network monitoring): security monitoring with specialised software that analyses machine-generated data to detect threats
- security incident response: 24/7 monitoring for incidents, on-call security expert.

Access to personal data

A limited number of persons with a need to know and who are regularly trained in data protection are granted permission to access personal data or the systems in which it is processed or stored. The list of persons who have access is contained in the confidential document "List of persons who have access to the VSS with their access rights".

Each individual's access is based on their role and responsibilities and is always limited in time and purpose to the minimum needed to perform their specific duties (e.g. security, maintenance, system administration).

Security personnel in charge of protecting EPO buildings are granted access to the last 60 minutes of recordings. The purpose of this access is the processing of alarms and support for emergencies during that limited time frame.

The list of individuals with access to personal data or systems in which it is processed or stored is regularly reviewed and updated. Procedures for granting, changing and revoking access are readily available.

¹ Implemented in The Hague and to be gradually applied to the other EPO sites in the near future.

Access to personal data stored in the system (e.g. to evaluate an incident) requires the prior approval of the delegated controller, who may consult the DPO. All details regarding access to personal data are recorded in the document: "Access to personal data logs".

Disclosure of personal data

Personal data processed or stored in the VSS is used only internally by the EPO department operating the VSS and staff of its external security contractor to assist them in the performance of their duties.

Other persons have the right to access their personal data on request to the delegated controller who may consult the DPO for advice.

In the event of highly unsafe driving behaviour, the delegated controller can provide access to the video footage of the incident to the EPO safety experts for their analysis and expert advice, consulting the DPO for advice if necessary.

In the case of accidents or incidents that entail insurance claims, the delegated controller can also provide access to the relevant video footage to the company processing the claim, provided all the relevant DPR provisions for such disclosure are respected.

The delegated controller maintains an accurate register documenting disclosure, including its legal basis, date and time, the type of personal data disclosed and the recipients.

Article 4 – Individual rights

Right to be informed

- (1) Individuals have the right to obtain confirmation from the controller as to whether or not their personal data is being processed. Data subjects will receive information in accordance with Article 16 DPR. Information on the presence of the VSS will be made available to the public. This information will be provided in a layered approach as follows.
- (2) The first information layer consists of information signage. The signs, of an appropriate size depending on their location, will be clearly visible and readable. They will provide the details of the delegated controller, the purpose of the processing operations and contact information. They will also indicate where to find any relevant additional information, such as data subject rights. This will be achieved with either a link or a QR code to a location where data subjects can easily find the information.
- (3) The second layer is this policy, accessible at the links given on the warning signs and readily available in hard copy in the reception areas of EPO buildings.
- (4) It is not necessary to make camera positions public, as long as it is easy for data subjects to recognise that they are entering areas being monitored.

Other data subject rights

- (1) Individuals recorded by the VSS have the right to access the footage, and the right to rectification, the right to object, the right to erasure and the right to the restriction of processing.
- (2) Data subjects can exercise any of the above-mentioned rights by sending a written request to the delegated controller, who will respond within a month of the date of receipt of the request.
- (3) The delegated controller will process requests related to access to and provision, erasure, correction, rectification or completion of personal data without undue delay and no later than a month from receipt of the request.
- (4) The delegated controller can refuse to provide the information if it can be proven that the request is manifestly unfounded or excessive.

Article 5 – Training

- (1) The DPO will promote regular data protection training programmes and raise awareness among EPO staff involved in processing operations. The contract managers of contractors involved in the processing operations will ensure that the contractor's staff are adequately trained to comply with this policy.
- (2) The training, which is compulsory for all staff given access to live or recorded personal data, will include as a minimum the risks that the processing operations entail for personal data, with special reference to the precautions taken if personal data from special categories is processed. The following points will be covered:
 - the EPO policy for recording and retaining information
 - how to handle the information securely
 - what to do if a request for information is received, for example from the police
 - how to recognise a data subject request and what to do if one is received

Article 6 – Documents to be maintained by the delegated controller (confidential)

- Map with the locations of all video surveillance cameras
- Vulnerability test with results and action list plus status of completion
- Data protection impact analysis
- Data protection training logs
- Access to personal data logs
- List of persons who have access to the VSS with their access rights
- Standard operating procedure (SOP) for granting, changing and revoking physical and logical access

- SOP for verifying the accuracy of personal data processed or stored
- Contract with security providers
- EPO security model, including security zones

secondment and leave on personal grounds

This circular sets out the specifications for external professional mobility, in particular while on secondment or on leave on personal grounds. This document serves as a guide for:

- the EPO, and host organisations in the case of secondment, to clarify the procedure and facilitate the organisation of either form of external professional mobility,
- Office employees exercising either form of external professional mobility to offer clarity on working conditions.

Part I – Secondment (Article 45 of the Service Regulations)Article 1 – Secondment agreement and conditions for secondment

- (1) Before a secondment takes place, the Office, the host organisation and the seconded employee will sign a written agreement on the nature as well as terms and conditions of the secondment.
- (2) The secondment agreement will set out the balance of responsibilities between the host organisation and the Office and govern the degree to which the rules of the respective organisation will apply to the working conditions of the seconded employee during the secondment period.
- (3) The secondment agreement will detail the place of work during the secondment and include a job description setting out the tasks and functions to be performed by the seconded employee at the host organisation during the secondment period.

Article 2 – Conflict of interests

- (1) An employee on secondment remains bound by the obligations under the Service Regulations (hereinafter referred to as the "ServRegs") in relation to their functions and duties towards the Office.
- (2) To the extent compatible with their duties and obligations towards the Office and to the extent agreed upon in the secondment agreement, the seconded employee will comply with the internal rules of the host organisation. Any breach of such rules reported to the Office by the host organisation may lead to termination of the secondment.
- (3) In the case of conflict between obligations arising from employment with the Office and obligations imposed by the host organisation, the former will prevail.

Article 3 – Maintenance of links with the Office

- (1) The employee on secondment and their line manager have a shared responsibility to keep in close and regular contact, via email or phone. Direct meetings (face to face, by videoconference or by telephone) will take place at least once every three months. These meetings are also intended as an opportunity for the seconded employee to give feedback on the secondment.
- (2) In the case of a secondment lasting more than one year, the employee on secondment will submit an annual activity report.

Article 4 – Relocation

- (1) In accordance with Article 45(2)(d) ServRegs and where applicable, the seconded employee will be eligible for the following additional compensation:
 - (a) The installation allowance as provided for in Article 73 ServRegs. This payment will be made by the Office only upon the beginning of the secondment;
 - (b) Reimbursement of travel expenses when taking up appointment as provided for in Article 80 ServRegs;
 - (c) Lump sum compensation for expenses actually incurred for the removal of household and personal effects in accordance with Article 81(1)(b) ServRegs.
- (2) A seconded employee must continue to meet the conditions specified in Article 72(1)(a) ServRegs to remain entitled to an expatriation allowance during the secondment period.

Article 5 – Duration

- (1) The starting date and the duration of the secondment will be defined with a view to delivering optimum value to the Office, the host organisation and the seconded employee.
- (2) The secondment will be without prejudice to the right of the Office to call upon the seconded employee for temporary assistance during their secondment if necessary and in the interest of the service.
- (3) In the case of extended sick leave or incapacity, the Office may terminate the secondment before its scheduled expiry date.

Article 6 – Working time and public holidays

- (1) The full-time working hours at the host organisation will apply to the seconded employee. During the secondment, the public holidays observed by the host organisation will apply instead of those observed at the seconded employee's place of employment. Further provisions as to working time and conditions may be included in the secondment agreement.
- (2) In principle, a seconded employee will work full time. In exceptional cases, an employee who has been authorised to work part-time at the Office may continue to work part-time during the secondment upon agreement by the host organisation.

- (3) Office closure days established by the President in accordance with Rule 4(b) of Circular No. 22 do not apply to employees on secondment.

Article 7 – Leave and absences

- (1) Leave entitlements as provided for in the Service Regulations will continue to apply to employees on secondment. The employee on secondment will take leave days in agreement with the host organisation and report them to the Office under the conditions defined in the secondment agreement.
- (2) The employee on secondment will notify the host organisation, under the conditions defined in the secondment agreement, of any absence for health reasons. The employee on secondment will also comply with the health and safety instructions applicable at the host organisation.

Article 8 – Performance appraisal and career progression

- (1) During the secondment period, the seconded employee's performance will be assessed by the last reporting officer they had before the start of the secondment. The performance appraisal rules in force at the Office will be applied to the extent possible with due regard to the specificities of the secondment.
- (2) Goal setting for each appraisal period will be informed by the job description for the secondment period, the information received from the host organisation on the seconded employee's performance and discussions held between the reporting officer and the seconded employee.
- (3) The reporting officer will request input from the host organisation on the seconded employee's performance and take it into account when drafting the appraisal report.
- (4) During the secondment period, the seconded employee will continue to be considered for pensionable and non-pensionable rewards on the basis of their performance as well as other elements such as collaborative behaviour, professional development and achievement of goals in ongoing projects between the Office and the host organisation. These elements will be informed by the input supplied by the host organisation.

Article 9 – Vacancy of post

Without prejudice to Article 45(2)(e) ServRegs, a post which is unoccupied following the incumbent's departure on secondment for a period exceeding six months is considered vacant from the first day of the secondment period.

Part II – Leave on personal grounds (Article 44 of the Service Regulations)

Article 10 – Conditions for granting leave on personal grounds

- (1) Leave on personal grounds may be granted at the request of the employee concerned. The employee must submit the request to their line manager at least two months before the requested starting date unless otherwise agreed by the line manager. The minimum notification period, however, may not be less than one month.
- (2) The decision on granting leave is taken after consulting the employee's line management, having examined the request in detail and taken into account all relevant factors, in particular the reason for the leave, its foreseen duration and the interests of the service.
- (3) The employee will be notified of their precise obligations when the decision is taken to grant or extend leave on personal grounds.

Article 11 – Professional activity and conflict of interest

- (1) An employee who, during leave on personal grounds, envisages engaging in a professional activity or changing from the professional activity already authorised, must inform the Office accordingly.
- (2) In particular, an employee may not engage in an activity, whether gainful or not, which could lead to a conflict with the interests of the Organisation.
- (3) The employee must ensure that the activity is permitted by local law at the place where the activity occurs.

Article 12 – Maintenance of links with the Office

- (1) During leave on personal grounds, the employee will submit any request (e.g. for extension of leave or for approval of engagement in a professional activity) in writing to the relevant human resources department.
- (2) The employee will provide the Office with their contact details for the period of leave on personal grounds and keep this information updated at all times.

Article 13 – Duration

- (1) The duration of leave on personal grounds will be no less than 14 consecutive calendar days. Without prejudice to paragraph 2, the duration of the leave is restricted to one year, extendable several times for one year.
- (2) The period of leave on personal grounds granted to an employee elected or appointed to public office will be equal to the duration of the term of office.
- (3) In no case may the total duration of leave on personal grounds exceed ten years over the course of an employee's entire career at the Office.

Article 14 – Right of return and vacancy of post

- (1) Without prejudice to Article 44(5)(c) ServRegs, an employee is entitled to be reinstated to their post when the period of leave on personal grounds granted to them does not exceed six months.
- (2) The period under paragraph 1 is extended to twelve months where an employee is granted leave on personal grounds to join another national or international public body to enable them to see out their probationary period.
- (3) A post which is unoccupied following departure on leave on personal grounds for a period exceeding six months is considered vacant from the first day of that leave on personal grounds. Exceptionally, a post is considered vacant only from the date a probationary period is completed to allow employees to see out their probationary period under paragraph 2 above.

Article 15 – Reinstatement to the Office

- (1) If the employee does not file a request for extension at the latest two months before the expiry of the current period of leave, the Office will take all necessary steps for their reinstatement to the Office.
- (2) Without prejudice to Article 14, reinstatement is performed in due consideration of the employee's abilities, which are assessed on the basis of the available information, including details of any professional activity engaged in and new knowledge acquired while on leave.
- (3) Prior to their reinstatement to the Office, an employee who has been on leave on personal grounds will inform the Office in accordance with Article 17 ServRegs of any personal interest, in particular a family or a financial interest, or representation of any other interests of third parties which could actually or potentially impair their independence in carrying out their duties in the specific post offered by the Office.

Article 16 – Final provisions

- (1) This circular enters into force on 1 July 2022.
- (2) The present provisions relating to leave on personal grounds supersede Rule 1 of Circular No. 22 from the date of entry into force of this circular.

Specimen contract of the President of the Office (CA/186/09)

At its June 2009 meeting, the Administrative Council adopted the procedure for electing the next EPO President (CA/103/09 Rev. 2).

Section II.8 of that document reads as follows:

"At its meeting in October 2009, the Council shall establish the general framework of the contract to be offered to whoever is designated as a result of the procedure."

A document worded accordingly (CA/C 11/09) was discussed by the Council at a nonplenary session during its October meeting, enabling the key elements of the contract to be clarified and confirmed in the form of a general framework. The President took part in the deliberations and had an opportunity to express her point of view.

The definitive text of the contract and the necessary legal vetting will follow in due course, under the sole responsibility of the Council Chairman and with narrow scope for negotiation.

The Council further wished to make this general framework public in the interests of good governance and transparency. That is the purpose of the present text, which is being submitted for information as a CA document.

I. CONTEXT

The general principles underlying the contract for the EPO presidency were discussed at some length in 2003 before the last such election.

Since then, new contracts for vice-presidents have further crystallised the main elements defining the Organisation's contractual relations with its top managers.

These principles and elements are listed below in a general framework which is in line with recent practice whilst tailored to present requirements.

II. STRUCTURE

The contract's main headings (exhaustive list) are as follows:

a) Appointment/length of term

Five years as from [1 July 2010]. Renewable.

b) Emoluments

These comprise:

- a monthly basic salary based on that carried by Category A [grade 7, step 8] under the salary scales (Annex III to the ServRegs) for Germany; factor fixed at 135%.
- the family and other allowances normally payable under the ServRegs.
- a housing allowance of EUR 3 000 a month; Article 23 ServRegs applies.

c) Reimbursement of expenses

The general ServRegs provisions apply. In addition, reception and representation expenses arising in the course of official duties are reimbursable at a flat rate equivalent to 7% of basic salary; official vehicles may be used.

d) Social security

The ServRegs apply. The model is the contract for VPs. At the end of the contract, the outgoing President can ask to stay in the social-security scheme - in which case he or she must pay the employer's contributions as well as his or her own.

e) Pension

This is modelled on the VP system (CA/D 2/06 and CA/D 18/08), i.e. the PenRegs do not apply and contributions are paid into an external pension account of the President's choice. The factors and percentages (of basic salary) are the same as for VPs.

f) Leave

The ServRegs apply.

g) End of term of office

There are four possibilities:

- expiry of term
- non-active status due to invalidity being established under Article 62aServRegs
- termination under Article 53(1)(c) ServRegs and subject to the conditions laid down in Articles 11 and 35 EPC
- resignation, subject to six months' notice in writing

h) Protocol on Privileges and Immunities (PPI)

A general reference is included, modelled on the contract for vice-presidents.

i) Rights and obligations

The ServRegs apply mutatis mutandis. A declaration-of-nationality obligation is added, modelled on the contract for vice-presidents.

j) Disputes

The ServRegs apply (Article 108).

III. LEGAL BASIS

Articles 11(1) and 33(2)(b) and (c) EPC and the ServRegs plus annexes Council decision of [date] concerning the election of Mr/Ms [name]

IV. DOCUMENTS CITED

CA/103/09 Rev. 2, CA/D 2/06, CA/D 18/08

V. ADDENDUM

The Council considered it desirable to take up in due course, after an in-depth technical evaluation, any future proposals with regard to extending to the President the procedure for performance appraisal introduced progressively for all top managers. The adoption of any such procedure would call for a detailed analysis; moreover no reference is made to it in the vacancy notice. It cannot therefore be reasonably included in the contract resulting from the present selection exercise.

Having regard to the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the European Patent Office (hereinafter referred to as "the Service Regulations"),

Having regard to the Regulation on internal tax for the benefit of the European Patent Organisation,

Desiring to supplement the existing categories of conditions of employment for permanent employees, contract staff and auxiliary staff at the European Patent Office with conditions of employment for interpreters engaged by the European Patent Office on contract (hereinafter referred to as "interpreters"),

On a proposal from the President of the European Patent Office, submitted after consulting the General Advisory Committee,

Having regard to the opinion of the Budget and Finance Committee,

HAS DECIDED AS FOLLOWS:

Article 1
Scope

These conditions of employment shall apply to interpreters at the European Patent Office (hereinafter referred to as "the Office") recruited by the President of the Office on the basis of short-term contracts.

Article 2
Term of contract

Contracts shall be concluded for the duration of a conference, seminar, meeting of the Administrative Council, its committees or working parties, oral proceedings or, in general, any meeting organised by the EPO for which interpreting of the participants' observations is required. The duration shall be specified in the contract. It may, if necessary, be extended by agreement between the Office and the interpreter concerned.

Article 3
Recruitment

- (1) The President of the Office shall take measures to ensure effective recruitment of interpreters.
- (2) Recruitment shall be directed to securing for the Office the services of interpreters of the highest standard of ability, efficiency and integrity.

- (3)¹ Interpreters shall be selected without reference to ethnic origin, opinions or beliefs, gender, sexual orientation or disabilities.

Article 4

Rights and obligations

The provisions of Articles 14, 19, 20, 22, 24, 25, 27, 28 and 30 of the Service Regulations shall also apply to interpreters.

Article 5

Remuneration

- (1) The amount of the interpreters' daily remuneration is set out in the annex to the present decision.
- This amount is applicable to all the venues at which interpreters may be required.
- (2) The amount of the interpreters' remuneration shall be adjusted periodically by the same percentage as that applied to the remuneration of the Office's permanent employees in post in Germany, but without retroactive effect.
- (3) The amount of the interpreters' subsistence allowance shall be the same as that of the subsistence allowance for the Office's permanent employees (Group II). The periodic adjustments shall be applied without retroactive effect.

Article 6

Normal working hours

- (1) An interpreter's working hours shall normally be from 09.00 hrs to 17.00 hrs. Interpreters are expected to arrive half an hour before in order to be briefed, and they therefore usually travel on the previous day, for which half the daily fee and half the subsistence allowance are payable.
- (2) If the interpreter's professional domicile is within 80 km of the conference venue, he/she shall be considered "local" and shall only be entitled to payment of his/her remuneration but not the subsistence allowance.

Article 7

Overtime

- (1) If it becomes clear that oral proceedings, a conference or a meeting are set to continue after 17.00 hrs, the interpreters shall inform the EPO Language Service as soon as possible (by 16.00 hrs at the latest), especially if any of them have to leave on time and replacements are required.
- (2) Overtime worked after 18.00 hrs shall confer entitlement to payment of the amount set out in the annex to the present decision. This amount is subject to the same periodic adjustments as remuneration.

- (3) If an interpreter misses his/her last flight or train, or is obliged to travel after 22.00 hrs, he/she shall additionally be paid the full subsistence allowance and half the daily remuneration.

Article 8

Cancellations

- (1) If an engagement already accepted is cancelled within six weeks of the first working day, interpreters shall be entitled to payment of their remuneration provided they cannot find an alternative engagement for that day and confirm this in writing. This should be done within two weeks of the date of the cancelled engagement (one letter per engagement cancelled). Even if the engagement has been cancelled, the signed copy of the contract must be returned. The remuneration shall be equal to that agreed for the cancelled day(s), plus, where applicable, the subsistence allowance.
- (2) Written confirmation of failure to find an alternative engagement is required even if the interpreter is working for the EPO on the day before and the day after the cancellation. If the second day is a non-working day and the third day is cancelled, such written confirmation is also required for the non-working day.

Article 9

Travel costs

For non-local interpreters, the EPO shall reimburse travel expenses between the interpreter's professional domicile and the venue of the engagement on the following basis:

- for travel by air, on production of a plane ticket showing the fare actually paid together with one or more boarding cards, the actual fare up to a maximum amount equivalent to the regular business class fare. Where the plane ticket does not show the fare paid, the original invoice must be submitted together with the ticket and proof of payment
- for travel by train, the first-class IC fare or the actual price of the ticket produced (including the ICE supplement)
- for travel by car, the corresponding rate for a first-class IC train ticket without ICE supplement (the price will be obtained from the travel agency used by the EPO).

If because of other commitments a non-local interpreter does not travel direct from his/her professional domicile or does not go back there afterwards, travel costs shall nevertheless be reimbursed for the journey from the professional domicile and back by the mode of transport actually used. In the case of air travel the regular business class fare shall be reimbursed. The price will be obtained from the travel agency used by the EPO.

Article 10
Social security and pensions

Interpreters shall demonstrate that they are covered by a social security and pension scheme.

Article 11
Supplementary provisions

The President of the Office shall adopt the supplementary provisions necessary for the day-to-day handling of the interpreters' conditions of employment.

Article 12
Disciplinary measures

- (1) Any failure by an interpreter to comply with his/her obligations under these conditions of employment shall make him/her liable to disciplinary action in the form of a written warning or reprimand. Disciplinary measures shall be imposed by the President of the Office.
- (2) An interpreter found to be in serious breach of his/her obligations shall be liable to dismissal and may have all existing contracts cancelled.

Article 13
Appeals

Article 13 of the European Patent Convention shall apply.

Article 14
Protocol on Privileges and Immunities

- (1) Article 14 of the Protocol on Privileges and Immunities of the European Patent Organisation shall apply to interpreters, subject to the provisions laid down in Article 22 thereof.
- (2) Interpreters shall be subject to tax on the salaries and emoluments paid by the Office in accordance with the Regulation on internal tax for the benefit of the European Patent Organisation of 20 October 1977 and shall therefore be exempt from national income tax in accordance with Article 16, paragraph 1, of the Protocol.

Article 15
Entry into force

This decision shall enter into force on 24 October 2002.

It shall apply with effect from 1 January 2003.

Decision of the President of the European Patent Office dated 19 March 2009 adopting supplementary provisions to the conditions of employment for interpreters at the European Patent Office

The President of the European Patent Office, having regard to Article 11 of the conditions of employment for interpreters at the European Patent Office (CA/D 3/02), has decided as follows:

Article 1

For conferences taking place outside Europe and involving extended travel time, the interpreter may receive an additional payment, provided the Office has given its prior approval. This provision shall also apply to an interpreter resident outside Europe whose services are required for a conference within Europe.

If the interpreter's professional domicile is less than 100 km from the venue of the engagement, he/she shall not be entitled to payment of the subsistence allowance.

If the interpreter's professional domicile is less than 400 km¹ from the venue of the engagement, the Office shall reimburse only expenses for travel by train or car. In this case air travel expenses shall in principle not be reimbursed.

Flight tickets shall in principle be booked through the Office's travel agency. If, in exceptional and duly justified circumstances, this is impossible, the Office shall, on receipt of appropriate vouchers and without prejudice to Article 9 of the conditions of employment for interpreters at the European Patent Office (CA/D 3/02 - hereinafter referred to as the "conditions of employment"), reimburse airfares up to a maximum amount equivalent to the cheapest available business class fare.

Article 2

If the interpreter has used "air miles" under a frequent flyer programme to pay for his flight, the Office shall reimburse only the amount actually paid.

Article 3

On request, the Office may reimburse the cost of a rail card. Reduced fares shall be reimbursed accordingly.

If the timing of a conference is such that an interpreter is able to set out for it on the day on which it starts, the half-day remuneration and half-day subsistence allowance for the previous day are not payable.

Article 7(3) of the conditions of employment shall also apply in situations where the interpreter is forced to spend an additional night at the venue of the engagement merely because it is expected that overtime will be required.

Article 5

If a non-local interpreter is engaged for three or more days in a single week and on one or more of the middle days has no engagement (bridging days), the Office shall pay the full subsistence allowance plus two-thirds of the remuneration for the day(s) concerned.

The remuneration for a bridging day shall be added to that for the working day following it. In accepting a bridging day, the interpreter is obliged, upon request from the Office's Language Service, to be available on that day for an engagement at short notice, or to stand in for another interpreter. The interpreter shall therefore ensure that he/she can be reached at all times by the Office's Language Service.

Article 6

If a non-local interpreter has engagements spanning a free weekend and, as the case may be, a free Monday or Friday, the Office may, for economy's sake, offer to pay the equivalent of up to three days' subsistence allowance.

If a non-local interpreter is engaged for a two- or multiple-day event that ends early, the interpreter shall start his/her return journey on the final day of the event, subject to the availability of appropriate travel options. Any hotel cancellation fees resulting from the early departure shall be reimbursed by the Office on presentation of appropriate vouchers. If however this engagement is followed by another at the same venue, the interpreter is obliged, after consultation with the Office's Language Service and as in the case of a bridging day, to be available for an engagement at short notice, or to stand in for another interpreter. Article 5 of this decision shall apply accordingly.

Without prejudice to the provisions of Articles 7 and 8 of the conditions of employment and Articles 5 and 6 of this decision, entitlement to remuneration shall be conditional upon fulfilment of the obligations set forth in the employment contract. This also applies in principle in situations where, due to circumstances beyond the control of either the interpreter or the Office, the interpreter is unable to perform his/her duties.

Article 7

In the case of the three official languages, at least two interpreters per language shall in principle be provided for oral proceedings and conferences.

This shall in principle be increased to three for meetings of the Administrative Council, Budget and Finance Committee, Technical and Operational Support Committee and judges' symposia.

Article 8

If the hotel expenses (B & B + tax) exceed 60% of the standard subsistence allowance, the excess shall be reimbursed on presentation of appropriate vouchers if it can be shown that the expenditure was unavoidable. It shall inter alia be considered unavoidable if Office staff in job groups 4 to 6¹ use the same accommodation. Such reimbursement shall not normally exceed 30% of the interpreters' standard subsistence allowance.

Article 9

This decision shall enter into force on 1 April 2009. It replaces the decision of the President of the European Patent Office dated 6 December 2002 adopting supplementary provisions to the conditions of employment for interpreters at the European Patent Office.

IMPLEMENTING RULES FOR ARTICLES 1B AND 32A OF THE SERVICE REGULATIONS FOR PERMANENT AND OTHER EMPLOYEES OF THE EUROPEAN PATENT OFFICE ON THE PROTECTION OF PERSONAL DATA^{1/2}

These Implementing Rules set out the principles and detailed provisions governing the processing of personal data under Articles 1b and 32a of the Service Regulations.

I. General provisions

Article 1 Purpose

- (1) The purpose of these Rules is to support the implementation of Articles 1b and 32a of the Service Regulations by establishing the legal framework necessary to ensure that the fundamental rights of natural persons to privacy and to the protection of their personal data processed by the Office are observed and to provide for accountability in this regard.
- (2) These Rules will be supplemented by
 - a. further rules, administrative instructions and decisions adopted by the President of the Office,
 - b. administrative instructions adopted by the President of the Boards of Appeal in the context of the powers under Articles 10(2)(a), (e), (f) and (h), 11(3) and (5) and 48(1) of the European Patent Convention (EPC) which have been delegated to him or her by the President of the Office in so far as they relate to the Boards of Appeal Unit and its staff, including the members and Chairs of the Boards of Appeal and of the Enlarged Board of Appeal (Act of Delegation), and
 - c. operational documents issued by the Data Protection Officer, which will specify more detailed requirements and procedures for the processing of personal data.

² Decision of the President of the European Patent Office of 16 December 2021.

Article 2

1. Where the President adopted internal administrative instructions such as circulars, which directly or indirectly refer to the Guidelines for the Protection of Personal Data in the European Patent Office, these internal administrative instructions shall as of 1 January 2022 be interpreted to refer to Articles 1b and 32a of the Service Regulations for permanent and other employees of the European Patent Office and the DPR.

Article 2

Field of application

- (1) These Rules apply to the Office's processing of personal data wholly or partly by automated means and to its processing other than by automated means of personal data which form or are intended to form part of a filing system.
- (2) These Rules apply to all persons covered by Article 1 of the Service Regulations.
- (3) These Rules also apply to all natural persons not covered by paragraph 2 whose personal data are processed by the Office.
- (4) These Rules do not apply to the processing of personal data of deceased persons, of personal data which concerns legal persons or of anonymous information.
- (5) Files or sets of files, including their cover pages, which are not structured according to specific criteria do not fall within the scope of these Rules.
- (6) Articles 49 to 52 do not apply to the processing of personal data by the Boards of Appeal in their judicial capacity. An independent oversight mechanism for the Boards of Appeal shall be established to ensure compliance with these Rules.

Article 3

Definitions

For the purposes of these Rules:

- a. "personal data" means any information relating to any identified or identifiable natural person; an identifiable natural person is one who can be identified, directly or indirectly, in particular by reference to an identifier such as a name, an identification number, location data, an online identifier or to one or more factors specific to his or her physical, physiological, genetic, mental, economic, cultural or social identity; personal data which have undergone pseudonymisation but which could be attributed to a natural person by the use of additional information are to be considered to be information relating to an identifiable natural person.
- b. "processing" of personal data means any operation or set of operations which is performed on personal data or on sets of personal data, whether or not by automated means, such as collection, recording, organisation, structuring, storage, adaptation or alteration, retrieval, consultation, use, disclosure by transmission, dissemination or otherwise making available, alignment or combination, restriction, erasure or destruction.
- c. "restriction of processing" means the marking of stored personal data with the aim of limiting their processing in the future, including programming measures to permanently prevent access to such data.

- d. "profiling" means any form of automated processing of personal data consisting of the use of personal data to evaluate certain personal aspects relating to a natural person, in particular to analyse or predict aspects concerning that natural person's performance at work, economic situation, health, personal preferences, interests, reliability, behaviour, location or movements.
- e. "pseudonymisation" means the processing of personal data in such a manner that the personal data can no longer be attributed to a specific data subject without the use of additional information, provided that such additional information is kept separately and is subject to technical and organisational measures to ensure that the personal data are not attributed to an identified or identifiable natural person.
- f. "filing system" means any structured set of personal data which are accessible according to specific criteria, whether centralised, decentralised or dispersed on a functional or geographical basis.
- g. "controller" means the entity, namely the European Patent Office, which, alone or jointly with others, determines the purposes and means of the processing of personal data.
- h. "delegated controller" means the operational unit, represented by its head, ensuring that all processing operations involving personal data that are performed within the operational unit comply with these Rules. The person representing the unit shall be a manager at senior level, normally at least a principal director.
- i. "operational unit" means an organisational unit of the Office performing tasks and/or activities within the Office and defining the purpose, rationale and business needs of a processing operation.
- j. "processor" means a natural or legal person, public authority, agency or any other entity which processes personal data on behalf of the controller.
- k. "recipient" means a natural or legal person, public authority, agency or any other entity to which personal data are disclosed, whether a third party or not. However, public authorities which may receive personal data within the framework of a particular inquiry in accordance with the Protocol on Privileges and Immunities of the European Patent Organisation are not to be regarded as recipients; the processing of those data by those public authorities shall be in compliance with the data protection rules applicable in view of the purposes of the processing.
- l. "third party" means any natural or legal person, public authority, agency or body other than the data subject, the controller, the processor and the persons who, under the direct authority of the controller or the processor, are authorised to process personal data.
- m. "consent" of the data subject means any freely given, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the data subject's wishes by which the data subject, by a statement or by a clear affirmative action, signifies agreement to processing of personal data relating to him or her.

- n. "personal data breach" means a breach of security leading to the accidental or unlawful destruction, loss, alteration, unauthorised disclosure of, or access to, personal data transmitted, stored or otherwise processed.
- o. "genetic data" means personal data relating to the inherited or acquired genetic characteristics of a natural person which give unique information about the physiology or the health of that natural person and which result, in particular, from an analysis of a biological sample from that natural person.
- p. "biometric data" means personal data resulting from specific technical processing relating to the physical, physiological or behavioural characteristics of a natural person which allow or confirm the unique identification of that natural person, such as facial images or dactyloscopic data. The processing of photographs should not systematically be considered to be processing of special categories of personal data as they are covered by the definition of biometric data only when processed through specific technical means allowing the unique identification or authentication of a natural person.
- q. "personal data concerning health" means personal data related to the physical or mental health of a natural person, including the provision of healthcare services, which reveal information about his or her health status.
- r. "anonymous information" means information which does not relate to an identified or identifiable natural person or to personal data rendered anonymous in such a manner that the data subject is not or no longer identifiable.
- s. "transmission of personal data" means disclosure, dissemination of or otherwise making available, including by granting access, of personal data to a party within the European Patent Organisation or to a national industrial property office or other public authority of a contracting state to the European Patent Convention under the conditions laid down in Article 8.
- t. "transfer of personal data" means disclosure, dissemination of or otherwise making available, including by granting access, of personal data to a person or an entity outside the European Patent Organisation which is neither a national industrial property office nor a public authority of a contracting state to the European Patent Convention under the conditions laid down in Article 9.
- u. "third country" means a country which is not a contracting state to the European Patent Convention.
- v. "erasure of data" means the obliteration of stored data in such a way that reconstruction is not possible.
- w. "data subject" means any identified or identifiable natural person, irrespective of whether that person is an employee of the Office or not; to determine whether a natural person is identifiable, account should be taken of all the means reasonably likely to be used, such as singling out, either by the controller or by another person, to identify the natural person directly or indirectly.

- x. "employee" means every person covered by Article 1 of the Service Regulations.
- y. "legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation" means the European Patent Convention or its constituent parts, international agreements and other legal arrangements concluded by the President of the Office, rules and instruments enacted by the Administrative Council, as well as circulars, communiqués and all other legal provisions adopted or issued by the President of the Office or by the President of the Boards of Appeal.
- z. "information society service" means any service provided at a distance, by electronic means and at the individual request of a recipient of services.

II. General rules on the lawfulness of processing personal data

Article 4

Principles relating to processing of personal data

- (1) The controller ensures that the principles set out in this Article are observed. In particular, the controller is responsible for, and shall be able to demonstrate, compliance with paragraph 2 ("accountability"). The controller shall ensure that the processing of personal data, including the reasons for it and the means used, is appropriately documented. To this end, the controller shall follow a structured and risk-based approach to designing and documenting processing operations. The controller shall also be able to demonstrate to data subjects at all times that the documented commitments and conditions are observed when processing operations are carried out. Due regard shall be had to the organisational autonomy of the Boards of Appeal Unit and to the judicial independence of the Boards of Appeal.
- (2) Personal data shall be:
 - a. processed lawfully, fairly and in a manner transparent to the data subject ("lawfulness, fairness and transparency"); the data subject shall be informed of the existence of the processing operation and its purposes, and the controller shall provide the data subject with any further information necessary to ensure fair and transparent processing, taking into account the specific circumstances and context in which the personal data are processed;
 - b. collected for specified, explicit and legitimate purposes and not further processed in a way that is incompatible with these purposes ("purpose limitation");
 - c. adequate, relevant and limited to what is necessary in relation to the purposes for which they are processed ("data minimisation");

- d. accurate and, where necessary, kept up to date; every reasonable step shall be taken to ensure that personal data which are inaccurate or incomplete, having regard to the purposes for which they were collected or for which they are further processed, are erased or rectified without delay ("accuracy");
 - e. kept in a form which permits identification of data subjects for no longer than is necessary for the purposes for which the personal data were collected or for which they are further processed ("storage limitation");
 - f. processed in a manner that ensures appropriate security of the personal data, including protection against unauthorised or unlawful processing and against accidental loss, destruction or damage, using appropriate technical or organisational measures ("integrity and confidentiality").
- (3) As a general rule, personal data shall be collected from the data subject wherever possible.

Article 5 Lawfulness of processing

Processing of personal data is lawful only if and to the extent that at least one of the following applies:

- a. processing is necessary for the performance of a task carried out in the exercise of the official activities of the European Patent Organisation or in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, which includes the processing necessary for the Office's management and functioning, or
- b. processing is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation to which the controller is subject, or
- c. processing is necessary for the performance of a contract to which the data subject is party or in order to take steps at the request of the data subject prior to entering into a contract,
- d. or d. the data subject has given explicit consent to the processing of his or her personal data for one or more specific purposes, or
- e. processing is necessary in order to protect the vital interests of the data subject or of another natural person.

Article 6 Processing for another compatible purpose

- (1) Without prejudice to Articles 4, 5 and 12, the controller may process personal data for a purpose other than that for which the personal data were collected only if such other purpose is compatible with the purpose for which the personal data were initially collected. In such a case, no legal basis separate from that which allowed the collection of the personal data is required. The legal basis for the initial collection and processing of personal data provided by the applicable legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation may also serve as a legal basis for further processing. However, data may not be further processed in a way that is unexpected, inappropriate or objectionable for the data subject.

- (2) Personal data may also be processed for purposes other than those for which they have been collected, if such processing can be based on the data subject's explicit consent or applicable legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation which constitute a necessary and proportionate measure in a democratic society to safeguard the objectives referred to in Article 25.
- (3) Where the processing for a purpose other than that for which the personal data have been collected is not based on the data subject's explicit consent or on applicable legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation, the controller shall, in order to ascertain whether processing for another purpose is compatible with the purposes for which the personal data were initially collected, take into account, inter alia:
 - a. any link between the purposes for which the personal data were collected and the purpose of the intended further processing;
 - b. the context in which the personal data were collected, in particular regarding the relationship between data subjects and the controller;
 - c. the nature of the personal data, in particular whether special categories of personal data are processed pursuant to Article 11 or whether personal data related to criminal convictions and offences are processed pursuant to Article 12;
 - d. the possible consequences of the intended further processing for data subjects;
 - e. the existence of appropriate safeguards, which may include encryption or pseudonymisation.

Article 7

Conditions for consent

- (1) Where processing is based on consent, the controller shall be able to demonstrate that the data subject has consented to processing of his or her personal data.
- (2) Consent shall be given by a clear and affirmative act establishing a freely given, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the data subject's agreement to the processing of personal data relating to him or her, for example in the form of a written statement, including one made by electronic means, or an oral statement.
- (3) Consent shall cover all processing activities carried out for the same purpose or purposes. When the processing has multiple purposes, consent shall be given for each one of them.
- (4) For consent to be informed, the data subject shall be aware at least of the identity of the controller and the purposes of the processing for which the personal data are intended. Consent cannot be regarded as freely given if the data subject has no genuine or free choice or is unable to refuse or withdraw consent without detriment.

- (5) The data subject shall have the right to withdraw consent at any time without affecting the lawfulness of processing based on consent before its withdrawal. Prior to giving consent, the data subject shall be informed of this. It shall be as easy to withdraw as to give consent. In order to ensure that consent is freely given, consent cannot provide a valid legal ground for the processing of personal data in a specific case where there is a clear imbalance between the data subject and the controller and it is therefore unlikely in view of all the circumstances of that specific situation that consent was freely given.
- (6) If the data subject's consent is given in the context of a written declaration which also concerns other matters, the request for consent shall be presented in a manner which is clearly distinguishable from the other matters, in an intelligible and easily accessible form, using clear and plain language. Any part of such a declaration which constitutes an infringement of these Rules will not be binding.
- (7) When assessing whether consent is freely given, utmost account shall be taken of whether, inter alia, the performance of a contract, including the provision of a service, is conditional on consent to the processing of personal data that is not necessary for the performance of that contract.
- (8) Where Article 5(d) applies in relation to the offer of information society services directly to a child, the processing of the child's personal data is lawful where the child is at least 13 years old. Where the child is below the age of 13, such processing is lawful only if and to the extent that consent is given or authorised by the holder of parental responsibility over the child. The controller shall make reasonable efforts to verify in such cases that consent is given or authorised by the holder of parental responsibility over the child, taking into consideration available technology.

Article 8

Transmission of personal data to public authorities within the territory of the contracting states and to a national industrial property office of a contracting state

- (1) Without prejudice to Articles 4, 5, 6, 11 and 12, personal data may be transmitted from the Office to a recipient outside the Office but within the territory of the contracting states only if the recipient is a public authority and the data are necessary for the performance of tasks within the recipient's competence and where the transmission is compatible with the tasks and the functioning of the Office.
- (2) Without prejudice to Articles 4, 5, 6, 11 and 12, personal data may be transmitted by the Office to a national industrial property office of a contracting state if the data are necessary for the performance of tasks within the recipient's competence or for the exercise of the official authority vested in it and processing is necessary to carry out tasks in the exercise of the official activities of the European Patent Organisation or in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, which includes the processing necessary for the Office's management and functioning.

- (3) The recipient shall provide evidence that it is necessary to have the data transmitted for a specific purpose deriving from the Office's obligations of co-operation with the contracting states. The controller, where there is any reason to assume that the data subject's legitimate interests might be prejudiced, shall establish that it is proportionate to transmit the personal data for that specific purpose, after having demonstrably weighed up the various competing interests.
- (4) Where the controller initiates a transmission under paragraph 1 or 2, it shall demonstrate that the transmission of personal data is necessary for and proportionate to the purposes of the transmission by applying the criteria laid down in those paragraphs.
- (5) Without prejudice to Articles 4, 5, 6, 11 and 12, where the processing is to be carried out by a private entity engaged on behalf of the controller, personal data may be transmitted from the Office within the territory of the European Economic Area only if in compliance with these Rules and under the conditions set forth in Articles 30 and 31 of these Rules.

Article 9

Transfer of personal data

- (1) Transfers of personal data shall take place only if in compliance with these Rules, including the conditions laid down in this Article and/or Article 10. This also applies to transfers of data intended for processing after transfer to a third country or to an international organisation, and to onward transfers of personal data from a third country or an international organisation to another third country or to another international organisation. All provisions in this Article and/or Article 10 shall be applied in order to ensure that the level of protection of natural persons guaranteed by these Rules is not undermined.
- (2) The transfer of personal data to recipients outside the European Patent Office which are not covered by Article 8(1), (2) and (5) is permissible only if an adequate level of protection is ensured in the country of the recipient, or in a territory or one or more sectors within that country, or within the receiving international organisation and the data are transferred solely to allow tasks within the competence of the controller to be carried out.
- (3) In cases of doubt, the President of the Office decides, after consulting the Data Protection Officer and the Data Protection Board, whether the protection afforded by the country or international organisation in question can be considered adequate.
- (4) Transfers outside the European Patent Office to recipients which are not covered by Article 8(1) and (2) may be carried out to public authorities or bodies in third countries, or to international organisations with corresponding duties or functions on the basis of provisions to be inserted into administrative arrangements, such as a memorandum of understanding, providing for enforceable and effective rights for data subjects.

- (5) In the absence of an adequate level of protection pursuant to paragraphs 1 and 3, the controller or processor may transfer personal data to recipients outside the European Patent Office only if the controller or processor has provided appropriate safeguards, and on condition that enforceable data subject rights and effective legal remedies for data subjects are available. Such appropriate safeguards may be provided for by appropriate contractual clauses drafted after consultation of the Data Protection Board or by appropriate certification mechanisms.
- (6) Personal data transferred under this Article may be processed or used only for the purpose for which they have been transferred. They shall be deleted as soon as that purpose has been achieved. The recipient shall be advised of this and obliged to act accordingly by contract or agreement. The recipient shall provide evidence that it is necessary to have the data transferred for a specific purpose. The controller, where there is any reason to assume that the data subject's legitimate interests might be prejudiced, shall establish that it is proportionate to transfer the personal data for that specific purpose after having demonstrably weighed up the various competing interests.
- (7) Where the controller initiates a transfer of personal data under this Article, it shall demonstrate that this transfer is necessary for and proportionate to the purposes of the transfer by applying the criteria laid down in this Article.

Article 10 Derogations for specific situations

- (1) In the absence of an adequate level of protection in the country of the recipient, or of appropriate safeguards under Article 9, the transfer of personal data to recipients outside the European Patent Office which are not a national industrial property office of a contracting state is permissible only exceptionally where:
 - a. the data subject has explicitly consented to the proposed transfer, after having been informed of the possible risks of such transfers for the data subject due to the absence of an adequate level of protection and appropriate safeguards;
 - b. the transfer is necessary for the performance of a contract between the data subject and the controller or the implementation of pre-contractual measures taken at the data subject's request;
 - c. the transfer is necessary for the conclusion or performance of a contract concluded in the interest of the data subject between the controller and another natural or legal person;
 - d. the transfer is necessary for the performance of a task in the exercise of the official activities of the European Patent Organisation or in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, which includes the processing necessary for the Office's management and

- functioning, or to perform obligations arising from its duty of co-operation with the contracting states;
- e. the data transfer is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims and their transmission is not precluded by agreements under international law or other applicable legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation;
 - f. the transfer is necessary in order to protect the vital interests of the data subject or of other persons, where the data subject is physically or legally incapable of giving explicit consent; or
 - g. the transfer is made from a register which, according to the legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation, is intended to provide information to the public and which is open to consultation either by the public in general or by any person who can demonstrate a legitimate interest, to the extent that the conditions laid down for such consultation are fulfilled in the particular case.
- (2) Provision should be made in specific situations for the possibility of transfers in certain circumstances where the data subject has given his or her explicit consent and where the transfer is occasional and necessary in relation to a contract or a legal claim, regardless of whether in a judicial procedure or whether in an administrative or any out-of-court procedure. Provision should also be made for the possibility of transfers where required to perform obligations arising from the Office's duty of co-operation with the contracting states or where the transfer is made from a register established by the legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation and intended for consultation by the public or persons having a legitimate interest. In the latter case, such a transfer should not involve the entirety of the personal data or entire categories of the data contained in the register, unless authorised by legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation, and, when the register is intended for consultation by persons having a legitimate interest, the transfer should be made only at the request of those persons or, if they are to be the recipients, taking into full account the interests and fundamental rights of the data subject.
- (3) Paragraph 1(a), (b) and (c) does not apply to tasks carried out by the European Patent Office in the exercise of its official activities.
- (4) What constitutes a task carried out in the exercise of the official activities of the European Patent Office or in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, which includes the processing necessary for the Office's management and functioning, or an obligation arising from the Office's duty of co-operation with the contracting states referred to in paragraph 1(d) is to be established on the basis of the European Patent Convention and/or other applicable legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation.
- (5) A transfer pursuant to paragraph 1(g) shall not involve the entirety of the personal data or entire categories of the personal data contained in the register, unless authorised by the applicable legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation. Where the register is intended for consultation by persons having a legitimate interest, the transfer may be made only at the request of those persons or if they are to be the recipients, taking into full account the interests and fundamental rights of the data subject.

- (6) These derogations shall apply in particular to data transfers required and necessary in the exercise of the official activities of the European Patent Organisation or the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, which includes the processing necessary for the Office's management and functioning, or in reason of obligations deriving from its duty of co-operation with the contracting states, for example in cases of international data exchange between the Office and national bodies, tax or customs administrations, financial supervisory authorities and services competent for social security matters or for public health, for example in the case of contact tracing for contagious diseases. A transfer of personal data is also to be regarded as lawful where it is necessary to protect an interest which is essential for the data subject's or another person's vital interests, including physical integrity or life, if the data subject is incapable of giving explicit consent. In the absence of an adequacy decision within the meaning of Article 9(2), the President of the Office may, in accordance with Article 9(4), and for important reasons relating to the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the Office, which includes the processing necessary for its management and functioning, or in reason of obligations deriving from its duty of co-operation with the contracting states, expressly set limits to the transfer of specific categories of data to a third country or an international organisation.

Article 11

Processing of special categories of personal data

- (1) The processing of personal data revealing racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs or trade-union membership, of genetic data or biometric data for the purpose of uniquely identifying a natural person and of data concerning health or data concerning a natural person's sex life or sexual orientation is prohibited.
- (2) Paragraph 1 does not apply where one of the following applies:
- a. the data subject has given explicit consent to the processing of those data for one or more specified purposes.
 - b. processing is necessary for the purposes of carrying out the obligations and exercising specific rights of the controller or of the data subject in the field of employment and social security law in so far as it is authorised by legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation providing for appropriate safeguards for the fundamental rights and the interests of the data subject.
 - c. processing is necessary to protect the vital interests of the data subject or of another person where the data subject is physically or legally incapable of giving explicit consent.
 - d. processing relates to personal data which have been manifestly made public by the data subject.

- e. the processing is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.
 - f. the processing is necessary for a specific purpose relating to the performance of a task carried out in the exercise of the official activities of the European Patent Organisation or in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, which includes the processing substantially necessary for the management and functioning of the Office, having regard to the principle of proportionality, or in reason of obligations arising from its duty of co-operation with the contracting states. This processing shall be based on a legal instrument which is proportionate to the aim pursued, respects the essence of the right to data protection and provides for suitable and specific measures to safeguard the fundamental rights and the interests of the data subject.
 - g. the processing is necessary for reasons of public interest in the area of public health, such as protecting against serious cross-border threats to health or ensuring high standards of quality and safety of healthcare, on the basis of national law which provides for suitable and specific measures to safeguard the rights and freedoms of the data subject, in particular professional secrecy.
- (3) Paragraph 1 does not apply where processing of the special categories of data is required for the purposes of preventive or occupational medicine, the assessment of an employee's working capacity, medical diagnosis, the provision of health or social care or treatment, the management of health or social care systems and services or medical examinations and opinions provided for in the Service Regulations or other legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation and where those data are processed by a health professional subject to the obligation of professional secrecy or by another person subject to an equivalent obligation of secrecy.

Article 12

Processing of personal data relating to criminal convictions and offences

- (1) Processing of data relating to criminal offences, criminal convictions or security measures based on Article 5(a) may be carried out only after consultation of the Data Protection Board or when the processing is covered by legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation providing for appropriate safeguards for the rights and freedoms of data subjects.
- (2) Suspicions regarding offences shall also be included in the concept of "offences", since the processing of data relating to matters which have not led to convictions requires protection equal to that afforded to criminal convictions.
- (3) The term "security measures" under this Article refers to measures taken against individuals in the context of a criminal (or administrative) procedure, such as forced admission to a psychiatric hospital or asset freezes.

Article 13

Processing which does not require identification

- (1) If the purposes for which the controller processes personal data do not or no longer require the identification of a data subject by the controller, the controller shall not be obliged to maintain, acquire or process additional information in order to identify the data subject for the sole purpose of complying with these Rules.
- (2) Where, in cases referred to in paragraph 1, the controller is able to demonstrate that it is not in a position to identify the data subject, the controller shall inform the data subject accordingly, if possible. In such cases, Articles 18 to 22 shall not apply except where the data subject, for the purpose of exercising his or her rights under those articles, provides additional information enabling his or her identification. The controller shall not refuse to take additional information provided by the data subject in order to support the exercise of his or her rights.

Article 14

Safeguards relating to processing for archiving purposes in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, scientific or historical research purposes or statistical purposes

Processing for archiving purposes in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, scientific or historical research purposes or statistical purposes, shall be subject to appropriate safeguards, in accordance with these Rules, for the rights and freedoms of the data subject. Those safeguards shall ensure that technical and organisational measures are in place in particular in order to ensure respect for the principle of data minimisation. Those measures may include pseudonymisation provided that those purposes can be fulfilled in that manner. Where those purposes can be fulfilled by further processing which does not permit or no longer permits the identification of data subjects, those purposes shall be fulfilled in that manner.

III. Rights of the data subject

Article 15

Transparency and modalities for the exercise of the rights of the data subject

- (1) The controller shall take appropriate measures to provide the data subject with any information referred to in Articles 16 and 17 and any communication referred to in Articles 18 to 24 and Article 34 relating to processing of personal data in a concise, transparent, intelligible and easily accessible form, using clear and plain language. The information is to be provided in writing or by other means, including, where appropriate, electronic means. When requested by the data subject, the information may be provided orally, provided that the identity of the data subject is proven by other means.

- (2) The controller shall facilitate the exercise of data subject rights under Articles 18 to 24. The controller shall provide data subjects with information on measures taken on a request under Articles 18 to 24 without undue delay and in any event within one month of receipt of the request. The controller, acting in consultation with the Data Protection Officer, may extend that period by two further months where necessary in view of the complexity and number of requests. If such an extension of the standard time limit is needed, the controller shall duly notify the data subject of the extension and the reasons for the delay within one month of the Office's receipt of the request. Where the data subject makes the request by electronic means, the information shall be provided by electronic means where possible, unless otherwise requested by the data subject.
- (3) If the controller does not take action on the request of the data subject, the controller shall inform the data subject without delay and at the latest within one month of receipt of the request of the reasons for not taking action and of the possibility of filing a request for review and seeking legal redress under Articles 49 and 50.
- (4) Information provided under Articles 16 and 17 and any communication issued and actions taken under Articles 18 to 24 and 34 shall be free of charge. Where requests from a data subject are manifestly unfounded or excessive, in particular because of their repetitive character, the controller may refuse to act on the request.
- (5) Where the controller has reasonable doubts concerning the identity of the natural person making a request under Articles 18 to 24, the controller may request the provision of additional information necessary to confirm the identity of the data subject.
- (6) The information to be provided to data subjects pursuant to Articles 16 and 17 may be provided in combination with standardised icons in order to give in an easily visible, intelligible and clearly legible manner a meaningful overview of the intended processing. Where the icons are presented electronically, they shall be machine-readable.

Article 16

Information to be provided where personal data are collected from the data subject

- (1) Where personal data relating to a data subject are collected from the data subject, the controller shall, at the time when personal data are obtained, provide the data subject with all of the following information:
 - a. the identity and the contact details of the controller;
 - b. the contact details of the Data Protection Officer;
 - c. the purposes of the processing for which the personal data are intended as well as the legal basis for the processing;
 - d. the recipients or categories of recipients of the personal data, if any;

- e. where applicable, the fact that the controller intends to transfer personal data to recipients under Article 9 and reference to the appropriate or suitable safeguards and the means by which to obtain a copy of them or where they have been made available.
- (2) In addition to the information referred to in paragraph 1, the controller shall, at the time when personal data are obtained, provide the data subject with the following further information necessary to ensure fair and transparent processing:
- a. the period for which the personal data will be stored or, if that is not possible, the criteria used to determine that period;
 - b. the existence of the right to request from the controller access to and rectification or erasure of personal data or restriction of processing concerning the data subject or, where applicable, the right to object to processing or the right to data portability;
 - c. where the processing is based on Article 5(d) or Article 11(2)(a), the existence of the right to withdraw consent at any time, without affecting the lawfulness of processing based on consent before its withdrawal;
 - d. the right to request review by the delegated controller under Article 49 and the right to seek legal redress under Article 50;
 - e. whether the provision of personal data is a statutory or contractual requirement, or a requirement necessary to enter into a contract, as well as whether the data subject is obliged to provide the personal data and the possible consequences of a failure to provide such data;
 - f. the existence of automated decision-making, including profiling, referred to in Article 24(1) and (4) and, at least in those cases, meaningful information about the logic involved, as well as the significance and the envisaged consequences of such processing for the data subject.
- (3) Where the delegated controller intends to further process the personal data for a purpose other than that for which the personal data were collected, the delegated controller shall provide the data subject with information on that other purpose and with any relevant further information referred to in paragraph 2 prior to that further processing.
- (4) Paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 do not apply where and in so far as the data subject already has the information.

Article 17

Information to be provided where personal data have not been obtained from the data subject

- (1) Where personal data have not been obtained from the data subject, the controller shall, at the time when personal data are obtained and in addition to the information to be provided under Article 16, provide the data subject with information on the categories of personal data concerned and the source of the personal data and, if applicable, whether they came from publicly accessible sources.

- (2) In addition to the information referred to in paragraph 1, the controller shall provide the data subject with the following further information necessary to ensure fair and transparent processing in respect of the data subject:
- the period for which the personal data will be stored or, if that is not possible, the criteria used to determine that period;
 - the existence of the right to request from the controller access to and rectification or erasure of personal data or restriction of processing concerning the data subject or, where applicable, the right to object to processing or the right to data portability;
 - where the processing is based on Article 5(d) or Article 11(2)(a), the existence of the right to withdraw consent at any time, without affecting the lawfulness of processing based on consent before its withdrawal;
 - the right to request review by the delegated controller under Article 49 and the right to seek legal redress under Article 50;
 - from which source the personal data originate, and if applicable, whether they came from publicly accessible sources;
 - the existence of automated decision-making, including profiling, referred to in Article 24(1) and (4) and, at least in those cases, meaningful information about the logic involved, as well as the significance and the envisaged consequences of such processing for the data subject.
- (3) The controller shall provide the data subject with the information referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2:
- within a reasonable period after obtaining the personal data, but at the latest within one month, having regard to the specific circumstances in which the personal data are processed,
 - if the personal data are to be used for communication with the data subject, at the latest at the time of the first communication to that data subject, or
 - if a disclosure to another recipient is envisaged, at the latest when the personal data are first disclosed.
- (4) Where the controller intends to further process the personal data for a purpose other than that for which the personal data were obtained, the controller shall provide the data subject prior to that further processing with information on that other purpose and with any relevant further information as referred to in paragraph 2.
- (5) Paragraphs 1 to 4 shall not apply where and insofar as:
- the data subject already has the information;
 - the provision of such information proves impossible or would involve a disproportionate effort, in particular for processing for archiving purposes in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, scientific or historical research purposes or statistical purposes or in so far as the obligation referred to in paragraph 1 is likely to

- render impossible or seriously impair the achievement of the objectives of that processing;
- c. obtaining or disclosure is expressly laid down in the European Patent Convention and/or other applicable legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation which provide appropriate measures to protect the data subject's legitimate interests; or
- d. the personal data must remain confidential subject to an obligation of professional secrecy regulated on the basis of the European Patent Convention and/or other applicable legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation, including a statutory obligation of secrecy.

Article 18

Rights of access by the data subjects

- (1) The data subject has the right to obtain from the controller confirmation as to whether or not personal data concerning him or her are being processed and, if so, to access the personal data easily and at reasonable intervals, to understand which data about him or her are processed, to verify the quality of his or her personal data, to verify the lawfulness of their processing and to exercise his or her other data protection rights and be provided with the following information:
 - a. the purposes of the processing;
 - b. the categories of personal data concerned;
 - c. the recipients or categories of recipient to which the personal data have been or will be disclosed, in particular recipients in third countries or international organisations;
 - d. where possible, the envisaged period for which the personal data will be stored or, if not possible, the criteria used to determine that period;
 - e. the existence of the right to request from the controller rectification or erasure of personal data or restriction of processing of personal data concerning the data subject or to object to such processing;
 - f. the right to request review by the delegated controller under Article 49 and to seek legal redress under Article 50;
 - g. where the personal data are not collected from the data subject, any available information as to their source;
 - h. the existence of automated decision-making, including profiling referred to in Article 24(1) and (4) and, at least in those cases, meaningful information about the logic involved, as well as the significance and the envisaged consequences of such processing for the data subject.
- (2) Where personal data are transferred in accordance with Article 9, the data subject has the right to be informed of the appropriate safeguards pursuant to the same Article put in place for the transfer.
- (3) The right of the data subject to access his or her own personal data does not entitle the data subject to an indiscriminate right to access all documents. The controller shall grant access to the data subject to the fullest extent possible unless a restriction under Article 25 applies. The controller shall provide a copy in an intelligible form of the data undergoing processing and of all available information (of any kind, regardless of its nature (objective or subjective), content (including any type of activity undertaken), or format (paper file, computer records, emails)). If necessary to safeguard the confidentiality of the Office's deliberations and decision-making, certain information may be deleted from the copy provided to the data subject. Where the data subject makes the request by electronic means, and unless otherwise requested by the data subject, the information shall be provided in a commonly used electronic form.

- (4) Where the controller processes a large quantity of information concerning the data subject, the controller is able to request that, before the information is delivered, the data subject specifies the information or processing activities to which the request relates.
- (5) The right to obtain a copy referred to in paragraph 3 shall not adversely affect the rights and freedoms of others.

Article 19 Right to rectification

- (1) The data subject has the right to obtain from the controller without undue delay the rectification of inaccurate personal data concerning him or her. Taking into account the purposes of the processing, the data subject has the right to have incomplete personal data completed, including by means of providing a supplementary statement.
- (2) The right of rectification only applies to objective and factual data, e.g. identification data, which can be rectified at any time during a procedure or identification data linked to an administrative management system. It does not apply to subjective statements, including those made by third parties. However, in such cases, the data subject shall be permitted to complement existing data with a second opinion or counter-expertise or to provide comments.
- (3) The controller shall communicate any rectification of personal data carried out in accordance with paragraph 1 to each recipient to whom the personal data have been disclosed, unless this proves impossible or involves disproportionate effort. The controller shall inform the data subject about those recipients if the data subject requests it.

Article 20 Right to erasure ("right to be forgotten")

- (1) The data subject has the right to obtain from the controller the erasure of personal data concerning him or her without undue delay and the controller is obliged to erase personal data without undue delay where one of the following grounds applies:
 - a. the personal data are no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which they were collected or otherwise processed;

- b. the data subject withdraws the consent on which the processing is based under Article 5(d) or Article 11(2)(a) and there is no other legal ground for the processing;
 - c. the data subject objects to the processing pursuant to Article 23(1) and there are no overriding legitimate grounds for the processing;
 - d. the personal data were unlawfully processed;
 - e. the personal data have to be erased for compliance with a legal obligation to which the controller is subject;
 - f. the personal data have been collected in relation to the offer of information society services referred to in Article 7(8).
- (2) Where the controller has made the personal data public and is obliged pursuant to paragraph 1 to erase the personal data, the controller, taking account of available technology and the cost of implementation, shall take reasonable steps, including technical measures, to inform controllers which are processing the personal data that the data subject has requested the erasure by such controllers of any links to, or copy or replication of, those personal data.
- (3) Paragraphs 1 and 2 do not apply to the extent that processing is necessary:
- a. for exercising the right of freedom of expression and information;
 - b. for compliance with a legal obligation to which the controller is subject or for the performance of a task carried out in reason of obligations arising from the Office's duty of co-operation with the contracting states or in the exercise of official authority vested in the controller;
 - c. for reasons of co-operation with the contracting states in the area of public health in accordance with Article 11;
 - d. for archiving purposes in the legitimate exercise of the official activities of the European Patent Organisation, or of the official authority vested in the controller, which includes the processing necessary for its management and functioning, for scientific or historical research purposes or statistical purposes, in so far as the right referred to in paragraph 1 is likely to render impossible or seriously impair the achievement of the objectives of that processing; or
 - e. for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.
- (4) The controller shall communicate any erasure of personal data carried out in accordance with paragraph 1 to each recipient to whom the personal data have been disclosed, unless this proves impossible or involves disproportionate effort. The controller shall inform the data subject about those recipients if the data subject requests it.

Article 21

Right to restriction of processing

- (1) The data subject has the right to obtain from the controller restriction of processing where one of the following applies:

- a. the accuracy of the personal data is contested by the data subject, for a period enabling the controller to verify the accuracy, including the completeness, of the personal data;
 - b. the processing is unlawful, and the data subject opposes the erasure of the personal data and requests the restriction of their use instead;
 - c. the controller no longer needs the personal data for the purposes of the processing, but they are required by the data subject for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims;
 - d. the data subject has objected to processing pursuant Article 23(1) pending the verification whether the legitimate grounds of the controller override those of the data subject.
- (2) Where processing has been restricted under paragraph 1, the personal data may, with the exception of storage, only be processed with the data subject's explicit consent or for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims or for the protection of the rights of another natural or legal person or for the performance of a task carried out in the exercise of the official activities of the European Patent Organisation or in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, which includes the processing necessary for the Office's management and functioning.
- (3) A data subject who has obtained restriction of processing pursuant to paragraph 1 shall be informed by the controller before the restriction of processing is lifted.
- (4) In automated filing systems restriction of processing shall as a rule be ensured by technical means. The fact that the processing of the personal data is restricted shall be indicated in the system in such a way that it is clear that the personal data shall not be used.
- (5) The controller shall communicate any restriction of processing carried out in accordance with paragraphs 1 to 4 to each recipient to whom the personal data have been disclosed, unless this proves impossible or involves disproportionate effort. The controller shall inform the data subject about those recipients if the data subject requests it.

Article 22

Right to data portability

- (1) The data subject has the right to receive, in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format, the personal data concerning him or her which he or she has provided to the controller and the right to transmit those data to another controller without hindrance from the controller to which the personal data were initially provided where:
 - a. the processing is based on consent pursuant to Article 5(d) or Article 11(2)(a) or on a contract pursuant to Article 5(c); and
 - b. the processing is carried out by automated means.

- (2) In exercising his or her right to data portability pursuant to paragraph 1, the data subject has the right to have the personal data transmitted directly from one controller to another where technically feasible.
- (3) The exercise of the right referred to in paragraph 1 is without prejudice to Article 20. That right does not apply to processing necessary for the performance of a task carried out in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, which includes the processing necessary for the management and functioning of the Office.
- (4) The right referred to in paragraph 1 shall not adversely affect the rights and freedoms of others.

Article 23

The right of the data subject to object

- (1) The data subject has the right to object, on grounds relating to his or her particular situation, at any time to processing of personal data concerning him or her which is based on Article 5(a), including profiling based on that provision. The controller shall cease to process the personal data unless the controller demonstrates compelling legitimate grounds for the processing which override the interests, rights and freedoms of the data subject or for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.
- (2) At the latest at the time of the first communication with the data subject, the right referred to in paragraph 1 shall be explicitly brought to the attention of the data subject and presented clearly and separately from any other information.
- (3) Without prejudice to Articles 35 and 36, in the context of the use of information society services the data subject may exercise his or her right to object by automated means using technical specifications.
- (4) Where personal data are processed for scientific or historical research purposes or statistical purposes, the data subject has the right to object, on grounds relating to his or her particular situation, to processing of personal data concerning him or her unless the processing is necessary for the performance of a task carried out in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, which includes the processing necessary for the Office's management and functioning.

Article 24

Automated individual decision-making, including profiling

- (1) The data subject has the right not to be subject to a decision based solely on automated processing, including profiling, which produces legal effects concerning or similarly significantly affecting him or her.
- (2) Paragraph 1 does not apply if the decision:
 - a. is necessary for entering into, or performance of, a contract between the data subject and the controller;

- b. is authorised by a legal act adopted on the basis of the European Patent Convention or other applicable legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation and also laying down suitable measures to safeguard the data subject's rights and freedoms and legitimate interests; or
 - c. is based on the data subject's explicit consent.
- (3) In the cases referred to in paragraph 2(a) and (c), the controller shall implement suitable measures to safeguard the data subject's rights and freedoms and legitimate interests, including at least the right to obtain human intervention on the part of the controller, to express his or her point of view and to contest the decision.
- (4) Decisions referred to in paragraph 2 shall not be based on special categories of personal data referred to in Article 11(1), unless Article 11(2)(a) or (f) applies and suitable measures to safeguard the data subject's rights and freedoms and legitimate interests are in place.

Article 25

Restriction of rights

- (1) Specific legal provisions may restrict the application of Articles 15 to 22, 34 and 35, as well as of Article 4 in so far as its provisions correspond to the rights and obligations provided for in Articles 15 to 22, when such a restriction respects the essence of the fundamental rights and freedoms and is a necessary and proportionate measure in a democratic society to safeguard:
- a. the European Patent Organisation's security, public security or defence of the contracting states;
 - b. the prevention, investigation, detection and prosecution of criminal offences or the enforcement of criminal penalties, including the safeguarding against and the prevention of threats to public security and including cases in which Article 20 of the Protocol of Privileges and Immunities is applied;
 - c. other substantial interests of the European Patent Organisation pertaining to its core mission, or in reason of obligations arising from the duty of co-operation with the contracting states, including monetary, budgetary and taxation matters, public health and social security;
 - d. the internal security of the Office, including of its electronic communications networks;
 - e. the protection of judicial and quasi-judicial independence and judicial and quasi-judicial proceedings;
 - f. the prevention, investigation, detection and sanction of breaches of ethics for regulated professions;
 - g. a monitoring, inspection or regulatory function connected, even occasionally, to the exercise of official authority;
 - h. the protection of the data subject or the rights and freedoms of others;
 - i. the enforcement of civil law claims.

- (2) In particular, any such specific legal provision of the European Patent Organisation within the meaning of paragraph 1 shall contain specific provisions, where relevant, as to:
- a. the purposes of the processing or categories of processing;
 - b. the categories of personal data;
 - c. the scope of the restrictions introduced;
 - d. the safeguards to prevent abuse or unlawful access or transfer;
 - e. the specification of the controller or categories of controllers;
 - f. the storage periods and the applicable safeguards, taking into account the nature, scope and purposes of the processing or categories of processing; and
 - g. the risks to the rights and freedoms of data subjects.
- (3) The restrictions are subject to following limits:
- a. The provisions on the basis of which the restrictions referred to in paragraph 1 take place shall be clear and precise and intended to produce legal effects vis-à-vis data subjects. They shall be adopted at least at the level of the President of the Office. When the President of the Boards of Appeal is the controller, they shall be adopted at least at the level of the President of the Boards of Appeal. In both cases, they shall be submitted to the Administrative Council for information. On the basis of these provisions, each time a delegated controller needs to impose a restriction it shall first carry out a duly documented "necessity and proportionality test". The Data Protection Officer shall be involved in the "proportionality and necessity test assessment note" and the subsequent reviews and shall keep a register listing all decisions allowing delegated controllers to apply restrictions.
 - b. If a restriction is imposed pursuant to paragraph 1, the data subject shall be informed of the principal reasons on which the application of the restriction is based and of his or her right to submit a request to the Data Protection Officer under Article 43(2) and/or of the possibility of filing a request for review by the delegated controller and seeking legal redress under Articles 49 and 50.
 - c. If a restriction imposed pursuant to paragraph 1 is relied upon to deny access to the data subject, the Data Protection Officer and/or the entities involved in the request for review by the delegated controller and in the proceedings for legal redress shall, when investigating the request, only inform him or her whether the data have been processed correctly and, if not, whether any necessary corrections have been made.
- (4) Provision of the information referred to in paragraphs 3(b) and (c) and in Article 43(2) may be deferred, omitted or denied if it would cancel the effect of the restriction imposed pursuant to paragraph 1.

IV. Controller and processor

Article 26

Responsibility of the controller

- (1) Taking into account the nature, scope, context and purposes of processing and the varying likelihood and severity of any risks for the rights and freedoms of natural persons, the controller shall implement appropriate technical and organisational measures to ensure and to be able to demonstrate that processing is performed in accordance with these Rules. Those measures shall be reviewed and updated where necessary.
- (2) Where proportionate in relation to processing activities, the measures referred to in paragraph 1 shall include the implementation of appropriate data protection policies by the controller.
- (3) Adherence to approved certification mechanisms may serve as evidence of compliance with the obligations of the controller.

Article 27

Data protection by design and by default

- (1) Taking into account the state of the art, the cost of implementation and the nature, scope, context and purposes of processing and the varying likelihood and severity of any risks for rights and freedoms of natural persons posed by the processing, the controller shall, both at the time of the determination of the means for processing and at the time of the processing itself ("by design"), implement appropriate technical and organisational measures which are designed to implement the data protection principles outlined in Article 4 and to integrate the necessary safeguards into the processing in order to meet the requirements of these Rules.
- (2) The controller shall implement appropriate technical and organisational measures for ensuring that, by default, only personal data which are necessary for each specific purpose of the processing are processed. That obligation applies to the amount of personal data collected, the extent of their processing, the period of their storage and their accessibility. In particular, such measures shall ensure that, by default, personal data are not made accessible to an indefinite number of natural persons without the individual's intervention.
- (3) A certification mechanism may serve as evidence of compliance with the requirements set out in paragraphs 1 and 2.

Article 28

Controller and delegated controllers

- (1) The President of the Office acts as the controller of the personal data processed by the Office, unless otherwise specified.

- (2) The President of the Boards of Appeal acts as the controller with regard to the personal data processing operations carried out as part of the judicial activity of the Boards of Appeal and in the exercise of functions and powers under the Act of Delegation. With regard to the personal data processing operations carried out by the Boards of Appeal Unit in the context of all other activities, the President of the Boards of Appeal acts as a delegated controller.
- (3) The controller is free to delegate the competence of determining the purposes and means of processing certain personal data to an operational unit.
- (4) Delegated controllers may not sub-delegate the controllership unless a specific unit's functional independence might otherwise be jeopardised or its size exceptionally requires a sub-delegation to a lower hierarchical level and the Data Protection Officer authorises it. The requisite act of sub-delegation or its withdrawal is valid only if the Data Protection Officer has been notified of it.

Article 29 Joint controllers

- (1) Where the controller together with one or more controllers outside the Office jointly determine the purposes and means of processing, they will be joint controllers. Joint controllers shall determine, in a transparent manner, their respective responsibilities for compliance with their data protection obligations, in particular as regards the exercising of the rights of the data subject and their respective duties to provide the information referred to in Articles 16 to 24, by means of an arrangement between them. The arrangement may designate a contact point for data subjects.
- (2) The arrangement referred to in paragraph 1 shall duly reflect the respective roles and relationships of the joint controllers vis-à-vis the data subjects. The essence of the arrangement shall be made available to the data subject as further specified in the operational documents.
- (3) Irrespective of the terms of the arrangement referred to in paragraph 2, the data subject may request exercise of his or her rights under these Rules in respect of, and enforce these rights against, each of the controllers.

Article 30 Processor

- (1) Where processing is to be carried out on behalf of the controller, the controller shall use only processors providing sufficient guarantees that appropriate technical and organisational measures will be implemented in such a manner that processing will meet the requirements of these Rules and ensure the protection of the rights of the data subject.
- (2) The processor shall not engage another processor without prior specific or general written authorisation from the controller. In the case of general written authorisation, the processor shall inform the controller of any intended changes concerning the addition or replacement of other processors, thereby giving the controller the opportunity to object to such changes.

- (3) Processing by a processor shall be governed by a contract or legal act, adopted on the basis of the applicable legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation, which is binding on the processor with regard to the controller and sets out the subject-matter and duration of the processing, the nature and purpose of the processing, the type of personal data and categories of data subjects and the obligations and rights of the controller. That contract or other legal act shall stipulate, in particular, that the processor:
- a. processes the personal data only on documented instructions from the controller, including with regard to transfers of personal data to a third country or an international organisation, unless required to do so by the law to which the processor is subject; in such a case, the processor shall inform the controller of that legal requirement before processing, unless that law prohibits such information on important grounds of public interest;
 - b. ensures that persons authorised to process the personal data have undertaken to maintain confidentiality or are under an appropriate statutory obligation of confidentiality;
 - c. takes all appropriate technical and organisational measures to ensure a level of security appropriate to the risk;
 - d. respects the conditions referred to in paragraphs 2 and 4 for engaging another processor;
 - e. taking into account the nature of the processing, assists the controller, as far as possible, by appropriate technical and organisational measures to fulfil the controller's obligation to respond to requests for exercising the data subject's rights laid down in these Rules;
 - f. assists the controller in ensuring compliance with its obligations, taking into account the nature of processing and the information available to the processor;
 - g. at the choice of the controller, deletes or returns all the personal data to the controller after the end of the provision of services relating to processing, and deletes existing copies unless the applicable law requires storage of the personal data and the Office agrees to such storage;
 - h. makes available to the controller all information necessary to demonstrate compliance with the obligations laid down in this Article and allow for and contribute to audits, including inspections, conducted by the controller or another auditor mandated by the controller.

With regard to point (h) above, the processor shall immediately inform the controller if, in its opinion, an instruction infringes these Rules.

- (4) Where a processor engages another processor to carry out specific processing activities on behalf of the controller, the same data protection obligations as set out in the legal act or contract between the controller and the processor referred to in paragraph 3 shall be imposed on that other processor by way of a contract or other legal instrument, in particular as regards providing sufficient guarantees that appropriate technical and organisational measures will be implemented in such a manner that the processing will meet the requirements of these Rules. Where that other processor fails to fulfil its data protection obligations, the initial processor will remain fully liable to the controller for the performance of that other processor's obligations.

- (5) Adherence of the processor to an approved code of conduct or an approved certification mechanism may serve as evidence of sufficient guarantees as referred to in paragraphs 1 and 4. A list of the codes of conducts and certification mechanisms approved by the Office will be published.
- (6) Without prejudice to any individual contract between the controller and the processor, the contract or the other legal act referred to in paragraphs 3 and 4 may be based, in whole or in part, on standard contractual clauses referred to in paragraphs 7 and 8, including when they are part of a certification granted to the processor.
- (7) The Office may lay down standard contractual clauses for the matters referred to in paragraph 3 and 4 or approve standard contractual clauses adopted by other institutions.
- (8) The contract or the other legal act referred to in paragraphs 3 and 4 shall be in writing, which may also take electronic form.
- (9) Without prejudice to Article 52, if a processor infringes these Rules by determining the purposes and means of processing, the processor will be considered to be a controller in respect of that processing.

Article 31

Processing under the authority of the controller or processor

The processor and any person acting under the authority of the controller or the processor who has access to personal data shall not process those data except on instructions from the controller, unless required to do so by the law to which the processor is subject.

- (4) The Office shall make its records available to the Data Protection Board on request.
- (5) The Office's records of processing activities will be kept in a central register.
- (6) The central register will be made publicly accessible, save for any confidential records.

V. Confidentiality and security of processing

Article 33

Confidentiality and security of processing

- (1) Taking into account the state of the art, the costs of implementation and the nature, scope, context and purposes of processing as well as the varying likelihood and severity of any risks for the rights and freedoms of natural persons, the controller and the processor shall implement appropriate technical and organisational measures to ensure a level of security appropriate to the risk, including, as appropriate:

- a. the pseudonymisation and encryption of personal data;
 - b. the ability to ensure the ongoing confidentiality, integrity, availability and resilience of processing systems and services;
 - c. the ability to restore the availability and access to personal data in a timely manner in the event of a physical or technical incident;
 - d. a process for regularly testing, assessing and evaluating the effectiveness of technical and organisational measures for ensuring the security of the processing.
- (2) In assessing the appropriate level of security, account shall be taken in particular of the risks that are presented by processing, in particular from accidental or unlawful destruction, loss, alteration, unauthorised disclosure of or access to personal data transmitted, stored or otherwise processed.
- (3) The controller and processor shall take steps to ensure that any natural person acting on behalf of the controller or the processor who has access to personal data does not process them except on instructions from the controller, unless required to do so by the law to which he or she is subject. This exemption does not apply to persons covered by Article 1 of the Service Regulations.
- (4) Specific requirements as to data security will be laid down in the operational documents. Adherence to an approved certification mechanism may serve as evidence of compliance with the requirements set out in paragraph 1.

Article 34

Notification and communication of a personal data breach

- (1) In the case of a personal data breach, the controller shall, without undue delay and, where feasible, no later than 72 hours after having become aware of it, notify the Data Protection Officer of this personal data breach unless it is unlikely to result in a risk to the rights and freedoms of natural persons. Where the notification does not take place within 72 hours, it shall be accompanied by reasons for the delay.
- (2) The processor shall notify the controller without undue delay after becoming aware of a personal data breach.
- (3) The notification referred to in paragraph 1 shall at least:
 - a. describe the nature of the personal data breach, including, where possible, the categories and approximate number of data subjects concerned and the categories and approximate number of personal data records concerned;
 - b. describe the likely consequences of the personal data breach;
 - c. describe the measures taken or proposed to be taken by the controller to address the personal data breach, including, where appropriate, measures to mitigate its possible adverse effects.

- (4) Where, and in so far as, it is not possible to provide details of the breach at the same time, this information may be provided in phases but this shall be done without undue further delay.
- (5) The controller shall document any personal data breaches, including the facts relating to the personal data breach, its effects and the remedial action taken. That documentation shall enable the Data Protection Officer to verify compliance with this Article.
- (6) When the personal data breach is likely to result in a high risk to the rights and freedoms of natural persons, the controller shall communicate the personal data breach to the data subject without delay. The communication to the data subject shall describe the nature of the personal data breach in clear and plain language.
- (7) Details of the complete information to be provided in the notification under paragraph 1 and in the communication under paragraph 6 will be specified in the operational documents.
- (8) No communication to the data subject is required if any of the following conditions are met:
 - (i) the controller has implemented appropriate technical and organisational measures, and those measures have been applied to the personal data affected by the personal data breach, in particular those that render the personal data unintelligible to any person who is not authorised to access it, such as encryption;
 - (ii) the controller has taken subsequent measures which ensure that the high risk to the rights and freedoms of data subjects is no longer likely to materialise;
 - (iii) it would involve disproportionate effort, in which case there shall instead be a public communication or similar measure whereby the data subjects are informed in an equally effective manner.
- (9) If the controller has not already communicated the personal data breach to the data subject, the Data Protection Officer, having considered the likelihood of the personal data breach resulting in a high risk, may require it to do so or may decide that any of the conditions referred to in paragraph 8 are met.

Article 35

Confidentiality of electronic communications

The Office shall ensure the confidentiality of electronic communications, in particular by securing its electronic communications networks.

Article 36

Protection of information transmitted to, stored in, related to, processed by and collected from users' terminal equipment

The Office shall protect the information transmitted to, stored in, related to, processed by and collected from the terminal equipment of users accessing its publicly available websites and mobile applications.

Article 37

Directories of users

- (1) Personal data contained in directories of users and access to such directories shall be limited to what is strictly necessary for the specific purposes of the directory.
- (2) The Office shall take all the necessary measures to prevent personal data contained in those directories from being used for direct marketing purposes, regardless of whether they are accessible to the public or not.

Article 38

Data protection impact assessment and prior consultation

- (1) Where a type of processing, including the setting up or substantial alteration of any files and any automated processing of personal data, is likely to result in a high risk to the rights and freedoms of the data subject by virtue of its context, nature, scope or purpose, the controller shall, prior to the processing, carry out an objective assessment of the impact of the envisaged processing operations on the protection of personal data.
- (2) The controller will seek the advice of the Data Protection Officer on the need for a data protection impact assessment and when carrying out any such an assessment. In cases of doubt, the controller will, upon recommendation of the Data Protection Officer, consult the Data Protection Board on the need for a data protection impact assessment and request its opinion.
- (3) High risks to the rights and freedoms of data subjects within the meaning of paragraph 1 and the minimum content required in the data protection impact assessment will be defined and further specified in the operational documents.
- (4) A data protection impact assessment within the meaning of paragraph 1 is, in particular, required in the case of:
 - a. a systematic and extensive evaluation of personal aspects relating to natural persons which is based on automated processing, including profiling, and on which decisions are based that produce legal effects concerning the natural person or similarly significantly affect the natural person;

- b. processing on a large scale of special categories of data referred to in Article 11 or of personal data relating to criminal convictions and offences referred to in Article 12; or
 - c. a systematic monitoring of a publicly accessible area on a large scale.
- (5) The Data Protection Board will draw up a list of the kinds of processing operation subject to the requirement of a data protection impact assessment pursuant to paragraph 1. This list will be part of the operational documents. It may also draw up a list of the kinds of processing operation for which no data protection impact assessment is required.
- (6) In accordance with Article 39, the controller will consult the Data Protection Board prior to processing where a data protection impact assessment indicates that the processing would result in a high risk to the rights and freedoms of natural persons and the controller is of the opinion that the risk cannot be mitigated by reasonable security measures as defined in Article 33. The controller will first seek the advice of the Data Protection Officer on the need for prior consultation.
- (7) Where the Data Protection Board is of the opinion that the intended processing referred to in paragraph 1 would infringe these Rules, in particular where the controller has insufficiently identified or mitigated the risk, the Data Protection Board will, within a period of up to eight weeks from receipt of the request for consultation, provide the controller and, where applicable, the processor with written advice.
- (8) The assessment shall contain at least:
 - a. a systematic description of the envisaged processing operations and the purposes of the processing;
 - b. an assessment of the need for and proportionality of the processing operations in relation to the purposes;
 - c. an assessment of the risks to the rights and freedoms of data subjects referred to in paragraph 1; and
 - d. the measures envisaged to address the risks, including safeguards, security measures and mechanisms to ensure the protection of personal data and to demonstrate compliance with these Rules, taking into account the rights and legitimate interests of data subjects and other persons concerned.
- (9) Compliance with approved codes of conduct by the relevant processors shall be duly taken into account in assessing the impact of the processing operations performed by such processors, in particular for the purposes of a data protection impact assessment.
- (10) Where appropriate, the controller shall seek the views of data subjects or their representatives on the intended processing, without prejudice to the protection of the Office's interests or the security of processing operations.
- (11) Where processing pursuant to Article 5(a) or (b) has a legal basis in a legal act adopted on the basis of the European Patent Convention which regulates the specific processing operation or set of operations in question, and where a data protection impact assessment has already been carried out as part of a general impact assessment preceding the adoption of that legal act, paragraphs 1 to 7 will not apply unless that legal act provides otherwise.

- (12) Where necessary, the controller will carry out a regular review to assess whether processing is performed in accordance with the data protection impact assessment, at least when there is a change in the risk represented by processing operations in question.

Article 39

Prior consultation of the Data Protection Board

- (1) The controller shall consult the Data Protection Board prior to processing where a data protection impact assessment under Article 38 indicates that, in the absence of safeguards, security measures and mechanisms to mitigate the risk, the processing would result in a high risk to the rights and freedoms of natural persons but the controller is of the opinion that the risk cannot be mitigated by reasonable means in view of the available technologies and costs of implementation. The controller shall seek the advice of the Data Protection Officer on the need for prior consultation.
- (2) Where the Data Protection Board is of the opinion that the intended processing referred to in paragraph 1 would infringe these Rules, in particular where the controller has insufficiently identified or mitigated the risk, the Data Protection Board shall, within a period of up to eight weeks from receipt of the request for consultation, provide the controller and, where applicable, the processor with written advice and may use any of its powers referred to in Article 47. That period may be extended by six weeks, taking into account the complexity of the intended processing. The Data Protection Board shall inform the controller and, where applicable, the processor of any such extension and the reasons for the delay within one month of receipt of the request for consultation. Those periods may be suspended until the Data Protection Board has obtained information it has requested for the purposes of the consultation.
- (3) When consulting the Data Protection Board pursuant to paragraph 1, the controller shall provide it with:
 - a. where applicable, the respective responsibilities of the controller, joint controllers and processors involved in the processing;
 - b. the purposes and means of the intended processing;
 - c. the measures and safeguards provided to protect the rights and freedoms of data subjects pursuant to these Rules;
 - d. the contact details of the Data Protection Officer;
 - e. the data protection impact assessment provided for in Article 38; and
 - f. any other information requested by the Data Protection Board.

VI. Information and consultation

Article 40

- (1) The controller shall inform the Data Protection Officer when drawing up administrative measures and internal rules relating to the processing of personal data, whether alone or jointly with others.
- (2) The controller shall consult the Data Protection Officer when drawing up rules or operational documents related to the implementation of the provisions referred to in Article 25.

VII. Institutional provisions

Article 41

Appointment of the Data Protection Officer

The Data Protection Officer and his or her deputies are appointed by the President of the Office on the basis of their professional qualifications and, in particular, their expert knowledge of data protection law and practices and their ability to fulfil the duties referred to in Articles 43 and 44. The Office will publish their contact details and communicate them to the Data Protection Board.

Article 42

Position of the Data Protection Officer

- (1) The Office shall ensure that the Data Protection Officer is involved, properly and in a timely manner, in all issues which relate to the protection of personal data.
- (2) The Office shall support the Data Protection Officer in performing the tasks referred to in Article 43 by providing the resources necessary to carry out those tasks, including access to personal data and processing operations, and to maintain his or her expert knowledge.
- (3) The Office shall ensure that the Data Protection Officer does not receive any instructions regarding the exercise of those tasks. He or she cannot be dismissed or penalised by the controller or the processor for performing those tasks. The Data Protection Officer reports directly to the President of the Office. Where the processing operation is conducted under the organisational autonomy granted to the Boards of Appeal by the President of the Office by virtue of the Act of Delegation, the Data Protection Officer reports directly to the President of the Boards of Appeal.
- (4) Data subjects may contact the Data Protection Officer with regard to all issues related to processing of their personal data and to the exercise of their rights under these Rules.

- (5) The Data Protection Officer and his or her staff are bound by secrecy or confidentiality as regards the performance of their tasks, both for as long as they perform their functions and after they have ceased to perform them in accordance with the Service Regulations.
- (6) The Data Protection Officer may fulfil other tasks and duties. The controller shall ensure that any such tasks and duties do not result in a conflict of interest.
- (7) The Data Protection Officer may be consulted, also by informal means, by the controller and the processor and by any individual or any body set up under Article 2 of the Service Regulations on any matter concerning the interpretation or application of these Rules. No one is to suffer prejudice on account of bringing an alleged infringement of these Rules to the attention of the Data Protection Officer.
- (8) The Data Protection Officer is appointed for a term of three to five years and eligible for re-appointment. The Data Protection Board shall be consulted prior to any removal of the Data Protection Officer from his or her role where, for example, the position holder no longer fulfils the conditions required for the performance of his or her duties and prior to any termination of his or her appointment as Data Protection Officer on the basis of the relevant provisions of the Service Regulations.

Article 43

Tasks of the Data Protection Officer

- (1) The tasks of the Data Protection Officer are:
 - a. to inform the controller or the processor and the employees who carry out processing of their obligations pursuant to these Rules and to advise them accordingly;

 - h. to provide advice where requested as regards the need for prior consultation of the Data Protection Board pursuant to Article 39;

- i. to respond to requests from the Data Protection Board; within the sphere of his or her competence, to co-operate and consult with the Data Protection Board at its request or on his or her own initiative;
 - j. to facilitate the co-operation between the Data Protection Board and the Office, in particular with regard to data protection investigations, complaint handling, data protection impact assessments and prior consultations, duly informing the Data Protection Board of any recent developments likely to have an impact on the protection of personal data, and forwarding to the Data Protection Board information on new administrative measures and internal rules relating to the processing of personal data;
 - k. to establish, by way of monitoring, that the rights and freedoms of data subjects are not adversely affected by the Office's processing operations. As a rule, data subjects may at any time consult the Data Protection Officer and submit requests related to processing of their personal data by the Office or the interpretation and implementation of the Rules and it is initially for the Data Protection Officer to respond to such requests. This does not, however, prevent a data subject from using the possibilities of filing a request for review and seeking legal redress under Articles 49 and 50.
- (2) The Data Protection Officer may make recommendations to the controller and the processor for the practical improvement of data protection and advise them on matters concerning the application of data protection provisions. Furthermore, he or she may, on his or her own initiative or at the request of the President, the delegated controller, the processor or any body set up under the legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation or of any individual concerned, investigate matters and occurrences directly relating to his or her tasks which come to his or her notice, and report back to the person who commissioned the data protection investigation or to the President of the Office, the delegated controller, the processor or the body set up under the legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation. Where matters and occurrences to be investigated concern the Boards of Appeal Unit, the Data Protection Officer may bring them to the attention of the President of the Boards of Appeal.
- (3) The Data Protection Officer shall be informed whenever an issue is under consideration that has, or might have, data protection implications.

- (5) The Data Protection Officer shall have access at all times to the data forming the subject-matter of processing operations and to all offices, data-processing installations and data carriers.
- (6) The Data Protection Officer may bring to the attention of the appointing authority any failure by an employee to comply with the obligations under these Rules and, where appropriate, recommend that an administrative investigation be launched to establish whether any action needs to be taken in accordance with the Service Regulations. Where the employee in question is allocated to the Boards of Appeal Unit, the Data Protection Officer may also bring such a failure to comply with the obligations under these Rules to the attention of the President of the Boards of Appeal.

- (7) The Data Protection Officer will submit an annual report to the Administrative Council, the President of the Office, and the President of the Boards of Appeal.

Article 44 Deputy Data Protection Officers

- (1) The Deputy Data Protection Officers will support the Data Protection Officer in carrying out his or her tasks and duties and deputise in the event of his or her absence. The Deputy Data Protection Officers and any staff assisting the Data Protection Officer in relation to data protection issues will act solely on his or her instructions. The Deputy Data Protection Officers will be chosen in such a way as to ensure an adequate representation of the fields of expertise required in data protection matters.
- (2) Article 42 (2), (5) and (8) applies mutatis mutandis to the Deputy Data Protection Officers.
- (3) The Data Protection Officer may ask the Deputy Data Protection Officers to perform certain tasks independently.

Article 45 Data Protection Liaisons

- (1) At least one Data Protection Liaison is to be appointed in each operational unit unless the delegated controller decides otherwise for operational reasons.
- (2) The Data Protection Liaison's function can be combined with other functions as appropriate. To acquire the skills required to perform their function, Data Protection Liaisons will undergo compulsory training on data protection.
- (3) Data Protection Liaisons will be appointed for a renewable term of one to three years. They will be chosen, at the appropriate hierarchical level, on the basis of their high professional ethics, their knowledge and experience of the workings of their operational unit and their motivation to perform the function.
- (4) Without prejudice to the responsibilities of the Data Protection Officer or the controller, the Data Protection Liaisons will assist the controller in complying with its legal obligations.

Article 46
Obligation to provide assistance and information

Every employee and all operational units of the Office and bodies within the meaning of Article 2 of the Service Regulations are required to assist the Data Protection Officer, his or her Deputies and the Data Protection Liaisons in performing their duties. To enable the Data Protection Officer and, where appropriate, the Deputy Data Protection Officers to assess compliance with these Rules, they shall, at the Data Protection Officer's request, be:

- a. given information in reply to questions and be allowed to inspect all documents and all data stored in files and any data processing programmes;
- b. allowed access to all information, including personal data as well as processing operations, required to perform their tasks; and
- c. given access at all times to all EPO offices, data-processing installations and data carriers.

 - a. issues an opinion on the need for a data protection impact assessment following a request from the controller;
 - b. draws up a list of the kinds of processing operation for which a data protection impact assessment is required and may draw up a list of the kinds of processing operation for which no data protection impact assessment is required;
 - c. provides consultation for the controller, upon a recommendation from the Data Protection Officer, prior to processing where a data protection impact assessment indicates that the processing would result in a high risk to the rights and freedoms of natural persons and the controller is

- of the opinion that the risk cannot be mitigated by reasonable security measures as defined in Article 38(6).
- d. provides written advice to the controller, and where applicable to the processor, where it is of the opinion that the intended processing referred to Article 38(6) would infringe these Rules, in particular where the controller has insufficiently identified or mitigated the risk.
- (3) The Data Protection Board is responsible for:
- a. advising under Article 42(8) on dismissal of the Data Protection Officer if he or she no longer fulfils the conditions required for the performance of his or her duties;
 - b. providing an opinion where a data subject makes use of the means of redress available under Article 50.

Article 48

Appointment and composition of the Data Protection Board

- (1) The Data Protection Board is composed of three external experts in the field of data protection appointed by the President of the Office, namely a chair and two other members, one of whom acts as deputy chair. Two alternate members are to be appointed to replace these two other members if they are unable to act. The Chair may invite the Data Protection Officer or, exceptionally, other parties to the meetings of the Data Protection Board as observers.
- (2) The chair, the two other members and the alternate members shall have the qualifications required for appointment to judicial office or be data protection professionals with proven expertise and experience in the area of data protection law acquired at national or international level. They shall not be Office employees in active service or have been employed by it within the past ten years.

- (5) The chair, the other two members and the alternate members of the Data Protection Board are bound by an obligation of confidentiality which continues indefinitely after their term comes to an end.
- (6) The chair, the other two members and the alternate members of the Data Protection Board are completely independent in carrying out their functions. They shall not seek nor be bound by instructions from the Office or the Administrative Council.

- (7) The chair, the other two members and the alternate members of the Data Protection Board shall refrain from acting in a case in which they have a conflict of interest, in particular a personal interest.
- (8) Where the chair of the Data Protection Board is prevented from acting, he or she will be replaced by the deputy chair. A member of the Data Protection Board who is prevented from acting will be replaced by an alternate member nominated by the chair.
- (9) In proceedings under Article 50, the Data Protection Board will be bound by separate rules of procedure adopted by the President after consultation of the President of the Boards of Appeal and submitted for information to the Administrative Council.
- (10) The Office shall support the Data Protection Board in performing the tasks referred to in this Article by providing the resources necessary to carry out those tasks, the legal and administrative support of a Secretariat and access to personal data and processing operations.

Article 49

Request for review by the delegated controller

- (1) Data subjects who consider that the processing by the Office of their personal data infringes their rights as a data subject under these Rules may request that the delegated controller review the matter and take a decision. The request shall be submitted no later than three months from the day on which the data subject was informed or otherwise became aware of the processing of personal data allegedly infringing his or her rights.
- (2) Prior to taking any decision, the delegated controller shall consult the Data Protection Officer. The Data Protection Officer shall provide the delegated controller with a written opinion no later than 15 calendar days after receipt of the request for review. If the Data Protection Officer has not provided an opinion by the end of this period, it will no longer be required.
- (3) The decision under paragraph 1 above shall be taken within one month of receipt of the request, and communicated to the data subject in writing, indicating the means of redress provided for in Article 50. This time limit may be extended by two further months where necessary, taking into account the complexity and number of the requests. If it is necessary to extend the standard time limit, the delegated controller shall duly notify the data subject of this and the reasons for the delay within one month of receipt of the request for review. If the controller or the delegated controller fails to take any action by the end of a period of three months, this will be deemed to be an implicit rejection of the request.
- (4) A decision or implicit rejection by the delegated controller under this Article is a condition for filing a complaint with the Data Protection Board under Article 50.

Article 50

Legal redress

- (1) Data subjects may challenge the decision taken under Article 49(1) by filing a complaint with the Data Protection Board within three months of receipt of the decision in accordance with Article 49(3) or, in the case of an implicit rejection, of the date of expiry of the time limit for replying to the request for review.
- (2) When examining an objection filed by a data subject, the Data Protection Board shall invite the data subject, the delegated controller and, where applicable, the processor to set out in writing their position on the claims and facts at issue and to provide evidence or comments and arguments on evidence already at hand.
- (3) After examining the objection, the evidence and any written input submitted by the data subject, the delegated controller and, where applicable, the processor, the Data Protection Board shall issue a reasoned opinion to the controller. If it finds that the Office's processing of the data subject's personal data was unlawful, it may recommend that compensation for material and/or non-material damage be awarded.
- (4) The Data Protection Board shall communicate its reasoned opinion to the controller, which will then take a final decision. The controller will normally follow the Data Protection Board's opinion. If the controller decides not to follow the opinion, it shall set out in writing the reasons for deviating from it.
- (5) When the President of the Boards of Appeal acts as the controller under the organisational autonomy granted by the Act of Delegation, he or she shall inform the President of the Office of his or her final decision. When the President of the Office takes a final decision on a complaint lodged with the Data Protection Board and concerning activities of the Boards of Appeal in which the President of the Boards of Appeal acts as the delegated controller, he or she shall inform the President of the Boards of Appeal.
- (6) The controller shall notify the data subject, the delegated controller and, where applicable, the processor, as well as the Data Protection Officer, of the final decision and the conclusions of the Data Protection Board. A copy of the decision shall also be sent to the Data Protection Board.
- (7) The persons covered by Article 1 of the Service Regulations may challenge the decision of the controller only before the Administrative Tribunal of the International Labour Organization under Article 113 of the Service Regulations.
- (8) If data subjects not covered by Article 1 of the Service Regulations disagree with the decision taken by the controller, they may ask the President of the Office, within three months of receipt of the final decision under paragraph 6, for ad-hoc arbitration proceedings under Article 52 to resolve their dispute with the Office over the processing of their personal data.

- (9) In cases in which the final decision challenged under paragraphs 7 and 8 of this Article was taken by the President of the Boards of Appeal, he or she shall be informed that the decision has been challenged.

Article 51

Incidental data protection request during internal appeal proceedings

- (1) Where proceedings for the settlement of disputes under Articles 108 to 110a of the Service Regulations involve data protection aspects, the Data Protection Officer shall be consulted by the body under the Service Regulations advising the appointing authority before delivering its opinion or, at the latest, by the competent appointing authority before taking its decision.
- (2) The Data Protection Officer shall deliver his or her opinion in writing no later than 15 calendar days after receipt of the request for consultation under paragraph 1. If the Data Protection Officer has not provided his or her opinion by the end of this period, it is no longer required.
- (3) Where the Data Protection Officer's opinion has been requested during proceedings for the settlement of disputes under Articles 108 to 110a of the Service Regulations, the proceedings may be suspended for the time needed to provide that opinion but in any event for no longer than 15 calendar days.
- (4) The appointing authority is not bound by the Data Protection Officer's opinion.

Article 52

Ad-hoc arbitration

- (1) Any dispute, controversy or claim raised by a data subject not falling within the scope of application of Article 1 of the Service Regulations arising from a decision of the controller notified to the data subject in accordance with Article 50(6) shall be the subject of final and binding arbitration in accordance with the following procedure and to the exclusion of any other national or international jurisdiction.

- (4) The arbitrator shall be legally qualified, admitted to practise law in one of the contracting states and be able to demonstrate relevant expertise in data protection matters. He or she shall be familiar with the law governing international organisations. The arbitrator must not be or have been in or at the service of the Office or the data subject. He or she shall act independently and impartially.

- (5) The place of arbitration shall be The Hague (the Netherlands).
- (6) The law governing the arbitration procedure shall be the European Patent Convention, these Rules, including any implementing legislation, the law of international organisations and the principles of public international law.
- (7) The language of the proceedings shall be one of the official languages of the Office (English, French or German), as determined by the arbitrator.
- (8) Subject to this Article, the arbitrator may conduct the arbitration as he or she sees fit, provided that the parties are treated equally and each party is given the opportunity of presenting his or her case at every stage of the proceedings.
- (9) The arbitration proceedings are not public. The parties and the arbitrator shall treat the subject-matter of the proceedings confidentially. The arbitration award shall not be published.
- (10) A settlement shall be concluded in the form of a written arbitration award with an agreed wording.
- (11) The arbitrator shall fix the costs of arbitration in his or her award. Circular No. 420
(16. December 2021)

Implementing Article 25
of the Data Protection Rules (DPR)

Article 1 – Purpose

The purpose of this Circular is to clarify the concept of and requirements for the restrictions of the rights of data subjects set forth in Article 25 of the Implementing Rules for Articles 1b and 32a of the Service Regulations (DPR). It also lays down rules on the conditions and procedures under which the Office, when processing personal data for its administrative functioning, namely the processing operations necessary for the Office's management and functioning set out in Article 3, may restrict in accordance with Article 25 DPR the observance of the rights and obligations provided for in Articles 15 to 22, 34 and 35 DPR, as well as of Article 4 DPR in so far as its provisions correspond to the rights and obligations provided for in Articles 15 to 22 DPR.

Article 2 – Definitions

For the purposes of this Circular, the following definitions apply, in addition to the definitions in Article 3 DPR:

"Restriction of the rights of the data subject" means the act of temporarily limiting in an individual case, in accordance with Article 25 DPR and under the requirements for lawfulness set out therein, an existing right of the data subject in relation to processing of personal data by the Office in its administrative functioning. A restriction is an exception made in particular circumstances and under certain conditions to the general rule under the DPR allowing the exercise of rights of the data subject and imposing related obligations. A restriction may be applied when the controller enjoys discretion under the applicable legal provisions of the European Patent Organisation (EPO) as to whether or not to limit the rights of the data subject.

"Exemption to the applicability of the rights of the data subject" means a privilege conferred by a legal provision of the EPO that releases the controller from certain obligations under the DPR or allows the limitation of the rights of data subjects provided for in the DPR. In order to give rise to an exemption, the legal provision of the EPO must clearly identify the scope of the exemption's application and leave the controller no room for discretion as to whether or not the exemption must be applied, even if the practical implementation may vary depending on the circumstances. An exemption is permanent in the sense that it lasts for as long as the legal provision that provides for it is in force.

"Rights of the data subject" means the rights provided for in Articles 15 to 22, 34 and 35 DPR and in Article 4 DPR in so far as its provisions correspond to the rights and obligations provided for in Articles 15 to 22 DPR, as they apply in accordance with Article 25 DPR.

"Legal provisions of the EPO" means the European Patent Convention (EPC) or its constituent parts, international agreements and treaties such as the Patent Cooperation Treaty and any provisions applicable under them, in particular in relation to the procedure for granting European patents on the basis of Article 4(3) EPC and related procedures. They include the provisions governing the publication of patent applications, patents and related information, the constitution, maintenance and preservation of files, file inspection and exclusions from file inspection, communication with parties, correction and rectification, the exchange of information with patent offices and other authorities and disciplinary proceedings against professional representatives, and further legal arrangements made by the President of the Office, rules and instruments enacted by the Administrative Council, as well as circulars, communiqués and all other legal provisions adopted or issued by the President of the Office or by the President of the Boards of Appeal.

"Hard personal data" means objective data such as identification data, contact data, professional data, administrative details, data received from specific sources, electronic communications and traffic data.

"Soft personal data" means subjective data related to a data subject such as reasoning and opinions, behavioural data, performance and conduct data and data related to or brought forward in connection with the subject-matter of proceedings or an activity.

Article 3 – Field of application

- (1) This Circular has the same field of application as provided for in Article 2 DPR. In particular, it applies to processing operations initiated and carried out by the Office throughout the procedures and activities listed in Article 4(1), including prior to commencing them and when monitoring their outcome. It also applies to co-operation, including assistance, between the Office and competent authorities of contracting states to the EPC and/or other competent authorities, for example of third countries or international organisations.
- (2) Subject to the conditions set out in this Circular, the following rights of the data subject may be restricted: right to the provision of information to data subjects, right of access, right to rectification, right to erasure, right to restriction of processing, right to communication of a personal data breach to the data subjects and right to confidentiality of electronic communications.
- (3) When it applies, the right to object under Article 23 DPR cannot be restricted. Data subjects always have the right to object to processing of their personal data under Article 5(a) DPR, i.e. processing necessary for the performance of a task carried out on the basis of legal provisions of the EPO or in the legitimate exercise of the official authority vested in the controller, which includes the processing necessary for the Office's management and functioning. However, while data subjects have the right to object, the controller examining the objection may nevertheless demonstrate that there are compelling legitimate grounds not to grant it.

- (4) When processing data within the framework of its official activities and fulfilling its obligations as regards rights of data subjects under the DPR, the controller must first consider whether the legal provisions of the EPO provide for any exemption to the applicability of the rights of the data subject in the processing operation. If an exemption applies, the controller is not obliged to comply with the obligations laid down in the DPR as regards the rights of the data subject in question.
- (5) When applying restrictions to the rights of the data subject, the controller and the delegated controller must be able to demonstrate compliance with the DPR and with the conditions and requirements laid down in this Circular and justify the application of the restriction.
- (6) This Circular applies to all categories of personal data, including both hard personal data and soft personal data.

Article 4 – Restrictions

- (1) The Office may restrict the application of Articles 15 to 21, 34 and 35 DPR, as well as of Article 4 DPR in so far as its provisions correspond to the rights and obligations provided for in Articles 15 to 21 DPR:
 - (a) pursuant to Article 25(1)(b), (c), (d), (f), (g) and (h) DPR when conducting investigative processes under the Implementing Rules for Articles 21, 21a and 93(2) of the Service Regulations (ServRegs)
 - (b) pursuant to Article 25(1)(b), (c), (e), (f), (g) and (h) DPR when conducting disciplinary proceedings under Articles 93, 95, 95a and Chapter 3 ServRegs
 - (c) pursuant to Article 25(1)(a), (b), (c), (e), (f), (g) and (h) DPR when processing personal data in proceedings related to the prevention and management of grievances under the provisions of Title VIII (Settlement of Disputes) ServRegs and Articles 49, 50, 51 and 52 DPR or in connection with the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims involving the EPO or its subordinate bodies, including arbitration, in order to preserve confidential information and documents obtained from the parties, interveners or other legitimate sources
 - (d) pursuant to Article 25(1)(h) DPR when processing health-related data in medical procedures and files
 - (e) pursuant to Article 25(1)(c), (g) and (h) DPR when conducting internal audits in relation to activities or organisational units of the Office
 - (f) pursuant to Article 25(1)(c), (g) and (h) DPR in investigations carried out by the Data Protection Officer under Article 43(2) DPR
 - (g) pursuant to Article 25(1)(a), (b), (c), (d), (g) and (h) DPR for the purposes of IT incident management and physical security incident reports, whether handled internally or with external involvement
 - (h) pursuant to Article 25(1)(c), (d), (g) and (h) DPR when providing or receiving assistance to or from competent public authorities, including from EPC contracting states and international organisations, or when co-operating with them on activities defined in relevant service

level agreements, memoranda of understanding and co-operation agreements, either at their request or on the Office's own initiative

- (2) Restrictions of individual rights are lawful when they safeguard the important interests listed in Article 25(1) DPR. Data subjects' rights can be restricted only when those interests are at stake and when the restrictions aim at safeguarding such interests.
- (3) Restrictions must always respect the essence of the right that is being restricted. This means that restrictions that are so extensive and intrusive that, in effect, they deprive a fundamental right of its basic substance and prevent the individual from exercising it cannot be justified. If the essence of the right is compromised, the restriction must already be considered unlawful and it is unnecessary to further assess whether it serves an objective of general interest and satisfies the necessity and proportionality criteria.
- (4) A necessity and proportionality test must be carried out in each case before a restriction is applied. Restrictions must be limited to what is strictly necessary to achieve their objective. For accountability purposes, restrictions must be documented in an internal and confidential assessment note that analyses which rights are to be restricted, for how long, for what reasons and on which of the legal grounds listed in paragraph 1 and sets out the outcome of the necessity and proportionality test. This test will also be conducted when reviewing the application of a restriction.
- (5) A restriction is in principle a temporary measure and, as such, must not restrict a right of the data subject indefinitely. Restrictions must be lifted as soon as the circumstances that justify them no longer apply and, in particular, where it is considered that an exercise of the restricted right would no longer cancel the effect of the restriction imposed or adversely affect the rights or freedoms of other data subjects.
- (6) The Office may exchange personal data of data subjects with competent public authorities of EPC contracting states in accordance with Article 20 of the EPO Protocol on Privileges and Immunities and with public authorities of third countries or international organisations under public international law. Where the exchange of personal data is initiated by another authority or international organisation, no restriction will be applied by the Office. When processing personal data received from other public entities for the purposes of performing its tasks, the Office will consult those public entities on potential grounds for imposing restrictions and the necessity and proportionality of any such restrictions unless this would jeopardise its activities.
- (7) The records of processing operations subject to restrictions and, where applicable, the documents setting out the factual and legal basis for those restrictions must be made available to the Data Protection Board upon request.

Article 5 – Specification of the controller, safeguards and storage periods

- (1) Unless otherwise specified in the DPR, the President of the Office acts as the controller of the personal data processed by the Office and is free to delegate competence to determine the purposes and means of processing certain personal data to an organisational unit, represented by its head. Data subjects must be informed of the delegated controllers in the records and data protection notices published on the Office's intranet and/or website.
- (2) The Office must implement safeguards to prevent abuse of, unlawful access to or transmission or transfer of personal data in respect of which restrictions apply or could be applied. Such safeguards include technical and organisational measures and must be detailed as necessary in circulars, guidelines, procedural documentation and administrative instructions of the Office. The measures must include:
 - (a) a clear definition of roles, responsibilities and procedural steps
 - (b) a secure electronic environment which prevents unlawful and accidental access to or transfer of electronic data to unauthorised persons
 - (c) secure storage and processing of paper-based documents
 - (d) due monitoring of restrictions and periodic review of their application

The reviews referred to in point (d) must be conducted at least once a year and at the closure of the procedure in question.

- (3) Restrictions must be lifted as soon as the circumstances that justify them no longer apply.
- (4) The storage period of the personal data processed in the procedures in which restrictions are applied must be no longer than specified in the records and data protection notices for the procedures and activities listed in Article 4(1). At the end of the storage period, the case-related information, including personal data, must be deleted, anonymised or stored in the Office's historical archives.
- (5) When considering whether to apply a restriction, the Office must weigh up the potential risks to the rights and freedoms of the data subject against, in particular, the risks to the rights and freedoms of other data subjects and the risks of hindering the purpose and outcome of the processing operation. Risks to the rights and freedoms of the data subject primarily include, but are not limited to, reputational risks and risks to the right of defence and the right to be heard.

Article 6 – Involvement of the Data Protection Officer

- (1) The delegated controller must inform the Data Protection Officer without undue delay whenever the delegated controller restricts the application of the rights of data subjects, lifts the restriction or revises the period of restriction in accordance with this Circular. The delegated controller will provide the Data Protection Officer with access to the internal and confidential assessment note containing the assessment of the necessity and proportionality of the restriction and any documents concerning the factual or legal context, and document the date the Data Protection Officer is informed in the specific record.

- (2) The Data Protection Officer may request the delegated controller in writing to review the application of a restriction. The delegated controller must inform the Data Protection Officer in writing of the outcome of the requested review.
- (3) The involvement of the Data Protection Officer in the restriction procedure, including any exchanges of information, must be documented in an appropriate form.

Article 7 – Information for data subjects on restrictions of their rights

- (1) The Office must publish on its intranet and/or its website records within the meaning of Article 32 DPR, data protection notices and/or privacy policies which inform all data subjects of the activities involving processing of their personal data and of their rights in relation to a given processing, including information on any potential restrictions of these rights. The information must cover which rights may be restricted, the grounds on which the restriction may be applied and the potential duration of the restriction.
- (2) Where data subjects request to exercise their right of access, rectification, erasure and restriction of processing in relation to their personal data processed in the context of one or more specific cases or in a particular processing operation, the Office will limit its assessment of their request to the personal data concerned only.
- (3) Where applicable, the delegated controller must inform data subjects individually, in writing and without undue delay of current or future restrictions of their rights. The delegated controller must also inform the data subjects of the principal reasons and the legal grounds on which the restrictions are based and the potential duration of the restrictions, of their right to consult the Data Protection Officer with a view to challenging the restriction and of their right to seek legal redress under Articles 49 and 50 DPR.
- (4) In duly justified cases and under the conditions laid down in this Circular, the controller may restrict the provision of certain information where this is necessary and proportionate in the context of the procedures and activities listed in Article 4(1). In particular, the provision of information about the reasons for a restriction and the right to seek legal redress under Articles 49 and 50 DPR may be deferred, omitted or denied in accordance with Article 25(4) DPR if it would cancel the effect of the restriction.
- (5) Where the delegated controller restricts, wholly or partly, the provision of information referred to in paragraph 3, it must document in the internal and confidential assessment note the reasons for the restriction, including a reasoned assessment of its necessity and proportionality, the legal grounds for it and its duration.

- (6) A restriction referred to in paragraph 4 continues to apply for as long as the reasons justifying it remain applicable. An assessment of whether the reasons remain applicable must take place in every case. Once the reasons for the restriction no longer apply, the delegated controller must provide the data subject with the information.
- (7) The delegated controller will review the application of the restriction at least once a year and at the closure of the procedure in question. Thereafter, the delegated controller will monitor the need to maintain any restriction on an annual basis.
- (8) The provisions of this Article do not apply to the right of access to medical data and/or files, for which specific rules are explicitly laid down in Article 8 below.

Article 8 – Right of access to medical data and/or files

- (1) Restrictions of the right of access of data subjects to their medical data and/or files are governed by the specific provisions of this Article.
- (2) Subject to the following paragraphs of this Article, the Office may restrict a data subject's right to directly access their personal medical data and/or files of a psychological or psychiatric nature which are processed by the Office but only if access to those data is likely to adversely affect and pose an immediate danger to the life and health of the data subject or others. The restriction must be proportionate to what is strictly necessary to protect the data subject or others.
- (3) Access to the data referred to in paragraph 2 must be given to a physician of the data subject's choice.
- (4) Where data subjects request to exercise their right of access to their personal medical data processed in the context of one or more specific cases or in a particular processing operation, the Office will limit its assessment of their request to the personal data concerned only.
- (5) Where the Office restricts, wholly or partly, a data subject's right of direct access to personal medical data and/or files of a psychological or psychiatric nature, it must take the following steps:
 - (a) inform the data subject concerned, in its reply to the request, of the restriction applied and of the principal reasons for it and of their right to consult the Data Protection Officer and seek legal redress in accordance with Articles 49 and 50 DPR. The provision of this information may be deferred, omitted or denied in accordance with Article 25(4) DPR if it would cancel the effect of the restriction.
 - (b) document in the internal and confidential assessment note the reasons for the restriction, including a reasoned assessment of its necessity and proportionality which, in particular, evaluates how exercising the right of access would adversely affect and pose an immediate danger to the life and health of the data subject or others, and the potential duration of the restriction.

- (6) Any restriction referred to in this Article will continue to apply for as long as the reasons justifying it remain applicable. Once the reasons for the restriction no longer apply, upon a request of the data subject, the delegated controller will review the need to maintain the restriction.

Article 9 – Communication of a personal data breach to the data subject

- (1) Where the Office is under an obligation to communicate a data breach under Article 34(6) DPR, it may, in exceptional circumstances, restrict such communication wholly or partly. However, the right to this communication must not be restricted in procedures for dealing with harassment.
- (2) The delegated controller must draw up a note documenting the reasons for the restriction, the legal ground for it under Article 4(1) and an assessment of its necessity and proportionality. This note must be communicated to the Data Protection Officer when the personal data breach is notified.
- (3) Once the reasons for the restriction no longer apply, the Office must communicate the personal data breach to the data subjects concerned and inform them of the principal reasons for the restriction and of their right to consult the Data Protection Officer and seek legal redress in accordance with Articles 49 and 50 DPR.

Article 10 – Confidentiality of electronic communications

- (1) In exceptional circumstances, the Office may restrict the right to confidentiality of electronic communications under Article 35 DPR. Such restrictions must comply with the Guidelines on Electronic Communications.
- (2) Where the Office restricts the right to confidentiality of electronic communications, it must inform the data subject concerned, in its reply to any request from that data subject, of the principal reasons for applying the restriction and of the right to seek legal redress in accordance with Article 49 and Article 50 DPR.
- (3) The Office may defer, omit or deny the provision of information about the reasons for a restriction and about the right to consult the Data Protection Officer and seek legal redress in accordance with Articles 49 and 50 DPR for as long as such provision would cancel the effect of the restriction. An assessment of whether deferring, omitting or denying the provision of information is justified must take place in every case.

Policy on the resolution of conflicts and on the prevention of harassment

Circular No. 341

(1 November 2017)

Policy on the resolution of conflicts and on the prevention of harassment at the EPO

A. Introduction

Guiding principles

The European Patent Office (hereinafter referred to as "the Office") seeks to enable and promote a respectful environment for all persons working at or for the Office. It is committed to fostering a workplace which is free of harassment and intimidation and where everyone can work together with openness, trust and respect for diversity. Any form of harassment as defined in Article 14b ServRegs, whether committed by colleagues, managers or third parties, is prohibited, and is contrary to the interests of the European Patent Organisation.

Everyone has the right to be treated with dignity, professional respect, and discretion in the workplace. This requires an organisational culture where everyone, at all levels, feels a personal responsibility to ensure that the dignity of colleagues is respected, bearing in mind and taking into consideration differences in culture and customs.

The present Circular reinforces the prohibition of harassment and contains general provisions relating to workplace conflicts. It sets out an informal mechanism for the prevention and amicable resolution of such conflicts and outlines the associated roles and responsibilities.

Policy goals

The aim of this policy is to help promote a respectful working environment and to provide a means of resolving workplace conflicts.

It is the Office's policy:

- to protect the dignity of all persons working at or for the Office;
- to promote a culture in which the dignity of such persons is respected and all forms of harassment are regarded as unacceptable and are neither tolerated nor condoned;
- to strictly prohibit any form of harassment and to enforce this prohibition effectively;
- to take all allegations of harassment seriously, so that everyone feels confident that they can bring such allegations without fear of ridicule or reprisal;
- to encourage and facilitate the amicable resolution of workplace conflicts at the lowest appropriate level;

- to inform all persons working at or for the Office of the issues relating to workplace conflicts, their rights and responsibilities in this regard, and where to find help if needed.

Everyone in the Office has a role to play in creating and maintaining a work climate which is free from inappropriate behaviour and where conflicts are dealt with in a respectful manner. The most effective way to prevent and resolve conflicts is through the joint efforts of all staff.

B. General provisions

Article 1

Field of application

- (1) This Circular shall apply to all persons covered by Article 1 of the Service Regulations, including former employees of the Office.
- (2) It shall also apply to all persons who are not covered by paragraph 1 of this Article but who undertake work in or on behalf of the Office. Where direct application to such persons is not possible, the Office will seek to apply by contractual agreement the rights and obligations set out in this Circular.

Article 2

Prohibition of harassment

- (1) The Office prohibits any form of harassment (Article 14b ServRegs) either at the workplace in the Office or in connection with the work of a person covered by Article 1 above.
- (2) Any failure by an employee or former employee to comply with this obligation, whether intentionally or through negligence on his part, may be considered a breach of his obligations to act in accordance with the standards of conduct set forth in the Service Regulations and may therefore make him liable to disciplinary action under Title VII of the Service Regulations.
- (3) Employees subjected to inappropriate behaviour may, in addition to using the means of amicable resolution of conflicts provided for in this Circular, resort to the formal procedure and file an allegation of harassment. The filing of such allegations and their investigation are governed by the Implementing Rules for Articles 21, 21a and 93(2) of the Service Regulations.

Article 3

Amicable conflict resolution

- (1) The aim of amicable conflict resolution is to resolve conflict situations through means other than the formal procedures of dispute resolution, investigation and litigation. Its purpose is therefore not to formally establish the facts of the case or to determine any disciplinary measures.

- (2) The specific method applied will depend on the nature of the conflict and the circumstances, due account being taken of the Office's duty of care towards its employees. Depending on the circumstances, informal discussions, counselling or facilitation, be it with or without the guidance or intervention of third parties, may be required.
- (3) All persons covered by this Circular are encouraged to seek an amicable resolution to conflicts with colleagues as soon as possible and at the lowest appropriate level. As a general rule, the parties involved in a conflict should in the first instance attempt to resolve it by clarifying the matter in good faith among themselves or seek advice and assistance from their line manager. Alternatively, they may resort to the other resources available with the assistance of the confidential counsellors and the Conflict Resolution Unit ("CRU").
- (4) All parties and departments involved in the conflict resolution process shall endeavour to keep the number of persons and procedures involved to a minimum.

C. Roles and responsibilities

Article 4 Responsibilities of all staff

- (1) All employees shall, in the discharge of their duties, be responsible for their own behaviour in accordance with the provisions governing the conduct of employees. They shall treat their colleagues with professional respect and discretion and refrain from any inappropriate behaviour.
- (2) Staff involved in existing or potential conflicts should seek to prevent or resolve misunderstandings through open dialogue and respectful communication.
- (3) The Office stresses the importance of establishing and maintaining positive relationships for a peaceful working environment as one of the core competencies it expects of its staff.

Article 5 Responsibilities of line managers

- (1) Line managers shall actively contribute to the creation and maintenance of a respectful workplace environment for their teams and promote the early resolution of conflicts. They shall make themselves available to employees who wish to raise concerns in confidence, and shall deal with such concerns in an impartial and sensitive manner.
- (2) Line managers shall at all times act responsibly, bearing in mind their role. They shall lead by example, provide staff with guidance and be vigilant for signs of inappropriate behaviour, whether or not a complaint has been made.

- (3) Line managers may ask the CRU and Human Resources partners for advice on appropriate means of conflict resolution and the resources available for this.

Article 6 Human Resources partners

Human Resources partners shall be responsible for advising and supporting line managers and employees in promoting and implementing this policy. They shall make themselves available to any line manager or employee wishing to raise a concern, and shall encourage open communication and amicable conflict resolution.

Article 7 Confidential counsellors

- (1) Confidential counsellors shall provide independent guidance and support for employees who wish, in strict confidentiality, to raise concerns regarding workplace conflict and to work towards amicable conflict resolution. At an employee's request, they shall facilitate and advise on amicable resolution throughout all stages of the process with a view to finding a satisfactory solution to the problem. They shall listen carefully to the employee, remain objective and communicate in a respectful manner at all times.
- (2) When a conflict occurs, the parties shall be encouraged to seek the assistance of a confidential counsellor of their choice. The identity of the parties concerned and information about the amicable conflict resolution process and its outcome shall be confidential. Confidential counsellors shall not disclose any such information without the express consent of the parties, unless they become aware of a risk of serious harm to an individual. Any action by the confidential counsellor, in particular making contact with the other party, may only be taken with the prior consent of the employee consulting them and must remain within the remit given to them.
- (3) Confidential counsellors shall refrain from becoming involved in any case in which they may have a personal interest. In performing their tasks, they shall deal respectfully and objectively with the staff consulting them and refrain from conducting any investigations.

Article 8 Conflict Resolution Unit

- (1) The CRU shall actively support and co-ordinate the amicable conflict resolution process.
- (2) It shall:
 - (a) provide staff and line managers with information and advice on the resources available in the Office for dealing with conflicts and direct them, if appropriate, towards the relevant department;

- (b) co-ordinate the work of the confidential counsellors;
 - (c) provide administrative support for the amicable conflict resolution process, if necessary in co-operation with other departments;
 - (d) address all concerns regarding the impartiality of confidential counsellors or the conduct or effectiveness of the amicable conflict resolution process.
 - (e) develop and promote programmes to raise awareness of issues relating to workplace conflicts, protection of dignity and prevention of harassment.
- (3) The CRU does not engage in any investigative activities. In view of its role in the amicable conflict resolution process, the CRU may, however, be asked by the Directorate Ethics and Compliance to assist in the resolution of allegations of harassment and related conflicts.

Article 9

Directorate Ethics and Compliance

- (1) The Directorate Ethics and Compliance (DEC) helps to promote integrity, ethics, and accountability throughout the Office, and to prevent, detect and address misconduct, including harassment.
- (2) To this end, following the registration of a formal complaint of harassment, the investigative unit within the DEC will carry out the formal investigative process in accordance with the Service Regulations and Implementing Rules. At various stages of this formal process, the DEC may refer the matter to the CRU for exploration of the options for informal conflict resolution mentioned in Article 3.

D. Selection and activities of confidential counsellors

Article 10

Procedure for selecting confidential counsellors

- (1) Confidential counsellors shall be nominated for each place of employment – four each for Munich and The Hague and two each for Vienna and Berlin. The number of confidential counsellors shall be subject to periodic review and shall be adjusted in accordance with the workload, but shall be no less than two per place of employment.
- (2) The nominations shall be made by the President of the Office after consulting a centralised selection board for all sites. The nominations shall be for a term of two years, which may be renewed based on the recommendation of the centralised selection board.
- (3) The centralised selection board for all sites shall be a parity body, and shall consist of two members designated by the President of the Office and two members designated by the Staff Committee. Selection board members shall be in active status.

- (4) Confidential counsellors shall be selected from among employees in active employment on the basis of their aptitude, skills, training and position of trust in the Office.
- (5) The names of the confidential counsellors shall be published.

Article 11

Time deductions for confidential counsellors

- (1) The confidential counsellors shall be exempted up to 50% from their official duties for performing their activities as confidential counsellors. They shall manage their working time efficiently to ensure a balance is maintained at all times between their counsellor activities on the one hand and their official duties on the other.
- (2) The confidential counsellors shall record the time spent on their counselling duties in accordance with the workflow set up for that purpose.

Article 12

Training of confidential counsellors

Confidential counsellors shall receive appropriate training to enable them to perform their duties. They shall also seek continually to improve their skills and develop best practices by way of peer-to-peer exchanges. In order to facilitate the sharing of knowledge and best practices, a meeting of all the Office's confidential counsellors shall be held twice a year.

Article 13

Activity report

- (1) Confidential counsellors, fully respecting their duty of confidentiality, shall provide anonymised input on their activities to the CRU in accordance with the workflow set up for this purpose. They shall furthermore provide anonymised input to the DEC regarding areas of its activities aimed at ensuring the coherent application of ethical standards throughout the Office. The CRU will monitor and periodically review the implementation of this Circular as well as draw up and submit an annual report on the amicable conflict resolution procedure.

Basic guidelines

Guidelines on arrangements for working hours

Guidelines on arrangements for working hours

(1 July 2010)

Article 1 Guiding principles

- (1) In accordance with Article 55(3) of the Service Regulations (ServRegs), these guidelines set out a general framework for the working hours of staff at all EPO places of employment. Subject to the conditions set out in the guidelines, an employee may vary the time of his arrival, breaks and departure from work.
- (2) Each employee remains fully responsible for the effective and prompt performance of his duties. Proper use of his freedom to arrange his working time within the framework of these guidelines is part of each individual employee's responsibility for discharging his duties (Article 24(1) ServRegs). To this end he has also to:
 - respond to the professional needs of his colleagues and the tasks of his unit;
 - safeguard his personal health and wellbeing by inter alia taking due account of the Occupational Health Policy and the Ergonomics Guidelines for Working with Display Screen Equipment. Excessively long working periods such as three consecutive working days of substantially more than nine hours are to be avoided;
 - co-operate with his line manager, who remains ultimately responsible for the performance of the unit.
- (3) The tool made available under Article 7 is for time administration; its functionality does not substitute these guidelines. The individual employee is responsible for the correct use of the tool.
- (4) The line manager shall endeavour to allow his staff the maximum freedom to arrange their working time, whilst safeguarding the interests of the service. The line manager is entitled to know when he can expect his staff to be at work. He may limit an employee's freedom under the present guidelines in order to ensure the proper functioning of the unit, and the performance of its tasks as well as the fulfilment of the duties of the individual employee. The line manager shall remain alert to any use of that freedom that may have negative consequences for the health of an employee. The line manager's prerogative to deviate, in justified cases, from these guidelines in favour of the employee remains unaffected.
- (5) The freedom to arrange working time and the use of time accounts under these guidelines is neutral in terms of the calculation of capacity.

Article 2

Working time components

For the purposes of these guidelines:

- (1) "Normal working day" is a day of eight working hours and serves as the basis for the administration of time worked.
- (2) "Normal working week" means five normal working days from Monday to Friday, resulting in a weekly working time of 40 hours for full-time staff.
- (3) A "compressed working week" is a week where, in agreement with the line manager, the daily minimum of six working hours has been regularly reduced on a particular day of the working week to a minimum of four working hours.
- (4) "Office hours" means the normal opening hours during which Office building facilities and automation support services are available. Unless otherwise provided by the President for certain areas, office hours are:

Monday - Friday 07.00 - 19.00 hrs

- (5) "Core time" means the time slots within a normal working week during which an employee shall be present at work unless his absence is otherwise authorised. The time slots are:

Monday - Friday 10.00 - 11.30 and 14.00 - 15.00 hrs

Article 3

Working time framework

- (1) Unless otherwise provided for, an employee shall perform his normal working week at the Office during office hours.
- (2) An employee may deviate from a normal working day by working down to a minimum of six hours and up to a maximum of ten hours.
- (3) An employee may deviate from the normal working week of 40 hours by working down to a minimum of 35 hours and up to a maximum of 45 hours.
- (4) An employee shall not work more than 48 hours per week, including overtime.
- (5) Exceptionally, and in duly justified circumstances, the maximum limits laid down in paragraphs (2) and (4) may be exceeded at the request of the employee or, subject to the terms of Article 57 ServRegs, at the request of the line manager. However, the minimum rest periods pursuant to Article 4(4) and (5) must always be observed. Every exception must be recorded by the line manager. Where excess hours are caused by the duration of oral proceedings under the EPC, no such request and no such record is required.

Article 4
Breaks and rest periods

- (1) An employee shall not work longer than five hours without a rest break of at least 30 minutes.
- (2) A daily lunch break of at least 30 minutes is mandatory for any employee whose working time on a given day exceeds five hours. It must be taken between 11.30 and 14.00 hrs.
- (3) Two breaks in the working day of up to 15 minutes, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, are considered as working time.
- (4) A minimum daily rest period of 11 hours must be observed between working days.
- (5) A minimum weekly rest period of 24 hours plus the 11 hours' minimum daily rest period must be observed between working weeks.
- (6) Where shift work or an irregular working pattern so requires, the timing of the breaks shall be adapted.

Article 5
Accrual of time credits

- (1) Subject to Article 7(4), an employee wishing to deviate from the normal working week shall enter in the time administration tool any time differences between the hours actually worked and the normal working day.
- (2) Subject to a weekly limit of five hours' credit and five hours' debit, the accumulated time differences will, at the end of the week, be automatically recorded in a first time account. The balance of this time account, known as flexi-hours, may not exceed 16 hours' credit or debit at any time.
- (3) Time differences accumulated during the current week, but not yet automatically recorded pursuant to paragraph (2), do not constitute time credit or debit until the following week, in particular for the purposes of Article 6.
- (4) In addition to and independently of paragraphs (1) and (2), for each eight hours of presence at work an employee accrues 15 minutes of time credit in a second time account. This calculation is made on the basis of the normal working day. The balance of this time account, known as compensation hours, is calculated by the time administration tool and may not exceed 56 hours at any time.
- (5) The balance of these time accounts not used or settled at the end of the calendar year will be automatically carried over into the next year.
- (6) Accrued time credit is not considered as overtime according to Article 57 ServRegs. It carries no right to remuneration. The balance of the time accounts is not taken into account when assessing the employee's productivity.

Article 6¹
Use of time credits

- (1) Time credits from flexi-hour and compensation hour accounts may be taken as single hours, days or multiples thereof.
- (2) The use of time credits from these accounts may be freely combined with each other and with leave.
- (3) Subject to the approval of the line manager which, in so far as applicable, is to be provided in accordance with paragraph 5, the use of any time credit must be registered by means of the time administration tool.
- (4) In the following cases, an employee shall use his time credits and register his absence in good time so that his line manager is adequately informed of:
 - (i) any absence during core time, whereby the registration shall include any further absences adjacent to the core time absence;
 - (ii) working down more than two hours from a normal working day;
 - (iii) the extent to which the weekly limit of five hours debit pursuant to Article 5(2) is or will be exceeded,

(i) and (ii) not applying if the absence is a consequence of a compressed working week.
- (5) Absences of four hours or more per day resulting from the use of time credits, either on its own or combined with any other leave, shall require the prior approval of the line manager. The request for approval shall be submitted to the line manager at least three working days before the planned absence.

In justified cases, the immediate superior may agree to waive the three working days limit for obtaining the authorisation.

Save in exceptional cases, an employee is not permitted to depart when using time credits until his immediate superior has approved the request. In such a case the immediate superior must be informed immediately.

Article 7
Time administration tool

- (1) A time administration tool is available.
- (2) Use of this tool in accordance with the relevant instructions is a prerequisite for accruing time credit on the flexitime account referred to in Article 5(2) and for using time credit under Article 6.
- (3) An employee making no entry in the time administration tool for a particular working day, and not having any other form of absence recorded for that day, will automatically have a normal working day recorded.

¹ Amended by decision of the President from 25 September 2013.

- (4) No entry pursuant to Article 5(1) needs to be made in the time administration tool for a week in which no time difference according to Article 5(1)-(3) has been accrued.

Article 8

Special provisions

- (1) Unless otherwise arranged with the line manager, Articles 2(3) and 5(1)-(3) are not applicable to staff performing shift work (Article 58 ServRegs).
- (2) Staff placed on reduced working hours or performance for medical reasons may not accrue flexi-hours pursuant to Article 5(1)-(3). However, they may benefit from all other flexibility arrangements in so far as these are compatible with the individual employee's part-time medical schedule and/or reintegration plan.
- (3) The following time does not constitute a time difference within the meaning of Article 5(1)-(3);
- overtime under Article 57(1)-(3) ServRegs;
 - shift work under Article 58 ServRegs;
 - on call under Article 58a ServRegs
- (4) Where an employee has agreed, at the request of the line manager, to work more than the weekly number of hours under any applicable part-time arrangement, he may, but is not obliged to, enter those extra hours in part or in full under Article 5(1) in his flexi-hour account. The employee is entitled to compensatory leave for any such hours worked but not so recorded.
- (5) The normal working day as defined in Article 2(1) is reduced, for part-time staff, in accordance with their working schedule for the day concerned and, for examiners of the former IIB, to seven hours. For part-time staff and for examiners of the former IIB the normal working week is reduced accordingly.
- (6) Irrespective of the employee's working pattern, one full/half day of absence corresponds to eight/four hours for an employee working full-time, to be reduced accordingly for part-time staff and examiners of the former IIB.
- (7) For each employee on part-time the periods of mandatory presence at work on each day of the working week are normally the core times falling within their established working hours.
- (8) For medical visits the provisions of Circular 22 apply, however, no positive time difference may be entered pursuant to Article 5 of the present guidelines for a day on which sick leave for a medical visit is claimed under Circular 22.
- (9) Employees undertaking duty travel may record travelling time spent during office hours in full, and one further hour for each leg of the trip that takes place outside office hours. Travelling time does not count towards the maximums set out in Article 3.

- (10) Upon termination of employment, any remaining time debit will be set off against the annual leave balance or, if this is not possible, against remuneration as set out in Circular 22, Rule 5(f)(iv).

AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE FEDERAL REPUBLIC OF GERMANY AND THE EUROPEAN PATENT ORGANISATION ON THE IMPLEMENTATION OF ARTICLE 12 OF THE PENSION SCHEME REGULATIONS OF THE EUROPEAN PATENT OFFICE	71

THE ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN PATENT ORGANISATION,

Having regard to the European Patent Convention, and in particular Article 33, paragraph 2 c), thereof,

Having regard to the Service Regulations for Permanent Employees of the European Patent Office,

HAS ADOPTED THE FOLLOWING PENSION SCHEME REGULATIONS OF THE EUROPEAN PATENT OFFICE:¹

CHAPTER I
GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 1
Scope

- (1) The pension scheme established by these Regulations shall apply to the permanent employees of the European Patent Office, hereinafter referred to as "the Office", within the meaning of Article 1 of the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the Office.
- (2) Save as otherwise expressly laid down for the Office, this scheme applies also to permanent employees, holding indefinite term or definite or fixed term appointments in the following Organisations, in accordance with the decisions taken by the Councils of these Organisations:
 - the Council of Europe;
 - the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD);
 - the European Space Agency (ESA) (ex European Organisation for the Development and Construction of Space Vehicle Launches (ELDO) and European Space Research Organisation (ESRO));
 - the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO);
 - the Western European Union (WEU), and
 - the European Centre for Medium-Range Weather Forecasts.
- (3) This scheme shall not apply to other categories of personnel defined in each Organisation, such as experts, consultants, temporary staff, auxiliary staff, employees and personnel hired under local labour legislation, etc.
- (4) In these Regulations the term "employee" or "permanent employee" means the staff referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 above. The term "Organisation" refers to the European Patent Organisation or Office, as the case may be, and to the Organisations listed in paragraph 2.

¹ Decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 10/77.

Article 2

Deferred entitlement

- (1)¹ Where the medical examination which every employee has to undergo at the time of his appointment shows him to be suffering from an illness or disablement, the Office may decide that, as regards risks arising from an illness or disablement existing before he took up his duties, the said employee shall not be entitled to the death benefits provided for in these Regulations until the expiry of a period not exceeding five years from the date on which he entered the service of the Organisation. If an employee leaves one of the Organisations listed in Article 1, paragraph 2, and takes up employment in the Office within a period of not more than six months, the time spent in the service of that Organisation shall be deducted from this five-year period.

Article 3

Definition of salary

- (1)² For the purposes of these Regulations, salary shall be the monthly basic salary of the employee as defined in Article 64, paragraph 2, of the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the European Patent Office.
- (2) The minimum salaries taken into consideration for the calculation of pensions shall be those of serving employees, whether in respect of pensions to be paid in the future or those actually being paid.

Article 4

Definition of service conferring entitlement to benefits

- (1) Subject to the provisions of Articles 5 and 41, paragraph 1, entitlement to benefits under these Regulations shall be determined by the total of the periods actually served in the Organisations listed in Article 1:
- (i) as an employee as defined in Article 1;
 - (ii) in any other capacity prior to permanent appointment, provided any periods so served were not separated by breaks of more than one year.
- (2) The following shall also be taken into account:
- (i)³ periods of incapacity in accordance with Article 62b of the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the Office;
 - (ii)⁴ periods of non-active status in respect of which pension scheme contributions have been paid in accordance with Articles 43, 44, 44a and 44b of the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the Office;

1 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 30/07.

2 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 17/08.

3 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/15.

4 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 8/22.

- (iii) periods of entitlement to the allowance for reserve status provided for in the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the Office, up to a maximum of five years, subject to the employee concerned having paid his pension contributions during such periods.

Article 5

Calculation of service conferring entitlement to benefits

- (1) Where an employee appointed by the Office has previously served with one of the Organisations listed in Article 1, his entitlement to benefits under the terms of Article 4 shall be conditional upon his paying over to the Office the amounts paid to him on leaving his previous service
 - (i) pursuant to Article 11,
 - (ii) in respect of his Provident Fund holding, within the limits laid down in the transitional provisions under the Pension Scheme Rules applicable to one of the Organisations listed in Article 1 and with which he served, plus compound interest on such amounts at 4 per cent per annum from the date when the employee received them until the date when they are paid over in accordance with this paragraph.

Should the employee fail to pay over the amounts in question, reckonable service shall count only as from the new appointment.

- (2) Where an employee appointed by the Office was previously drawing a retirement pension in respect of service with one of the Organisations listed in Article 1, payment of that pension shall cease.

If the employee refunds to the Office the pension payments he has received, the provisions of Article 4 shall apply on termination of his employment at the Office.

If he does not make this refund, the years of service for which credit was acquired in the employment that originally entitled him to payment of the discontinued retirement pension shall be taken into account, in the calculation of the retirement pension due on cessation of his new employment, by reference to the salary for his last grading in such previous employment; moreover, that part of the final pension figure shall be abated by 5 per cent for each whole year during which the employee drew the initial pension before the age of sixty.

- (3) Where an employee retires at a grade and step lower than that which he had previously held in the Office or in a previous Organisation his entitlement to benefits under these Regulations shall be determined by taking into account the total of his years of service and the benefits shall be calculated on the basis of the salary for the highest grading held by him. However, a reduction shall be made in the number of years of service to be credited to him in respect of time served at a lower grade and step after having held the grade by reference to which benefits are calculated; this reduction shall be proportionate to the difference between the said gradings.

- (4) For the implementation of paragraphs 2 and 3 above, salaries shall be taken into account in accordance with the scales in force when the final pension assessment is made.
- (5) The periods referred to in Article 4, paragraph 1 (ii), shall be credited on condition that:
 - (i) the employee submits an application to that effect within six months following his appointment as a permanent employee governed by the Service Regulations, specifying the periods of service which he wishes to be credited;
 - (ii) the Office gives its agreement;
 - (iii) ¹the employee, for each month of service to be credited, pays an amount corresponding to the percentage referred to in Article 41, paragraph 1, of his first monthly salary as a permanent employee."

Article 6 Reckonable years of service

- (1) The benefits provided for under these Regulations shall be calculated by reference to reckonable years of service consisting of:
 - (i) the total length of service in the Organisations listed in Article 1, calculated in accordance with Articles 4 and 5;
 - (ii) service credited in accordance with Article 12, paragraph 1.
- (2)² Incomplete years of reckonable service shall be credited on the basis of one twelfth of a year for each whole month of service. For pension calculation purposes, the period remaining shall be treated as a whole month if it is equal to or more than 15 days.

 However, the period remaining shall not be taken into account for the purpose of calculating the minimum of 10 years' service required for entitlement to the retirement pension provided for in Article 7 of the Regulations.
- (3)³ The method of crediting part-time service and periods of incapacity during which the employee paid reduced contributions to the pension scheme shall be laid down in the Implementing Rules hereto.

1 Decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 3/07. This decision shall enter into force on 1 April 2007. See also footnote to Article 41.

2 Paragraph 2 amended with effect from 04.06.1981 by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 5/81.

3 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/15.

CHAPTER II

RETIREMENT PENSION AND SEVERANCE GRANT

Section 1

Article 7

Article 8

Age of entitlement - Deferred pension and early pension

- (1) Employees shall become eligible for a retirement pension at the age of sixty.
- (2) Pension rights shall continue to accrue to an employee remaining in the service after pensionable age, but his pension shall not exceed the maximum amount laid down in Article 10, paragraph 2.
- (3) If an employee retires before pensionable age, payment of his retirement pension shall be deferred until he reaches that age.
- (4) However, an employee who retires before pensionable age may request early payment of his pension provided he is at least fifty years old.

In such cases the retirement pension shall be reduced by reference to the age of the employee when he starts to draw his pension, as shown in the table¹ below.

¹ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 30/07.

Article 9
Commencement and cessation of entitlement

- (1) Entitlement to payment of a retirement pension shall commence on the first day of the month following that in which the employee became eligible for such pension.
- (2) Entitlement shall cease at the end of the month in which the employee dies.

Article 10¹
Rate of pension

- (1) Except where paragraphs 2 and 3 of Article 5 apply, the amount of the retirement pension shall be, per reckonable year of service within the meaning of Articles 4 and 6, 2% of the salary paid in respect of the last step the employee had reached in the last grade held by him for not less than one year before retirement.
- (2) The maximum amount of the pension shall be 70% of this salary, subject to the provisions of paragraph 3 below.
- (3) The amount of the retirement pension shall not be less than 4% of the salary for grade G1, step 4, per reckonable year of service credited pursuant to Articles 4 and 6; it may not, however, exceed the employee's last salary as defined in Article 3 above. If he was employed on a part-time basis when he left the Office, the minimum retirement pension as defined in this paragraph shall be reduced proportionately.
- (4) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph 1, where at the time of termination of his service an employee was working part-time or was totally or partially discharged from his duties for reasons of incapacity under Article 62b of the Service Regulations, the salary taken into account shall be the one which he would have received for full-time work.

Section 2 Severance grant

Article 11¹ Severance grant

An employee whose service terminates otherwise than by reason of death and who is entitled neither to a retirement pension nor to the benefit of the provision in Article 12, paragraph 2, shall be entitled upon leaving the service to payment of

- (i) the aggregate amount deducted from his salary in respect of his pension contributions, together with compound interest at the rate of 4% per annum;
- (ii)² a severance grant equal to one month and a half of his last salary multiplied by the number of reckonable years of service credited within the meaning of Article 6, without prejudice to the reduction provided for in Article 94, paragraph 1(h), of the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the Office;
- (iii) one third of the amounts paid to the Office under Article 12, paragraph 1, together with compound interest at the rate of 4% per annum. Article 12^{3/4} Inward and outward transfer of pension rights

- (1) An employee who enters the service of the Office after leaving the service of a government department, a national organisation, an international organisation or a firm, may arrange for payment to the Organisation in accordance with the Implementing Rules hereto, of any amounts corresponding to the retirement pension rights accrued under his previous pension schemes, provided that those schemes allow such transfers to be made. In such cases the Office shall determine, by reference to the Implementing Rules hereto, the number of years of reckonable service with which he shall be credited under its own pension scheme.

² Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 7/17.

³ Modified by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 7/04; see „Implementing Rules“. See also the Agreement between the FRG and the EPO on the implementation of Art. 12 of the Pension Scheme Regulations of the EPO in the annex.

⁴ Those staff who were subject to the Pension Scheme Regulations of the European Patent Office prior to 1 July 2004 shall continue to benefit from the provisions contained in the text of Article 12 of the Pension Scheme Regulations and the Implementing Rules thereto that were in force prior to that date for transfers of pension rights from the last pension scheme of which they were members prior to their entry into the Office's service.

CHAPTER IV SURVIVOR'S PENSION

Article 18²Conditions of entitlement

 - (i) of an employee who died in service, provided they had been married to each other for at least one year at the time of the employee's death;
 - (ii) of a former employee entitled to a deferred pension, if they had been married to each other for at least one year at the time when the employee left the service or for at least ten years at the time of his death;
 - (iii) of an employee drawing a retirement pension for health reasons, if they were married to each other at the time of his retirement, or had been married to each other for at least five years at the time of his death;
 - (iv) of a former employee drawing a retirement pension, if they had been married to each other for at least one year at the time of his retirement or for at least five years at the time of his death.

The last-mentioned period shall be extended to ten years if the employee had retired before reaching the age of sixty years.

- (2) The conditions laid down above with regard to minimum duration of the marriage shall be waived where there are one or more children of the marriage or of a marriage of the employee contracted prior to his leaving the service inasmuch as the surviving spouse is providing for their needs; in such case the survivor's pension shall be payable under the derogation provided for in the present paragraph, for so long as the children are actually being so provided for.

When they are no longer being so provided for, the survivor's pension shall nonetheless continue to be payable for so long as the surviving spouse does not have an income of his own from the exercise of any occupation, or from any retirement pension or other survivor's pension, equal to at least the amount of the above-mentioned survivor's pension.

² Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 14/79.

³ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/15.

Article 19¹

Rate of pension

- (1) The pension of the survivor of an employee or former employee shall be 60% of
- (i) the retirement pension that would have been payable to the employee, had he not died in service, on the basis of his reckonable service credited up to the time of his death, without the need for a minimum of ten years' service under the provisions of Article 7;
 - (ii) the deferred retirement pension that would have been paid to the employee at the age of sixty;
 - (iii) the retirement pension payable to the employee at the time of his death, disregarding any reductions under Article 8, paragraph 4.
- (2) The survivor's pension shall not be less than 35 per cent of the employee's last salary; nor shall it be less than the salary for grade G1, step 4.
- (3) However, the survivor's pension shall not exceed the amount of the former employee's own pension in the cases covered by paragraph 1(ii) and (iii) above.

Article 20

Reduction for difference in age

Where the difference in age between the deceased employee and the surviving spouse (the latter being the younger), less the length of time they have been married, is more than ten years, the survivor's pension, calculated in accordance with the foregoing provisions, shall be subject to a reduction, per year of residual difference, amounting to:

- 1% for the years between 10 and 20;
- 2% for the years 20 up to but not including 25;

This entitlement shall not arise if the former spouse remarried before the employee died. If remarriage takes place after the employee's death, Article 21 shall apply.

- (2) Where an employee dies leaving a spouse entitled to a survivor's pension and a non-remarried former spouse fulfilling the conditions laid down in paragraph 1 above, the whole of the survivor's pension shall be divided between the aforementioned persons in proportion to the duration of their marriages.

The amount to which a non-remarried former spouse is entitled shall not, however, be more than the amount of the maintenance payable at the time of the death of the employee.

- (3) Where one of the persons entitled to a survivor's pension dies, renounces his share or forfeits his rights under Article 35, or where the amount of his pension has been restricted under the terms of the second sub-paragraph of paragraph 2 above, his share shall accrue to the share of the other person, except where pension rights revert to orphans, as provided for under Article 25, paragraph 2, second sub-paragraph. In such case the restriction laid down in the second sub-paragraph of paragraph 2 above shall apply.
- (4) Reductions in respect of difference in age as provided for in Article 20 shall be applied separately to pensions calculated in accordance with the present Article.

Article 23Commencement and cessation of entitlement

However, this pension shall not become payable until the last payment has been made of the salary, due to the deceased employee under the Service Regulations and rules applicable to employees of the Office.
- (2) Entitlement to a survivor's pension shall cease at the end of the month in which the recipient of the pension dies or ceases to satisfy the conditions for entitlement to that pension.

- (2) If the husband remarries, payment of the pension shall cease.
- (3) The present provisions shall apply only where the death of the female employee occurred:
 - (i) before 1 January 1979;
 - (ii) after 1 January 1979, if the female employee was already affiliated to the Pension Scheme before 1 January 1979, and the amendments made with effect from 1 January 1979, to Article 18, paragraph 1(iii) and (iv), and 2, of the Pension Scheme Regulations precluded the surviving spouse from entitlement to a survivor's pension.

¹ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 14/79.

 - increased in respect of the second and every further beneficiary by an amount equal to the allowance for a dependent child.

The pensions referred to in this paragraph shall be brought up to the levels provided for in paragraph 3 in the event of the spouse entitled to a survivor's pension dying, remarrying or losing her rights to that pension.

- (3) Where the employee dies without leaving a spouse entitled to a survivor's pension, the pension referred to in paragraph 1 above shall be:
- 80% of the theoretical survivor's pension, disregarding any reductions pursuant to Article 20, but not less than the salary for Grade G1, step 4⁴;
 - increased in respect of the second and every further beneficiary by an amount equal to twice the allowance for a dependent child.
- (4) Notwithstanding the provisions of Article 26, children in common by blood or adoption of two married, unmarried or divorced employees shall be entitled to a pension under this Article following the death of the employee who was not being paid the dependant's allowance at the time of his death if the said children were, at that time, subject to the parental responsibility of this employee and continuously supported by him.

In the case of divorced employees, entitlement shall be subject to the obligation, by virtue of a court decision which has become final and binding, to pay maintenance for the said children, and the orphan's pension shall not exceed the amount of such maintenance.

- (5) The children or other dependants of a widowed staff member whose deceased spouse was not employed by one of the Organisations listed in Article 1 shall each be entitled to a pension of twice the allowance for a dependent child.

Article 26 Cessation of entitlement

Entitlement to a pension under Article 25 shall cease at the end of the month in which the child or other dependant ceases to qualify for the dependants' allowance under Articles 69 and 70 of the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the Office.

Article 27¹ Beneficiaries of more than one category

- (1) Where an employee leaves a surviving spouse and also children of a previous marriage or other persons entitled under him, the total pension, calculated as for a surviving spouse having all these persons dependent on him, shall be apportioned among the various persons concerned in proportion to the pensions which would have been payable to each category if treated separately.
- (2) Where there are children born of different parents, the total pension, calculated as though all the children were of the same parentage, shall be apportioned among the various persons concerned in proportion to the pensions which would have been payable to each category if treated separately.
- (3) For the purpose of calculating these apportionments, all children recognised as dependants of the deceased employee shall be included in the category of children of the marriage to the employee.
- (4) In the case referred to in paragraph 2 above, persons recognised as dependants, other than children, shall be included in the same group as the children to whom they are assimilated for the purpose of the apportionment.

Article 29³ Ceiling of benefits payable to surviving spouses and orphans

The total amount payable in respect of survivor's, orphan's and dependant's pensions and of family allowances shall not exceed the maximum of the retirement pension referred to in Article 10, paragraph 2, together with the family allowances to which the deceased employee was entitled.

The amounts payable in respect of survivor's, orphan's and dependant's pensions shall, where applicable, be reduced in proportion to the share of each beneficiary.

Pensioners without spouse or dependants shall be deemed to be in the position of a pensioner without entitlement to any tax relief or allowances for family responsibilities, all other recipients being deemed to be pensioners enjoying the tax relief and allowances of a person who is married without children.

Implementing rules

IMPLEMENTING RULES TO THE PENSION SCHEME REGULATIONS

entered into force on 4 June 1981 and applicable with effect from 20 October 1977 (CA/D 6/81)

Rule 1 Definition

Save as otherwise provided in these Implementing Rules, the Articles hereinafter referred to are those of the Pension Scheme Regulations of the European Patent Office.

Rule 1/1 Non-permanent employees

Each Organisation shall precisely define what categories of personnel are referred to in paragraph 3 of Article 1 of the Regulations, that is to say, what categories of personnel do not rank as permanent employees eligible for benefits under the Pension Scheme.

Rule 2/1 Medical examination

Letters of appointment shall specify, where appropriate, that the period of deferred entitlement prescribed in Article 2 shall apply to the person concerned in the light of the results of the medical examination conducted prior to appointment.

If the employee concerned wishes to know the nature of the illness or disablement which justified the application of a deferment period, he can obtain the information from the Medical Consultant of the Organisation.

Rule 2/2 Maximum period of deferred entitlement

The five-year period specified in Article 2 shall be a maximum only.

Rule 2/3¹ Definition of entitlement during the deferment period

- (i) If the said employee leaves the Organisation during the deferment period, the severance grant shall be paid to him and the years of service completed during the deferment period shall be taken into account.
- (ii) In the event of death, resulting from a cause which justified the deferment period in course, the employee or the persons entitled under him shall be entitled only to the refund of the amounts stated in Article 11, sub-paragraphs (i) and (iii).

¹ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/15.

Rule 4.1/1
Service counting for entitlement¹

Service counting for entitlement shall consist of the following:

- (i) any period or periods of service actually completed on behalf of a Co-ordinated Organisation by an employee before the Service Regulations or the Provident Scheme came into effect; such service must have been completed under an appointment issued by the Organisation or by the provisional Committee or Secretariat from which the Organisation emanated;
- (ii) any periods of sick leave or incapacity in respect of which benefits have been paid; the person concerned shall be required to have paid his personal contributions to the pension scheme as calculated on the amounts so received, thus constituting such periods of reckonable service, without any reductions;
- (iii)² any periods of sick leave or temporary incapacity in respect of which benefits have been paid; the person concerned shall be required to have paid his personal contributions to the Pension Scheme as calculated on the amounts so received, thus constituting such periods of reckonable service, without any reductions;
- (iv) any periods of unpaid leave of not more than two months' duration, if during such periods the employee paid his personal contributions to the Pension Scheme and if such periods are not taken into account by a new employer for the purposes of a pension scheme;
- (v) any period for which indemnity for loss of employment or assignment to reserve status has been granted, if the employee concerned has paid his personal contributions to the Pension or Provident Scheme for such period, and inasmuch as such period does not extend beyond the age limit for retirement laid down in the Service Regulations, and is not taken into account by a new employer for the purposes of a pension scheme;
- (vi) any period of secondment referred to in Article 45 of the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the Office;
- (vii) any period of military service referred to in Article 43 of the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the Office, if the employee paid or gave an undertaking to pay their personal contributions to the Pension Scheme within six months of the end of such a period. In the event of an undertaking, any outstanding contributions shall be deducted from the benefits owing to those entitled under them.
- (viii) any period of parental leave referred to in Article 44a of the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the Office, if the employee has paid their employee contributions to the Pension Scheme in respect of the period in question;

1 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 8/22.

2 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/15.

- (ix) any period of family leave referred to in Article 44b of the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the Office, if the employee has paid their employee contributions to the Pension Scheme in respect of the period in question.

Rule 4.1/2

Service completed in another capacity before appointment as a permanent employee

Periods of service referred to in Article 4, paragraph 1 (ii), may be taken into account in accordance with Article 5, paragraph 5, if the following conditions are fulfilled:

- i) Such periods must have been prior to the appointment of the employee concerned as a permanent employee, that is to say, as a member of the staff to whom the Service Regulations for permanent employees apply;
- ii)¹ Such service must have been completed in the full-time or at least half-time employment of the Organisation or of more than one Organisation mentioned in Article 1;

Employment within the meaning of this paragraph shall be any non-established service remunerated according to periods of time and not by the job or piece, being service performed on the premises and under the control and to the instructions of the Organisation, according to the hours of work applying to the whole of its staff;

- iii) Any such periods completed in the service of the same Organisation, or of more than one Organisation mentioned in Article 1, must not have been broken for more than 12 consecutive months;
- iv) In accordance with the provisions of Rule 6/1, periods so to be taken into account must be of a minimum of 30 days; part-time work shall not be taken into account unless it has involved working at least half-time, e.g. two 30-day periods working half-time.

Rule 5.1/1

Service completed in a Co-ordinated Organisation as a permanent employee

- (i) Application for any service referred to in Article 5, paragraphs 1 or 2, to be taken into account must be made not later than twelve months after the new appointment, or before the expiry of the option period prescribed in Article 44 or 49 of the Rules of the Organisations referred to in Article 1, paragraph 2.
- (ii) Where, pursuant to Article 11, the employee has previously received a severance grant in respect of prior service completed in one or more Co-ordinated Organisations, then pursuant to Article 5.1 (i), no partial taking into account of such service shall be allowed; accordingly, the employee concerned shall be required either to refund such severance grant in full or to forego the right to have the corresponding service taken into account.

- (iii) Save where Article 44.3 of the Rules of the Organisations listed in Article 1, paragraph 2, applies, the provisions of paragraph (ii) above shall also apply to any amounts which the employee concerned had previously received in respect of a holding in the Provident Fund on leaving an Organisation, within the limit of the cost of crediting past service specified in Article 44.2 of the Rules of the Organisations listed in Article 1, paragraph 2.
- (iv) Such refunds must be made as from the expiry of the period referred to in paragraph (i) above, by monthly deductions of not less than 20% of the amount of gross monthly salary (i.e. of the amount given in the Co-ordinated Organisations scale, before deduction of social security and pension scheme contributions), received at the time of beginning such refunds; the said refunds shall be made at a rate of compound interest of 4% per annum.
- (v) If, at the date on which any benefit under the Pension Scheme is payable, such refunds have not been completed, the balance still due shall be repaid in its entirety, except where paragraph 3 of Article 44 of the Rules of the Organisations listed in Article 1, paragraph 2 applies, through deduction from the benefits to be paid, possibly by instalments.
- (vi) In the event of incapacity, death or termination of the service of the employee concerned, any amount still remaining unpaid shall be set off against the capital sums due to him or to the persons entitled under him, in accordance with the provisions of Rule 38/1 (i), and the balance still due shall be deducted in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (v) above.
- (vii) In the event of the termination of his service without any payment of severance grant or pension, the employee concerned may request time not exceeding twenty-four months in which to make up all or part of any refund then still outstanding, subject to the provisions of paragraph (v) above.

Rule 5.1/2

Crediting of service completed before appointment as a permanent employee

- (i) Application to be credited with service completed before appointment as a permanent employee must be made within six months after confirmation of the said appointment as a permanent employee or before the expiry of the option period prescribed in Articles 44 and 49 of the Rules of the Organisations listed in Article 1, paragraph 2, in the case of staff whose service began before the commencement of the said option period.
- (ii) Persons entitled under a deceased employee may not apply in his place for service to which this Rule applies to be taken into account, with the exception of persons entitled to avail themselves of the Transitional

Arrangements and to whom Articles 43.3 and 44.4 of the Rules of the Organisations listed in Article 1, paragraph 2, apply.

- (iii)¹ The amount payable for crediting such rights, which shall be the percentage referred to in Article 41, paragraph 1, of the employee's first monthly salary as a permanent employee multiplied by the number of months in respect of which rights are credited, may be paid by instalments in the form of monthly deductions from emoluments, commencing not later than the end of the relevant period referred to in paragraph (i) above and spread over a period not exceeding the duration of the previous service so credited. Interest at 4% per annum shall be due in respect of any part of the payments which is deferred beyond such period at the request of the employee.

If, at the date on which any benefit under the Pension Scheme is awarded, such payments have not been completed, the balance still due shall be deducted from the benefits to be paid, where necessary by instalments.

- (iv) On making his application to credit such service as aforesaid, the employee shall be required to consent to the Organisation having first claim on any capital sums payable in the event of his death or invalidity or of the termination of his service, to the extent of any amounts then still outstanding in respect of crediting such service, provided, in the event of his death, that there remain persons entitled under him to pension benefits.
- (v) In the event of the termination of his service, the person concerned may request time not exceeding twelve months in which to make up all or part of any amount then still outstanding, subject to the provisions of paragraphs (iii) and (iv) above.

Rule 5/2

Non-refund of previous pension payments

Example illustrating the application of Article 5, paragraph 2, last sub-paragraph

- (i) First pension paid from age 52 to age 54:
 $(T' \times 40/100)$
 reduced pursuant to Article 8, paragraph 4
 $(T' = \text{salary used as basis of calculation})$
 (20 reckonable years of service at 2%)
- (ii) Second period of service from age 54 to age 60
 $(T'' \times 12/100)$
 $(T'' = \text{salary used as basis of calculation at age 60})$

¹ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 3/07. This decision shall enter into force on 1 April 2007. See also footnote to Article 41.

(6 reckonable years of service at 2%)/severance grant

Total Pension

$$(i) + (ii) = [(T' \times 40/100) \times 90/100] + (T'' \times 12/100)$$

$$\text{i.e.: } 0.4T' - 0.04T' + 0.12T''$$

- (iii) In the final calculation of the total pension, the pension between brackets $[(T' \times 40/100) \times 90/100]$ has now been reduced pursuant to Article 5, paragraph 2, not Article 8, paragraph 4; the amount as stated in (i) above is reduced to 90% by $(2 \times 5/100)$ i.e. 10%.

Rule 5/3

Termination of service at a lower grade

For the implementation of Article 5, paragraph 3, the calculation shall be made as illustrated below:

- (i) On previous termination of service (or at highest point in career before downgrading):
10 years' service; grading on departure, G13, step 3¹ = Theoretical final salary:
 $100 = T'$ i.e. 10 years' reckonable service.
- (ii) On final termination of service:
10 years' served in second period; grading on departure, G11, step 5² = Theoretical final salary: $75 = T''$ the reckonable service in respect of the second period will thus be reduced in the ratio $T''/T' = 75/100$ i.e. 7.5 reckonable years.
- (iii) Total: $10 + 7.5 = 17.5$ years' reckonable service.
- (iv) Total Pension will be calculated on the basis of $T' = 100 \times 17.5$ reckonable years of service.

Rule 6/1

Fractions of a month

Any fraction of less than thirty days remaining after aggregating periods of service shall be treated as a whole month if it is equal to or more than fifteen days and disregarded if it is less than fifteen days.

1 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 10/14.

2 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 10/14.

Rule 6.3/1¹Part-time service and incapacity

Periods of incapacity or part-time work during which the employee paid reduced contributions to the pension scheme shall be credited in proportion to the contributions paid.

Rule 7/1Actual service for the purposes of Article 4

For the purposes of Article 4, years served in one or more of the Organisations referred to in Article 1 shall be:

- years served prior to 1 July 1974, which have been credited, and for which the corresponding cost has been paid, under Article 44 of the Rules of the Organisations listed in Article 1, paragraph 2;
- years served after 1 July 1974, in respect of which the employee's contributions to the Pension Scheme have been paid in accordance with Article 5, paragraphs 1 (i) and 5, and Article 41, paragraph 1;
- periods referred to in Article 16, paragraph 2, in accordance with Article 4, paragraph 2.

Rule 8/1Method of reducing pension - Early pension

- (i) A retirement pension paid before age 60 shall be calculated as follows:
 - If the pension that would be due at age 60 is lower than the minimum rate prescribed in Article 10, paragraph 3, it shall be brought up to that minimum rate and the reduction provided for in Article 8, paragraph 4, shall then be applied to it.
 - If the pension that would be due at age 60 is higher than the aforesaid minimum rate, the reduction shall be applied to it even if the result is lower than that minimum.
- (ii) The reductions provided for in Article 8, paragraph 4, shall be applied by reference to whole years, no account being taken of months.
- (iii) Family allowances shall be paid and calculated in accordance with the provisions of Rule 28/1 (ii).
- (iv) Under the conditions laid down in Article 8 and in this Rule, an early pension may be requested at any time between ages 50 and 60, once the employee's service has terminated.

¹ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/15.

Rule 11/1

Refund of personal contributions

- (i) For the purpose of the refund of any personal contributions which at the time of their payment were calculated on a salary expressed in a currency other than that of the last country of service, the amounts involved shall be converted at the rate of exchange applicable in the Organisation at the date of the refund.

However, the person concerned may request that the said personal contributions be refunded in the above-mentioned currency or currencies.

- (ii) The refund of the said contributions shall be calculated at the rate of 4 per cent per annum up to the last day of the month preceding the actual payment.

Rule 12.1/1¹

Inward transfer of previously acquired rights

- (i) Periods of membership of previous pension schemes
 - (a) Pursuant to Article 12, paragraph 1, of the Regulations, years of reckonable service shall be credited in accordance with these Rules in respect of periods of membership of one or more pension schemes preceding entry into the service of the Office.
 - (b) Any amounts transferred in respect of periods of membership after entry into the service shall be equivalent to contributions to the Office's pension scheme.
 - (c) An amount shall be credited under this Article only if it is certified by the pension scheme concerned as being the actuarial equivalent of retirement pension rights or as representing a capital payment in respect of rights to a pension or of social security entitlements (excluding compensation for dismissal or a severance grant) and must be equivalent to the whole of the amounts paid to the person concerned by that pension scheme.

- (ii) Transfer date

The transfer date is hereby defined as the value date on which the Office's account is credited.

- (iii) Amounts credited

For purposes of calculating the years of reckonable service to be credited pursuant to Article 12, paragraph 1, of the Regulations the amounts specified in paragraph (i) c) above shall be taken into account as calculated and paid under the previous pension scheme, in terms of both capital and interest, if any. They shall be considered as calculated on the transfer date. Any necessary conversion into the currency of the salary paid by the Office on the transfer date shall be effected at the exchange rate in force on that date.

Where such amounts were actually paid to the person concerned before the date of entry into the service, for purposes of calculating the years of reckonable service they shall be increased by compound interest for each full month from the date of payment to the person concerned up to the transfer date. The interest rate to be applied shall be the rate taken into account for the actuarial studies. Where that rate is expressed by reference to a price index, the value of that price index on the first working day of each month shall be the reference index for the month in question.

(iv) Calculation of reckonable years of service

The number of reckonable years of service to be taken into account under Article 12, paragraph 1, of the Regulations shall be calculated by first dividing the transferred amount by the coefficient corresponding to the age of the person concerned on the transfer date. The figure obtained shall then be divided by $12 \times 2\%$ of the employee's monthly basic salary on the transfer date to obtain the number of reckonable years of service credited. The above-mentioned rate of 2% shall be the accumulation rate defined in Article 10 of the Regulations.

(v) Maximum reckonable years of service

Taking such reckonable years of service into account must not have the effect of bringing the total pension up to more than the maximum rates prescribed in Article 10 of the Regulations.

(vi) Time limit for application

Application for the amounts referred to in paragraph (iii) above to be credited to the Office must be made in writing

- (a) within six months from the date of entry into the service in the case of employees exempted from the probationary period or no later than six months after notification of confirmation of appointment after the probationary period. The actual transfer cannot, however, be made until appointment has been confirmed.
- (b) as a transitional measure, within a period of six months from the date on which the possibility of such a transfer was made available to permanent employees by the pension scheme concerned.

The application for crediting may be revoked by the person concerned at any time within the time limits prescribed in paragraph (vii) below, but before the payment provided for in paragraph (iii) has been made.

(vii) Time limits for payment

Payment of the amounts referred to in paragraph (iii) above must be made:

- within three months after the expiry of the time limit prescribed in paragraph (vi) above, if the person concerned had actually received such an amount from the pension scheme concerned.

- on payment of such amounts by the pension scheme concerned in other cases.

Payment to the Office shall be made in the currency - or its equivalent at the exchange rate in force on the date of actual payment to the Office - in which the amounts referred to in paragraph (iii) actually have been, or will be, paid by the previous pension scheme.

(viii) Transfer to a subsequent pension scheme

Pursuant to Articles 11 (iii) and 12, paragraph 2 of the Regulations the amounts paid to the Office under this Article and subsequently refunded, wholly or in part, to an employee who has not completed at least 10 years' actual service within the meaning of Articles 4 and 7 of the Regulations, shall be increased from the time of payment to the Office by compound interest at 4% per annum payable by the organisation responsible for paying the severance grant.

Rule 12.2/1

Transfer of pension rights to an outside scheme

(i) Time limit for application

- (a) Application for transfer of pension rights under Article 12, paragraph 2, of the Regulations must be made by the staff member to the Organisation in which his service has terminated within six months after his definitive appointment by the new government department, organisation or firm referred to in Article 12, paragraph 2, of the Regulations.
- (b) If the Organisation is unable to conclude with the new administration, organisation or firm referred to in Article 12, paragraph 2, of the Regulations, an agreement for such transfer which it considers satisfactory, it shall confine itself to making immediate payment of the amounts referred to in Article 11 of the Regulations, or to immediate or deferred payment or a retirement pension.

(ii) Conditions governing transfer

The amounts referred to in Article 12, paragraph 2, of the Regulations may be transferred only to the statutory or contractual pension scheme of the government department, organisation or firm referred to in Article 12, paragraph 2, of the Regulations.

(iii) Calculation of amounts to be transferred

The actuarial equivalent of the retirement pension rights referred to in Article 12, paragraph 2, of the Regulations shall be calculated on the basis of the Table annexed hereto, the annual pension acquired in the Organisation being multiplied by the coefficient corresponding to the age and sex of the person concerned.¹

¹ The coefficients reproduced in the Annex are applicable to men and women.

- (iv) The age coefficients referred to in Rule 12.1/1, paragraph (iv), first sentence, and paragraph (iii) above shall be established by the President of the Office on the basis of an actuarial study.

Rule 19/1

Employee dying during leave on personal grounds

- (i) When an employee dies during a period of leave in respect of which the personal contribution to the Pension Scheme was not payable, the surviving spouse shall be entitled to the survivor's pension under Article 19, paragraph 1 (ii), the minimum and maximum amounts of such pension being in accordance with paragraphs 3 and 4 of the same Article.

In addition, any orphans shall be entitled to the benefits specified in Articles 25 and 28.

- (ii) However, where the deceased employee, at the time of taking unpaid leave, had not completed a sufficient number of years' service to entitle him to a retirement pension, the amounts provided for in Article 11 shall be paid to his estate; such amounts shall be calculated on the basis of rights acquired and salary at the date of going on leave, without any subsequent adjustment or interest.

Rule 22/1¹

Rights of a former spouse (divorced spouse)

The ceiling of the survivor's pension, as provided for in Article 22 (1) of the Regulations, shall be subject to the same adjustments as those provided for in Article 36 of the said Regulations.

Rule 25.5/1^{2/3}

Pension of an orphan dependent on a widowed staff member

- (i) The orphan's pension mentioned in this Article (children or other dependants of a staff member who is the widower, or widow, of a spouse not a staff member of a Co-ordinated Organisation) shall be due only if the staff member became widowed while in service. Nevertheless, it shall be due to a widower, or a widow, newly recruited if the above-mentioned pension was paid to him (or her) in a previous employment in one of the Co-ordinated Organisations⁴.
- (ii) If the staff member remarries or leaves the Co-ordinated Organisations, the orphan's pension shall cease to be paid.
- (iii) Since it is the situation at the time of death of the spouse which must be taken into consideration, the following are not entitled to the orphan's pensions:

⁴ The holders of such benefit prior to 1st November 1980 shall continue to receive it until the entitlement ceases.

- children born or adopted after the death of the spouse (except for children born not more than 300 days thereafter - Art. 25(6));
- the "other dependants" qualifying as such after the death of the spouse¹.

Rule 27.1/1²

Definition of the total pension for apportionment

- (i) The total pension referred to in Article 27(1) shall be calculated as if all the beneficiaries of the deceased staff member formed part of a single group.
- (ii) This total pension shall comprise:
 - a survivor's pension as would be payable to a surviving spouse of the deceased staff member in accordance with Article 19 of the Regulations only;
 - orphan's pensions calculated as if all orphans and other dependants of the deceased staff member belonged to the group entitled to the survivor's pension mentioned above. In accordance with the first subparagraph of Article 25(2), only one minimum orphan's pension (50 per cent of C1/3³) shall be taken into account in this calculation;
 - family allowances, also calculated as if such children and other dependants all belonged to the group of the beneficiary of survivor's pension mentioned above. The ceiling for such allowances shall be laid down in Article 29, before apportionment of the total pension.

Rule 27.1/2⁴

Apportionment of the total pension

- (i) The total pension so calculated shall be apportioned among:
 - where appropriate, the spouse and former spouse;
 - orphans and other dependants

in proportion to the amounts which would have been payable directly to each group of beneficiaries considered separately (after application of Articles 20 and 22 of the Regulations).
- (ii) Within a group consisting of a surviving spouse or former spouse and orphans and other dependants, the share going to that group shall be apportioned, for the purpose of calculating the individual entitlement of each member as mentioned above, in proportion to the survivor's pension and the family allowances on the one hand, and the orphan's pension on the other, which determined the share payable to that group.
- (iii) If the amounts so apportioned exceed the pensions and the family allowances to which the beneficiaries would have been entitled if they had been considered separately, any such excess amounts shall not be payable.

¹ The entitlements which might have been granted prior to 1st April 1982 shall be maintained.

² Adopted by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 3/83 with effect from 01.06.1983.

³ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 14/01.

⁴ Adopted by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 3/83 with effect from 01.06.1983.

- (iv) The minimum amounts laid down for survivors' and orphans' pensions and for household allowances shall no longer apply to the amounts actually payable.

Rule 28/1¹

Method of calculating family allowances

- (i) Household allowance

The household allowance to which the recipient of pension is entitled shall be calculated on the basis of his pension, but shall not be less than the minimum laid down in the scales in force in the Organisations listed in Article 1, save where the allowance is reduced on the basis of the income of the spouse.

- (ii) Early pension

The household allowance to which the recipient of an early pension is entitled shall be calculated on the basis of the reduced pension, subject to the minimum prescribed by the Service Regulations and Rules; the other family allowances of fixed amount shall be granted without any reduction.

Rule 28/2²

Education allowance

- (i) The education allowance shall be granted for children dependent on a former employee who is in receipt of a retirement pension, or dependent on their spouse, where such spouse is in receipt of a survivor's pension, by applying to the dependent children the same criteria regarding education and expenditure as would apply if the former employee were still serving.
- (ii) In the event of the death of a serving employee or employee actually in receipt of a retirement pension, without any survivor's pension being awarded to a spouse, or in the event of the death of the recipient of a survivor's pension, any education allowance which was being paid at the time of the death shall continue to be paid, unchanged in amount, until the end of the current academic year.

Rule 28/3³

Young child allowance

- (i) The young child allowance shall be granted for children dependent on a former employee who is in receipt of a retirement pension, or dependent on their spouse, where such spouse is in receipt of a survivor's pension, by applying to the dependent children the same criteria as would apply if the former employee were still serving.
- (ii) In the event of the death of an employee or former employee actually in receipt of a retirement pension, without any survivor's pension being awarded to a spouse, or in the event of the death of the recipient of a survivor's pension, any young child allowance which was being paid at the time of the death shall continue to be paid, unchanged in amount, for a further three full calendar months following the death or until the entitlement on which the allowance was based ceases to be recognised, whichever is the earlier.

Rule 29/1 Ceiling for family allowances

- (i) Save where Article 10, paragraph 3, applies, the maximum of the retirement pension referred to in Article 29 shall be 70 per cent of the salary defined in Article 10, paragraph 1, as adjusted from time to time in the same way as the minimum salaries referred to in Article 3, paragraph 2; the same adjustments shall be applied to the family allowances referred to in Article 29.
- (ii) The ceiling prescribed in Article 29 shall apply only where survivors' and orphans' pensions and family allowances are due simultaneously.
- (iii) Any reduction resulting from the application of the aforesaid ceiling shall be calculated on the total of the benefits referred to in paragraph (ii) above; the same shall apply in the case of the existence of a former spouse (divorced spouse) or of orphans of different marriages.
- (iv) The reduction shall be applied to the family allowances properly so called and to them alone.
- (v) All the calculations referred to in the preceding paragraphs shall be made after deduction of any family allowances received from another source.

Rule 30/1 Forfeiture of rights

Where an employee is missing, the time limits laid down by Article 35, paragraphs 2 and 3, shall commence to run from the date of the Court decision declaring him to be missing, referred to in Article 30, paragraph 3.

Rule 31/1 Pension statement

- (i) On the termination of service of an employee, the Organisation shall draw up a statement of his pension rights, in the form annexed¹.
- (ii) When an employee enters the service of another Co-ordinated Organisation, he shall hand over the form mentioned in (i) above.

been credited including, where applicable, service in more than one of the Co-ordinated Organisations.

Rule 32/1¹

Double entitlement to retirement pensions

- (i) In view of the rules contained in Article 5 and in particular in paragraph 2 of that Article, two retirement pensions may not be paid by two separate Organisations.
- (ii) Double entitlement to retirement pensions granted under Article 10 and 13 shall not be allowed.

Where they are due to the same health reasons, the annuities or pensions paid under a scheme distinct from the pension scheme shall be deducted, if they are financed wholly or in part by a Co-ordinated Organisation, from the amount of the retirement pension for health reasons.

- (iii) Double entitlement to a retirement pension and any other remuneration paid by an Organisation listed in Article 1 shall, with effect from the notification of these provisions to the employee, be forbidden except in the case of experts' fees and of emoluments of temporary staff provided such emoluments relate to periods of not more than 60 consecutive days in any calendar year.
- (iv) Double entitlement to a survivor's pension and to remuneration or a retirement pension paid by an Organisation listed in Article 1 shall be permitted.
- (v) Double entitlement to a retirement pension and to an indemnity for loss of employment paid month by month on the basis of the salary being received by the employee at the time of leaving shall be prohibited.
- (vi) Simultaneous entitlement to a retirement pension and to an allowance for assignment to reserve status shall be prohibited.

Rule 32/2

Double entitlement with survivor's or orphan's benefits

When they are due to the same cause, the annuities or pensions granted in the event of the death of an employee to the spouse, orphans or dependent persons under a scheme distinct from the Pension Scheme shall be deducted, if they are financed wholly or in part by a Co-ordinated Organisation, from the amount of the relevant pensions due and calculated under the Pension Scheme Regulations.

The preceding provisions shall not relieve employees of their financial obligations to credit past services which derive from Articles 44 and 49 of the Rules of the Organisations listed in Article 1, paragraph 2.

Rule 33/1Alteration due to the exercise of an option

Where, in application of Article 33, benefits under the Pension Scheme are to be calculated on the basis for a scale other than that which was in force at the time when the right to the benefits arose, then the amount of such benefits must, for the purpose of their payment as from the exercise of the option concerned, be recalculated on the basis of the said scale.

Rule 33/2Transitional arrangements

If persons entitled under an employee who has died before having exercised his right of option choose the Pension Scheme under Articles 43 and 44 of the Rules of the Organisations listed in Article 1, paragraph 2, the scale - other than that of the last country of service - for which they opt pursuant to Article 33 shall be irrevocably applicable. However, where the surviving spouse dies after having exercised the said irrevocable option, the orphans may in their turn exercise a joint option which shall also be irrevocable.

Rule 35/1Statement by employee or persons entitled under him

Subject to the provisions of Rule 30/1, the recipient of any benefit under the Regulations shall be required to inform the Office immediately of any change in his address, or in his civil status or the composition of his family in so far as such latter change alters the number of persons entitled under him; such statement shall in any case be required to be renewed during the month of December each year. For this purpose, the Organisation shall send a form to the person concerned each year. Mention of this provision shall be made on the statement referred to in Rule 31/1 (i).

Rules 34 and 35/2¹Refund of amounts incorrectly received

All amounts incorrectly received shall be refunded pursuant to Articles 34 and 35, in the manner prescribed in the Rules and Regulations applicable to staff serving in the Organisation, without prejudice to the special provisions laid down for implementing Article 42 with regard to taxation.

Rule 35/3Provision of information to persons eligible for benefits

It is the responsibility of persons entitled under an employee to notify their existence to the Organisation which they consider to be liable for the payment to them of benefits under the Pension Scheme, except for those cases where notification is the responsibility of the Organisation under Article 43.2(iii) and 3(ii) of the Rules of the Organisations listed in Article 1, paragraph 2.

The Organisation shall then inform the beneficiaries concerned of the benefits which they may claim under the Pension Scheme Regulations.

Rule 36/1¹

Cost of living and standard of living

- (i) Adjustments of salaries in relation to the cost of living shall apply both to pensions being paid and to deferred pensions the amount of which is to be calculated on the termination of the service of the employee.
- (ii) In the case of adjustments other than those relating to the cost of living, deferred pension and those currently being paid shall be recalculated on the basis of the scales applicable to pensions as a result of any decisions that may be taken in relation to pensions.
- (iii) Adjustments to pensions currently being paid shall be notified in writing, at least once a year, to the persons entitled to such pensions.

Rule 37/1

Date of payment

In application of Article 37, paragraph 1, pensions and family allowances shall be paid in arrear on the last working day but two of the month to which they relate.

Rule 38/1

Buying back rights - Credit for past service

- (i) Any amounts remaining due on the death, recognition of invalidity or termination of service of an employee, in respect of pension rights bought back under Rule 4.1/1 and Article 5 or credited under Articles 44 and 49 of the Rules of the Organisations listed in Article 1, paragraph 2, shall constitute a debt owed to the Organisations by the employee or the persons entitled under him.

Payment to the Organisation of any amounts thus owing shall be made pursuant to the special condition agreed to by the employee at the time of his application to buy back or to be credited with pension rights; this condition shall give the Organisation a preferential right to deduct such amounts from the capital sums due at the time of death or recognition of invalidity, or of termination of service.

¹ Decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 16/79:

Article 1

Article 36 of the Pension Scheme Regulations relating to the arrangements for the adjustment of benefits shall be interpreted in all circumstances, and whatever the current salary adjustment procedure, as follows:

Whenever the salaries of staff serving in the Co-ordinated Organisations are adjusted - whatever the basis for adjustment - an identical proportional adjustment will, as of the same date, be applied to both current and deferred pensions, by reference to the grades and steps and salary scales taken into consideration in the calculation of these pensions.

Article 2

This decision shall enter into force on 30 November 1979. It shall apply with effect from 4 April 1978.

- (ii) The position in the event of death, invalidity or termination of service of an employee shall be governed by Rules 5.1/1 (vi) and (vii) and 5.1/2 (iii), (iv) and (v); the same provisions shall apply regarding credit for past service under Articles 44 and 49 of the Rules of the Organisations listed in Article 1, paragraph 2.

Rule 41/1¹

Sickness and incapacity

The employee's contribution to the pension scheme shall be paid in full during sick leave.

During periods of incapacity, this contribution shall be calculated in proportion to the actual salary drawn. At the employee's request, the contribution shall be calculated on the basic salary which he would have received for normal full-time work.

Rule 41/2

Leave on personal grounds

An employee may not pay pension contributions during periods of leave on personal grounds of more than two months' duration, and during such periods the employee shall not acquire any pension rights.

On the other hand, his surviving spouse and orphans shall be entitled to receive benefits under the conditions set out in Rule 19/1.

Rule 42/1²

Scope and calculation of the adjustment

- (1) Article 42 of the Pension Scheme Regulations shall apply only if the pension and the adjustment relating to it are subject to taxes on income levied in a Member State of the Organisation. The family allowances provided for in Article 28 of the Pension Scheme Regulations shall be assimilated to pensions in determining the tax adjustment in so far as similar allowances are taxable under the national tax legislation of the Member State.
- (2) The adjustment referred to in Article 42 of the Pension Scheme Regulations shall be determined on the basis of the legal provisions relating to taxes on income in force in the Member State in which the pensioner is legally subject to such taxation. It shall be established in respect of pensions paid during the tax period as determined in that State.
- (3) Where the pension of a person entitled to the adjustment is paid in a currency other than that of the State in which such person is subject to taxes on income, the adjustment shall be determined on the basis of the pension converted into the currency of that State. Such conversion shall be effected at the rate obtaining on the official exchange market.

² Inserted by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 11/14.

- (4) Where the amounts paid during any tax period include arrears of pension relating to any previous period, the adjustment shall be determined or recalculated, as the case may be, with due regard to the tax treatment applicable to such arrears.

Rule 42/2¹
Establishment of tables of equivalence for payment of the adjustment

- (1) Tables of equivalence for payment of the adjustment shall be established for each tax year by the International Service for Remunerations and Pensions, hereinafter referred to as "the Service".
- (2) The tax authorities of Member States shall provide the Service, at its request, with the details of legislation and regulations necessary for establishing the tables. The tables shall be checked and confirmed by the tax authorities of the Member State concerned. In the event of disagreement between such authorities and the Service on the content of the tables, the Secretaries-General and the Co-ordinating Committee shall consider the matter on the basis of Article 42 of the Pension Scheme Regulations and of these Implementing Rules.
- (3) Provisional tables of equivalence shall be drawn up prior to the commencement of the period to which they refer. They shall show, for rounded pension figures and in respect of each Member State, an amount equivalent to 90% of the monthly adjustment calculated according to the distinctions contained in Article 42(3) of the Pension Scheme Regulations and on the basis of the tax legislation in force at the time of drawing up the tables.
- (4) The provisional tables shall be revised whenever amendments to tax legislation involve a change in the amount of the adjustment. The Secretaries-General and the Co-ordinating Committee may however decide by mutual agreement to dispense with the up-dating of tables in cases where the balance of gain or loss is minimal.
- (5) As soon as the authorities in Member States have finally adopted the tax legislation applicable to income for the period covered by the provisional tables, these latter shall be replaced by final tables establishing the rights of recipients in accordance with Article 42(2) of the Pension Scheme Regulations. These final tables shall show the amount of the adjustment for the whole of the period which they cover, as well as the monthly amount of the adjustment.
- (6) The provisional and final tables of equivalence shall be accompanied by all such information as is necessary for their use. Such information shall include:
- the rules to be observed in cases where changes in the family status, dependants or permanent address ("domicile") of the person entitled

¹ Inserted by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 11/14.

- to the adjustment may affect the amount of the adjustment which the person concerned may claim;
- the evidence to be supplied by persons entitled to the adjustment as proof of the declaration for tax purposes, or the taxation, of their pension and the adjustment relating thereto;
- the dates for making such declarations.

Rule 42/3¹

Method of payment of the adjustment

- (1) The adjustment shall be paid at least annually at year-end. If the amounts of pension, arrears of pension and adjustment are paid at the same time, they shall be shown separately on the instrument of payment issued to the recipient.
- (2) Any excess or shortfall in the adjustment paid shall be rectified, but in such a way that the amount involved is not taken into account in determining the adjustment in respect of the following tax year.
- (3) The adjustments shall be paid in the currency of the State in which the recipient is subjected to taxes on income.

Rule 42/4²

Evidence of payment of tax

The tax authorities referred to in Rule 42/2(2) shall inform the Service of the evidence by which, in accordance with Article 42(4) of the Pension Scheme Regulations, recipients of the adjustment may establish that their pension and the relevant adjustment have been declared for tax purposes or have been taxed.

Rule 43/1

Field of application

Employees covered by the provisions of the Agreement on the Integration of the IIB into the EPO, do not fall within the category of employees referred to in Article 43.

Rule 44/1

Entitlement to retirement benefits

- (i) Article 44, paragraph 2, shall not apply to an employee who has completed ten or more years' actual service, within the meaning of Article 4, in one or more Organisations, referred to in Article 1, and who is entitled to a retirement pension pursuant to Article 7.

¹ Inserted by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 11/14.

² Inserted by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 11/14.

Rule 45.1/1

Procedure where no transfer is made

- (i) Where the previous pension scheme did not permit transfer in accordance with Article 12, paragraph 1, or where the employee has not availed himself of the option to make such a transfer, the amount on the basis of which the number of years making up the period of service to be credited pursuant to Article 45, paragraph 1, is to be calculated shall be that of the theoretical transfer defined below in Rule 46.1/1.
- (ii) The credit granted under Article 45, paragraph 1, may not result in the total amount of the invalidity pension being brought above the ceilings laid down for that pension in the Regulations.

Rule 45.1/2

Conversion of lump sum

Where the amount of the benefits under the previous pension scheme is paid in the form of a lump sum, that sum shall, for the purpose of making the deduction referred to in Article 45, paragraph 2, be considered to have been transformed into a life annuity, the amount of which shall be calculated on the date on which the lump sum is paid, on the basis of the table in Annex 1, by dividing the lump sum by the coefficient corresponding to the age of the person concerned. From that date, the annuity thus determined shall be subject to adjustments corresponding to those provided for in Article 36.

Rule 46.1/1

Computation of the number of years of service referred to in sub-paragraph (ii)

- (i) The number of years of service in question shall be calculated on the basis of the amount of a theoretical transfer calculated in accordance with the conditions laid down in Article 12, paragraph 1. The afore-mentioned amount shall be that which the department or institution responsible for administering the previous pension scheme is able to certify as being the actuarial equivalent or any other fixed value representing retirement pension rights acquired under that scheme before departure. Pension rights acquired by means of voluntary contributions shall be disregarded.
- (ii) Where the institution responsible for administering the previous pension scheme is unable to provide such a certified statement, the Office shall determine in each case the number of years of service which it will take into account.

Rule 46.1/2

Severance grant

- (i) If the addition to pension prejudices the employee's pension rights from former employment, he or the persons entitled under him shall be required to produce evidence to that effect.

- (ii) If such evidence is produced, the recipient or those entitled under him shall be paid the severance grant referred to in Article 46, paragraph 3, and the additions to pension already paid shall be deducted from the amounts then payable.

Rule 46.2/1 Rate of pension

An addition paid in the form of a pension shall constitute an integral part of the pension which it supplements.

Rule 46.2/2 Aggregation of benefits

- (i) If the addition to pension referred to in Article 46 results in the amount of the total pension being brought above the ceilings laid down for the pension in the Regulations, the severance grant shall be reduced by an amount equal to the product of that grant, calculated in accordance with Article 46, paragraph 3, and the amount of the afore-mentioned pension which exceeds the afore-mentioned ceiling, divided by the addition paid in the form of a pension.
- (ii) The addition referred to in Article 46 may not be accorded concurrently with the credit provided for in Article 45.
- (iii) The addition referred to in Article 46 shall be reduced by the amount of any benefits under the previous pension scheme representing an increment in the pension rights acquired, in that scheme, on the date of departure from the last government department, firm or organisation with which the employee worked prior to entering the service of the Office.

By "increment" is meant any addition made to the pension rights acquired on the date of such departure, with the exception of cost-of-living and standard-of-living increases.

Transitional arrangements under the Rules of the Organisations listed in Article 1, paragraph 2

Transitional arrangements applicable to staff whose service began before 1st July 1974

Section 1 Staff whose service did not terminate before 1st January 1973

Article 43 Scope

- (1) Permanent staff serving on 1st July 1974, must, within the period referred to in paragraph 4 (i) of this Article, state in writing which one of the options referred to in Articles 44, 45 and 48 they wish to select. Staff failing to make their choice within that period shall be deemed to have chosen the option under Article 44 and to elect to be credited with past service for the periods referred to in paragraph 2 of that same Article.

This choice shall be irrevocable both for the staff member and for persons entitled under him.

- (2) (i) Should a staff member who was serving on 1st July 1974 become incapacitated without having made the choice referred to in this Article, his choice will in future be limited to Articles 44 and 48.
- (ii) Should a staff member who was serving on 1st July 1974 die without having made the choice referred to in this Article, his spouse or, in the event of the latter's death, his orphans or other dependants, may only make the choices referred to in sub-paragraph (i) above.
- (iii) The choice in favour of Article 44 or 48 must, in any event, be made by the staff member, or the persons entitled under him within the period referred to in paragraph 4 (i) of this Article, or, in the event of death of the staff member or his spouse, six months after the date on which the Organisation has notified the new scheme to the persons entitled under them.

In the cases dealt with in this paragraph 2, if the choice is not made within the time limit laid down, the staff member or the persons entitled under him shall be deemed to have made the choice covered by Article 48.

- (3) (i) Staff who have left the Organisation between 1st January 1973 and 1st July 1974 may also opt for the Pension Scheme under the terms of Article 44 provided they make an application to this effect within the period referred to in paragraph 4 (i) of this Article.

- (ii) Should a staff member to whom this paragraph applies die without having opted for Article 44, the persons entitled under him may exercise such option not later than six months after the date on which they have been notified of the new scheme by the Organisation.
- (4) (i) The option period provided for in this Article shall end, in each of the Organisations listed in Article 1.1, one year after final approval of these Rules has been given by the Council of the said Organisations, save in the cases referred to in paragraphs 2 (iii) and 3 (ii) of this Article.
- (ii) The options provided for under this Section of the Rules shall take effect on 1st July 1974; however, the option referred to in paragraph 3 above shall take effect on the date of the award of the benefits under the Pension Scheme, but not earlier than 1st January 1973.

Article 44

Pension with credit for past service

- (1) A staff member to whom this section of the Rules applies and who has chosen the option provided for by this Article shall be bound by the terms of the Pension Scheme, and be credited with any periods served by him before 1 July 1974 in one or more of the Organisations listed in Article 1.
- (2) A staff member credited with past service under paragraph 1 shall surrender his holding in the Provident Fund. However;
 - (i) for the period prior to the setting-up of the Provident Fund, the staff member shall retain the difference between the amounts contributed by the Organisations plus their yield up to the date when the option referred to in Article 43.4 (ii) takes effect, and the aforesaid amounts plus compound interest at 4% per annum up to the aforesaid date;
 - (ii) for the period between the setting-up of the Provident Fund and the date when the option referred to in Article 43.4 (ii) takes effect, the staff member shall retain such part of his holdings as exceeds 21% of the salaries paid to him during this period plus compound interest at 4% per annum on the said amount of 21 per cent up to the aforesaid date;
 - (iii) notwithstanding the provisions of sub-paragraphs (i) and (ii) above, a staff member may not retain that part of his Provident Fund holding which corresponds to any interest bonuses granted in certain Organisations. The cost of crediting past service under this paragraph shall be determined in nominal terms in the currency of the country or countries of service where the salaries used as a basis for the calculation of contributions were actually paid, the necessary conversions into the currency ultimately used for keeping the individual accounts being effected on the basis of exchange rates in use for Provident Fund operations on the date when the option takes effect. In cases where the Provident Fund holding paid over to a staff member when he left is refunded, the cost of crediting past service may be paid directly in the currency (or currencies) in which the contributions were payable. The crediting of past service in the manner prescribed in this paragraph shall be irrevocable and must include all periods of service covered by this paragraph.

- (3) (i) Where a staff member has exercised his right to make withdrawals from his Provident Fund holding and where, in consequence, the amount standing to his credit is less than the amount he would have surrendered under paragraph 2 if he had not made withdrawals, service prior to 1st July 1974, shall only be credited in the proportion these two amounts bear to each other.
- (ii) This provision shall not apply where a staff member has, within the period referred to in Article 43.4 (i), undertaken to repay the difference between the two amounts plus compound interest at the rate of 4% per annum as from that date. If the staff member makes only partial repayment, past service shall only be credited in the proportion referred to in the first sub-paragraph above.
- (iii) Should a staff member become incapacitated or die without having made the choice referred to in this Article, the figure of 70% referred to in Article 14.2 as well as the minimum pensions referred to in Articles 14.4 and 19.3 shall be reduced according to the ratio between:
 - the total number of years of service that would have been reckonable - up to the age limit laid down in the Staff Regulations, in the event of invalidity - allowing for the reductions referred to in this paragraph, and
 - the total number of years of service that would have been credited if the staff member had entirely repaid the withdrawals made from his Provident Fund holding.
- (iv) Repayments provided for in this paragraph must be made within the time limit laid down in the Instructions for the implementation of these Rules.
- (4) A staff member may also, within the period referred to in Article 43.4 (i), ask to be credited with service completed before his appointment as a permanent staff member, in accordance with Article 5.5.
- (5) A staff member to whom this Article applies and who leaves the Organisation at the age limit laid down in the Staff Regulations after having completed less than the ten years required under Article 7 shall be entitled to opt for an allowance calculated in accordance with Article 11 or for a proportionately reduced pension calculated in accordance with Article 10.

Article 45

Pension without credit for past service

- (1) A staff member to whom this section of the Rules applies and who has chosen the option provided for by this Article shall be bound by the terms of the Pension Scheme but shall in derogation of Article 5.1 (ii) irrevocably renounce the right to be credited with service prior to 1st July 1974, in one or more of the Organisations listed in Article 1.1.

- (2) If he leaves the Organisation without completing ten years' service subsequent to 1st July 1974, he shall receive a leaving allowance as provided for in Article 11 in respect of his service subsequent to that date.
- (3) If he leaves the Organisation after completing ten or more years' service subsequent to 1st July 1974, he shall, subject to the conditions laid down in Chapter 11, be entitled to a retirement pension for his service subsequent to that date. In the calculation of the minimum retirement pension provided under Article 10.3 only the years served after the afore-mentioned date shall be taken into account.
- (4) If he becomes incapacitated or dies while serving, the provisions of Chapters III to VI shall be applied as appropriate.

Article 46

Bonus for service after the age of sixty

- (1) A staff member to whom this section of the Rules applies, who has chosen one of the options given in Articles 44 and 45, and who has continued to serve beyond the age of sixty, shall, in respect of each year completed after that age, be entitled to an increase in pension corresponding to 5% of the reckonable years of service credited to him at the age of sixty, but
 - (i) the increase granted in respect of each year served after the age of sixty shall not exceed 2% of the salary defined in Article 10.1, and
 - (ii) his total pension shall not exceed 70% of the salary so defined.
- (2) Within the same limit, pension rights shall continue to accrue as provided for in Article 10.1.
- (3) This Article shall, in the case covered by Article 14.1, apply only in respect of actual service after the age of sixty.

Article 47

Compensation for loss of previous pension rights

A staff member to whom this section of the Rules applies may receive compensation by way of reckonable years of service under the conditions and within the limits laid down in the provisions implementing the Rules if he establishes that, by reason of having joined the Pension Scheme of the Organisation, he has been obliged to forfeit all or part of any pension rights that may have accrued to him previously in his country of origin, without being able to obtain the actuarial equivalent of such rights.

Article 48

Provident Fund

- (1) A staff member to whom this section of the Rules applies may opt to remain in the Organisation's Provident Fund Scheme instead of receiving the benefits provided for in these Rules, where his contractual situation requires that such an option be given to him.

- (2) In derogation of Article 5.1 (ii), he shall thus irrevocably renounce the right to be credited with service prior to 1st July 1974 in one or more of the Organisations listed in Article 1.1.

Section 2

Staff whose service terminated before 1st January 1973

Article 49

Scope

- (1) As a transitional measure, the provisions of these Rules shall, if so requested by them, apply to:
- (i) former staff members, with not less than ten years' service who left the Organisation at the age of sixty or more, and their widows, incapacitated widowers and orphaned children,
 - (ii) the widows, incapacitated widowers and orphaned children of staff members who died while serving,
 - (iii) staff members permanently incapacitated while serving, and their widows, incapacitated widowers and orphans, when the events referred to in (i), (ii) and (iii) occurred before 1st January 1973.

- (2) These beneficiaries shall, however, refund to the Organisation responsible for payment of the benefits the Provident Fund holding due to the staff member at the time of his departure, death or recognition as unfit for service. This refund shall include non-reimbursed withdrawals under the conditions laid down in Article 44.3.

This refund shall be limited to the amount of contributions paid by the staff member and by the Organisation, plus compound interest at 4% per annum, such refund shall be abated, where applicable, by an amount calculated by means of the following fraction:

- Numerator: the difference between the age of the staff member on 1st January 1973 and his age at the time of departure, death or recognition as unfit for service;
 - Denominator: the difference between 80 and the age of the staff member at the time of departure, death or recognition as unfit for service.
- (3) The request referred to in paragraph 1 above must be made within the period referred to in Article 43.4 (i), failing which the right to do so shall lapse. The benefits under this Article shall be granted with effect from 1st January 1973.
- (4) Benefits under this Article shall be calculated by reference to the staff member's grading when he left the service before 1st January 1973 but on the basis of the corresponding scales in force on 1st January 1973, subsequently adjusted in accordance with Article 36.

- (5) Staff to whom this Article applies shall not benefit under the provisions of Article 46.

Section 3

Hardship Allowance

Article 50

- (1) As an exceptional measure, where a staff member governed by the transitional arrangement is - or the persons claiming under him are - unable to make the refunds required under Article 44 or Article 49, he - or they - may, if the Secretary General considers this justified in the light of his - or their - overall income, be granted a hardship allowance. This allowance shall not exceed the amount of the minimum pension provided for in the Rules in respect of each category of beneficiary. A hardship allowance may also be granted in consideration of the low level of their income to the widowers of staff members who died before 1 January 1979. In this case, any pension granted as the case may be to their children and other dependants shall be reduced to the amount provided for in Article 25.2.
- (2) The hardship allowance may only be granted as from the first day of the month following that in which the application is made, and in any event not earlier than 1st July 1974; it may not, however, be granted to a former staff member before he has reached the age of sixty, unless he is incapacitated.
- (3) Detailed application of this Article will be governed by the Instructions referred to in Article 52.

Pension scheme regulations and implementing rules

Agreement between the Federal Republic of Germany and the European Patent
Organisation on the implementation of Article 12 of the Pension Scheme Regulations
of the European Patent Office

AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE FEDERAL REPUBLIC OF GERMANY AND THE EUROPEAN PATENT
ORGANISATION ON THE IMPLEMENTATION OF
ARTICLE 12 OF THE PENSION SCHEME REGULATIONS
OF THE EUROPEAN PATENT OFFICE¹

THE FEDERAL REPUBLIC OF GERMANY

AND

THE EUROPEAN PATENT ORGANISATION,

desiring to implement the basic rules contained in Article 12(1) and (2) of the Pension Scheme Regulations of the European Patent Office in such a way as to establish the legal and technical conditions enabling the rights of permanent employees and contract staff of the European Patent Office in the field of social security pension insurance to be taken into account, have agreed as follows:

Article 1
Implementation of Article 12(1) of the Pension Scheme Regulations
of the European Patent Office

- (1) A permanent employee or member of the contract staff of the European Patent Office who has been compulsorily or voluntarily insured with the German social security pension insurance scheme shall be entitled to have transferred to the pension scheme of the European Patent Office the total compulsory and voluntary contributions paid in respect of him to an authority responsible for the social security pension insurance scheme in the Federal Republic of Germany up until the time of his entry into the service of the European Patent Office, taking into account where appropriate any pension adjustment, together with 3.5 per cent interest for each complete year following the contribution payment until the time of the transfer. The transfer shall be effected on application by the person entitled; it may also be applied for by his survivors. Such application is to be made to the European Patent Office within six months from the appointment of the employee on a permanent basis or, in the case of a member of the contract staff, within six months from the date on which he acquires a right to a retirement pension. That period shall not expire earlier than six months after the entry into force of this Agreement. The European Patent Office shall notify the Federal Insurance Office for Salaried Employees, which shall, where appropriate, pass the application on to the competent authority responsible for the pension scheme. An application may not be withdrawn once the applicant has accepted in writing the proposal made by the European Patent Office regarding the extent of the period of service to be credited.
- (2) Contributions which have been paid prior to a currency reform date requiring to be observed in the German social security pension insurance scheme shall be transferred only to the extent of the percentage of their nominal value set out in paragraph 8 of Chapter 1 of the Protocol to Article 7 of this Agreement, together with 3.5 per cent interest for each complete year following payment thereof.

- (3) Where the applicant has been granted a benefit in kind or cash benefit from the German social security pension insurance scheme, the equivalent of such benefit in kind or cash benefit, together with 3.5 per cent interest for each complete year following receipt of the benefit, shall, in the event of a transfer, be repaid or set off against the transfer sum.
- (4) Upon the transfer being effected, all rights against the German social security pension insurance scheme in respect of all pension periods completed prior to entry into the service of the European Patent Office shall be extinguished.

Article 2

Implementation of Article 12(2) of the Pension Scheme Regulations of the European Patent Office

- (1) A permanent employee or member of the contract staff who leaves the service of the European Patent Office shall be entitled to have the actuarial equivalent of his retirement pension rights acquired in the European Patent Office or, where no such rights exist, the amounts provided for in Article 11 of the Pension Scheme Regulations transferred to the Federal Insurance Office for Salaried Employees. The transfer shall be effected only on application by the permanent employee or member of the contract staff. Such application is to be made to the European Patent Office within six months from the day on which he leaves. That period shall not expire earlier than six months after the entry into force of this Agreement. The European Patent Office shall notify the Federal Insurance Office for Salaried Employees thereof. An application may not be withdrawn once the equivalent sum or the amounts provided for in Article 11 of the Pension Scheme Regulations has/have been credited to the Federal Insurance Office for Salaried Employees.
- (2) The actuarial equivalent of the pension rights acquired on the basis of the Pension Scheme Regulations shall be calculated by the European Patent Office in accordance with the implementing regulations in force at that time. Where no such rights exist, the amounts provided for in Article 11 of the Pension Scheme Regulations shall be transferred. Where the amount of the actuarial equivalent thus calculated is less than that of the severance grant which could be paid to the permanent employee or member of the contract staff, the higher sum shall be transferred by the European Patent Office.
- (3) Upon the transfer being effected, the permanent employee or member of the contract staff shall be deemed to have been insured with the salaried employees' social security pension scheme during the period of his service in the European Patent Office. The incidence of a benefit payment by the German social security pension insurance scheme shall not prevent the implementation of the transfer.

- (4) In the event of retransfer, the insurance relationship shall be revived; the sum originally transferred, together with interest at 3.5 per cent on the amount transferred by the European Patent Office for each complete year following the transfer from the pension scheme, shall be taken as the basis of calculation in that respect.
- (5) For the purposes of assessing the contributions payable in respect of the period of service in the European Patent Office, the basis of computation to be applied shall be the actual remuneration achieved therein, not exceeding the income ceiling for the assessment of contributions applicable in the circumstances. The amount of such contributions shall be determined in accordance with the rules for the computation of retrospective pension contributions in force at the time of the transfer. The contributions shall be deemed to constitute compulsory contributions paid on the due date. In the event that the amount transferred by the European Patent Office is insufficient to cover the payment of the arrears of contributions corresponding to the actual remuneration up to the income ceiling for the assessment of contributions, the total amount shall be apportioned pro rata in relation to the number of months of service in the European Patent Office completed by the permanent employee or member of the contract staff. The proportion attributed to each month of service shall be deemed to represent a monthly contribution. The amount of any shortfall in the arrears corresponding to the actual remuneration up to the income ceiling for the assessment of contributions may be paid, upon application, by the former permanent employee or member of the contract staff.
- (6) Any remaining sums which are not required shall be paid over to the former permanent employee or member of the contract staff of the European Patent Office.
- (7) Where voluntary contributions have been paid in respect of the period in relation to which a transfer is effected, the voluntary contributions shall be repaid.
- (8) The European Patent Office shall notify the Federal Insurance Office for Salaried Employees of all information required for the purposes of applying paragraphs (1) to (5), and in particular the length of service and the amount of remuneration.

Article 3

Recognition of previous insurance periods

A person shall also be deemed to have been insured prior to his entry into the service of the European Patent Office where that person has been, or is, retrospectively insured with the German social security pension insurance scheme in respect of periods prior to such entry.

Article 4
Obligation to provide clarification and advice

It shall be incumbent on the authorities responsible, under the terms of this Agreement, for the social security pension insurance scheme and on the European Patent Office, in the framework of their competence, to provide general clarification and advice to persons concerned regarding their rights and obligations pursuant to this Agreement. Furthermore, it shall be open to the European Patent Office and the German liaison agency to agree such administrative measures as are necessary and expedient for the implementation of the Agreement. Within the Federal Republic of Germany the common liaison agency for the implementation of this Agreement shall be the Federal Insurance Office for Salaried Employees.

Article 5¹
Entry into force

This Agreement shall enter into force one month after the day on which the Federal Republic of Germany notifies the European Patent Organisation that the national conditions for entry into force have been fulfilled. The period shall be computed as from the day on which that notification is received.

Article 6
Period of validity / termination

This Agreement is concluded for an unlimited period. It may be terminated at the end of any calendar year upon the giving by either party of three months' notice, without prejudice to the rights laid down by Article 12 (1) and (2) of the Pension Scheme Regulations of the European Patent Office.

Chapter II

Transitional provisions

1. Implementation of Article 12(1) of the Pension Scheme Regulations of the European Patent Office.

An employee of the European Patent Office who was appointed as a permanent employee prior to the entry into force of the Agreement or who has acquired a pension or severance grant right as a member of the contract staff shall be entitled, in the circumstances laid down by Article 1, to apply for the transfer of the lump sum surrender value of the contributions paid by him to the German social security pension insurance scheme.

The rules contained in Article 1 of the Agreement shall also apply in relation to permanent employees who have been retired during the period between 20 October 1977 and the entry into force of the Agreement and to members of the contract staff who have been retired during the period between 11 December 1992 and the entry into force of the Agreement.

The survivors of a former permanent employee or member of the contract staff shall also be entitled to apply for these provisions to be applied. In the case of more than one survivor, such application can only be entertained if it is made jointly by all survivors.

In order to avoid loss of rights, the application for transfer must be made to the European Patent Office within six months from the entry into force of the Agreement; by way of derogation from the foregoing, a member of the contract staff shall be entitled to make his application at any time up until the expiry of the period prescribed in Article 1(1). The foregoing shall not apply in cases of blameless failure to comply with a time-limit. In the event that benefits are already being paid from the German social security pension insurance scheme at the time when the application is made, the transfer of the lump sum surrender value shall have the retroactive effect of cancelling the decision to grant a pension adopted by the authority responsible for the German social security pension scheme and of requiring the repayment to that authority of all benefits received since the commencement of the pension (Chapter I No. 5) including all supplements, grants and increases together with 3.5 per cent interest for every complete year following receipt of the benefits. The foregoing shall also apply, where the application for transfer is made by a survivor, in relation to benefits received from the German social security pension insurance scheme up until the death of the permanent employee or member of the contract staff.

2. Implementation of Article 12(2) of the Pension Scheme Regulations of the European Patent Office.

A permanent employee or member of the contract staff who has left the service of the European Patent Office prior to the entry into force of the Agreement shall be entitled, in accordance with Article 2 of the Agreement, to apply for the transfer to the Federal Insurance Office for Salaried Employees of the actuarial equivalent of the pension rights acquired by him at the European Patent Office or, where no such rights exist, the amounts provided for in Article 11 of the Pension Scheme Regulations.

The provisions of Article 2 of the Agreement shall also apply in relation to permanent employees who have been retired during the period between 20 October 1977 and the entry into force of the Agreement and to members of the contract staff who have been retired during the period between 11 December 1992 and the entry into force of the Agreement.

The survivors of a former permanent employee or member of the contract staff shall also be entitled to apply for these provisions to be applied. In the case of more than one survivor, such application can only be entertained if it is made jointly by all survivors.

In order to avoid loss of rights, the application for transfer must be made to the European Patent Office within six months from the entry into force of the Agreement. The foregoing shall not apply in cases of blameless failure to comply with a time-limit.

The transfer of the actuarial equivalent of the retirement pension rights or the amounts provided for in Article 11 of the Pension Scheme Regulations shall have the retroactive effect of extinguishing the retirement pension rights and of requiring the repayment to the European Patent Office of all sums received since the commencement of the pension.

Chapter III

Duration of the Agreement¹

STATEMENT OF INVESTMENT BELIEFS

Decision of the Supervisory Board of 24 September 2013 approving the Statement of Investment Beliefs for the Reserve Funds for Pensions and Social Security of the European Patent Organisation

THE SUPERVISORY BOARD OF THE RESERVE FUNDS FOR PENSIONS AND SOCIAL SECURITY OF THE EUROPEAN PATENT ORGANISATION,

Having regard to the Regulations for the Reserve Funds for Pensions and Social Security of the European Patent Organisation, and in particular Article 3, paragraphs 3 and 4 and Article 7, paragraph 1(b) (i) thereof,

HAS DECIDED AS FOLLOWS:¹

A. OBJECTIVES

1. The main objective of the RFPSS is to maximize long-term total return given an appropriate level of risk.
2. To achieve this main objective a long-term investment strategy with an appropriate asset management approach has to be implemented and suitable asset classes have to be used.
3. The RFPSS intend to make use of investment opportunities available on a global basis.
4. It shall be acknowledged that fluctuations in capital markets may cause the value of the RFPSS to fall for considerable periods of time. In line with the long term investment horizon of the RFPSS, both absolute and relative returns shall be assessed over an adequate and commensurate period of time.

B. ASSET CLASSES

5. High risk assets are typically expected to outperform low risk assets over the long term since excess return is a compensation for, inter alia, market volatility and illiquidity.
6. Asset classes which may be subject to large fluctuations in value in the short term shall be considered as suitable for investment if the expected returns have a positive contribution to the long term results, taking into account an appropriate level of risk. Tradeability, although important, is not a primary criterion for the inclusion of any specific asset class.
7. Diversification across asset classes plays a fundamental role in the management of investment risk. The risk of an individual security shall in principle be assessed in the context of the whole portfolio.

¹ Decision of the Supervisory Board CA/101/13.

8. Equity, in view of the risk premium available, shall represent the bulk of the RFPSS investments as long as the investment horizon is sufficient to overcome short term fluctuations.
9. Fixed income shall be considered a lower risk asset class and mainly a stabiliser of returns for the whole portfolio.
10. Property and commodities are essentially providers of diversification benefits and protection against unexpected inflation.
11. Other alternative investments may provide significant diversification benefits while maintaining or improving the expected return; however, they tend to be highly illiquid, expensive and resource-consuming. Therefore, alternative investments shall be used in a conservative and prudent manner, also taking into account the inherent cost of diversification.

C. STRATEGIC ASSET ALLOCATION

12. The RFPSS asset mix of the considered asset classes is the main driver of total return and risk. It shall therefore be carefully evaluated and reassessed on a regular basis, particularly if new asset classes become available.

D. MANAGEMENT PRINCIPLES

13. Capital markets are generally efficient and passive management is a low cost form of exposure to the returns provided by some asset classes. However, pricing inefficiencies exist and can be exploited by skilled managers.
14. Whilst recognising that the average investment manager underperforms the markets, it shall be acknowledged that properly structured forms of active management can also provide additional returns, given that some market inefficiencies are still exploitable and many investors act in a framework of bounded rationality. Active management can generate an excess performance, however, it needs to act within firmly established investment guidelines and, as demonstrated by the results of academic research, be pursued essentially through a number of limited and diversified active positions.
15. As a result, both active and passive strategies shall be used in the management of the RFPSS to varying degrees, depending on the efficiency of the respective market, costs and resources available.
16. Whilst long term returns for some asset classes are predictable to some extent, short term price movements are not. As a result, tactical deviations from the strategic allocation shall be limited and as a matter of principle carried out on the basis of well-proven asset allocation decision making models.

17. In view of the global scope of the RFPSS, the portfolio is exposed to currency risk. Currency markets are not completely efficient. The RFPSS currency exposure shall be strategically hedged, but active management of currency risk shall be pursued to a pre-defined and limited extent.
18. Rebalancing the portfolio on a regular basis has proved to be an effective instrument in achieving long term excess performance and shall continue to be normal practice for the RFPSS.
19. Derivative products are recognised as standard instruments available to institutional investment managers. They shall be used for reasons of efficient portfolio management, controlling and managing risk and asset allocation purposes.
20. Risk management provides risk awareness and intelligence for the investment activity. A disciplined risk management approach which emphasizes diversification of assets and incorporates ongoing risk measurement, monitoring and management is an important part of the Fund administration activity.

E. OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

21. Internal management, with its open architecture approach, especially making use in a flexible way of external specialists, has proved to be capable of achieving a good performance at a very low level of costs, maintaining independence from financial institutions whose interests may differ from those of the RFPSS. Furthermore, consistency in management over different business cycles has proved to be an important factor in reaching the investment objectives. In addition, internal management assures the ongoing development and cultivation of valuable in-house expertise.
22. People and cultures are critical success factors. In the context of rapid changes, and dynamic interaction with other participants in global financial markets, continuous education of those involved in the supervision and management of the Funds is therefore essential. Monitoring the changes that take place in both investment professional practice and theory, and evaluating them in a diligent and sensible way, enhances the long term, risk adjusted return and shall be considered standard practice for the management of the RFPSS.

This decision shall enter into force on 1 October 2013.

SCHEME REGULATIONS	27

NEW PENSION SCHEME REGULATIONS OF THE EUROPEAN PATENT OFFICE¹

applicable to employees taking up their duties on or after 1 January 2009

CHAPTER I GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 1 Scope

- (1)² The pension scheme established by these Regulations shall apply to the employees of the European Patent Office, hereinafter referred to as "the Office", within the meaning of Article 1 of the Service Regulations, unless their letter of appointment or contract of employment expressly provides otherwise.
- (2) It shall apply to the President and vice-presidents and to contract staff, within the meaning of Article 1, paragraphs 5 and 7, of the Service Regulations, who take up their duties on or after 1 January 2009 only to the extent expressly provided for in their contract and terms of employment.
- (3) It shall not apply to other categories of personnel defined by the Office, such as experts, consultants, temporary staff, auxiliary staff, employees and personnel hired under local labour legislation, etc.
- (4) In these Regulations the term "employee" means the staff referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2. The term "Organisation" refers to the European Patent Organisation.

Article 2 Deferred entitlement

Where the medical examination which every employee has to undergo at the time of his appointment shows him to be suffering from an illness or disablement, the Office may decide that, as regards risks arising from an illness or disablement existing before he took up his duties, the said employee shall not be entitled to the death benefits provided for in these Regulations until the expiry of a period not exceeding five years from the date on which he entered the service of the Office.

1 Decision of the Administration Council CA/D 12/08.

2 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/18.

Article 3

Definition of salary

- (1) For the purposes of these Regulations, salary shall be the monthly basic salary of the employee as defined in Article 64, paragraph 2, of the Service Regulations, unless otherwise indicated.
- (2) The minimum salaries taken into consideration for the calculation of pensions shall be those of serving employees, whether in respect of pensions to be paid in the future or those actually being paid.
- (3) The salaries taken into consideration shall be those in force upon assessment of the final pension, unless otherwise indicated.

Article 4

Definition of service conferring entitlement to benefits

- (1) Subject to the provisions of Articles 5 and 35, paragraph 1, entitlement to benefits under these Regulations shall be determined by the total of the periods actually served at the Office as an employee as defined in Article 1, paragraph 4, including any break in service, other than those mentioned in paragraph 2, of less than one year, subject to payment of all the contributions due for that period, calculated on the basis of the grade held before the break and taking account of any theoretical step advancement, plus compound interest on the sum thereof at 4% per annum from the date when the contributions would have been due without the break in service.
- (2) The following shall also be taken into account:
 - (i)¹ periods of incapacity in accordance with Article 62b of the Service Regulations;
 - (ii)² periods of non-active status in respect of which pension scheme contributions have been paid in accordance with Articles 43, 44, 44a and 44b of the Service Regulations;
 - (iii) periods of entitlement to the allowance for reserve status provided for in the Service Regulations, up to a maximum of five years, subject to the employee concerned having paid his pension contributions during such periods.

Article 5

Calculation of service conferring entitlement to benefits

- (1) Where an employee appointed by the Office has served with it before, his entitlement to benefits under the terms of Article 4 shall be conditional upon his paying over to the Office the amounts paid to him on leaving its service previously pursuant to Article 11, plus compound interest on such amounts at 4% per annum from the date when the employee received them until the date when they are paid over in accordance with this paragraph.

1 Amended by decision of the Administration Council CA/D 2/15.

2 Amended by decision of the Administration Council CA/D 8/22.

Should the employee fail to pay over the amounts in question, reckonable service shall count only as from the new appointment.

- (2) Where an employee appointed by the Office was previously drawing a retirement pension in respect of service with the Office, payment of that pension shall cease.

If the employee refunds to the Office the pension payments he has received, the provisions of Article 4 shall apply on termination of his employment at the Office.

If he does not make this refund, the years of service for which credit was acquired in the employment that originally entitled him to payment of the discontinued retirement pension shall be taken into account, in the calculation of the retirement pension due on cessation of his new employment, by reference to the salary for his last grading in such previous employment, up to the salary mentioned in Article 10, paragraph 1; moreover, that part of the final pension figure shall be abated by 5% for each whole year during which the employee drew the initial pension before the age of sixty.

- (3) Where an employee retires at a grade and step lower than that which he had previously held in the Office, his entitlement to benefits under these Regulations shall be determined by taking into account the total of his years of service, and the benefits shall be calculated on the basis of the salary for the highest grading held by him, up to the salary mentioned in Article 10, paragraph 1.

However, a reduction shall be made in the number of years of service to be credited to him in respect of time served at a lower grade and step after having held the grade by reference to which benefits are calculated; this reduction shall be proportionate to the difference between the said gradings.

Article 6

Reckonable years of service

- (1) The benefits provided for under these Regulations shall be calculated by reference to reckonable years of service consisting of:
 - (i) the total length of the employee's service, calculated in accordance with Articles 4 and 5;
 - (ii) service credited in accordance with Article 12, paragraph 1.(2) Incomplete years of reckonable service shall be credited on the basis of one twelfth of a year for each whole month of service. For pension calculation purposes, the period remaining shall be treated as a whole month if it is equal to or more than 15 days.

However, the period remaining shall not be taken into account for the purpose of calculating the minimum of 10 years' service required for entitlement to the retirement pension provided for in Article 7 of these Regulations.

- (3)¹ The method of crediting part-time service and periods of incapacity during which the employee paid reduced contributions to the pension scheme shall be laid down in the Implementing Rules hereto.

¹ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/15.

- (2) Pension rights shall continue to accrue to an employee remaining in the service after pensionable age, but his pension shall not exceed the maximum amount laid down in Article 10, paragraph 2.
- (3) If an employee retires before pensionable age, payment of his retirement pension shall be deferred until he reaches that age.
- (4) However, an employee who retires before pensionable age may request early payment of his pension provided he is at least fifty years old.

In such cases the retirement pension shall be reduced by reference to the age of the employee when he starts to draw his pension, as shown in the table below.

- (2) Entitlement shall cease at the end of the month in which the employee dies.

The last grade shall be that reached not less than one year before retirement. The step shall be that in which he was classified in that grade.
- (2) The maximum amount of the pension shall be 70% of the salary mentioned in paragraph 1, subject to the provisions of paragraph 3.
- (3) The amount of the retirement pension shall not be less than 4% of the salary for grade G1, step 4, per reckonable year of service credited pursuant to Articles 4 and 6; it may not, however, exceed the employee's last salary as defined in Article 3 above. Calculation of the minimum retirement pension shall take into account any period of parttime work, in proportion to the time worked.
- (4) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph 1, where at the time of termination of his service an employee was working part-time or was totally or partially discharged from his duties for reasons of incapacity under Article 62b of the Service Regulations, the salary taken into account shall be the one which he would have received for full-time work.

- (ii)¹ a severance grant equal to one month and a half of the salary mentioned in Article 10, paragraph 1, multiplied by the number of reckonable years of service credited within the meaning of Article 6, without prejudice to the reduction provided for in Article 94, paragraph 1(h), of the Service Regulations;
- (iii) one third of the amounts paid to the Office under Article 12, paragraph 1, plus compound interest at the rate of 4% per annum. However, if these amounts have to be refunded in their entirety to his previous employer, the reckonable years of service corresponding to those amounts shall be disregarded in the calculation of the severance grant.

Section 3

Article 12

Inward and outward transfer of pension rights

- (1) An employee who enters the service of the Office after leaving the service of a government department, a national organisation, an international organisation or a firm may arrange for payment to the Office, in accordance with the Implementing Rules hereto, of any amounts corresponding to the retirement pension rights accrued under his previous pension schemes, provided that those schemes allow such transfers to be made.

In such cases the Office shall determine, by reference to the Implementing Rules hereto, the number of years of reckonable service with which he shall be credited under its own pension scheme.

- (2) An employee who leaves the service of the Office to enter the service of a government department, a national organisation, an international organisation or a firm shall be entitled to transfer to his new pension scheme:

CHAPTER III SURVIVOR'S PENSION

Article 13 Conditions of entitlement

- (1)¹ A survivor's pension shall be payable to the surviving spouse
- (i) of an employee who died in service, provided they had been married to each other for at least one year at the time of the employee's death;
 - (ii) of a former employee entitled to a deferred pension, if they had been married to each other for at least one year at the time when the employee left the service or for at least ten years at the time of his death;
 - (iii) of an employee drawing a retirement pension for health reasons, if they were married to each other at the time of his retirement, or had been married to each other for at least five years at the time of his death;
 - (iv) of a former employee drawing a retirement pension, if they had been married to each other for at least one year at the time of his retirement or for at least five years at the time of his death.

The last-mentioned period shall be extended to ten years if the employee had retired before reaching the age of sixty years.

- (2) The conditions laid down above with regard to minimum duration of the marriage shall be waived where there are one or more children of the marriage or of a marriage of the employee contracted prior to his leaving the service inasmuch as the surviving spouse is providing for their needs; in such case the survivor's pension shall be payable under the derogation provided for in the present paragraph, for so long as the children are actually being so provided for.

When they are no longer being so provided for, the survivor's pension shall nonetheless continue to be payable for so long as the surviving spouse does not have an income of his own from the exercise of any occupation, or from any retirement pension or other survivor's pension, equal to at least the amount of the abovementioned survivor's pension.

- (3) The award of a survivor's pension shall be subject to the provisions of Article 2.

Article 14¹
Rate of pension

- (1) The pension of the survivor of an employee or former employee shall be 60% of
 - (i) the retirement pension that would have been payable to the serving employee now deceased, on the basis of his reckonable service credited up to the time of his death, without the need for a minimum of ten years' service under the provisions of Article 7;
 - (ii) the deferred retirement pension that would have been paid to the employee at the age of sixty;
 - (iii) the retirement pension payable to the employee at the time of his death, disregarding any reductions under Article 8, paragraph 4.
- (2) The survivor's pension shall not be less than 35% of the employee's last salary; nor shall it be less than the salary for grade G1, step 4.
- (3) However, the pension shall not exceed the amount of the former employee's own pension in the cases covered by paragraph 1(ii) and (iii) above.

Article 15
Reduction for difference in age

Where the difference in age between the deceased employee and the surviving spouse (the latter being the younger), less the length of time they have been married, is more than ten years, the survivor's pension, calculated in accordance with the foregoing provisions, shall be subject to a reduction, per year of residual difference, amounting to:

- 1% for the years between 10 and 20;
- 2% for the years 20 up to but not including 25;
- 3% for the years 25 up to but not including 30;
- 4% for the years 30 up to but not including 35;
- 5% for the years from 35 upwards.

Article 16
Remarriage

Entitlement to a survivor's pension shall cease on remarriage. The survivor shall be entitled to immediate payment of a capital sum equal to twice the annual amount of the survivor's pension, if there are no dependent children to whom the provisions of Article 19, paragraph 3, apply.

Article 17
Rights of a former spouse (divorced spouse)

- (1) The former spouse of a non-remarried employee shall, on his death, be entitled to a survivor's pension, provided the employee was, by virtue of a court decision which has become final and binding, under an obligation to pay maintenance to the former spouse; but the survivor's pension shall not exceed the amount of such maintenance.

This entitlement shall not arise if the former spouse remarried before the employee died. If remarriage takes place after the employee's death, Article 16 shall apply.

- (2) Where an employee dies leaving a spouse entitled to a survivor's pension and a nonremarried former spouse fulfilling the conditions laid down in paragraph 1 above, the whole of the survivor's pension shall be divided between the aforementioned persons in proportion to the duration of their marriages.

The amount to which a non-remarried former spouse is entitled shall not, however, be more than the amount of the maintenance payable at the time of the death of the employee.

- (3) Where one of the persons entitled to a survivor's pension dies, renounces his share or forfeits his rights under Article 29, or where the amount of his pension has been restricted under the terms of the second sub-paragraph of paragraph 2 above, his share shall accrue to the share of the other person, except where pension rights revert to orphans, as provided for under Article 19, paragraph 2, last sub-paragraph. In such case the restriction laid down in the second sub-paragraph of paragraph 2 above shall apply.
- (4) Reductions for difference in age as provided for in Article 15 shall be applied separately to pensions calculated in accordance with the present Article.

Article 18

Commencement and cessation of entitlement

- (1) Entitlement to a survivor's pension shall commence on the first day of the month following that in which the employee died. However, this pension shall not become payable until the last payment has been made of the salary due to the deceased employee under the Service Regulations and rules applicable to employees of the Office.
- (2) Entitlement to a survivor's pension shall cease at the end of the month in which the recipient of the pension dies or ceases to satisfy the conditions for entitlement to that pension.

- (2) Where the employee dies leaving a spouse entitled to a survivor's pension, the pension referred to in paragraph 1 above shall be:
 - 40% of the survivor's pension, disregarding any reductions pursuant to Article 15, but not less than half the salary for Grade G1, step 4¹,
 - increased in respect of the second and every further beneficiary by an amount equal to the allowance for a dependent child.

The pensions referred to in this paragraph shall be brought up to the levels provided for in paragraph 3 in the event of the spouse entitled to a survivor's pension dying, remarrying or losing her rights to that pension.

- (3) Where the employee dies without leaving a spouse entitled to a survivor's pension, the pension referred to in paragraph 1 above shall be:
 - 80% of the theoretical survivor's pension, disregarding any reductions pursuant to Article 15, but not less than the salary for Grade G1, step 4²,
 - increased in respect of the second and every further beneficiary by an amount equal to twice the allowance for a dependent child.
- (4) Notwithstanding the provisions of Article 20, children in common by blood or adoption of two married, unmarried or divorced employees shall be entitled to a pension under this Article following the death of the employee who was not being paid the dependant's allowance at the time of his death if the said children were, at that time, subject to the parental responsibility of this employee and continuously supported by him.

In the case of divorced employees, entitlement shall be subject to the obligation, by virtue of a court decision which has become final and binding, to pay maintenance for the said children, and the orphan's pension shall not exceed the amount of such maintenance.

- (5) The children or other dependants of a widowed staff member whose deceased spouse was not employed by the Office shall each be entitled to a pension of twice the allowance for a dependent child.

² Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 10/14.

- (6) The total amount of the pensions provided for in the above paragraphs shall be divided equally among all beneficiaries.
- (7) The expression "dependent children" shall mean children who were effectively dependent on the employee or former employee at the time of his death or were born not more than 300 days thereafter.

Article 21

Beneficiaries of more than one category

- (1) Where an employee leaves a surviving spouse and also children of a previous marriage or other persons entitled under him, the total pension, calculated as for a surviving spouse having all these persons dependent on him, shall be apportioned among the various persons concerned in proportion to the pensions which would have been payable to each category if treated separately.
- (2) Where there are children born of different parents, the total pension, calculated as though all the children were of the same parentage, shall be apportioned among the various persons concerned in proportion to the pensions which would have been payable to each category if treated separately.
- (3) For the purpose of calculating these apportionments, all children recognised as dependants of the deceased employee shall be included in the category of children of the marriage to the employee.
- (4) In the case referred to in paragraph 2 above, persons recognised as dependants, other than children, shall be included in the same category as the children to whom they are assimilated for the purpose of the apportionment.

- (2) The amount of the allowance for a child or other dependant payable to the person entitled to a survivor's pension shall be twice the normal amount.
- (3) If the recipient of a retirement or survivor's pension receives other family benefits in respect of the same children, the amount of the latter benefits shall be deducted from the allowances provided for in this Article.
- (4) Entitlement to the allowances provided for in this Article shall cease at the end of the month in which the child or other dependant ceases to satisfy the conditions for entitlement to those allowances under the Service Regulations.

Article 23 Ceiling of benefits payable to surviving spouses and orphans

The amounts payable in respect of survivor's, orphan's and dependant's pensions shall, where applicable, be reduced in proportion to the share of each beneficiary.

¹ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/15.

The same option shall be open to the surviving spouse of a former employee and to orphans who have lost both parents.

These options shall be irrevocable.

- (4) Where a country opted for under the provisions of paragraphs 2 and 3 above is not or has not been a Member State of the Organisation, the reference scale shall be that applicable in the host country of the headquarters of the Organisation.
- (5) The scales referred to in this Article shall be those in force on the first day of the month following that in which the employee's service terminated.
- (6) Paragraph 2 above shall not apply to the benefits under Article 11. However, an employee who settles in his country of origin may have the severance grant provided for in Article 11(ii) calculated in accordance with the scale for that country, subject to paragraph 4 above.

- (2) Where the surviving spouse, orphans or other dependants of a deceased employee fail to apply for their pension within one year from the date of his death, the benefits under these Regulations shall not be payable until the first day of the month following that in which they make their application.
- (3) Where the former spouse referred to in Article 17 fails to apply for his pension within one year from the date of the death of the employee, his rights shall be wholly forfeited.

Section 2

Article 33

Right of subrogation

Where an employee's death is attributable to a third party, the award of the benefits provided for in these Regulations shall in principle be made subject to the beneficiary's assigning to the Office his claims against such third party, up to the amount of such benefits.

However, the Office may waive its right to take action pursuant to such subrogation against the third party concerned where special circumstances justify such a waiver.

- (1) The employees' contribution to this pension scheme shall be set by the President of the Office, on the basis of an actuarial study, up to the limit of the contribution level applicable to employees who took up their duties before 1 January 2009, determined in accordance with the Pension Scheme Regulations. It shall be deducted monthly from their salary.
- (2) Contributions properly deducted shall not be recoverable. Contributions wrongly deducted shall confer no rights to pension benefits; they shall be refunded without interest at the request of the employee concerned or of those entitled under him.
- (3) Should the President of the Office deem it necessary to have an evaluation of the cost of the present scheme made by one or more actuaries and should this show that the contribution that he has set pursuant to paragraph 1 above no longer corresponds to one third of the contribution necessary to finance the benefits payable under these Regulations, the President shall establish what changes, if any, are to be made to the rates of contribution.

Rule 2/1 Medical examination

Letters of appointment shall specify, where appropriate, that the period of deferred entitlement prescribed in Article 2 shall apply to the person concerned in the light of the results of the medical examination conducted prior to appointment.

- (ii) In the event of death resulting from a cause which justified the deferment period in course, the employee or the persons entitled under him shall be entitled only to the refund of the amounts stated in Article 11, subparagraphs (i) and (iii).

¹ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/15.

Rule 4.1/1
Service counting for entitlement¹

- (i) any periods of service actually completed by an employee; also any periods corresponding to global compensatory payments in respect of leave not taken or in lieu of notice, if the employee, during such periods, has paid his personal contributions to the pension scheme, insofar as these latter periods do not extend beyond the age limit for retirement laid down in the Service Regulations and are not taken into account by a new employer for the purpose of a pension scheme;
- (ii)² any periods of sick leave or incapacity in respect of which benefits have been paid; the person concerned shall be required to have paid his personal contributions to the pension scheme as calculated on the amounts so received, thus constituting such periods of reckonable service, without any reductions;
- (iii) any periods of unpaid leave of not more than two months' duration, if during such periods the employee paid his personal contributions to the pension scheme and if such periods are not taken into account by a new employer for the purposes of a pension scheme;

- (v) any period of secondment referred to in Article 45 of the Service Regulations;
- (vi) any period of military service referred to in Article 43 of the Service Regulations, if the employee has paid or gave an undertaking to pay their personal contributions to the pension scheme within six months of the end of such a period. In the event of an undertaking, any outstanding contributions shall be deducted from the benefits owing to those entitled under them.
- (vii) any period of parental leave referred to in Article 44a of the Service Regulations, if the employee has paid their employee contributions to the pension scheme in respect of the period in question;
- (viii) any period of family leave referred to in Article 44b of the Service Regulations, if the employee has paid their employee contributions to the pension scheme in respect of the period in question.

² Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/15.

Rule 6/1
Fractions of a month

Any fraction of less than thirty days remaining after aggregating periods of service shall be treated as a whole month if it is equal to or more than fifteen days and disregarded if it is less than fifteen days.

Rule 6.3/1¹
Part-time service and incapacity

Periods of incapacity or part-time work during which the employee paid reduced contributions to the pension scheme shall be credited as follows:

- (i) if the result of reducing the salary defined in Article 10, paragraph 4, in proportion to the total contributions paid is higher than twice the salary for grade G1, step 4, they shall account for full reckonable years;
- (ii) if the result of reducing the salary defined in Article 10, paragraph 4, in proportion to the total contributions paid is equal to or lower than twice the salary for grade G1, step 4, they shall be credited in proportion to the contributions paid.

Rule 7/1
Actual service for the purposes of Article 4

For the purposes of Article 4, years served at the Office shall be years in respect of which the employee's contributions to the pension scheme have been paid in accordance with Article 5, paragraph 1, and Article 35, paragraph 1.

Rule 8/1
Method of reducing pension - Early pension

- (i) A retirement pension paid before age 60 shall be calculated as follows:
 - If the pension that would be due at age 60 is lower than the minimum rate prescribed in Article 10, paragraph 3, it shall be brought up to that minimum rate and the reduction provided for in Article 8, paragraph 4, shall then be applied to it.
 - If the pension that would be due at age 60 is higher than the aforesaid minimum rate, the reduction shall be applied to it even if the result is lower than that minimum.
- (ii) The reductions provided for in Article 8, paragraph 4, shall be applied by reference to whole years, no account being taken of months.
- (iii) Family allowances shall be paid and calculated in accordance with the provisions of Rule 22/1(ii).

¹ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/15.

- (iv) Under the conditions laid down in Article 8 and in this Rule, an early pension may be requested at any time between the ages of 50 and 60, once the employee's service has terminated.

Rule 12.1/1

Inward transfer of previously acquired rights

- (i) Periods of membership of previous pension schemes
 - (a) Pursuant to Article 12, paragraph 1, years of reckonable service shall be credited in accordance with these Rules in respect of periods of membership of one or more pension schemes preceding entry into the service of the Office.
 - (b) Any amounts transferred in respect of periods of membership after entry into the service shall be paid back to the employee.
 - (c) An amount shall be credited under this Article only if it is certified by the pension scheme concerned as being the actuarial equivalent of retirement pension rights or as representing a capital payment in respect of rights to a pension or of social security entitlements (excluding compensation for dismissal or a severance grant) and must be equivalent to the whole of the amounts paid to the person concerned by that pension scheme.

- (ii) Transfer date

The transfer date is hereby defined as the value date on which the Office's account is credited.

- (iii) Amounts credited

For purposes of calculating the years of reckonable service to be credited pursuant to Article 12, paragraph 1, the amounts specified in paragraph (i)(c) above shall be taken into account as calculated and paid under the previous pension scheme, in terms of both capital and interest, if any. They shall be considered as calculated on the transfer date. Any necessary conversion into the currency of the salary paid by the Office on the transfer date shall be effected at the exchange rate in force on that date.

Where such amounts were actually paid to the person concerned before the date of entry into the service, for purposes of calculating the years of reckonable service they shall be increased by compound interest for each full month from the date of payment to the person concerned up to the transfer date. The interest rate to be applied shall be the rate taken into account for the actuarial studies. Where that rate is expressed by reference to a price index, the value of that price index on the first working day of each month shall be the reference index for the month in question.

- (iv) Calculation of reckonable years of service

The number of reckonable years of service to be taken into account under Article 12, paragraph 1, shall be calculated by first dividing the transferred amount by the coefficient corresponding to the age of the person concerned on the transfer date. The figure obtained shall then be divided by $12 \times 2\%$ of the salary referred to in Article 10, paragraph 1, on the transfer date to obtain the number of reckonable years of service credited. The above-mentioned rate of 2% shall be the accumulation rate defined in Article 10.

(v) Maximum reckonable years of service

Taking such reckonable years of service into account must not have the effect of raising the total pension above the maximum prescribed by Article 10, paragraph 2.

(vi) Time limit for application

Application for the amounts referred to in paragraph (iii) above to be credited to the Office must be made in writing

- (a) within six months from the date of entry into the service in the case of employees exempted from the probationary period or no later than six months after notification of confirmation of appointment after the probationary period. The actual transfer cannot, however, be made until appointment has been confirmed.
- (b)¹ as a transitional measure, within a period of six months from the date on which the possibility of such a transfer was made available to employees by the pension scheme concerned.

The application for crediting may be revoked by the person concerned at any time within the time limits prescribed in paragraph (vii) below, but before the payment provided for in paragraph (iii) has been made.

(vii) Time limits for payment

Payment of the amounts referred to in paragraph (iii) above must be made:

- within three months after the expiry of the time limit prescribed in paragraph (vi) above, if the person concerned had actually received such an amount from the pension scheme concerned;
- on payment of such amounts by the pension scheme concerned in other cases.

Payment to the Office shall be made in the currency - or its equivalent at the exchange rate in force on the date of actual payment to the Office - in which the amounts referred to in paragraph (iii) actually have been, or will be, paid by the previous pension scheme.

(viii) Transfer to a subsequent pension scheme

Pursuant to Articles 11(iii) and 12, paragraph 2, the amounts paid to the Office under this Article and subsequently refunded, wholly or in part, to an employee who has not completed at least 10 years' actual service within the meaning of Articles 4 and 7 shall be increased from the time of payment to the Office by compound interest at 4% per annum payable by the Organisation.

Rule 12.2/1

Transfer of pension rights to an outside scheme

- (i) Time limit for application
 - (a) Application for transfer of pension rights under Article 12, paragraph 2, must be made by the staff member to the Office within six months after his definitive appointment by the new government department, organisation or firm referred to in Article 12, paragraph 2.
 - (b) If the Organisation is unable to conclude with the new government department, organisation or firm referred to in Article 12, paragraph 2, an agreement for such transfer which it considers satisfactory, it shall confine itself to making immediate payment of the amounts referred to in Article 11, or to immediate or deferred payment of a retirement pension.
- (ii) Conditions governing transfer

The amounts referred to in Article 12, paragraph 2, may be transferred only to the statutory or contractual pension scheme of the government department, organisation or firm referred to in Article 12, paragraph 2.
- (iii) Calculation of amounts to be transferred

The actuarial equivalent of the retirement pension rights referred to in Article 12, paragraph 2, shall be calculated on the basis of the Table annexed hereto, the annual pension acquired in the Organisation being multiplied by the coefficient corresponding to the age of the person concerned.
- (iv) The age coefficients referred to in Rule 12.1/1, paragraph (iv), first sentence, and paragraph (iii) above shall be established by the President of the Office on the basis of an actuarial study.

Rule 14/1Employee dying during leave on personal grounds

- (i) When an employee dies during a period of leave in respect of which the personal contribution to the pension scheme was not payable, the surviving spouse shall be entitled to the survivor's pension under Article 14, paragraph 1(ii), the minimum and maximum amounts of such pension being in accordance with paragraphs 3 and 4 of the same Article.

In addition, any orphans shall be entitled to the benefits specified in Articles 19 and 22.

- (ii) However, where the deceased employee, at the time of taking unpaid leave, had not completed a sufficient number of years' service to entitle him to a retirement pension, the amounts provided for in Article 11 shall be paid to his estate; such amounts shall be calculated on the basis of rights acquired and salary at the date of going on leave, without any subsequent adjustment or interest.

Rule 17/1

Rights of a former spouse (divorced spouse)

The ceiling of the survivor's pension, as provided for in Article 17(1), shall be subject to the same adjustments as those provided for in Article 30.

Rule 19.5/1

Pension of an orphan dependent on a widowed employee

- (i) The orphan's pension mentioned in this Article (children or other dependants of an employee who is the widower, or widow, of a spouse not an employee of the Office) shall be due only if the employee became widowed while in service.
- (ii) If the employee remarries or leaves the Office, the orphan's pension shall cease to be paid.
- (iii) Since it is the situation at the time of death of the spouse which must be taken into consideration, the following are not entitled to the orphan's pension:
 - children born or adopted after the death of the spouse (except for children born not more than 300 days thereafter);
 - the "other dependants" qualifying as such after the death of the spouse.

Rule 21.1/1

Definition of the total pension for apportionment

- (i) The total pension referred to in Article 21(1) shall be calculated as if all the beneficiaries of the deceased employee formed part of a single group.
- (ii) This total pension shall comprise:
 - a survivor's pension as would be payable to a surviving spouse of the deceased employee in accordance with Article 14 only, the same rule applying in case of conflict between a surviving spouse and former spouse;
 - orphan's pensions calculated as if all orphans and other dependants of the deceased employee belonged to the group entitled to the survivor's pension mentioned above. In accordance with the first subparagraph of Article 19(2), only one minimum orphan's pension (50 per cent of G1, step 4¹) shall be taken into account in this calculation;

¹ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 10/14.

- family allowances, also calculated as if such children and other dependants all belonged to the group of the beneficiary of the aforementioned survivor's pension. The ceiling for such allowances shall be as laid down in Article 23, before apportionment of the total pension.

Rule 21.1/2

Apportionment of the total pension

- (i) The total pension so calculated shall be apportioned among:

- where appropriate, the spouse and former spouse;
- orphans and other dependants

in proportion to the amounts which would have been payable directly to each group of beneficiaries considered separately (after application of Articles 15 and 17).

- (ii) Within a group consisting of a surviving spouse or former spouse and orphans and other dependants, the share going to that group shall be apportioned, for the purpose of calculating the individual entitlement of each member as mentioned above, in proportion to the survivor's pension and the family allowances on the one hand and the orphan's pensions on the other which determined the share payable to that group.
- (iii) If the amounts so apportioned exceed the pensions and the family allowances to which the beneficiaries would have been entitled if they had been considered separately, any such excess amounts shall not be payable.
- (iv) The minimum amounts laid down for survivors' and orphans' pensions and for household allowances shall no longer apply to the amounts actually payable.

Rule 22/1

Method of calculating family allowances

- (i) Household allowance

The household allowance to which the pension recipient is entitled shall be calculated on the basis of his pension, but shall not be less than the minimum laid down in the scales in force at the Office, save where the allowance is reduced on the basis of the income of the spouse.

- (ii) Early pension

The household allowance to which the recipient of an early pension is entitled shall be calculated on the basis of the reduced pension, subject to the minimum prescribed by the Service Regulations and the implementing rules thereto; the other family allowances of fixed amount shall be granted without any reduction.

Rule 22/2¹

Education allowance

Rule 27/1

Alteration due to the exercise of an option

Where, in application of Article 27, benefits under the pension scheme are to be calculated on the basis for a scale other than that which was in force at the time when the right to the benefits arose, then the amount of such benefits must, for the purpose of their payment as from the exercise of the option concerned, be recalculated on the basis of the said scale.

H. Additional reimbursement under Article 83a(6) of the Service Regulations

Where, during a period of twelve consecutive months, the total medical costs referred to in section F above incurred by an insured employee, insured members of his family, and other insured dependants, is such that, by virtue of the 20% excess on certain expenses and of the ceilings imposed, the insured employee still has to bear an amount totalling more than 20% of his average monthly salary over the twelve months in question, he is entitled to an additional reimbursement amounting to the difference between the overall total amount of such excesses and the amounts exceeding the ceilings on the one hand and 20% of the said average monthly salary on the other hand.

In certain cases, direct settlement with the medical establishments referred to in section F above may be considered. Any reimbursement from another source will be deducted from the amount payable under this insurance scheme to the extent that the latter payment would bring the total reimbursement for the medical treatment in question to more than 100%.

¹Costs incurred in a currency other than EUR will be converted at the average exchange rate in force on the day reimbursement is processed.

All claims for reimbursement and requests for the application of Article 83a(6) of the Service Regulations must be submitted within three years of the end of the year in which the invoice was issued.

J. Disputes

Objections to a rejection of reimbursement of medical expenses should be raised in writing directly with the third-party administrator within three months of the notification of said rejection. K. Spouses in gainful employment

Spouses of permanent or former employees who are in gainful employment outside the Office are entitled to cover under the healthcare insurance scheme of the Office under the following conditions:

- (a)² If the spouse of a permanent or former employee entitled to insurance under Article 83a of the Service Regulations is engaged in gainful employment outside the Office and is exempted by national law from affiliation to a compulsory scheme of healthcare insurance and has no other primary healthcare insurance cover, the permanent or former employee will pay a monthly contribution to the scheme for the spouse calculated with reference to the market prices for low premiums offered by reputable private healthcare insurers for the minimal cover required by law in the spouse's country of employment. The President of the Office will lay down the criteria for the reference premiums used to define this contribution.

1 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 11/22.

2 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 11/22.

- (b)¹ A permanent or former employee entitled to insurance under Article 83a of the Service Regulations whose spouse is in gainful employment outside the Office and is affiliated to a collective basic medical insurance concluded by the Office under the Dutch Health Care Insurance Act ("Zorgverzekeringswet") will pay for the spouse a contribution calculated with reference to the market prices for low premiums. The President of the Office will lay down the criteria for the reference premiums used to define this contribution."
- (c) By way of exception to (a) and (b) above, the President of the Office will define a reduced contribution applicable to spouses in gainful employment with a gross income of less than the basic salary at grade G1, step 4 of the scale applicable to the permanent or former employee. - (d) The contribution provided for in Article 83a(1)(b) of the Service Regulations does not apply to any of the cases defined in this section.

L. Complementary cover for family members affiliated to another healthcare insurance

- (a) Spouses who are in gainful employment outside the Office and who are entitled to reimbursement of expenses under any other legal, statutory or private primary healthcare insurance scheme must in the first instance claim for benefit under the other insurance scheme. - (b) Family members affiliated to a collective basic medical insurance scheme concluded by the Office under the Dutch Health Care Insurance Act ("Zorgverzekeringswet") must in the first instance claim reimbursement of medical expenses under that insurance scheme. Complementary reimbursement may be claimed under the healthcare insurance scheme of the Office.

- (c) If the primary healthcare insurance scheme of the family member restricts the choice of medical provider (e.g. doctor, hospital, medical services required), he may use the healthcare insurance scheme of the Office as primary insurance if he does so for reasons of access to and/or the quality of the medical care.

M. Obligations with regard to spouses in gainful employment

- (a) A permanent or former employee must provide, in the first half of the year, proof of the employment situation of, and income received by, his spouse for the previous fiscal or calendar year, in order for his spouse to remain in the healthcare insurance scheme of the Office.
- (b) A permanent or former employee must report any changes in the employment circumstances of his spouse which may give rise to changes in entitlement under this scheme.
- (c) If a permanent or former employee does not fulfil the conditions laid down in paragraphs (a) and (b), the President of the Office may decide to suspend the spouse's insurance.

II. Death insurance (Article 84 and 84a of the Service Regulations)¹

A.² Restrictions

The cover provided for in Articles 84 and 84a of the Service Regulations shall be subject to the following restrictions:

- (a) In the event of suicide, the lump sum referred to in Articles 84 and 84a shall be payable only if the suicide takes place at least two years after the date on which the employee entered the service. However, this restriction shall not apply if the employee commits suicide while the balance of his mind is disturbed; the burden of proof in this respect shall lie with the beneficiaries.
- (b) In the event of war, cover shall continue, except in the case of insured persons called up for military service.

B.³ Contribution rates

The President of the Office shall define the provisional contribution rates to be applied for each three-year period starting from 1 January 2008.

C.⁴ Contribution rate adjustment and revision

At the end of every three-year period of insurance starting from 1 January 2005, a review shall be conducted. The President of the Office shall make any necessary adjustments for previous periods as a result of the review.

1 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/18.

2 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/18.

3 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 2/15.

4 Amended by decision of the Administrative Council CA/D 32/07.

In the event of a significant deviation between expected and actual operating figures during the course of a three-year period, the President of the Office may conduct an interim review and, where appropriate, adjust the contribution rates before the end of the period to obviate the need to recover or reimburse a single large amount once the period is over.

 - (a) employees;

This cover shall cease at the end of the six-month period, or when the child reaches twenty-six years of age, whichever is the earlier;
 - (e) dependent children of insured persons under (a) or (b) in receipt of an orphan's pension following the death of the insured person under (a) or (b).
- (2) The following persons may be insured on a voluntary basis, provided the insured person under (1)(a) or (b) or an insured person under (3)(d) does not take an irrevocable decision to the contrary, and provided they are not themselves already insured under (1):
 - (a) the spouse of an insured person under (1)(a) or (b) or of an insured person under (3)(d);
 - (b) the former spouse of an insured person under (1)(a) or (b) or of an insured person under (3) (d) in respect of whom the aforementioned insured person is legally obliged to pay personal maintenance;
 - (c) other dependants, within the meaning of Article 70, of the insured person under (1)(a) or (b) or of the insured person under (3)(d).

Subject to the provisions of paragraph (3), cover for those persons insured on a voluntary basis shall cease at the same time as that of the insured person at whose decision they are covered.
- (3) The following persons may be insured on a voluntary basis, provided they do not take a personal, irrevocable decision to the contrary, and provided they are not themselves already insured under (1):

 - (b) recipients of a survivor's pension already insured under (2)(b) at the time of death of the insured person at whose decision they were covered;

- (c) dependent persons within the meaning of Article 70 in receipt of an orphan's pension and already insured under (2)(c) at the time of death of the insured person at whose decision they were covered;
- (d) persons entitled to a deferred retirement pension who resign after the age of 50 or have a total of at least 25 years of reckonable service within the meaning of the Pension Scheme Regulations applicable to them.

II. Contributions by the Office and by the insured persons

- (4) The following contributions shall be paid:
 - (a) a contribution by the Office proportional to the basis formed by the sum of the basic salaries and basic pensions paid to the insured persons in I.(1)(a) and (b), plus 6% for those insured persons who have opted for voluntary insurance of their spouse within the meaning of (2)(a), and the sum of the survivor's pensions paid to insured persons under (3)(a). For the purposes of the calculation of the aforementioned basis, basic salaries shall be taken to mean the full-time salaries of the relevant employees in active employment, and basic pensions to mean the actual pensions paid, although not less than the pensions that would be paid if the recipients had accumulated 25 years of reckonable service within the meaning of the Pension Scheme Regulations applicable to them. The rate of this contribution shall be equal to two-thirds of the reference rate defined in (6);
 - (b) a contribution by the insured persons under I.(1)(a) and (b) proportional to the part of the basis defined above which corresponds to the insured person concerned. The rate of this contribution shall be equal to one-third of the reference rate defined in (6). However, during periods in which a person insured on a compulsory basis under I.(1)(a) is not in active employment, this rate shall be equal to the reference rate defined in (6);
 - (c) a contribution by the insured persons under I.(3)(d) proportional to the basic retirement pension corresponding to 25 years of reckonable service, without application of the coefficients of reduction for early pensions provided for in Article 8(4) of the Pension Scheme Regulations applicable to them. The rate of this contribution shall be equal to the reference rate defined in (6);
 - (d) a supplementary contribution by the insured persons under I.(1)(a) or (b) and the insured persons under I.(3)(d), on behalf of the persons insured on a voluntary basis under I.(2) and which:

 - (f) a supplementary contribution by the insured persons under I.(3)(a) having a gross income from employment greater than the basic salary for Grade G4, step 4, on the scale applicable to the insured person paying the contribution, which is proportional to the amount by which this income exceeds the said basic salary. The rate of this contribution shall be equal to the reference rate defined in (6);
 - (g) a contribution by the insured persons under I.(3)(b) and (c) equal to the contribution defined under II.(4)(d)(i) and (ii) respectively.

- (6)¹ The reference rate shall be determined by the Administrative Council on a proposal from the President of the Office made on the basis of an actuarial study carried out by independent experts and fixed at 1.5%.

If the Administrative Council considers it necessary to have the cost of the social security scheme examined by one or more actuaries, and such an examination reveals that the above-mentioned reference rate no longer guarantees the structural equilibrium of the social-security scheme, the Administrative Council shall decide what changes, if any, are to be made to the contributions.
- (6) (a) The portion of remuneration owed on termination of service as a result of compulsory participation in the salary savings plan, where applicable, shall be reduced by the amount of the long-term care insurance contribution, a third of which shall be borne by the employee.

III. Management of the scheme

- (7) The management of the scheme shall be entrusted to an external manager selected in accordance with the procedure for placing contracts provided for in the Financial Regulations.
- (8) -

IV. Entitlement to benefits

- (9) Entitlement to long-term care benefits shall be decided by the President of the Office, on a proposal from the external manager of the scheme. The decision shall identify the degree of reliance on long-term care of the insured person concerned.

V. Level of benefits

- (10) Depending on the degree of reliance on long-term care identified, the monthly benefit paid shall correspond to the following percentages of the monthly basic salary for Grade G1, step 4, of the salary scale applicable to the recipient concerned:

- level I 50%
- level II 75%

By way of exception and on a reasoned decision of the President of the Office, the amount of the benefit may exceed that in level III, to a maximum, however, of no more than 150% of the aforementioned basic salary.

VI. Criteria for assessing the degree of reliance on long-term care

- (11) The criteria to be applied for the purpose of defining the degree of reliance on long-term care shall be fixed by the President of the Office on a proposal from the external manager and after consulting the General Consultative Committee.

- (f) shall enjoy the same facilities as to repatriation as diplomatic agents in time of international crises, as shall the members of their families forming part of their household;

- (a) immunity from jurisdiction in respect of acts done by them in the exercise of their functions, including words written or spoken, except in the case of a motor traffic offence committed by an expert or in the case of damage caused by a motor vehicle belonging to or driven by him; experts shall continue to enjoy this immunity after they have ceased to be employed by the Organisation;

- (b) inviolability for all their official papers and documents;
- (c) the exchange facilities necessary for the transfer of their remuneration.

Article 16

- (1) The persons referred to in Articles 13 and 14 shall be subject to a tax for the benefit of the Organisation on salaries and emoluments paid by the Organisation, subject to the conditions and rules laid down by the Administrative Council within a period of one year from the date of the entry into force of the Convention. From the date on which this tax is applied, such salaries and emoluments shall be exempt from national income tax. The Contracting States may, however, take into account the salaries and emoluments thus exempt when assessing the amount of tax to be applied to income from other sources.
- (2) Paragraph 1 shall not apply to pensions and annuities paid by the Organisation to the former employees of the European Patent Office.

Article 17¹

The Administrative Council shall decide the categories of employees to whom the provisions of Article 14, in whole or in part, and Article 16 shall apply and the categories of experts to whom the provisions of Article 15 shall apply. The names, titles and addresses of the employees and experts included in such categories shall be communicated from time to time to the Contracting States.

Article 18

In the event of the Organisation establishing its own social security scheme, the Organisation and the employees of the European Patent Office shall be exempt from all compulsory contributions to national social security schemes, subject to the agreements made with the Contracting States in accordance with the provisions of Article 25.

Article 19

- (1)² The privileges and immunities provided for in this Protocol are not designed to give to employees of the European Patent Office or experts performing functions for or on behalf of the Organisation personal advantage. They are provided solely to ensure, in all circumstances the unimpeded functioning of the Organisation and the complete independence of the persons to whom they are accorded.
- (2) The President of the European Patent Office has the duty to waive immunity where he considers that such immunity prevents the normal course of justice

1 See Part II 17, Decision determining the categories of employees of the European Patent Office to whom the provisions of Articles 14 and 16 of the Protocol on Privileges and Immunities apply, and the categories of experts to whom Article 15 applies.

2 See Circular No. 132 appended to the Staff Regulations.

and that it is possible to dispense with such immunity without prejudicing the interests of the Organisation. The Administrative Council may waive immunity of the President for the same reasons.

Article 20

- (1) The Organisation shall co-operate at all times with the competent authorities of the Contracting States in order to facilitate the proper administration of justice, to ensure the observance of police regulations and regulations concerning public health, labour inspection or other similar national legislation, and to prevent any abuse of the privileges, immunities and facilities provided for in this Protocol.
- (2) The procedure of co-operation mentioned in paragraph 1 may be laid down in the complementary agreements referred to in Article 25.

Article 21

Each Contracting State retains the right to take all precautions necessary in the interests of its security.

Article 22

No Contracting State is obliged to extend the privileges and immunities referred to in Article 12, Article 13, Article 14, sub-paragraphs b), e) and g) and Article 15, sub-paragraph c) to:

- (a) its own nationals;
- (b) any person who at the time of taking up his functions with the Organisation has his permanent residence in that State and is not an employee of any other inter-governmental organisation whose staff is incorporated into the Organisation.

Article 23

- (1) Any Contracting State may submit to an international arbitration tribunal any dispute concerning the Organisation or an employee of the European Patent Office or an expert performing functions for or on its behalf, in so far as the Organisation or the employees and experts have claimed a privilege or an immunity under this Protocol in circumstances where that immunity has not been waived.
- (2) If a Contracting State intends to submit a dispute to arbitration, it shall notify the Chairman of the Administrative Council, who shall forthwith inform each Contracting State of such notification.
- (3) The procedure laid down in paragraph 1 of this Article shall not apply to disputes between the Organisation and the employees or experts in respect of the Service Regulations or conditions of employment or, with regard to the employees, the Pension Scheme Regulations.

- (4) No appeal shall lie against the award of the arbitration tribunal, which shall be final; it shall be binding on the parties. In case of dispute concerning the import or scope of the award, it shall be incumbent upon the arbitration tribunal to interpret it on request by either party.

Article 24

- (1) The arbitration tribunal referred to in Article 23 shall consist of three members, one arbitrator nominated by the State or States party to the arbitration, one arbitrator nominated by the Administrative Council and a third arbitrator, who shall be the chairman, nominated by the said two arbitrators.
- (2) The arbitrators shall be nominated from a panel comprising no more than six arbitrators appointed by each Contracting State and six arbitrators appointed by the Administrative Council. This panel shall be established as soon as possible after the Protocol enters into force and shall be revised each time this proves necessary.
- (3) If, within three months from the date of the notification referred to in Article 23, paragraph 2, either party fails to make the nomination referred to in paragraph 1 above, the choice of the arbitrator shall on request of the other party be made by the President of the International Court of Justice from the persons included in the said panel. This shall also apply, when so requested by either party, if within one month from the date of appointment of the second arbitrator, the first two arbitrators are unable to agree on the nomination of the third arbitrator. However, if in these two cases, the President of the International Court of Justice is prevented from making the choice, or if he is a national of one of the States parties to the dispute, the Vice-President of the International Court of Justice shall make the aforementioned appointments, provided that he himself is not a national of one of the States parties to the dispute; if such is the case, the member of the International Court of Justice who is not a national of one of the States parties to the dispute and who has been chosen by the President or Vice-President shall make the appointments. A national of the State applying for arbitration may not be chosen to fill the post of the arbitrator whose appointment devolves on the Administrative Council nor may a person included in the panel and appointed by the Administrative Council be chosen to fill the post of an arbitrator whose appointment devolves on the State which is the claimant. Nor may a person of either of these categories be chosen as chairman of the Tribunal.
- (4) The arbitration tribunal shall draw up its own rules of procedure.

Article 25

The Organisation may, on a decision of the Administrative Council, conclude with one or more Contracting States complementary agreements to give effect to the provisions of this Protocol as regards such State or States, and other arrangements to ensure the efficient functioning of the Organisation and the safeguarding of its interests.

Decision by the President of the European Patent Office concerning the interpretation of Article 10 (1) Seat Agreement between the EPO and the Netherlands

The President of the European Patent Office,

having regard to the Agreement between the Kingdom of the Netherlands and the European Patent Organisation concerning the Branch of the European Patent Office at The Hague of 27 June 2006 (the "Seat Agreement"), and in particular Article 10 thereof, whereas the European Patent Office introduced a new career system which entered into force as per 1 January 2015 (Article 54 CA/D 10/14), whereas every employee has been transposed to the new system with effect from 1 July 2015 (Article 56 (5) CA/D 10/14), whereas the Administrative Council mandated the President to take appropriate measures to ensure a smooth transition to the new system (Article 62 CA/D 10/14), whereas such measure is needed for the implementation of Article 10 of the Seat Agreement as from the entry into force of the new career system.

whereas Article 10 (1) (b) Seat Agreement bases the entitlement to diplomatic privileges and immunities on the entitlement to the lowest level of basic salary of a director, which principle remains unaltered in the context of the new career system, whereas it was agreed with the Netherlands Ministry of Foreign Affairs that no formal amendment of the Seat Agreement is necessary under these circumstances, has decided as follows:

Article 1

Article 10 (1) of the Seat Agreement shall be interpreted as follows:

"1. Employees of the Office exercising their functions in the Netherlands,

- a. in the job group 3 (G13/3) and above, or
- b. in the job group 4 and having at least a basic salary corresponding to the lowest possible basic salary of an employee in the job group 3 (G13/3), from the first of January following the year in which both requirements were fulfilled shall enjoy the same privileges and immunities as the Netherlands accords to diplomatic agents of the diplomatic missions established in the Netherlands in accordance with the Vienna Convention, except that immunity from criminal jurisdiction and personal inviolability shall not extend to acts performed outside the course of their official duties."

Article 2

The above interpretation shall enter into force as per 1 January 2015, this being the date of the entry into force of the new career system of the European Patent Office.

Article 3

Employees of the Office exercising their functions in the Netherlands to whom Article 10 (1) of the Seat Agreement applied on 1 January 2015 or before, shall keep the privileges and immunities based thereon, irrespective of the result of the transposition to the new career system.

Article 4

Employees of the Office exercising their functions in the Netherlands who do not fall under Article 3, who had a basic salary not lower than A5 step 1 on 1 January 2015 and who were assigned to grade A4 before or on 1 July 2013 shall be entitled as per 1 January 2016 to the privileges and immunities accorded by the Netherlands under Article 10 (1) of the Seat Agreement. Article 10 (3), (4), (5) and (6) of the Seat Agreement shall equally apply.

Financial Regulations and Implementing rules

Implementing rules and directives

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE IMPLEMENTATION OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF THE FINANCIAL REGULATIONS

The following provisions are to be implemented with effect from the beginning of the 2016 accounting period.

1. General

The authorising officer has sole responsibility for drawing up commitments correctly and on time, and for clearing and authorising expenditure (see Article 38 FinRegs in particular).

PD Finance must be consulted before commitments are entered into in which expenditure of more than EUR 15 000 is anticipated. Payment orders must be submitted to the accounting officer. The responsibility of the accounting officer does not extend to the actual process leading up to the payment order.

2. Receipts and refunds (Articles 40-41 FinRegs)

Articles 40, 40a, 40b and 41 on receipts and refunds are to be applied as follows:

2.1 Non-enforceable EPC and PCT procedural fees, renewal fees under Article 86 EPC and non-enforceable administrative fees

Non-payment of EPC or PCT fees has various legal consequences, but since the EPO has no enforceable claim to these fees they cannot be established as debts beforehand. Instead, formalities officers check from the dossier, EPC, PCT (plus their implementing provisions) and the RFees application that a fee payment has been made in full and in due time. Nor therefore is any receipt order issued subsequently.

2.2 Renewal fees under Article 39 EPC (EPO share)

Under present rules (Article 9 FinRegs), no due date for the debt can be established. Instead, on receipt of the payments and the related supporting documents the authorising officer must check that full and proper payment has been made, and confirm this to the accounting officer. Additional claims against individual contracting states must be sent to the accounting officer as receipt orders for recovery. In case of overpayment or payments which should not have been made at all, the authorising officer must issue a payment order establishing that a refund is due and the amount of that refund.

To claim interest for late payment of renewal fees (Article 39(4) EPC, Article 17(1) FinRegs), the accounting officer must issue an invoice to the concerned Member State.

2.3 Receipts from sales and other services (searches on behalf of states, sale of patent information, other publications and photocopies, enforceable administrative fees, other services and debts)

For such items, the authorising officer must issue an invoice. This is to be regarded as a receipt order under the FinRegs, so no additional formal order needs be issued. Invoices must be issued in due time, and the original sent to the debtor for payment, with a copy going to the accounting officer for recovery. If an authorising officer forgoes or cancels recovery, he issues a credit note for the debtor. A credit note must contain the same information as the invoice, give the reason for issue and indicate the invoice to which it relates. It must be sent to the accounting officer for action. Credit notes not issued under general EPO provisions, or because the debt has been wrongly calculated, the order cancelled before delivery, or the wrong goods delivered, must be submitted with reasons for the accounting officer's approval before they can be sent to the beneficiary (Article 40a FinRegs).

The accounting officer regularly informs authorising officers of the names of defaulting clients. Authorising officers may then supply such clients only against advance payment and after payment of all outstanding debts. The accounting officer decides when advance payment can be dispensed with. Debts he is unable to recover even after written reminders, and legal action where appropriate, must be written off, and a payment order issued against the current accounting period.

For deliveries to high-risk regions, payment procedures should be agreed beforehand with the accounting officer.

The invoice accounting system (accounts receivable) must be so structured that it is possible at all times to check that debts are correctly entered, and to ascertain which have been settled and which are still outstanding (with their due dates).

2.4 Financial income

For capital and interest repayments made by EPO staff on their home loans, the authorising officer supplies the accounting officer with a receipt order.

Income from EPO operating capital investments must be certified as at the due date by the accounting officer, to confirm that it has been calculated correctly. No formal receipt order is required. The same applies for capital sums redeemed.

Differences on exchange rates are booked as a positive or negative balance in the operating result for the accounting period.

2.5 Other income

For all other income (e. g. from sale of capital assets or other items, pension rights assigned by ex-IIB staff, etc.) authorising officers must wherever possible issue a formal receipt order beforehand and send it to the accounting officer for recovery.

If such income arises without a receipt order issued under Article 40 FinRegs, the amount in question must be credited as soon as possible to a general-ledger suspense account. The authorising officer responsible must be requested to initiate the debt-establishment procedure, and to issue the missing receipt order so that the item can be booked to a budget account. If an amount which should not have been recovered has been booked to a suspense account, it must be refunded straight away.

2.6 Refunds

Refund proposals must be supported by all appropriate information required for authorising and executing the refunds and for the subsequent auditing thereof.

This includes among others:

- Refund proposal issued by the Formalities Officer within the Refund Accountancy System, indicating the refund reason and applicable refund regulation;
- Evidence for double or overpayments of invoices or European Qualifying Examination fees in Office's financial system;
- Communications sent to the candidate by the European Qualifying Examination Administration or by the candidate as evidence for the entitlement of the refund (e.g. rejection, withdrawal, settlement of complaints);
- Decisions of the Disciplinary Board of Appeals sent to the appellant leading to a refund of appeal fees.

3. Commitment of expenditure (Articles 42-44 FinRegs)

Under FIPS, commitments of expenditure as referred to in Article 42 FinRegs take the form of funds reservations. Funds reservations may, if required, cover a number of years or a number of budget items.

In addition to the information listed in Article 43 FinRegs, funds reservations must be supported by all other appropriate information required for authorising and implementing them and for the subsequent auditing thereof. This includes, for example, bids from potential suppliers and evaluations thereof, references to contract numbers in the relevant application, including the term of the contract, and calculations leading to the estimated amount of the funds reservation. The text field or attachments must also give details (depending on the type of funds reservation involved) of the payee, any separate internal authorisation procedure, and, where applicable, approval by the Administrative Council or its ancillary bodies.

4. Clearance and authorisation of expenditure (Articles 45-51 FinRegs)

4.1 By signing supporting documents with an electronic signature or by hand, authorising officers certify that:

- the Financial Regulations, Implementing Rules and Tender Guidelines have been complied with;
- an item has been duly received or a service duly rendered;
- if an item must be entered in the asset register or inventory, this has been done;
- all information given in the supporting document has been verified and is correct;
- the supporting document has not previously been the subject of a payment order.

4.2 For items in general, a valid supporting document is the invoice drawn up by the supplier, accompanied by one of the copies of the documents giving rise to the obligation on the part of the Organisation (e.g. purchase order, contract, etc.), if any.

In all cases, the document drawn up by the supplier must indicate:

- the nature and quantity of the items supplied or details of the services rendered, as applicable;
- the unit price and total price;
- the amount of the taxes and customs duties included in the price of the item, or any exemption from taxes.

4.3 For services, a valid supporting document is the invoice (or memorandum) drawn up by the renderer.

The document concerned must mention the nature of the service rendered, any unit price, the total price and the amount of the taxes included in the price, or any exemption from taxes.

4.4 For staff expenditure, supporting documents are:

(a) in the case of monthly salaries (including retirement pensions):

- complete lists of staff, showing all the elements of remuneration and the results of the calculations made, presented in such a way as to permit registration in the general accounts and in the accounts of costs as provided for in the Accounts Plan. The lists must be attached to the relevant payment order.
- a statement showing, for each payee, any change in relation to the previous month in any element of remuneration, supported - depending on the nature of the change - by copies of the decisions taken or of the documents establishing the new entitlement.
- in the case of recruitment or appointment, clearance of the first salary must be supported by a certified true copy of the recruitment or appointment decision as well as any documents used to establish the first salary, including allowances.

- in the case of establishment of retirement pensions, all documents establishing the pension rights.
 - (b) in the case of other remuneration (any temporary staff paid by the hour or day):
 - a statement drawn up by the authorising officer indicating the days and hours worked, substantiated by any necessary supporting documents.
 - (c) in the case of overtime:
 - a statement, signed by the authorising officer, certifying the overtime worked by each employee concerned.
 - (d) in the case of duty travel expenses:
 - a duly completed travel order signed by the competent authority;
 - a "statement of duty travel expenses" showing in particular the place of assignment, the dates and times of departure and arrival, transport expenses, subsistence expenses and other duly authorised expenses, supported by vouchers. This statement must be certified correct and signed by the duty travel section.
 - (e) in the case of other staff expenditure:
 - supporting documents indicating the decision on which the expenditure is based and giving full details of the calculations made.
- 4.5 Where several payments are supported by a single document, all the payment orders must include a reference to that document.

5.1 Payment of expenditure (Article 53 FinRegs)

- 5.1 In order to detect whether an erroneous payment order has been made, the accounting officer is not required to check in substance the actual process leading up to the payment order. Unless required for his duties under Article 66 (1) FinRegs and Article 69 (1) FinRegs, the accounting officer confines himself to verifying that the budgetary heading indicated on the payment order is correct, that commitment appropriations are available, that the amount entered on the payment order is identical with the total amount in the supporting document recognised as valid under the regulations in force and that the payee indicated on the payment order is indeed the creditor specified in the supporting document.
- 5.2 The accounting officer may, on his own responsibility and to the extent appropriate, base his verifications on the Office's internal control system and risk-oriented control techniques. For the verification of payment orders related to health care expenditure, the accounting officer may, on his own responsibility, rely on the control work performed by external experts. To avoid delays in payments, the accounting officer is authorised to perform ex-post controls if the respective payment orders concerns recurring employee benefit expenses like salaries, pensions, allowances, tax adjustments and long-term care payments.

- 5.3 The delimitation of the liabilities of the authorising officer and accounting officer must be recorded by the authorising officer's electronic release of the payment order and the associated certification as set out in paragraph 4.1 of this directive. Any fault or error subsequently found in the above transactions and formalities is the sole responsibility of the authorising officer and cannot therefore involve the accounting officer's personal liability to disciplinary action or to payment of compensation.

6. Asset Register and Inventories of movable and immovable property (Article 61 FinRegs)

- 6.1 A detailed inventory showing the quantity and value of movable and immovable property must be kept by the relevant department of the General Administration Directorate. The property must be classified by department of allocation, and the inventory presented so that it is easy to check that the data therein tally with those in the corresponding assets accounts kept by the accounting officer. The accounting officer must initiate a check of this kind at least once a year upon closure of the accounts for the accounting period.
- 6.2¹ The authorising officer must check on a regular basis that the data in the detailed inventory accurately reflect the facts. Verification by means of inventory count must be conducted at least:
- (a) once a year for all EDP assets
 - (b) every three years for non-EDP assets.

The resulting report must be attached to the copy of the detailed inventory made available to the auditors by the accounting officer pursuant to Article 76 FinRegs. For immovable property the authorising officer must perform a plausibility check, however no physical inventory count is required.

President

DIRECTIVE ON IMPLEMENTATION OF THE 2023 EPO BUDGET (CA/D 1/22)

1. General provisions

The Administrative Council has adopted the budget for the 2023 accounting period in accordance with Article 46(2) EPC and Article 29 FinRegs. The expenditure appropriations and table of posts included therein are thus binding for budget-management purposes. The administration of budget funds by Authorising Officers/Budget Holders must be conducted in accordance with the principles of economy and sound financial management (Article 2 FinRegs), and expenditure confined to the absolutely essential. I reserve the right to order spending restrictions in response to developments on the income side.

Income, expenditure and posts under the budget must be handled in strict compliance with the Financial Regulations (Article 32 ff) and relevant implementing texts, in particular the Tender Guidelines, the associated administrative instructions, and the Directive on Contracts. The up-to-date versions of all texts currently in force can be consulted online in the Codex (Part III, Group 1) and via the link on the PD Finance intranet site. All those appointed as Authorising Officers/Budget Holders with my approval have the duty to familiarise themselves with these documents and, where doubts as to their interpretation arise, to consult PD Finance.

2. Responsibilities of Principal Authorising Officers

The Principal Authorising Officers are invited, under the stipulations of Article 38 FinRegs, to ensure that processes and controls which are required in order for them to conduct a proper supervision of the actual exercise of the powers sub-delegated by them to Authorising Officers/Budget Holders by sub-delegation and to Travel budget holders, have been put in place and are operating effectively.

Principal Authorising Officers may be requested by either PD Finance, PD Procurement and Vendor Management ("Procurement") or Legal Services to formally validate any action with financial impact of an Authorising Officer/Budget Holder by sub-delegation they have appointed. The issuance of such a request for formal validation may, for example, occur in those cases in which the choice of the award procedure, the choice of supplier, and/or the financial contractual terms deviate substantially from usual practice.

In addition, the Principal Authorising Officer shall review, upon request by PD Finance, Procurement or Legal Services, those cases in which the facts gathered during the exercise of financial and compliance control might indicate a possible breach of EPO provisions which may have caused in the past, or may cause in the future, financial damage to the Office.

The Principal Authorising Officers shall ensure that PD Finance is kept informed of all valid sub delegations and deputations granted to Authorising Officers/Budget Holders, Delegated Acceptance Officers and travel budget holders, as well as of the withdrawal of these designations.

3. Segregation of functions: Budget Holder vs. Procurement Officer

For procurement activities, the role of Authorising Officer is divided into the roles of – decentralised – Budget Holder and – centralised – Procurement Officer for the large majority of line items in the budget. The distinct responsibilities and duties of these two roles are reflected in the texts of the financial directives, circulars and instructions mentioned above. Authorising Officers who administer budgetary items not yet falling under centralised procurement may nevertheless make use of the facilities of Procurement as regards the sourcing for competitive award procedures and may request assistance in performing tasks that would normally be performed by a procurement officer within Procurement, to the extent requested by the Authorising Officer.

In line with best practice standards of internal control, the auditors place great emphasis on segregating the functions of awarding contracts and of confirming the proper receipt of goods and services. While this is per definition achieved for the accounts falling under Procurement, those departments still working with an all-comprehensive Authorising Officer role have to set up internal instructions to guarantee this segregation. Such instructions should be made accessible to the auditors upon request.

4. Envelope management

In line with Annex 10 of the 2023 budget, some expenditure articles have been combined to form envelopes which Principal Authorising Officers/Budget Holders can manage in a decentralised way under their own responsibility. Under the present directive, I give these Principal Authorising Officers the power to transfer, independently, funds between articles or chapters, provided these transfers improve efficiency and cost-effectiveness in their areas of responsibility. Technical execution of the transfers may be entrusted to Budget Contact Persons (BCPs) nominated for each directorate-general. At the discretion of the Principal Authorising Officers, BCPs may be assigned further tasks such as budget coordination and control functions.

PD Finance has the responsibility to ensure that envelope-related transfers do not violate relevant provisions of the Financial Regulations and in particular those in Article 34 FinRegs, nor any other applicable instructions.

5. IFRS compliance

Under Article 1(3) FinRegs, the Office has to comply with IFRS (International Financial Reporting Standards). PD Finance's instructions about this are available on the intranet portal of the accounting system ("FIPS portal") and must be followed. In particular, Authorising Officers/Budget Holders and Procurement Officers must comply with the rules governing the accounts to which expenditure or income is charged and PD Finance's respective information requirements. Authorising Officers/ Budget Holders and Procurement Officers are also reminded that the debts and receivables they establish as payment and receipt orders (Article 22(2) FinRegs) must be allocated to the right accounting period. Reference is made to Article 67(5) FinRegs as regards the obligation of Authorising Officers/Budget Holders and Procurement Officers to follow instructions by the Accounting Officer.

6. Award of contracts

The award of contracts under Articles 55 – 60 FinRegs is governed by the Tender Guidelines (plus Annexes) and the related implementing rules and directives (Codex Part III, Group 1). The decision concerning which procedure to use is a critical and strategic one affecting the whole procurement process. This decision should be made and justified at the planning stage and reflected in the Procurement Plan. In this respect attention is drawn to the following general principles:

- Contracts shall be awarded following an invitation to tender with published notice in order to promote fair competition among market participants and thus maximising value for money.
- Where the respective conditions set out in the relevant rules are fulfilled, contracts may be placed following other procedures.
- All procurement procedures not foreseen in the Procurement Plan will be reported to the President by Procurement.
- The concept of the "single indivisible unit" which prohibits the splitting of contracts shall be observed. In the event of difficulty in interpreting the concept of the "single indivisible unit", the Budget Implementation and Compliance unit within PD Finance must be consulted before any action is taken.

For awards above EUR 15 000, the proposed accounting provisions and the resulting availability of funds have to be verified by PD Finance before the initiation of any award procedure. The choice of award procedure is then decided, in general by Procurement, based on the input from the Budget Holder; for purchases against the few remaining non-centralised accounts the decision is with the Authorising Officer.

According to Rule 9 of the Tender Guidelines, a report on the award procedure and all substantive decisions must be drawn up. This final report forms the basis for the Budget Holder approval and for the mandatory compliance check by the Budget Implementation and Compliance unit within PD Finance and it subsequently serves as an audit trail for future reviews by PD Internal Audit and Professional Standards and/or the external Board of Auditors.

In case of serious uncertainty concerning the financial situation of a potential supplier, the Authorising Officer/Budget Holder and/or the Procurement Officer should request – before the signature of a contract – a credit check by a credit research company via Procurement. Furthermore, the supplier's bank details required for the payment of their invoices shall be collected in due time before the first purchase requests takes place.

Whether an award of contract requires the prior approval of the Budget and Finance Committee or the Administrative Council under Article 58 FinRegs in addition to the internal checks, is determined by its value over the entire term bindingly agreed or, for open-value contracts, by its value foreseeable with certainty over the bindingly agreed term.

At the Council's request, the external Board of Auditors will monitor EPO contract-award authorisation procedures and outcomes on a periodic basis and document any flaws or errors. Internally, I have given a similar brief to PD Internal Audit and Professional Standards.

7. Involvement of PD Procurement and Vendor Management

Where documents intended for the President, for our governing bodies or for management bodies such as the MAC contain proposals for award of contract, they should either be submitted by Procurement, or first be submitted to Procurement in due time for their review and counter-signature.

Procurement must be involved at the earliest stage for planned procurements. The Principal Authorising Officers shall proactively provide input to the Procurement Plan (Point 7.4 of the Directive supplementing certain provisions of the Tender Guidelines), such that Procurement can maintain a reliable planning tool using a 10 months rolling forecast. This will help to schedule resources, give advice and involve the expert units, if required, in a timely manner on all procurement requests. Exceptions to the above planning window will be reported and validated regularly by the President.

All requests for support, advice or action to Procurement by Principal Authorising Officers or their deputies should be submitted via the electronic tool provided.

8. Involvement of PD Finance

With due respect to the responsibilities of Authorising Officers, Budget Holders and Procurement Officers and to the specific regulations covering the award of contracts, office-wide control of and advice on operations with financial implications is exercised by PD Finance, which also determines the type and extent of that control.

Any documents intended for the President, for our governing bodies or for management bodies such as the MAC containing proposals with material financial consequences should first be submitted to PD Finance in due time for counter-signature and, where appropriate, for opinion.

EPO departments are required to submit to PD Finance all documents which the latter deems necessary to scrutinise in order to fulfil its mission, unless there are justified reasons for not doing so. Such reasons should be documented in writing and agreed with PD Finance. In case of disagreement between the responsible VP and PD Finance, the matter will be submitted to the President for review.

The Finance Partners act as the key link between PD Finance and other units of the Office. Each DG has an assigned Finance Partner who is the key point of contact and advisor for all financial matters within the respective DG.

9. Exception and continuous improvement registers

With the aim of fostering continuous improvement, enhancing transparency and strengthening procurement and financial processes, all deviations from the standard procedures as set out in our regulations which have been appropriately authorised in advance by the President or by an authorising officer by delegation or sub-delegation acting within their powers should be reported using the exception register. PD Finance will conduct retrospective controls to identify deviations which had not been reported through the exception register. These deviations will be filed in a dedicated register used for the aim of continuous improvement.

10. Administration of funds

General principles

As a matter of principle, no action which may give rise to a spending commitment by the Organisation may be taken until the necessary funds reservation has been scrutinised and approved by all relevant EPO departments. Binding legal obligations extending into future years beyond the current accounting period require funds reservations in each of these years. In the event of failure to comply with the Financial Regulations and their implementing rules, e.g. the extreme cases criticised by the auditors where funds are not reserved until after financial obligations have been entered into, purchase orders sent out or – worse still – the invoices have been received, the Authorising Officer/Budget Holder responsible may face investigations on possible misconduct ("Implementing rules for Articles 21, 21a and 93 Paragraph 2, of the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the European Patent Office") and subsequent disciplinary action as well as the possibility of having to pay compensation.

Under Article 22 ServRegs, all employees may be liable to make financial reparation, for example if they exceed their remit and place procurement orders without their Authorising Officer's/Budget Holder's knowledge.

Authorising Officers/Budget Holders must ensure that the budget appropriations they administer cover all expenditure incurred under the relevant articles during the accounting period. For the decentralised multi-article envelopes, budget compliance is assured by the Principal Authorising Officers/Principal Budget Holders or the Budget Contact Persons (BCP) they have nominated. Where, exceptionally, Authorising Officers/Budget Holders or BCPs estimate in the course of budget execution that their budget funds are insufficient, they must submit a timely and reasoned request for additional funds to the Budget Implementation and Compliance unit within PD Finance, which then takes the necessary action.

Authorising Officers/Budget Holders must also make use of any contractually agreed early-payment, bulk or other discounts. Here again, a liability to make financial reparation may arise in case of severe negligence.

Forecasting

To optimise the use of resources and permit effective budget management, as well as to allow for meaningful expense forecasts, PD Finance must at all times have up-to-date and reliable information on departmental spending plans up to the end of the year. It therefore has the power to require Authorising Officers/Budget Holders, Programme Managers and BCPs to submit, on a regular or ad-hoc basis, their total annual expenditure estimates, broken down by account, funds centre and cost centre.

For this purpose, a forecasting exercise will be run four times a year.

Open funds reservations

To ensure that the accounting system always shows only actual or firmly planned legal obligations, Authorising Officers/Budget Holders must regularly check their open funds reservations to see if they need to close them or to adjust their amounts.

Advance payments and direct debiting

According to Article 49(4) FinRegs, exceptionally, advance payments and direct debiting may be made, if the circumstances so require. Such exceptional circumstances are present, when these means of payment are without alternative, or when they are a such part of a general business practice in the relevant sector that goods, services or work needed cannot reasonably be obtained without them (e.g. such means of payment are needed to secure a reservation or an order; direct debiting is required for utilities; advance payments are demanded in order to obtain insurance, subscriptions or licences).

The corresponding expenditure shall be committed in advance by the Authorising Officer in the budget period or periods in which goods will be delivered or service rendered. If the advance payment relates to two accounting periods, the Accounting Officer may decide on the proportional allocation to the relevant accounting period(s) to avoid unnecessary administrative burden.

11. Strategic Plan 2023

For the Strategic Plan 2023 (SP2023), the budget use is tracked and reported to the Board at both programme and project level, including an insight into the nature of the expenses incurred (Project Management Methodology). As a mandatory requirement, external expenditure is subject to monitoring of actuals versus budget.

No separate Funds Centres are used for SP2023 in order not to interfere with the authorisation procedure of commitments. Instead, the decision was taken to use the Work Breakdown Structure (WBS) in SAP Project System (PS) for the tracking of SP2023 expenditure, to be able to allocate expenditure to each project appropriately.

Programme Managers as well as Project Managers do not necessarily have a delegation of power for these funds. Therefore, in such cases, an alignment of the Programme/Project Managers with the PAO/SIG1/SIG2/SIG3 is required prior to the issuance of purchase requests and approval of invoices. BCPs are entrusted with a coordination role in this respect in order to ensure alignment between Project Managers and Budget Holders.

Project Managers are responsible for the planned costs and actuals of their project. They can either steer the process directly in cases where they already have the relevant delegation of powers or go via the already designated Authorising Officers.

A financial dashboard is available to all Project and Programme Managers, providing details of the external expenditure per project and showing approved budgets versus actuals and commitments. The data is loaded from SAP and is refreshed daily. Project managers are requested to monitor the expenditure for their project on a regular basis using the dashboard (only accessible to Programme/Project Managers):

<https://bi4you.internal.epo.org/#/views/SP2023/HOME>

As additional guidance, please refer to the six steps for project execution presented in the on boarding sessions for Programme and Project Managers:

Step	Content
1	New Single Point of Entry (SPE) requests are entered to start a new procurement procedure
2	Services Received/Good Received is posted
3	Invoices are approved
4	Re-allocations are performed
5	Any change in Estimate at Completion is addressed
6	For CAPEX: periodical review capitalisation

For cases where the SPE request is linked to programmes only or has not been correctly attributed to SP2023, the costs must be (re-)allocated to the correct project WBS ex-post, i.e. immediately after the relevant goods receipt (GR) or invoice posting has been carried out. However, re-allocations are labour-intensive and inefficient and should therefore be kept to a minimum.

To allow for a more efficient re-allocation process, it is also recommended to issue individual SPE requests specifically for SP2023 expenditure, instead of bundling SP2023 expenditure with other types of expenditure in the same SPE request.

The Programme/Project Managers (or relevant Delivery Acceptance Officer, DAOs – if different from the Programme/Project Managers) therefore need to provide the new Goods or Services Receipt/invoice posting simultaneously with the request for re-allocation.

In BIT, the delivery acceptance process, which has already been implemented, will continue to be used. In other areas, the BCP will need to receive the information.

The Business Change Manager is responsible for the preparation of the Benefits Realisation Plan, which sets out the benefits to be delivered by the programme/projects vis-à-vis the associated costs and effort (cf. SP2023 Project Management Methodology available on the intranet under Home → Organisation → DG 0 → PD Corporate Governance Service → Project Management Office (PMO) → public library). Whenever applicable this approach can be applied to other projects beyond the scope of SP2023.

12. Processing of invoices (incoming/outgoing)

Incoming invoices

The EPO standard contractual terms and conditions require all suppliers to send invoices directly to our mailrooms or to use the common e-mail address (accounts-payable@epo.org). If, exceptionally, a paper invoice is directly sent to you, please forward it to your nearest logistic centre. Any misdirected invoice received via e-mail should be forwarded immediately to the above-mentioned common e-mail address and the supplier should be requested to use the common e-mail address in future.

The EPO's governance and accounting principles require a timely delivery confirmation and invoice verification. The service and/or goods delivery is to be confirmed by the competent Authorising Officer or a Delegated Acceptance Officer in the accounting system. Please note that only the date of the service and/or goods delivery is relevant for the determination of the posting date and the budget consumption but not the invoicing or payment date.

Depending on the selected procurement procedure this confirmation is different for

- Orders with a Standard Purchase Order: Confirmation shall be recorded by a Goods Receipt posting done via the accounting system. It is required to attach evidence of delivery e.g. a delivery note. If the evidence of delivery is not available, in the form of a delivery note or time sheet (e.g. public utilities, telephone, etc.), then an adequate and auditable calculation of the estimated value must be attached.
- Orders without a Standard Purchase Order: Confirmation shall be recorded by confirming the respective invoice. No Goods Receipt posting is necessary for such cases.

In both cases, the Budget Holder has to confirm that goods have been delivered and/or services rendered, in compliance with the terms of the contract (or PO), in particular checking prices, quantities and the delivery date of the goods/services.

Authorising Officers, i.e. in the sense of chapter 3 of this Directive, must process the booking of goods receipt with the posting date of the month in which the services have been rendered or the goods have been received, and the invoices without delay.

By electronically clearing an incoming invoice in the accounting system for payment, they bindingly certify their personal responsibility and personal liability.

Outgoing invoices

Authorising Officers for income accounts must process outgoing invoices or receipt orders without delay. By electronically posting an outgoing invoice in the accounting system or providing the information for issuing an invoice via the Sales & Distribution Module, they bindingly certify, under their personal responsibility, inter alia that:

- the Financial Regulations and the implementing texts have been observed;
- an item or service has been duly delivered or rendered by the EPO;
- all supporting documents have been verified for correctness and compliance with the terms of the contract, either commercial contracts or in form of agreements approved by the Administrative Council, and provide all necessary information in accordance with EU mandatory requirements for invoice processing (see also FIPS portal);
- the electronic posting of the outgoing invoice has been allocated to the correct accounting period, i.e. the period in which the goods or services were duly delivered or rendered by the EPO.

The authenticity of an Authorising Officer's/Budget Holder's electronic signature is guaranteed by a password known only to him. Therefore, no-one else may be told this password or allowed to use it.

13. Asset management

If the Office is acquiring or using tangible and intangible assets such as buildings, IT hardware/software, machinery or vehicles, and has a choice between purchase, rental, leasing or a similar arrangement, before any contract is signed the Authorising Officer/Budget Holder must present a business case showing which of the various options is most economical for the Office. The procedure for leasing agreements is detailed in a directive available on the FIPS portal.

Authorising Officers/Budget Holders must take the necessary steps to ensure that the physical availability of capital goods is verifiable at all times. The Codex provisions on keeping an asset register and on listing, in an inventory, items of property regardless of their value where sound financial management so requires (Article 61 FinRegs) must be strictly complied with.

14. Posts management

To ensure that the table of posts in the budget is strictly adhered to, any post may only be occupied by one person.

Improvements of organisational structure are the basis for any staffing action. Once approved by the President, business units with the support of HR Business Partners will start the execution of the staffing in further coordination with directorate 4.2.4 New Work Insights and Planning before assignment of posts. After the final VP approval, PD People will implement the decision.

Any post falling free outside of the Board of Appeals staff complement are to be assigned functionally to the central reserve of the President without delay. In the case of examiner posts falling vacant, the examiner budget number where the post had formally been assigned shall be left unchanged, so that the post can be identified as an examiner post and reused as such should the need arise.

All Authorising Officers, Budget Holders and Procurement Officers are instructed to apply the above procedures and to bring this directive to the attention of their staff handling financial matters.

Directive on contracts

DIRECTIVE ON CONTRACTS

(Rule 3.2 Tender Guidelines - Point 6.5.2)

Directive supplementing certain provisions of the Tender Guidelines)

Foreword

This Directive is being issued with a view to:

- ensuring legal certainty, efficient control and the uniformity of contracts concluded by the Office by:
 - providing legal advice on contracts falling within specified categories and the policies underlying such contracts through the compulsory early involvement of Legal Services (PD 5.2);
 - providing for Office-wide standardisation in contract conclusion through standard contract terms and other standard documents;
- providing rules for the signature and safekeeping of contracts.

Definitions

For the purposes of this Directive:

- (1) The term "contract" covers any documents by which contractual obligations are entered into, including letters of intent. It equally covers the contract documents contained in invitations to tender.
- (2) "Basic contract(ual) terms" means the various standard conditions of contract which lay down the Office's minimum mandatory legal requirements
 - for safeguarding the status of the EPO as an international organisation, such as immunity from jurisdiction and execution, settlement of disputes and arbitration, and
 - for contractual performance with a view to protecting the interests of the EPO, such as warranties, property rights, claims for damages, right to terminate and any form of security for the due fulfilment of the contractual obligations.
- (3) "Basic financial terms" are: the type of price and the terms of payment (e.g. payment upon acceptance, progress payment against bank guarantee) as provided in the standard contract terms of the Office.
- (4) "Information technology ("IT") system" means any combination of different computer equipment and/or software components that are organised so that they work together and interact for a common purpose.
- (5) "Budget holder by sub-delegation" means the authorising officers by sub-delegation in accordance with Article 1(4)(f) FinRegs.

- (6) "Procurement officer by sub-delegation" means the authorising officers by sub-delegation in accordance with Article 1(4)(g) FinRegs.
- (7) "Principal budget holder" means the principal authorising officers in accordance with Article 1(4)(f) FinRegs.
- (8) "Chief Procurement Officer" means the principal authorising officer in accordance with Article 1(4)(g) FinRegs.

1. Vetting of contracts

1.1 Critical contracts

Contracts in the following areas are subject to the compulsory involvement of Legal Services owing to their subject-matter and irrespective of their value:

- (a) contracts for the sale, acquisition and long-term lease of immovable property;
- (b) contracts for architectural or engineering services with architects, engineers or similar advisers as well as contracts with general contractors or general coordinating contractors relating to the construction of new buildings, or the reconstruction, extension, rebuilding or modernisation of existing buildings;
- (c) contracts for IT systems and software specifically developed or adapted for use in the EPO;
- (d) contracts concerning patent documents not yet published;
- (e) contracts to be concluded with other intergovernmental organisations, the European Community institutions and bodies, public authorities and institutions or national patent offices, unless otherwise provided in ad hoc arrangements between Legal Services and Central Procurement. Such ad hoc arrangements in principle will consist of the provision by Legal Services of standard contracts to Central Procurement.

1.2 Other contracts with a value up to EUR 100 000

For contracts not covered by point 1.1, which have a value up to EUR 100 000, the involvement of Legal Services is discretionary. However, the use of standard contract terms issued by Legal Services is strongly recommended to ensure protection of the EPO's interests and the streamlining of in-house contract approval procedures.

1.3 Other contracts with a value in excess of EUR 100 000

- 1.3.1 Contracts not covered by point 1.1 with a value in excess of EUR 100 000 are subject to compulsory involvement of Legal Services unless they are concluded on the basis of standard contract terms issued by Legal Services. In the latter case, no involvement of Legal Services is needed provided the provisos under points 1.3.2 and 1.3.3 below are complied with.

- 1.3.2 Legal Services will make standard contract terms specific to a recurring given type of contract available to Central Procurement.

The procurement officer is responsible for confirming that the standard contract terms of the Office were used and that they satisfy the requirements for the specific performance which is the subject of the contract.

- 1.3.3 The procurement officer must ensure that in the case of modifications or negotiations relating to standard contractual terms of the Office the interests of the EPO are sufficiently guaranteed. Under no circumstances may modifications concern basic financial or contractual terms.

- 1.3.4 Information on the standard contract chosen and any modifications thereto (points 1.3.2 and 1.3.3 above) must be placed on record so as to support the ex-ante approval procedure and the ex-post review and audit.

1.4 Amending contracts

Modifications of the contracts (amending contracts) which were subject to the involvement of Legal Services must be referred to Legal Services unless the budget holder and the procurement officer confirm that they relate to:

- (a) the practical arrangements for the performance of an existing contract (e.g. minor changes to due dates; changes in the frequency or other mode or manner of reporting; changes of delivery or contact addresses; changes in the deliverables limited to technical upgrades or within the original general specifications);
- (b) the exercise of rights or options which were fully provided for in an existing contract (e.g. extension of the duration and/or volume of the contract);
- (c) an increase in the agreed performance (e.g. extension of the duration and/or volume of the contract not provided in the existing contract) which does not arise from legal difficulties and involves no further change, especially no change concerning the basic financial or contractual terms.

1.5 Use of contractor's own terms of business (contracts with a value in excess of EUR 100 000)

In exceptional cases, such as where the goods, services or work are only provided by a specific contractor or a few specific contractors on the basis of his/their own terms of business, use of the contractor's own terms of business may be allowed for a single specific contract or a specific type of contract (Directive supplementing certain provisions of the Tender Guidelines, point 3(g)). Any such requests, together with the relevant documents and a reasoned position paper, must be prepared by the budget holder and submitted via the principal budget holder to the Chief Procurement Officer, Legal Services and PD Finance for approval.

2. Involvement of Legal Services when issues linked to the international status of the EPO arise

When issues arise during the preparation or negotiation of contracts which affect the status of the EPO as an international organisation, such as conformity with the EPO's statutory rules and its privileges and immunities (e.g. exemption from taxes, duties or charges, arbitration, settlement of disputes) or where issues relating to the EPO's official activities arise, Legal Services must be involved irrespective of the kind of contract concerned and its value.

3. Vetting of CA documents

CA documents concerning the contracts under point 1.1 above are subject to the compulsory involvement of Legal Services.

4. Legal support for contracts for the Board of Auditors of the EPO ("the Board") and for the Reserve Funds for Pensions and Social Security of the EPO ("the Funds")

If requested by the Board or the Funds, legal support will be given by Legal Services for the preparation of contracts to be concluded on behalf of the Board (Article 75 FinRegs) and contracts for the Funds (Article 10(1) RFPSS Regs), except for investment activity within the meaning of the investment guidelines (Article 13(2) RFPSS Regs).

5. Legal Services' advice

Authorising officers or PD Finance may seek the advice of Legal Services on legal issues if the circumstances so require.

6. Time and mode of involvement of Legal Services

Legal Services must be involved early enough, taking all deadlines (procedural, operational and legal) into consideration, to ensure that it can provide useful legal advice on the content of the contracts and modifications thereto (amending contracts and settlements) and CA documents from the very outset (e.g. project preparation, invitation to tender, negotiations on the contractual terms arising from bidders' reservations or the assessment of bids by the Office). A comprehensive dossier must be made available in one of the official languages of the Office as soon as possible.

7. Standardisation

To ensure that standard contract terms issued by Legal Services are used and adapted to the Office's needs, the Chief Procurement Officer ensures that Legal Services is provided with feedback on the use of the standard contract terms and on the need for new standard contract terms.

8. Signing of contracts

8.1 Signing of contracts and amending contracts

- 8.1.1 Contracts with a value up to EUR 100 000 are validated by the budget holder by sub-delegation, unless these contracts fall under point 1.1(a) to (d) above, and are signed by the procurement officer by sub-delegation (cf. List of delegation of powers of signature on the Office's intranet, homepage of PD Finance).
- 8.1.2 Contracts with a value in excess of EUR 100 000 up to EUR 250 000, are validated by the principal deputy of the principal budget holder, unless these contracts fall under point 1.1(a) to (d) above, and are signed by the procurement officer by sub-delegation (cf. List of delegation of powers of signature on the Office's intranet, homepage of PD Finance).
- 8.1.3 Contracts with a value in excess of EUR 250 000 and contracts which fall under point 1.1(a) to (d) above with a value up to EUR 1 000 000 are validated by the principal budget holder. Except where points 8.1.1 and 8.1.2 apply, these contracts are signed by the Chief Procurement Officer.
- 8.1.4 Contracts under point 1.1(a) to (d) above EUR 1 000 000 are signed by the President after being validated by the principal budget holder unless the President decides to delegate the signature to the Chief Procurement Officer, either ad-hoc or for a particular category of contracts.
- 8.1.5 Contracts between the EPO and other intergovernmental organisations, the European Community institutions and bodies, public authorities and institutions or national patent offices (see point 1.1(e) above) are validated by the principal authorising officer and signed by the President unless the President decides otherwise, either ad-hoc or for a particular category of contracts.
- 8.1.6 Contracts falling under the Fund Administrator's authorising powers pursuant to the Regulations for the Funds are signed by the Fund Administrator.
- 8.1.7 Amending contracts are validated and signed:
 - (a) in accordance with point 8.1.1 in cases of the kind described in point 1.4(a) to (c) above;
 - (b) in accordance with points 8.1.1 and 8.1.2 above, where the total value of the amending contract does not exceed EUR 100 000, respectively EUR 250 000;
 - (c) by the President after being validated by the principal budget holder, where the total value of the amending contract exceeds EUR 1 000 000 and the contract falls within the ambit of point 1.1(a) to (d), unless a delegation to the Chief Procurement Officer as per point 8.1.4 has taken place, or where the existing contract was signed by the President and the modifications are not of the kind described in point 1.4(a) to (c) above;

- (d) by the Chief Procurement Officer after being validated by the principal budget holder in all other cases.

8.2 Deputisation for the signing authority

- 8.2.1 The signing authority according to this Directive can be deputised for by an authorising officer in the event of absence or impediment, where no delay in the signature of the contract is justifiable. Only budget holders can deputise for other budget holders, and only procurement officers can deputise for other procurement officers.
- 8.2.2 Unless otherwise decided by the President:
 - in the event of absence or impediment, the competent principal authorising officer is substituted by another principal authorising officer or by one of his principal deputies specifically designated for such purpose by means of a written instrument;
 - in the event of absence or impediment, the President is substituted by a principal authorising officer.
- 8.2.3 In no circumstances shall deputisation or delegation lead to a situation where one and the same person validates and signs in cases where the validation and signature of two different authorising officers is provided for under this Directive.

8.3 Routing of contracts for signature

- 8.3.1 The procurement officer is responsible for obtaining the signatures in-house and from the other party. As a general rule, in-house signatures should be obtained first.
- 8.3.2 The originals of the contracts must be submitted to the signing authority in-house, together with the report on the award procedure under Rule 8 Tend. Guid. and any approvals due.
- 8.3.3 For the signature of contracts by the President, the originals of the contracts must be submitted to the President via PD Finance, Legal Services, VP 5 and the competent principal authorising officers (principal budget holder and Chief Procurement Officer).

9. Safekeeping of contracts

- 9.1 After signature by all parties, the originals of the contracts signed by the President and those signed on behalf of the Board, including all annexes, must be returned to Legal Services without delay for safekeeping.
- 9.2 The Fund Administrator is responsible for the safekeeping of the originals of all contracts, including all annexes, specified in point 8.1.6 above.
- 9.3 Central Procurement is responsible for the safekeeping of all other original contracts, including all annexes.

9.4 A copy of all the contracts which were subject to the involvement of Legal Services must be forwarded by Central Procurement to Legal Services without delay after signature by all parties.

9.5 The minimum period of safekeeping of signed contracts is twelve years starting from the date of expiry, termination or completed performance of the respective contract.

10. Implementation of contracts

10.1 Contracts are implemented under the respective responsibility and accountability of the competent authorising officers (budget holder and procurement officer) according to the provisions of the Financial Regulations.

10.2 Legal Services must be consulted immediately if legal difficulties arise:

- (a) Requests for legal support must be accompanied by a comprehensive dossier in one of the Office's official languages, with a short summary giving a complete overview of the difficulties involved, any steps taken as well as any further information necessary to allow an assessment to be made, together with a copy of all documents cited.
- (b) Legal Services must be provided with the above as soon as possible to allow for timely assessment, clarification and discussion internally/externally and any legal steps necessary well before expiry of operational/managerial and contractually agreed deadlines, as well as those laid down by law.

11. Calculation of amounts under this Directive

11.1 For the purpose of this Directive, the total contract value is to be determined on the basis of maximum possible annual expenditure or income times the contract term in years. Any form of option and any possible renewals must be taken into account. Where the term is open-ended (e.g. contracts with an automatic extension clause where no maximum possible extension period is specified), five years is to be used for calculation purposes.

Without prejudice to point 11.2 below, the value of amending contracts is calculated separately from that of the existing contract.

11.2 Contracts may not be split up with a view to evading the authorisations required by the Financial Regulations and implementing rules.

11.3 In case of doubt as to the calculation of the contract value, PD Finance must be consulted in good time.

12. Application of the exception provided in Article 22a(1) FinRegs

12.1 Where the President has made an exception under Article 22a(1) FinRegs, all references to Central Procurement must be read as references to the competent principal directorate and all references to the Chief Procurement Officer must be read as references to the competent principal authorising officer.

- 12.2 Where tasks are assigned to or divided between the procurement officer and the budget holder, these are to be performed by the competent authorising officer.
- 12.3 Where contract signature by the Chief Procurement Officer is provided after validation by the principal budget holder, this is replaced by contract signature by the principal authorising officer after validation by the authorising officer by sub-delegation.

13. Final provisions

- 13.1 The thresholds in this Directive will be periodically reviewed.
- 13.2 This Directive will replace the Directive on contracts dated 1 January 2012 as from 1 April 2022.

GUIDELINES FOR THE PLACING OF CONTRACTS IN ACCORDANCE WITH ARTICLES 55 TO 60 OF THE FINANCIAL REGULATIONS OF THE EUROPEAN PATENT ORGANISATION

Having regard to Article 83 of the Financial Regulations,

Having consulted the Budget and Finance Committee,

the President has issued the Guidelines set out herein.

These Guidelines shall enter into force on 1 January 2018.¹

Done at Munich, 21 December 2017.

Benoît Battistelli
President

1. Basic principles (Articles 2, 55(4), 55(5) and 56(4) FinRegs)

- (1) All contracts shall be placed in accordance with the principles of economy and sound financial management. All award procedures shall be carried out in accordance with the principles of transparency, equal treatment, open and fair competition, proportionality and non-discrimination
- (2) Invitations to tender shall be published internationally unless the nature of the contract or special circumstances justify making an exception (Rules 2.3 and 6.1.2). Calls for competition for the competitive procedure with negotiation shall be published internationally.
- (3) Wherever possible, procedures for placing contracts shall be conducted, and contracts awarded, jointly for the Office's four locations in Munich, The Hague, Berlin and Vienna. The central procurement department shall normally be responsible for co-ordination.

2. Placing of contracts (Articles 55, 56 and 57 FinRegs)

2.1 Procedures for placing contracts (Articles 55(1) and (2) and 56(3) FinRegs)

Contracts shall be placed on the basis of an open invitation to tender or a restricted invitation to tender with a published notice. However, where the respective conditions set out in these Guidelines are fulfilled, contracts may be placed on the basis of a restricted tender without a published notice (Rule 2.3(3)), following a competitive procedure with negotiation (Rule 2.4), using a dynamic purchasing system (Rule 2.7) or direct without a prior invitation to tender (Rule 2.5). The contract award may be made either on a discretionary basis or on the basis of price alone.

¹ Amended after consultation of the Budget and Finance Committee (CA/F 11/17)

2.2 Type of award (Article 56(1) and (2) FinRegs)

Invitations to tender and competitive procedures with negotiation may be with an award on a discretionary or price basis:

- (1) The procedure whereby the contract is awarded on a discretionary basis, taking account of a variety of factors (Article 56(1) FinRegs), shall be preferred to one whereby the contract is awarded on the basis of price.
- (2) The procedure whereby the contract is awarded on the basis of price to the lowest of the valid bids may only be considered where the type and characteristics of the goods, works or services to be provided are subject to fixed specifications (Article 56(2) FinRegs).

2.3 Restricted invitations to tender with or without a published notice (Articles 55(4) and 56(3) FinRegs)

- (1) An invitation to tender may be restricted to qualified bidders that satisfy the selection criteria set out in the published notice.
- (2) The Office shall evaluate requests to participate in the restricted tender against the selection criteria set out in the published notice. At least five bidders that satisfy the selection criteria shall be invited to submit a tender, provided that a sufficient number of candidates meeting the selection criteria are available.
- (3) A restricted invitation to tender without a published notice may be used only where the protection of essential security interests of the Organisation cannot otherwise be guaranteed, for instance by imposing requirements protecting the confidential nature of information. The various potential bidders whose know-how, capacity and reliability to fulfil the contract have been established shall be considered and, if possible, at least five bidders shall be asked to bid. If this is not possible the reason for inviting a lower number of bidders shall be placed on record.

2.4 Competitive procedure with negotiation (Articles 55(1) and 56(4) FinRegs)

2.4.1 Contracts may be awarded in a competitive procedure with negotiation following a call for competition where, in technically particularly complex matters, it is not objectively possible to define sufficiently the technical solutions capable of satisfying the Office's needs and objectives to allow an open or a restricted invitation to tender. The call for competition shall lay down the scope of the negotiation. This scope must not be extended subsequently.

2.4.2 If possible, at least five potential bidders, who meet the selection criteria, shall be invited to participate in the competitive procedure with negotiation. If it is not possible to invite at least five potential bidders, the reason for inviting a lower number of bidders shall be placed on record. If not all potential bidders, who meet the selection criteria, are invited to participate, the reasons for not inviting all of them shall be documented.

- 2.4.3 In the call for competition, the Office may reserve the possibility to award the contract without negotiation based on the initial bids. Except where such possibility has been reserved and is made use of, within the scope of negotiation defined in the call for competition, negotiations shall take place on the initial and any revised bids submitted in the competitive procedure with negotiations, in order to improve the content thereof.

The minimum terms, conditions and requirements and the award criteria defined in the procurement documents shall not be subject to negotiation.

- 2.4.4 Competitive procedures with negotiation may take place in successive stages. In this case, following each stage, the bidders shall be invited to submit revised bids, which shall be evaluated in accordance with the award criteria. Following that, the points to be negotiated in the next stage shall be identified and communicated to the respective bidder. If so indicated in the call for competition, following each such stage, the number of bids to be negotiated may be reduced by not retaining such bids, which based on their evaluation in accordance with the award criteria have the lowest rankings.

- 2.4.5 Following negotiation or, in procedures with negotiation in successive stages, following the last stage, bidders shall be invited to submit their final bids within a common deadline. Where the number of bids has been reduced in accordance with Rule 2.4.4, only retained bidders shall be invited to submit final bids. No negotiations shall take place with respect to the final bid.

- 2.4.6 The negotiations and their outcome shall be documented.

- 2.4.7 Throughout the procedure, the principles of transparency, equal treatment, open and fair competition, proportionality and non-discrimination (Rule 1(1)) shall be strictly observed. In particular, information shall not be provided in a discriminatory manner and no bidders may be given an advantage over others. The solutions proposed and other information communicated by a bidder to the Office during the procedure must not be communicated to other bidders, unless the bidder in question has expressly consented to such disclosure.

2.5 Direct placing of contracts (Articles 55(2)(b) and 57 FinRegs) - Office's authority

- 2.5.1 Contracts may be placed direct in the cases specified below. Provided that the contract exceeds EUR 5 000, the various potential offerors shall be considered and at least three qualified offerors shall be asked to submit an offer, unless this is excluded by the specific reason justifying the direct placement.

- (1) As a general rule, whenever this is justified for reasons of efficiency and economy, contracts may be placed direct following the competitive procedure described above for goods, works or services where the value of the contract does not exceed EUR 200 000 (Article 57(a) FinRegs).

- (2) A contract may be placed direct for goods, works or services in cases of urgency brought about by unforeseeable circumstances and where the time limits for, and the delay involved in, an invitation to tender procedure would be unacceptable (Article 57(b) FinRegs).
- (3) A contract may be placed direct for goods, works or services where an invitation to tender has been cancelled pursuant to Rule 6.6(1), first or second indent, and no better result is likely to be achieved by repeating the procedure (Article 57(c) FinRegs). This will generally be the case if sufficient competition can be achieved by including in the direct placement procedure those bidders whose bids have not been excluded in the examination phase and who have the know-how, capacity and reliability to fulfil the contract. The terms of the contract shall be substantially the same as those specified in the invitation to tender.
- (4) A contract may be placed direct for goods, works or services for technical, practical or legal reasons (Article 57(d) FinRegs). Such circumstances will exist in particular in the following cases:
 - (a) for goods, works or services which can be provided only by a particular firm or person possessing the requisite technical know-how or equipment,
 - (b) for goods, works or services which are required for research, studies, tests or further development, or which call for particular innovative capacity,
 - (c) for goods, works or services which can be provided only by a particular firm or person owing to the existence of an intellectual and/or industrial property right or other exclusive right,
 - (d) for orders relating to the supply of goods obtainable as standard, fully developed items at published prices, if necessary together with the provision of ancillary services which are readily specifiable in general terms and available at standard market prices, provided that no better terms or no binding price offer can be expected through an invitation to tender or, where applicable, a competitive procedure with negotiation in view of the circumstances of the market, such as regular and substantial fluctuations in supply and demand or frequent changes in price, and the cost of issuing invitations to tender or, where applicable, carrying out competitive procedures with negotiation to cover the full period of the intended procurement would be disproportionate to any benefit. The aggregate value of orders so placed for the same type of goods with the same supplier may not exceed, during a period of one year, the value indicated in Rule 2.5.2,

- (e) for follow-up orders to an existing or earlier contract, provided that the price asked is fair and reasonable compared with that originally charged (taking into account possible factors such as price indexing and the volume of the follow-up order compared with that of the existing or earlier contract) and an invitation to tender or, where applicable, a competitive procedure with negotiation would be unlikely to produce a more advantageous offer. Follow-up orders shall not exceed 20% of the value of the existing or earlier contract,
- (f) for the purchase of spare parts and accessories for machinery, equipment, etc. from the original supplier where suitable parts are not available from other firms on better terms,
- (g) for the additional supply of goods from the original supplier where the goods are to be used to replace or supplement existing goods and a change of supplier would oblige the Office to acquire goods having different technical characteristics which would result in incompatibility or disproportionate technical difficulties in operation and maintenance. This procedure may, as a general rule, be applied within a period of three years from the conclusion of the original contract,
- (h) for additional works or services not included in the existing or earlier contract but which, through unforeseen circumstances, have become necessary for the performance of the works or services described in such contracts, in circumstances where such works or services cannot be technically or economically separated from the existing or earlier contract without disproportionate disadvantage to the Office or, although separable, are strictly necessary for its completion or for its later stages. The additional works or services shall, as a general rule, not exceed 50% of the value of the existing or earlier contract,
- (i) for works or services which constitute a repetition of similar works or services pursuant to an earlier contract, and which are entrusted to the same contractor in view of the particular know-how acquired, or the technical infrastructure developed, by that contractor, in so far as these conform to the specification for which the earlier contract was awarded following an invitation to tender or a competitive procedure with negotiation. This procedure may, as a general rule, be used within a period of three years from the conclusion of the earlier contract,
- (j) for legal-advice and legal-representation services.

2.5.2 The Office may place direct on its own authority the contracts referred to in Rule 2.5.1(1). It may also place direct on its own authority the contracts referred to in Rule 2.5.1(2) to (4) provided that the value of the contract or the overall value of the orders or additional goods, works or services does not exceed EUR 3 000 000. However, no ceilings limit the Office's own authority with respect to contracts concluded under Chapters 32 and 42 and Article 3103 of the budget.

2.6 Framework agreements

- 2.6.1 The Office may conclude framework agreements in cases where it regularly concludes contracts for similar goods, works or services without being able to define the exact delivery times and/or the detailed requirements. The purpose of framework agreements is to establish the terms governing contracts to be awarded during a given period, in particular with regard to price and, where appropriate, the quantity envisaged.

Framework agreements may not be used in such a way as to prevent, restrict or distort competition.

- 2.6.2 For the purpose of concluding a framework agreement, the Office shall follow the procedures set out in Rules 2.1 to 2.5 above.

Contracts based on a framework agreement shall be awarded in accordance with the procedures laid down in Rules 2.6.4 and 2.6.5. Any supplementary bids shall not entail substantial changes to the terms laid down in the framework agreement.

- 2.6.3 The term of a framework agreement may not exceed five years, save in exceptional cases duly justified, in particular by the subject matter of the framework agreement.

- 2.6.4 Where a framework agreement is concluded with a single contractor, contracts based on that agreement shall be awarded within the limits of the terms laid down in the framework agreement. Insofar as necessary, the Office may request the contractor in writing to supplement his initial bid.

- 2.6.5 Where framework agreements are concluded with several contractors, contracts may be awarded either:

- (a) by application of the particular procedure laid down in the framework agreements which has to ensure fair competition and equal treatment of the contractors of the framework agreements, or
- (b) where no such particular procedure is defined, by a competitive procedure between all of the contractors with which a framework agreement exists for the type of goods, works or services subject of the specific contract in question.

In the latter case, contracts shall be awarded in accordance with the following procedure:

- the Office shall invite the contractors in writing to submit a supplementary bid within the time limit specified in the invitation. The invitation shall also specify the criteria on the basis of which the contract will be awarded, and

- bids shall be submitted in writing within the time limit set by the Office and their content shall remain undisclosed until the stipulated time limit for reply has expired, and
- contracts shall be awarded to the contractor who has submitted the best bid on the basis of the criteria set out in the invitation, and
- bidders shall be informed of the results in accordance with Rule 6.5.3, and
- an award report shall be drawn up.

The criteria for the award of contracts under a framework agreement may not substantially differ from the criteria for the award of the framework agreement itself.

2.6.6 For the purpose of these Guidelines and the implementing rules thereof, framework agreements shall be considered to be contracts.

2.7 Dynamic purchasing system

2.7.1 For commonly used purchases the characteristics of which, as generally available on the market, meet the requirements of the Office, the Office may use a dynamic purchasing system. The system shall be fully electronic and shall be open throughout its validity period to any supplier that satisfies the selection criteria.

2.7.2 All the candidates satisfying the selection criteria set out in the published notice shall be admitted to the system, and the number of candidates to be admitted to the system shall not be limited.

2.7.3 When using a dynamic purchasing system, the Office shall:

- (a) publish a notice stating that a dynamic purchasing system is being used, indicating the nature of the purchases envisaged under the system, its validity period, the selection and award criteria, the time limit for receipt of requests to participate and all necessary information concerning the electronic equipment used and the technical connection arrangements and specifications; and
- (b) offer, from publication of the notice until expiry of the system's validity period, unrestricted and full direct access to the procurement documents and to any additional documents by electronic means.

2.7.4 The minimum time limit for receipt of requests to participate shall be 30 days from the date of publication of the notice. No further time limits for receipt of requests to participate shall apply once the invitation to tender for the first specific procurement under the dynamic purchasing system has been sent.

2.7.5 The system shall be open throughout its period of validity to any supplier that satisfies the selection criteria and has submitted a request complying with the conditions in the published notice.

- 2.7.6 Suppliers shall inform the Office without undue delay of any changes affecting their eligibility or capacity to perform the contract. At any time during the period of validity of the dynamic purchasing system, the Office may request that admitted participants submit updated evidence of their eligibility.
- 2.7.7 The Office shall assess requests to participate within 15 working days of their receipt. This assessment period may be extended; however, no invitation to tender may be issued during this extended period. The Office shall inform candidates at the earliest opportunity whether or not they have been admitted to the dynamic purchasing system.
- 2.7.8 The Office shall invite all admitted participants to submit a tender for each specific procurement under the dynamic purchasing system. The minimum time limit for receipt of tenders shall be at least 10 days from the date on which the invitation to tender is sent.
- 2.7.9 The contract shall be awarded to the bidder who has submitted the best bid on the basis of the award criteria set out in the published notice. If appropriate, those criteria may be formulated more precisely in the invitation to tender.
- 2.7.10 A dynamic purchasing system must not last for more than 5 years, unless a longer duration is duly justified and was provided for in the published notice.
- 2.7.11 For the purpose of these Guidelines and their implementing rules, dynamic purchasing systems shall be regarded as framework agreements, unless otherwise provided in this Rule 2.7.
- 3. In-house contract approval procedure - In-house procedure for obtaining contract approval from the Budget and Finance Committee or the Administrative Council
- 3.1 The procedure for in-house approval of Office contracts, including contract extensions, shall be as follows:
 - (1) Each planned award of a contract with a value in excess of EUR 15 000 shall be referred to the Principal Directorate Finance for a compliance check of the final report on the award procedure and of the award recommendation with the Financial Regulations and the applicable implementing rules and directives.
 - (2) Each planned award of a contract with a value in excess of EUR 15 000 and up to EUR 250 000 shall be referred to the competent principal authorising officer¹ for approval. However the competent principal authorising officer² may sub-delegate his authorising power to his principal deputies, except in the case of contracts to be placed direct

² Budget holder unless an exception has been made under Article 22a, paragraph 1 FinRegs.

- due to urgency (Article 57(b) FinRegs and Rule 2.5.1(2)) and for critical contracts set out in the internal directive on contracts.
- (3) Each planned award of a contract with a value in excess of EUR 250 000 shall be referred to the competent principal authorising officer¹ for approval.
 - (4) Each planned award of a contract to be placed direct for reasons of urgency pursuant to Art 57(b) FinRegs and Rule 2.5.1(2) and with a value in excess of EUR 100 000 shall also be referred to the President for approval.
 - (5) Each planned award of a contract to be placed direct with a value in excess of EUR 250 000 and those to be placed on the basis of an invitation to tender or following a competitive procedure with negotiation with a value in excess of EUR 1 000 000 shall also be referred to the President for approval.
- 3.2 Contracts to be submitted to Legal Services in accordance with the internal directive on contracts shall be referred to Legal Services early enough to ensure preparation of the content of the contract and participation in the negotiations.
- 3.3 The designation of principal and other authorising officers is set out in Annex I.
- 3.4 The additional in-house procedures for obtaining prior approval from the Budget and Finance Committee or the Administrative Council with regard to contracts outside the Office's authority and for the report to the Budget and Finance Committee (Rule 4) are detailed in Annex III.
- 4. Procedure for obtaining contract approval from the Budget and Finance Committee or the Administrative Council and for reporting to the Budget and Finance Committee (Articles 57(b) and 58 FinRegs)
- 4.1 No prior approval from the Budget and Finance Committee or the Administrative Council is required for contracts concluded under Chapters 32 and 42 and Article 3103 of the budget. The procedure for obtaining approval of other contracts outside the Office's authority from the Budget and Finance Committee or the Administrative Council shall be as follows:
- (1) Contracts with a value in excess of EUR 3 000 000 require prior Budget and Finance Committee approval (Article 58(1) FinRegs).
 - (2) Contracts for the acquisition, exchange or long-term lease of immovable property with a value in excess of EUR 3 000 000 require prior Administrative Council approval following consultation of the Budget and Finance Committee (Article 58(2) FinRegs).

¹ Budget holder unless an exception has been made under Article 22a, paragraph 1 FinRegs.

4.2 A report to the Budget and Finance Committee shall be made:

- (1) as soon as possible and in comprehensive form, for contracts with a value in excess of EUR 250 000 and up to EUR 3 000 000 and placed direct because of their particular urgency (Article 57(b) FinRegs).
- (2) as soon as possible and in comprehensive form, for contracts concluded under Chapters 32 and 42 and Article 3103 of the budget, if the ceiling listed under 4.1(1) above has been exceeded (Article 58(3) FinRegs).
- (3) by 30 June at the latest and in tabular form following the provisions laid down in the FinRegs, for all contracts from the preceding year with a value in excess of EUR 250 000, unless these contracts were otherwise referred or reported to the Budget and Finance Committee (Article 58(4) FinRegs).

Market studies shall be objective, capable of identifying all potentially suitable bidders and auditable.

6.3 Letters of invitation and conditions of tender

- 6.3.1 The official letter of invitation shall contain all the information needed in order to submit a bid. In addition, letters of invitation to tender in the case of restricted invitations to tender without a published notice shall also contain the information specified in Rule 6.2.1(1) to (12) and (14).
- 6.3.2 The conditions of tender shall set out the terms and conditions governing the performance of the contract. They shall describe clearly and exhaustively the goods, works or services to be provided. They shall also indicate the selection criteria for assessing the know-how, capacity and reliability of the bidders and the criteria for an award of the contract and their relative weighting. Furthermore, they shall include an arbitration agreement covering all disputes arising out of or in connection with the tender. All documents forming part of the conditions of tender shall be forwarded to all prospective bidders.

6.4 Opening of bids

- (1) Bids shall be recorded in the order of their receipt, including the date and time of arrival. Where appropriate, their envelopes shall be marked accordingly. They shall remain sealed and under lock and key or, where bids have been submitted in electronic form, the encryption shall be maintained, until the date appointed for the opening of bids. This shall take place immediately after the period for receipt of bids has expired.

- (2) The formal opening of the bids shall be conducted and presided over by the procurement officer, assisted by at least one employee from another directorate. At the request of the department initiating the tender, there must be one employee from this department.
- (3) Bid opening procedures shall not be public. Bidders may not attend. Bids shall be opened only if they are closed or encrypted and marked as prescribed and only if they arrive before the final date and time for receipt of bids. Bids received late or not closed or encrypted or marked as prescribed shall be considered and opened only if the reasons therefore are beyond the bidders' control, proof of which is required in writing. As soon as the bids have been opened, all their essential elements, including any annexes, shall be recorded and given an identifying mark.
- (4) A record shall be kept of the proceedings. This shall show: place, date and time of commencement of proceedings, name and address of bidders, total price bid and total price per lot, or, where applicable, unit prices, other essential price information, any variants proposed, bids not clearly identified on the envelope as such or not closed or encrypted in the prescribed form, bids received late and reasons for lateness, bids not considered, date and time of closure of proceedings.
- (5) The record shall be signed by the presiding officer and the assistants.
- (6) The record shall be confidential. It may not be shown either to bidders or to the public.

6.5 Assessment of bids and award of the contract

6.5.1 Examination of bids

- (1) Bids which have not been submitted in the prescribed time and form (Rule 6.4.3), do not contain a validating signature, contain changes to the conditions of tender which are not allowed or, because of the amendments or additions they contain, are unclear, need not be further examined.

Proposals for variants need not be further examined if either the possibility of submitting them has been excluded by the Office or they fail to meet the minimum mandatory requirements laid down by the Office for their submission.

- (2) The remaining bids shall be examined in detail:
 - It shall first be examined whether the bidders meet the selection criteria. The selection criteria concern the reliability, financial and economic standing, as well as technical and professional competence of bidders. They may require minimum capacity levels and particular qualifications.

- It shall then be examined whether the bids are complete, the calculations are correct, the price is not clearly out of proportion, and the technical content is correct, taking into account the technical and functional requirements in the invitation to tender.

(3) The results of the examination shall be placed on record.

6.5.2 Assessment of bids

- (1) Only the bids from bidders, who fulfil the selection criteria shall be shortlisted and admitted to the assessment.
- (2) For tenders for which the contract is not awarded on the basis of price alone, the shortlisted bids shall be evaluated on the basis of the award criteria and the contract shall be awarded to the most economically advantageous bid. The award criteria concern in particular the price, operating costs, technical merits, environmental aspects, delivery/completion dates, technical and financial guarantees offered and compliance with warranty requirements.
- (3) Proposals for variants expressly requested or allowed by the Office in the invitation to tender shall be assessed in the same way as the principal bids.
- (4) In cases where the price of the most economically advantageous bid submitted in response to an invitation to tender appears not to represent the market price or seems to contain unnecessary effort or disproportionately high costing of risks, price negotiations with the bidder having submitted the most economically advantageous bid may take place before contract award. Such price negotiations may not affect other aspects of the conditions of tender or of the bid.
- (5) The results of the assessment and the reasons for the award of contract shall be placed on record.

6.5.3 Award of contract - Information

- (1) Candidates who, in response to a restricted invitation to tender with a published notice, have unsuccessfully requested to be invited to participate in the procedure shall be notified in writing that they will not be invited. Unsuccessful bidders shall be notified in writing that their bid has not been selected. As a rule, the reasons why a request to be invited or a bid has been unsuccessful shall be given to the candidate or bidder concerned if he has made a written request for such information. The reasons shall be given in writing.
- (2) The successful bidder shall be notified in writing before expiry of the period within which the contract has to be awarded and for which he is bound by his bid.

- (3) If the award of contract is delayed, the period within which the contract has to be awarded may be extended only with the consent of the bidders whose bids have been shortlisted.
- (4) Drafts, project documents, specimens and samples relating to unsuccessful bids shall be returned if so requested in the bid or if so requested within 20 working days from the date of notification to the bidder that he was unsuccessful.

Unsuccessful bids and project documents supplied by bidders may be used for a subsequent award of contract or for other purposes only with the permission of the bidders concerned.

6.6 Cancellation of the invitation to tender

- (1) The Office may cancel an invitation to tender if
 - no bid has been received, no bid has been received which complies with the tender requirements or no bidder fulfils the selection criteria,
 - the invitation to tender has not produced an economically acceptable result,
 - the basis for the invitation to tender has changed, or
 - for any other serious reason.
- (2) The reasons for which the Office has cancelled the procedure shall be placed on record.
- (3) Bidders shall be notified immediately of the cancellation. As a rule, the reasons for cancellation shall be notified to bidders upon their written request.
- (4) After cancellation, a new invitation to tender may be issued or the contract may be placed direct in accordance with Article 57 FinRegs and Rule 2.4.

7. Procedures to be followed with regard to competitive procedures with negotiation

7.1 Publication of a call for competition for a competitive procedure with negotiation and means of selecting potential bidders to participate in the procedure

- 7.1.1 Calls for competition shall be published in the publication media set out in Annex II, point 3.
- 7.1.2 The potential bidders to be invited to participate in the competitive procedure with negotiation shall be selected based on their response to the call for competition, in particular, to the selection criteria stated in the call for competition.

7.2 Calls for competition

7.2.1 Calls for competition shall contain the information specified in Rule 6.2.1(2) to (8).

Calls for competition shall also state:

- (1) the name of the Organisation, together with the clarification that the Organisation is acting through the Office, and the name of the department to which requests to participate in the competitive procedure with negotiation and information and evidence should be sent,
- (2) the selection criteria establishing the bidders' know-how, capacity and reliability to fulfil the contract, any minimum capacity levels or particular qualifications required, as well as the information and evidence to be provided by bidders in this respect,
- (3) the criteria for the award of the contract and their relative weighting, or an indication that these criteria and their weighting are specified in the procurement documents,
- (4) the scope of the negotiations,
- (5) whether negotiation may take place in successive stages in order to reduce the number of bids to be negotiated in the subsequent stages,
- (6) whether the Office reserves the possibility to award the contract without negotiation based on the initial bids,
- (7) the final date for receipt of requests to participate.

7.2.2 Rule 6.2.3 shall equally apply to requests for participation in response to calls for competition and to the initial and final bids submitted in competitive procedures with negotiation.

7.3 Letters of invitation and procurement documents

7.3.1 Letters of invitation to participate in a competitive procedure with negotiation shall describe in detail how the negotiations will take place and the scope and schedule for the negotiations. If successive stages of negotiation are foreseen, the scope of each negotiation stage shall be identified. Letters of invitation shall state the deadline for the submission of the initial bids in response to the letter of invitation.

7.3.2 The procurement documents shall contain a description of the terms and conditions for the contract, the subject-matter of the procurement, the Office's needs and objectives and any characteristics required of the supplies, works or services to be procured. It shall be stated, which elements of the description define the minimum terms, conditions and requirements to be complied with by all bids.

The procurement documents shall state the criteria for the award of the contract and their relative weighting. Furthermore, they shall include an arbitration agreement covering all disputes arising out of or in connection with the procedure.

All documents forming part of the procurement documents shall be forwarded to all invited bidders.

In procedures with successive stages of negotiation, at the end of each stage revisions may be made to the procurement documents to specify more in detail the terms, conditions and requirements to be met by the revised bids or, where applicable, the final bids. Such revisions must not affect the minimum terms, conditions and requirements stated in the original procurement documents. Where the number of bids has been reduced in accordance with Rule 2.4.4, only retained bidders receive the revised procurement documents.

7.4 Opening of bids, assessment of bids and award of contract

The principles for opening of bids, assessment of bids and award of contract applicable to invitations to tender (Rules 6.4 and 6.5) shall equally apply to the initial and the final bids submitted in competitive procedures with negotiation.

The contract may not be awarded to a bidder whose final bid does not fulfil the minimum terms, conditions and requirements set out in the procurement documents.

8. Procedures to be followed with regard to direct placements

- 8.1 The reasons for placing the contract direct (Rule 2.5) and, where applicable, the underlying financial, technical and market conditions and the possible measures to restore competition over time shall be placed on record by the authorising officer¹. Where applicable, the reasons for the means of selecting the potential contractors (point 4, Annex II) shall also be placed on record by the authorising officer².

- 8.2 Only an offeror who has the know-how, capacity and reliability to fulfil the contract may be considered for the award. The assessment of the offer shall be based on the principles applicable to invitations to tender. The results of the assessment and the reasons for the award of the contract shall be placed on record.

9. Report on the award procedure

A report on the award procedure and all the substantive decisions taken, including those specifically prescribed in these Guidelines, shall be drawn up. The main content is laid down in point 5 of Annex II.

1 Procurement officer unless an exception has been made under Article 22a, paragraph 1 FinRegs.

The list shall specify whether the authorising officers act as budget holders, as procurement officers, or whether the exception made under Article 22a(1) FinRegs applies.

Deputisations in the event of absence or impediment shall be in accordance with the list of delegations of powers of signature. Only budget holders can deputise for other budget holders, and only procurement officers can deputise for other procurement officers.

The report on the award procedure shall be drawn up by the procurement department or, if an exception has been made under Article 22a paragraph 1 FinRegs, by the responsible department. It shall set out in writing the formal sequence of the procedure; all decisions taken of a substantive nature shall be listed therein. This shall include in particular:

- (a) The nature and scope of the goods, works or services and, if applicable, the division into lots.
- (b) The award procedure chosen in the light of any relevant financial, technical and market conditions and, if applicable, the means used to identify potential contractors in the case of a restricted invitation to tender or direct placement. Any special features need to be explained, such as the exclusion of candidates from the competition, any deviation from reasonable periods for submitting bids or offers or from periods for which the bidder or offeror is bound by his bid or offer and requests for clarification dealt with prior to the submission of bids or offers.

- (c) The details and results of the examination of bids, of the assessment of bidders or offerors on the basis of pre-defined selection criteria and of the assessment of bids or offers on the basis of pre-defined award criteria and weighting factors, including details of any contacts with bidders or offerors after the submission of bids or offers. In this respect, in competitive procedures with negotiation, all negotiations and their outcome shall be documented. Cancellation of the invitation to tender requires detailed justification.
- (d) The proposed contractor, the reasons for awarding the contract to his bid or offer and the total expected value of the contract and, where applicable, individual lots. - (c) The time limit for submitting documents to the President is three months before the relevant Budget and Finance Committee meeting.

The procedures under (b) and (c) may be updated by the Office.

¹ Budget holders and procurement officers unless an exception has been made under Article 22a, paragraph 1 FinRegs.

DIRECTIVE SUPPLEMENTING CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF THE TENDER GUIDELINES

This Directive is being issued pursuant to Article 10(1) and (2)(a) EPC with a view to

- supplementing certain provisions of the Tender Guidelines and ensuring their uniform interpretation and application,
- ensuring compliance with the principles of transparency, equal treatment, open and fair competition, proportionality and non-discrimination of bidders (Article 55(5) FinRegs), and
- contributing to the financial administration of the Organisation in accordance with the principles of economy and sound financial management and, if applicable and to the extent compatible with those principles, with the principles of environmental sustainability (Article 2 FinRegs).

1. Advance fixing of selection criteria, award criteria and weighting factors

- 1.1 The selection criteria establishing the bidders' know-how, capacity and reliability to fulfil the contract and any minimum capacity levels or particular qualifications required are to be fixed before the Procurement Documents are issued.
- 1.2 For invitations to tenders and competitive procurement procedures for which the contract is not awarded on the basis of price alone, the award criteria and their relative weighting are to be fixed before the Procurement Documents are issued.
- 1.3 The selection criteria and the award criteria with their weighting factors may not be modified once the Procurement Documents have been issued or, if they were stated in the published notice or in the call for competition, once the notice or call for competition has been published.
- 1.4 The selection criteria and the award criteria with their weighting factors must be stated either in the notice or call for competition or in the Procurement Documents (Rules 6.2.1(10) and (11) and 7.2.1 Tend. Guid.).

2. Essential elements of the bid

Rule 6.4(3) Tend. Guid. requires the essential elements of bids to be recorded and given an identifying mark upon the opening of the bids. The following elements are always to be considered as essential:

- (a) the signature validating the bid;
- (b) the financial offer for the entire contract or individual lots/sub-lots thereof;

- (c) the technical offer for the entire contract or individual lots/sub-lots thereof;
- (d) the information and evidence required by the Office in order to be able to assess the bidder's know-how, capacity and reliability;
- (e) any other contractual or commercial information requested by the Office;
- (f) proposals for variants (i.e. proposals consisting of deviations from or alternatives to specific aspects of the requirements specified by the Office).

3. Grounds for exclusion of bids and proposals for variants in the examination phase

The examination may give rise to the exclusion of bids. The following results are grounds for exclusion in the prima facie examination (Rule 6.5.1(1) Tend. Guid.):

- (a) bids have not been submitted before the final date and time for receipt of bids or are not sealed, encrypted or marked as prescribed, unless the reasons therefor are beyond the bidder's control and proof of this has been given in writing by the bidder;
- (b) bids do not contain a validating signature;
- (c) bids do not indicate the price or contain insufficient price details, thereby rendering the bid substantially incomplete or non-comparable with other bids;
- (d) bids do not contain a technical offer;
- (e) bids are not legally binding, or are not binding for the period required by the Office, unless the deviation is minor, or, where the Office considers it appropriate to ask the bidder to prolong the period for which he is bound by his bid so as to make it comply, the bidder does not do so;
- (f) bids are not in one of the EPO's official languages;
- (g) bids are not based on the EPO's contractual conditions, unless the Office has expressly requested or allowed the use of other terms of business;
- (h) bids do not comply with the mandatory procedural conditions of the invitation to tender or the call for competition;
- (i) bids do not contain the information and evidence required for the assessment of the bidder's know-how, capacity and reliability, and the bidder does not provide any missing information and evidence within reasonable time after having been requested to do so.

The following results are grounds for exclusion in the detailed examination (Rule 6.5.1(2) Tend. Guid.):

- (j) bids from bidders who do not fulfil the selection criteria establishing the bidders' know-how, capacity and reliability to fulfil the contract, including bidders whose circumstances are such as seriously to call into question their financial or professional reliability (see Annex I);
- (k) where the Office requires bidders to furnish proof that they are not liable for exclusion under point (j), evidence is not provided within a deadline set by the Office;
- (l) bids from bidders who in connection with the award procedure have entered into agreements which prevent fair competition;
- (m) in the case of an invitation to tender based on price alone, bids do not comply with the technical or financial requirements, or contain proposals for variants to those requirements;
- (n) in the case of an invitation to tender on a discretionary basis or a competitive procedure with negotiation, bids do not comply with mandatory technical or financial requirements (i.e. where proposals for variants have been submitted, and either the possibility of making such proposals has been excluded, or the proposals fail to meet any minimum mandatory requirement laid down by the Office for the submission of such proposals; such non-compliance will not, however, lead to the exclusion of the bid if the non-compliance relates to an error in the Office's specifications and that error was indicated in the bid, or if the bid can be rendered compliant by minor changes);
- (o) bids do not comply with the basic contractual terms or, in the case of a competitive procedure with negotiation, with the minimum contractual terms (i.e. where proposals for variants have been submitted, and either the possibility of making proposals for variants has been excluded, or the proposals fail to meet any minimum mandatory requirement laid down by the Office for the submission of such proposals). If a bid is of interest to the EPO for financial and technical reasons and it does not have to be excluded, negotiations may take place for the purpose of improving the bid with respect to proposals for variants or non-compliance with contractual terms;
- (p) bids quote a price which is clearly out of proportion to the goods, work or services offered, or clearly so low that there is reason to believe that the bidder cannot comply with the technical or quality requirements specified in the Procurement Documents (in such a case, the bidder should first be given the opportunity to clarify the assumptions underlying his offer, without this leading to any changes in prices);
- (q) bids have submitted solutions which are clearly not feasible or do not comply with the subject of the award procedure.

Obvious errors are not grounds for exclusion. The correction of obvious errors takes place during the detailed examination. Corrections of obvious errors may be made by the Office but must be confirmed in writing by the bidders.

Obvious errors include:

- errors in the addition or multiplication of figures contained in a bid;
- calculations using for no apparent reason quantities other than those specified by the Office;
- unit prices apparently differing from the true prices by a factor of ten, one hundred or one thousand.

A request for information or clarification may not be used either by the Office or by the bidders in such a way that it leads to a substantial alteration to the bid, or substantially alters the Office's specifications. Clarification and information must be requested and provided in writing.

Notwithstanding the above, bids can be excluded at any later stage of the award procedure if a ground for exclusion becomes apparent.

4. Confidentiality

Records and reports relating to the award procedure and bids are confidential. Access has to be granted to the members of the Award Committee, their line managers, the competent authorising officers, the Vice-President DG 5, members of Legal Services, Central Procurement and Finance, Internal Audit, the members of the Board of Auditors of the EPO and their assistants, and, so far as necessary for their tasks, to external experts advising on the examination/assessment of the bids.

5. Language of the award procedure

5.1 Choice of language

The award procedure must be conducted in one or more of the official languages of the Office. In practical terms, the language(s) of the procedure will be the same as in the first communication to the bidders or potential contractors, this being either the notice, a letter of enquiry or a letter of invitation to tender or offer, depending on the award procedure concerned.

In the case of a restricted invitation to tender without publication and of a direct placement, the language of these procedures must be the official language which appears appropriate in the circumstances (e.g. the language of the potential contractors, of the country where the Office unit responsible for the procedure is located, or of the country where the Office is to receive the goods or the results of the work or services, or which is commonly used in the field concerned).

In the event of an open invitation to tender, a restricted invitation to tender with publication or a competitive procedure with negotiation where the notice or the call for competition is to be in the three official languages (Annex II to Tend. Guid.), the language of the procedure may be limited to one or two of the official languages, if this is not an impediment to genuine competition (e.g. where a specific official language of the Office is the one which is commonly used in the particular field concerned, e.g. English in the IT field or where potential contactors must have a good command of a specific official language in order to fulfil the contract).

- 5.2 The documents relating to the procedure, in particular the Procurement Documents and the contract, are to be in the language of the procedure. Submission of a bid in an official language other than that selected for the procedure is not a ground for exclusion.

- 5.3 Exceptional cases which may give grounds for use of a national language which is not an official language of the Office

In the case of exceptional direct placement procedures for compelling legal or practical reasons relating to the contractor (e.g. procurement of basic services from a legal monopolist or purchase of real estate in a country where the national language is not an official language of the Office), the offers and contract may be in a language which is not one of the official languages of the Office. In such cases, the documents must be translated into one of the official languages of the Office, the translation and the original being equally valid.

6. Units and committees in charge of certain activities during the award procedure

6.1 The procurement officer

The procurement officer is responsible for the execution of the procurement procedures in compliance with the applicable regulations.

In particular, he is responsible for:

- (a) agreeing to the procurement request provided by the initiating department;
- (b) deciding on bundling possibilities;
- (c) based on the input from the budget holder, choosing the award procedure, establishing the list of potential contractors and proposing the selection criteria and the award criteria with their weighting factors, and obtaining the budget holder's agreement thereto;
- (d) ensuring that, for each individual procurement, the expert units likely to be involved in that procurement are provided (e.g. at a kick-off meeting) with adequate information on its scope, approach and structure, in addition to the information to be provided under point 7.4 below, and that those aspects are documented and, unless there are justified reasons not to do so, observed;

- (e) advising the budget holders on the drafting of the Technical Conditions;
- (f) deciding on the use of standard contract terms;
- (g) collating, finalising and organising the translation of Procurement Documents, notices and letters;
- (h) publishing and despatching Procurement Documents, notices and letters;

6.2 The budget holder

The budget holder is responsible for:

- (a) initiating the procurement process by issuing the procurement request, identifying the characteristics and specifications of the required procurement and suggesting the choice of award procedure;

Exceptionally, in case of doubt as to the correctness or completeness of the evaluation, the budget holder may refer the matter back to the Award Committee for further evaluation. The budget holder shall, however, not make changes to the award criteria, weighting factors or marks. In the exceptional cases where the budget holder does not endorse the award recommendation of the Award Committee, the reasons must be put on record. In such cases, the matter must be escalated to the competent principal authorising officers (budget holder and Chief Procurement Officer) or, if necessary, to the President for decision.

This must be confirmed in the record of the opening.

The exclusion of bids which arrived late or not in the prescribed form or as a result of other matters arising during the prima facie examination

6.4 The Award Committee

6.4.1 An Award Committee must be set up for each open and each restricted invitation to tender and for each competitive procedure with negotiation. The Award Committee is set up at the initiative of the procurement officer following his approval of the procurement request.

Within the Award Committee, the Chairman validates that the Award Committee performs the tasks listed in point 6.4.2(d) in conformance with the provisions of the Tender Guidelines, this Directive and the Procurement Documents and agrees any changes necessary to the outcome of those tasks with the other members of the Award Committee.

6.4.3 The Award Committee must be composed of EPO employees:

- 6.4.7 The Chairman represents the Award Committee and is responsible for its proceeding in the correct manner. He convenes its meetings.

- 6.4.9 With respect to direct placements following a competitive procedure, the procurement officer has the competences and performs the tasks of the Award Committee.

7. Sub-delegation of authorising powers pursuant to Rule 3.1(2) Tend. Guid. – responsibility of the principal authorising officer

7.1 Pursuant to Rule 3.1(2) Tend. Guid., without prejudice to Rule 3.1(1) Tend. Guid., authorising powers relating to mandates to external lawyers for the areas of legal advice and legal representation (DG 5) up to EUR 250 000 will be sub-delegated by the principal authorising officer to the line manager in Legal Services to whom authorising powers have been sub-delegated.

7.2 The sub-delegation of authorising powers (Rule 3.1(2) Tend. Guid.) must be made in accordance with the procedures relating to the sub-delegation of authorising powers in place at the Office and within the limits laid down in the instrument of sub-delegation. Sub-delegation is without prejudice to the responsibility of the principal authorising officer and his duty of supervision. The sub-delegated officer may act only within the limits of the powers expressly conferred upon him.

7.3 The principal authorising officer (Chief Procurement Officer) takes the necessary measures to ensure the implementation of the Tender Guidelines and of this Directive, and sees to it that any records and the report on the award procedure provided for in the Tender Guidelines are properly made and that the in-house procedures, as well as those vis-à-vis the Administrative Council and the Budget and Finance Committee, are followed.

The principal authorising officer (Chief Procurement Officer) ensures that the units of the Office initiating procurement receive appropriate logistical and administrative support on matters of procurement. He ensures that the standard general conditions of tender and conditions of contract as well as standard contract terms made available by Legal Services are used, where applicable.

7.4 The principal authorising officers (budget holders) ensure that the yearly contract plan is forwarded to Central Procurement in order to allow this unit to plan its involvement and advise at an early stage in the project or contract. Central Procurement must forward the relevant information to the expert units likely to be involved.

8. In-house procedure for obtaining the approval of the Budget and Finance Committee or the Administrative Council

Annex III, point (b), first and third indents, Tend. Guid. is to be implemented as follows:

- Drafting of document: the procurement officer is responsible for drafting the document in accordance with guidelines from the Council Secretariat, Language Service and PD Finance. He is assisted by the expert units. Legal Services will be involved in the legal vetting of the document in the specific cases set out in the Directive on contracts.
- Submission of document to the President: after checking and initialling by PD Finance - and, in the specific cases set out in the Directive on contracts, by Legal Services and the Vice-President DG 5 - the document must be submitted to the President via the principal authorising officers involved (budget holder and Chief Procurement Officer).

9. Application of the exception under Article 22a(1) FinRegs

9.1 Where the President has made an exception under Article 22a(1) FinRegs the authorising officer is responsible for the tasks of the procurement officer as well as those of the budget holder.

9.2 Central Procurement must assist the authorising officer in performing tasks normally carried out by the procurement officer to the extent requested by the authorising officer.

9.3 In this case, the Award Committee is composed of EPO employees qualified in the technical and administrative disciplines in question and, on request, representatives of other organisational units having a specific interest in the execution of the contract. The Chairman is the authorising officer or one of his deputies. The provisions of points 6.4.2 and 6.4.4 to 6.4.8 apply.

10. Model documents for invitations to tender, competitive procedures with negotiation and direct placement procedures

Notices, calls for competition, letters and the record of the opening of bids mentioned in the Tender Guidelines are to be drawn up in accordance with the models approved by Legal Services.

11. This directive will replace the directive supplementing certain provisions of the Tender Guidelines dated 22 December 2015 as from 1 January 2018.

Internal Audit and Oversight

EUROPEAN PATENT OFFICE CHARTER FOR INTERNAL AUDIT AND OVERSIGHT

20.10.2017

Part I Introduction

- 1) The Internal Audit and Oversight function is recognised as an important element of corporate governance in the European Patent Organisation (hereinafter referred to as "the Organisation"). This Internal Audit and Oversight Charter (hereinafter referred to as "the Charter") defines the purpose, scope, authority and responsibilities of Principal Directorate Internal Audit and Oversight (hereinafter referred to as "PDIAO") in the European Patent Office (hereinafter referred to as "the Office").

Part II Mission

- 2) The mission of PDIAO is to provide independent, objective assurance services designed to add value and improve the compliance, performance and quality of operations. It helps the Organisation to accomplish its objectives by bringing a systematic, disciplined approach to appraise and improve the effectiveness of risk management, control and governance processes.

Part III Scope of work

- 3) PDIAO encompasses the following functions:
 - Internal Auditing: the examination and appraisal of the adequacy and effectiveness of internal control systems and the quality of performance in carrying out assigned responsibilities.

In particular, Internal Auditing carries out thorough and systematic examinations to establish whether:

- risks are appropriately identified and managed, including fraud risks and IT risks,
- all relevant provisions of the Organisation are being observed,
- the President's directives and objectives are being implemented properly and effectively,
- the internal control system and the information and operational systems are comprehensive and reliable,
- the assets are safeguarded and properly recorded,
- liabilities and commitments are properly recorded,
- operational procedures (including financial transactions) conform to the principles of efficiency, economy and effectiveness,

- quality and continuous improvement are fostered,
- in conjunction with the Ethics and Compliance function, ethics and values are promoted inside the Organisation,
- accountability is ensured.

Internal Auditing may also provide advisory/consultancy services on issues concerning corporate governance, internal controls and other related matters.

PDIAO's responsibilities in carrying out the Internal Auditing function for the Funds are described in the Regulations of the Funds. These details are not repeated in this Charter. The Internal Auditing function in relation to the rest of the Office is further explained in Part V. of this Charter.

- Ethics and Compliance: the fostering and promotion of an organisational culture based on integrity, ethical business conduct, and accountability; and carrying out administrative investigations in accordance with Article 21a of the Service Regulations and the Implementing Rules to Articles 21, 21a, and 93(2).
- Quality Audit: monitoring the conformance to both the requirements for the Office's products, as set out in the European Patent Convention and the respective Guidelines and other instructions, and to the Quality Management System. These details are not repeated in this Charter.
- Compliance and risk assurance services and audits in the area of the Reserve Funds for Pensions and Social Security (hereinafter referred to as "the Funds"), in accordance with the Regulations of the Funds. These details (including planning, procedure and reporting) are not repeated in this Charter.
- Other assurance services (as specified by the President).

Part IV

Authority and responsibilities

- 4) As part of the Office, PDIAO shall operate on the basis of the Organisation's regulations, complemented by the provisions set out in this Charter and generally recognised professional standards¹, as well as a Code of Ethics (see Annex).
- 5) PDIAO's work shall be carried out on the President's behalf (or on behalf of the Supervisory Board of the Funds). The Head of PDIAO shall report administratively to the President, be directly subordinate to him alone and be answerable to him for disciplinary purposes.

¹ The Internal Auditing function performs its audits according to its generally recognised professional standards, namely the International Professional Practice Framework (IPPF) issued by The Institute of Internal Auditors.

- 6) The risk assurance and compliance officer functions of the Funds shall report solely to the Head of PDIAO. For this purpose, due to the prerogatives of the Fund Administrator and of the Supervisory Board of the Funds, the functional reporting line for the Head of PDIAO when dealing with Funds-related matters shall be to the Supervisory Board of the Funds. This shall apply in particular to audit plans and audit reports. (Resources for this task will be allocated by the President to the PDIAO as appropriate, taking into account proposals from the Supervisory Board of the Funds.)
- 7) In the framework of their mission, PDIAO staff members and any person duly assigned by the Head of PDIAO shall have unrestricted rights to carry out examinations throughout the Office (and also in relation to the Funds) and unrestricted access to all personnel, operational facilities and documents.
- 8) The Office's staff members shall have a duty to fully co-operate with PDIAO.
- 9) The Head of PDIAO shall have no authority to issue operational instructions. PDIAO staff members shall not engage in operational duties nor in any work which would compromise their function of independent objective appraisal and report.

Part V

Internal Auditing planning, reporting and follow-up

- 10) As mentioned in Part III paragraph 3, PDIAO's responsibilities in carrying out the Internal Auditing function for the Funds are described in the Regulations of the Funds. The following paragraphs of Part V. refer solely to Internal Auditing in relation to the rest of the Office.
- 11) For Internal Auditing activities in relation to the Office, the Head of PDIAO shall submit annually to the President his proposals for a risk-based Medium Term Plan which shall cover a three-year period on a rolling basis and an Annual Programme which shall be reviewed and decided upon annually by the President in the light of available resources. The Annual Programme shall be consistent with the Medium Term Plan.
- 12) In preparing the Medium Term Plan and the Annual Programme, the Head of PDIAO shall seek the views of the Vice-Presidents of the Office and shall consult with those who have operational responsibility for the core systems of control in the Office.
- 13) The Head of PDIAO shall also, without prejudice to the independence of the Board of Auditors, seek to ensure that internal auditing work is effectively co-ordinated with the work of the Board of Auditors.
- 14) The Medium Term Plan and the Annual Programme submitted by the Head of PDIAO to the President shall, in accordance with Article 77 FinRegs, be sent to the Board of Auditors.

- 15) The President shall endorse the Medium Term Plan and the Annual Programme submitted by the Head of PDIAO or shall justify his refusal to endorse them in part or in full.
- 16) The President may, at any time, require the Head of PDIAO to amend the Medium Term Plan or the Annual Programme and to undertake a specific internal auditing task. The Head of PDIAO shall send any amended Medium Term Plan and Annual Programme to the Board of Auditors.
- 17) The Head of PDIAO shall send to the Board of Auditors all internal audit reports in accordance with Article 77 FinRegs.
- 18) Internal auditing reports shall be submitted to the President for decision on the recommendations. The Head of PDIAO shall, unless he considers that it would be inappropriate in any particular case, forward a copy of the internal auditing report to the head of any unit which has been the subject of an internal audit and to the relevant Vice-President.
- 19) Any recommendation made in an internal auditing report and not implemented by the date of the report to the President shall include the designation of the unit. For those recommendations which the President decides to endorse, an action plan (including proposed timing) shall be prepared by the unit responsible within six weeks of the decision of the President. The action plan shall be sent to the Head of the President's Office and to the Head of PDIAO.
- 20) In case of refusal or amendment of a recommendation, the President shall inform the Head of PDIAO of the reasons.
- 21) Implementation of any recommendation accepted by the President, or directed by him to be implemented in amended form, shall belong to the responsibility and accountability of the implementing unit.
- 22) Any recommendation shall, after the relevant implementation date has passed, be the subject of a follow-up report to the President.

Part VI

Independence

- 23) The activities of the PDIAO as described in this Charter must be free from interference.
- 24) The Head of PDIAO shall report only to the President (except for the duties specified above on behalf of the Supervisory Board of the Funds) and shall attend the meetings of the governing bodies (such as the Administrative Council, the Budget and Finance Committee and the Supervisory Board of the Funds).
- 25) PDIAO shall at the end of each year prepare a report covering the activities of the year and confirming whether the organisational independence of Internal Audit and Oversight, in accordance with this Charter, has been maintained. PDIAO shall submit this report to the President, with a copy to the Board of Auditors.

European patent information policy

EUROPEAN PATENT INFORMATION POLICY

I. DEVELOPMENT OF PATENT INFORMATION POLICY

The framework for the patent information policy of the European Patent Office was adopted by the Administrative Council of the European Patent Organisation in June 1988 (CA/D 12/88). The objectives were defined as follows:

"The aims of European policy with regard to the production and dissemination of patent information shall be Primarily to improve access to patent information in Europe for the general public and for industry – in particular small and medium-sized enterprises – in order to stimulate innovative activity, through the national offices of member states and non-commercial libraries which co-operate with these offices. To this end, the EPO will actively support their activities in the field of patent information.

Secondarily to take into account the existing European patent information industry without distorting competition between commercial operators."

At this point, national patent offices were sending data – under bilateral agreements in a framework laid down by WIPO – to the International Patent Documentation Center (INPADOC) in Vienna. INPADOC provided a number of patent information services (Patent Family Service, Patent Classification Service and Patent Applicant Service) on microfiche, supplied the accumulated data in a standardised format to database hosts on a commercial basis, and also maintained an online database (PFS/PRS).

CA/D 12/88 established that, in the event of INPADOC being integrated into the EPO, an equal pricing policy would apply to the patent offices of member states of WIPO for INPADOC products covered by the agreement between WIPO and the Republic of Austria.

Regarding the respective roles of the national patent offices and the EPO, it was decided that the latter would concentrate on establishing databases and collecting data under exchange programmes. As a central provider or "wholesaler" of patent information, it would make its databases available to other operators.

As a data producer, the Office would concentrate on setting up and developing databases needed for its own activities and for those of the national offices of the member states.

The pricing policy for patent information products was modified in CA/67/92.

Proposals for amending patent information policy were set out in CA/9/96.

The pricing policy was summarised in CA/62/97 Rev. 2.

CA/160/97 presented the Distributed Internet Patent Services, introducing the Espacenet system with Level I and Level II servers.

The patent information policy pursued by the Office takes account of the above principles.

The technical possibilities in this area have been transformed by the advent of new storage media and the World Wide Web, unlocking the potential of the internet for providing new services.

With political change and economic globalisation, the protection of niche industries by individual states or groups of states has become anachronistic. Instead, the aim must be to create a basis for the free development of markets by making standard technologies widely available – as in the telecommunications industry.

Membership of the European Patent Organisation has grown considerably, and the number of countries seeking to improve patent information provision for their domestic industry has also increased.

In addition, the past few years have seen changes in patent information user-ship. When the Office's patent information policy was first implemented, the use of patent information was largely confined to technical experts with a special interest in patents.

The internet made access to patent information easier, and new categories of users emerged. Universities in many countries were told by government to start organising their own funding, which has led them to recognise the possibility of protecting ideas by patents and to concentrate their resources on innovative projects seeking results not already achieved elsewhere. Universities are therefore making increasing use of information contained in patents and are publishing the results of their research in the form of patent documents.

Innovation cycles are getting shorter, and companies with plans for new products are becoming ever more attractive to investors, who have an interest in assessing the economic potential of current R&D projects or existing patent rights. The value of patent applications and published patents as a source of economically relevant information has been widely recognised by analysts and investors.

The EPO and national patent offices have made good use of the new technical possibilities and have greatly improved and simplified access to the raw data. A total of 74 offices and organisations are now sending data to the Office, which distributes it at marginal cost to other operators. The introduction of standards such as XML will reduce the cost to these operators, while increasing the quantities of data that can be processed.

The hope that these measures would considerably reduce commercial services' cost to end-users has only been partly fulfilled. The Office's original pricing policy, forgoing potential revenue, has not benefited end-users. The commercial operators' explanation for this is that not all the required data – e.g. full texts – is freely available. At the same time, they are demanding faster delivery of even more complete data, and still more effective checking and correction procedures.

For those groups – e.g. universities, SMEs and individual inventors – which still make far too little use of patent information, the high prices and often complicated use agreements are too big an obstacle. They are particularly interested in national-office and EPO services enabling users to search national or international collections on the Office's Level I and Level II servers (Espacenet) and to download data free of charge for further processing (OPS).

The commercial interest groups argue that if this policy continues, the providers of complex information services with added value would no longer have the financial resources to continue offering them, because of competition from free information services.

II. CURRENT CHALLENGES

The situation has changed fundamentally since the principles of patent information policy were first laid down. Patent information policy needs to be modernised and reformulated accordingly.

A. TECHNICAL DEVELOPMENTS

At the time of the original decision on patent information policy, paper was still the main publication medium. Access to online databases, with user-unfriendly interfaces, was limited to specialists. CD-ROMs were still at the trial stage.

Since then, print has been largely superseded by optical media (CDs and DVDs). The adoption of the Office's ESPACE standard has ensured that the various products on the market are largely compatible. However, these media have already passed their zenith. They still have advantages for storing and copying information, but in future, their use will be restricted to static data collections. With the introduction of the publication server, the Office has formally gone over to electronic publication for patent applications and specifications. Many national offices are likely to follow suit in the near future.

The internet revolution has also led to the emergence of new competitors, e.g. Google, whose revenue no longer comes from the sale of data but from other sources, such as advertising. This has repeatedly undermined the distinction between service categories. Thus the supply of facsimile data and/or full-text documents is now considered a basic service, instead of a value-added one as only a few years ago.

The transition to electronic publication has radically reduced the interval between publication and the distribution of the information to patent information services. The Office can make its own data, and that of other offices, available directly on the day of publication.

Cheaper IT structures and increased processing power now make it possible for all commercial patent information operators to monitor data for errors and gaps. The Office has to address this challenge and improve the quality of data. At the same time, it must build a relationship of trust with patent information users by documenting known errors and correcting them as quickly as possible.

The rapid pace of technological development in this area has led to the creation of a wide range of EPO services, using different formats and standards. At present, data is supplied in widely differing formats and has to be combined by the end-user or the commercial operator to get a complete result. Here, there is an urgent need for action by the Office to remove the existing technical obstacles.

The Office receives data from both contracting and non-contracting states. Supplying basic bibliographic data to end-users and commercial operators is unproblematic, but there are reservations about providing full texts and citation data. These misgivings date back to a time when there were fears of market distortion by competition between the Office and the national offices and/or certain commercial operators favoured by the latter.

These fears have proved unfounded. However, the policy has led to unequal treatment of end-users of patent information. Up to now, the commercial operator has had to provide certification from the patent office sending the data, showing that it agrees to the supply of full-text data to the operator. The commercial operators often did not seek the office's approval, so the data was duplicated, at an extra cost which ultimately had to be borne by European industry. The EPO has now asked the relevant member states to agree in general to the supply of their full-text data to other operators. AT, CH, DE and GB have welcomed this move and given their consent; the response of BE, FR and WIPO is still awaited.

The proposed policy modification provides for "barrier-free" access to patent information. The basis for this is that all users are treated equally and that there are no limits on supplying particular data elements. In addition, access to information must be made easier for inexperienced users. In the long term,

- the system has to be simplified
- the documentation of standards and rules has to be improved.

Electronic assistants are needed to point out possible problems to users, who can then seek expert help.

Barrier-free access also means that the visibility of patent information should no longer be restricted to products within the existing patent information sphere: in the age of the internet, patent information can and must flow into other standard information services.

B. CHANGE IN USER GROUPS

When EPO patent information policy was originally defined, the main users were librarians and documentation experts. This changed, gradually at first, but then radically.

Companies began to use patents to ward off competitors and reward employees, and for advertising purposes. Modern technologies with short innovation cycles call for a plentiful supply of risk capital; IP rights help to secure this by protecting business ideas and thus enhancing their prospects for commercial success. A company's patent portfolio is thus an indicator of how well it is equipped for the future. Evaluating the portfolio requires detailed analysis of the background information found in patent information databases, to establish whether an idea is really a pioneering invention or a mere modification of an existing product, whether competitors can be kept out of the potential market, and whether the company's stock of patents is consistent with its product range. This in turn makes it possible to ascertain whether IP rights could be better used by selling or licensing them than by manufacturing the invention. Thus a completely new user group, made up of financial experts and market analysts, has to be addressed. This is a new task for the national patent offices. If they wish, the EPO could support them in creating a Europe-wide structure for these services, by taking over existing projects or launching new ones.

Thus there are new ways of using patent information, in addition to the original possibilities.

European economies, facing intensified competition, must recognise the need to minimise wasted research by intensive use of patent information and the free technologies published in patent applications. They must also acknowledge the growing importance of patent information from Asian countries, and make use of this too.

C. ALTERING THE BALANCE BETWEEN INVENTOR AND PUBLIC

With modern communication technology, patent information can be made available to the public much more efficiently than 20 years ago, and balance thus restored to the relationship between inventors/patentees and the public. This is not just a matter of creating the necessary technical conditions, i.e. supplying the data over the internet; it also means ensuring – through information, training and suitable tools – that the public actually makes use of the services offered.

D. PATENT INFORMATION PROVIDERS

The market for commercial operators has changed considerably since the introduction of the Office's patent information policy in 1988. The internet has become the distribution medium of choice, complicated pricing structures have been replaced by flat fees, information can now be delivered automatically ("push" services), and host services can be tailored to the requirements of the end-user's internal databases.

The number of commercial providers – and their geographical distribution – has also changed radically. Ten years ago, the EPO was supplying data to 40 commercial operators; today, the figure is only 24 (-40%). Twelve of those 40 operators have been bought up by a single US publisher. Of the 24 firms now remaining, one third are based in the USA, one third in Asia, and the remaining third in Europe.

Of the remaining seven European providers, two are large firms – one French, the other German – which in terms of turnover and staff numbers dominate the market, with a combined share of around 80%. The remaining 20% is divided between one firm with 10% and four with around 2.5% each.

An optimistic estimate of the total turnover of the seven European operators would be about EUR 50m, providing around 300 jobs. At the large firms, the latter figure only includes staff working directly on commercial information provision, and most other computer centre services. Most firms also offer other databases, as well as supplying patent information.

The existing patent information policy stipulates that the European Patent Office must conduct its activities "without distorting competition between commercial operators". This protection for a niche industry has artificially obstructed the use of internet services by the public and interested industrial sectors, and seriously held back the necessary technical improvement of those services. One example of this is the long delay in offering fully downloadable electronic patent documents, as all users want, instead of access limited to one page at a time.

In recent years, however, the EPO has pursued a policy that has enabled patent information providers to develop new services of their own. This makes it possible for new firms to emerge with new business ideas, and allows established operators to extend their activities. It also overcomes the delay just described in modernising the Office's services.

An example of this technology is OPS (Open Patent Services). There is major potential for further development here if full texts and facsimile pages are offered in addition to bibliographic and legal status data.

The linguistic diversity of Europe poses a problem in searching patent documents. Here, Google's concentration on US patent literature could have negative consequences. It would be in the European interest for the Office to support Google in building up a data collection which also includes European patent documents and national data from the member states.

It is therefore proposed that the artificial brake on development be removed, that information providers be allowed in return to develop services of their own on the basis of those provided by the Office, and that support in building up data collections be given to all patent information providers.

E. MEMBERS OF THE EUROPEAN PATENT ORGANISATION

In 1988, when patent information policy was first defined, there were 14 EPO member states. In 2005, the average filing rate in these countries was 160 applications per million population.

The equivalent figure for all 31 current member states is 110 applications per million population. This is accounted for by the low filing rate – on average, 18 European patent applications per million inhabitants – in the 17 member states which have joined the Organisation since 1988.

Thus there is an urgent need in these countries for additional efforts in the dissemination of patent information. Of these 17 countries, only one has an EPO language as an official language; by contrast, only five of the member states in 1988 had non-EPO official languages. This highlights the need for national patent offices to play a much more central part in disseminating patent information.

When modifying patent information policy in the light of these circumstances, it must be borne in mind that direct access to patent information via the internet is independent of geography. The national patent offices clearly have a key role in the transmission of patent information, since only they can make information available in their national language and in accordance with local conditions.

In view of the changed structure, an improvement of the use of patent information is desirable in all the member states, but is a matter of particular urgency in the above-mentioned 16 countries lacking an EPO official language.

The activities of the national patent offices are even more important now, given the greater linguistic diversity and the differences in the structure of industry, than at the time when patent information policy was first formulated.

The EPO and the national offices must avoid accusations of unfair competition with commercial operators. The Office therefore commissioned a group of experts on EU competition law (from the London firm Freshfields Bruckhaus Deringer) to examine whether the reformulation of patent information policy posed a risk with regard to unfair competition.

The experts' main finding is as follows: "It should be possible for the EPO to rebut a presumption of predation. This since there is an objective justification for the EPO's intended new information policy; that is to benefit consumers and to encourage barrier-free access to patent information even for users with little technical expertise or search experience. Even if a long-term 'side-effect' of the EPO's policy could be that some/all commercial providers of patent information would lose some/all of their business, this would not necessarily lead to the policy approach being abusive. If the commercial providers of patent information really offered value-added services to consumers at reasonable prices and marketed them appropriately, it would be unlikely that the EPO's policy change would seriously affect their level of business."

Patent information helps to ensure that research spending is accurately targeted, and can improve the efficiency of the patent system by preventing low-quality applications from blocking search and examination capacity. This requires the full involvement of the national patent offices in the exchange of patent information, the aim being to ensure that they all reach an equally high level.

III. CLARIFICATIONS IN RESPONSE TO COMMENTS RECEIVED

A. PRICING POLICY

The Office's pricing policy distinguishes between services such as Esp@cenet and OPS, which are free of charge, and services offered to users at marginal cost.

One reason for providing information free of charge to end-users lies in the duty of patent offices to provide full information on the rights they have granted. Right-holders have to pay for this via the fee system. A further reason is that actively promoting the availability of patent information can improve the quality of patent applications.

Published applications are also a ready source of information on technical developments, which prevents wasted spending on duplicated research. Vast investment resources can be put to better use, with a view to realising the Lisbon agenda, by ensuring that patent information reaches its target audience.

The EPO does not set up information services for profit. This is left to commercial providers and national patent offices.

When services are created, their costs are clearly defined and shown. The services are tailored to specific user groups, with a clear distinction between basic and supplementary information as a starting point for applying different pricing or cost models.

B. ECONOMIC ANALYSIS OF PATENT DATA

The Office does not intend to provide economic analyses of patent portfolios, and will only produce statistics, as in the past, to monitor filing trends. However, in view of the growing interest in the statistics-based evaluation of patent portfolios, it will offer data collections that facilitate this. At the request of national offices or patent documentation/innovation centres, it will also take part in projects concerned with this important topic, and arrange suitable training and information workshops.

C. DIRECT CONTACTS WITH INDUSTRY

In the Office's view, establishing and maintaining patent information contacts with industry is a task for the national patent offices, which can draw on their knowledge of local conditions to tailor services to specific industry needs.

The EPO will maintain its contacts with industry for the purposes of improving services, organising training in new technologies (for example, XML) and presenting new developments, and will continue to inform the national offices about these activities. The Working Party on Technical Information has proved to be a suitable forum for this.

The Office supports patent information providers by supplying them with data, collected for its own purposes, in a standardised form suitable for further processing and at marginal cost, thus eliminating any risk of unfair competition. From a position of equality, the Office and the patent information providers can then develop services based on this data. Such services are only offered free of charge by the EPO where this is necessary to ensure the free dissemination of knowledge about granted patents, as required by the "bargain" theory of patenting, or where it is otherwise in the public interest.

D. ADDITIONAL TASKS OF NATIONAL OFFICES

New ways of using patent information are creating a range of new tasks for national patent offices and patent information/innovation centres. The free availability of internet services such as Google is expected to boost the demand for qualified advice, as is the use of patent information in new areas such as economic analysis and statistical monitoring; the same also applies to legal status data. The offices of the new member states, especially those which do not have an EPO language as an official language, face particular challenges in this respect.

E. PATENT DOCUMENTATION AS GENERALLY AVAILABLE INFORMATION

The Office has been trying hard since 1990 to make patent documents widely accessible, but they have remained an exceptional form of information used mainly by specialists. While Esp@cenet has produced significant changes, the breakthrough has yet to come. The availability of patents via general search engines such as Google represents an opportunity to tap the potential of users who need quick access to specialised information.

Supplying data to Google is covered by current patent information policy, but will have a far greater impact than the existing supply arrangements with patent information providers.

It is a matter for concern that Google is at present only offering US documents, which puts European industry at disadvantage. The Office will therefore seek to co-operate with Google and persuade it to incorporate patent documents from other sources, using EPO-supplied data to build up these collections and safeguard data quality.

IV. PATENT INFORMATION POLICY FOR THE EUROPEAN PATENT ORGANISATION

A. BASIC PRINCIPLES

The Office's patent information policy complies with the guiding principles of subsidiarity and complementarity.

In line with the member states' request to that effect, the collation, standardisation and offer of databases will be handled centrally by the Office, whilst the national offices, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity, will be responsible for analysing the needs in their country, responding to those needs and evaluating the results. Provided the relevant national office agrees, the Office may conduct projects for or in a country in accordance with the principle of complementarity.

B. OBJECTIVE

The aim of the patent information policy is to make it easily accessible from all countries so as to build up the knowledge society in Europe and enable European industry to have direct access to that information. Moreover, global access to the information should enable European industry to obtain high-quality patents even outside Europe.

C. PRICING POLICY

The existing pricing policy based on CA/62/97 Rev. 2 and CA 160/97 will be maintained, i.e., the patent information will be supplied free of charge or at marginal cost. This means the following pricing of EPO data and products will be applied:

1. The national offices of the member states and their recognised regional information centres are sent the Office's data free of charge at the time of publication. The principle of reciprocity applies.
2. All other interested parties receive EPO data at marginal costs or in case of webservices like Esp@cenet or the Publication Server free of charge.
3. The above applies to all categories of data, including the added-value databases prepared by the EPO, in particular those of INPADOC. The data contained in these databases are furnished to the EPO free of charge.
4. The EPO may deviate from the general rule under 2 if the national office of a third country does not make its data available to users in the member states under similar conditions.
5. The EPO works contracts in such a way as to ensure that data use meets the aforementioned conditions and that follow-up, in particular for statistical purposes, is possible.
6. These provisions do not affect existing exchange agreements under the European Patent Convention.

When examining the effects of granted patents, a distinction must be drawn between several categories of users, bearing in mind that individuals or firms may fall under more than one category, depending on their role.

- Patent applicants

This is the smallest group in terms of numbers but it also has the greatest interest in the cheap grant of patents.

- Active observers of patent information

This group wishes to derive the greatest benefit from patent information. Whilst it wants patent information cheaply, it has accepted that costs will arise if patent information is processed systematically.

- Those affected by the grant of a patent

All natural and legal persons are affected by the grant of a patent since each granted patent limits the freedom to carry out commercial activities.

If the principle that ignorance of the law is not a defence is to be complied with, the law in question must be published. All modern societies have attempted to provide statutory texts as far as possible free of charge.

Generally available patent information should therefore be financed by the group benefiting most from the granted patents, i.e. via the fees paid by applicants.

High-quality patent information, especially that offered by patent information providers creating added-value services, should, however, be financed by the "power users" themselves by payment of a price including at least a cost-recovery charge.

The term value-added refers in that context to extra intellectual efforts or to extra computing efforts, the latter might change depending on the technical development.

D. CO-OPERATION AND TASK-SHARING WITH NATIONAL OFFICES

The Office regularly presents its new patent information products, tools, services and training aids, together with an overview of further development plans and general patent information activities, and will continue to do this within the framework of the WPTI.

If the member states' patent systems are to be used effectively, an infrastructure for using patent information must be in place. In most member states, national patent offices – having the necessary contacts with SMEs, and local language knowledge – are best placed to drive this forward. They can use tools and databases provided by the Office, adapt them to local markets and address the issues specific to their country. They thus create the basis for using the uniform IP infrastructure to be created in Europe through co-operation policy.

Further projects to improve access to patent information in Europe can also be launched in co-operation with national patent offices, provided that no extra cost to the EPO is involved, or that the project is financed in the framework of the co-operation. The emphasis here is on adaptation to local markets and on non-EPO languages.

The Office will support these activities by improving and extending the methods for central data delivery. In future, end-users such as universities and SMEs will increasingly want to access data directly, rather than via commercial operators. This will raise the requirements for standardisation and barrier-free access. End-users do not sell or distribute these data and need to understand or process them without too much additional training.

At the same time, the Office will step up its efforts in the use of modern technologies to provide training and information tools, offering easier access to patent information. This requires intensive contacts with end-users and also with the patent information centres of the national offices.

The Office's main role is in creating central stocks of high-quality, standardised data, establishing arrangements for the distribution of data to patent information providers, and building up Web-based services. Here, information is provided free of charge; the Office does not act as a host.

The task of the national patent offices will be to determine needs, plan and conduct key activities and monitor the success of measures for the dissemination of patent information in the individual member states.

NPOs will offer patent information services tailored to the requirements of national industry, SMEs, universities and other end-users. They will be supported in this by the EPO.

E. RELATIONS WITH COMMERCIAL PROVIDERS OF PATENT INFORMATION

Under this policy the Office will make available, at marginal cost, improved and more comprehensive data collections, together with tools for analysing this data to provide services for end-users.

As in the past, the Office will make known its medium-term plans for extending the services offered to commercial operators and the facilities available to end-users. The further extension of these services and facilities will be determined primarily by the objectives laid down in patent information policy.

F. PATENT INFORMATION IS UNDERSTOOD TO COMPRISE:

- the descriptive content of published applications and granted patents
- bibliographic data (priority, filing date, inventor, applicant, classification) in published patent documents
- legal status data relating to patent applications and published patents, including information on patent proprietors and licences
- additional information, obtained through statistical analysis of the data, on patenting strategies, ownership structures and development trends, from which conclusions can be drawn about the economic significance of patent applications and patents.

G. AIMS OF EUROPEAN POLICY WITH REGARD TO THE PRODUCTION AND DISSEMINATION OF PATENT INFORMATION:

- support and accelerate technological innovation, development and research in Europe
- contribute to strengthening the patent system worldwide and thereby facilitate access to other markets for European industry on a basis of reciprocity
- collect and standardise published patent information from all over the world and make it usable for European industry.

H. STRATEGY TO ACHIEVE THESE AIMS:

- actively supporting the patent offices of the member states in their efforts to make patent information available to the European public, either directly or via patent information centres and libraries
- ensuring barrier-free public access to the information contained in patent documents, especially for small and medium-sized enterprises, universities and research centres, industry and bodies involved in filing patent applications, granting patents and disseminating patent information
- facilitating the drawing-up of high-quality patent applications, by disseminating the data collections and relevant tools used by the European Patent Office for novelty searching
- supporting the strengthening of patent systems worldwide by making data and tools available over the internet to ensure more intensive use of patent information
- developing and refining tools to make the data collections and search engines accessible to users with little technical expertise or search experience
- organising and/or supporting information and training on the purpose of patent information and the relevant methods and tools
- actively establishing the wishes of European patent information users, and taking them into account as far as possible.

Outsourcing Policy

Considering the principle of appointing employees of the European Patent Office (EPO) on the basis referred to in Article 33(2)(b) EPC;

Having regard to the Conditions of employment for contract staff at the EPO, which enable the Organisation to react flexibly to changing personnel requirements under certain conditions and within certain limits;

Considering further the principles of economy and sound financial management laid down in Article 2 of the Financial Regulations, and the need to ensure the long-term financial sustainability of the European Patent Organisation;

Having regard to the Service Regulations and in particular to the role of the General Advisory Committee under Article 38(3) thereof;

Referring to the Human Resources Roadmap, which aims at ensuring consistency between business needs and human resources policies and has identified the EPO's outsourcing policy as one means of managing people and competences in general and as being in need of clarification;

Considering the EPO's need to define the principles which are to guide its managers in their decisions on buying in works or services (outsourcing);

Considering that outsourcing does not cover the provision of manpower, or the terms thereof, which could be used by the EPO for temporary support to cope with a short-term workload peak or to compensate for an unforeseen, immediate and short-term need;

Considering that the European Patent Organisation requires its contractors to respect the applicable provisions of law as well as the Organisation's internal legal framework and values;

Considering that the EPO will organise an awareness campaign for the management and will regularly monitor the implementation of this policy in order to ensure that it is consistently implemented and that lessons learnt are taken into account;

Without prejudice to the European Patent Convention and any secondary legislation, regulations or instructions adopted under it, including but not limited to the Service Regulations and the Financial Regulations;

the following policy is hereby adopted:

1. Permanent tasks of the European Patent Office are normally to be executed by employees of the Office.
2. In line with the applicable rules, the Office may buy in work and/or services from external suppliers (outsource) on condition that there is either no in-house expertise available with staff already in employment or that the task is not, or no longer considered to be, of a permanent nature, or that outsourcing ensures substantive economic benefits for the Office, taking into account the related risks and costs.

3. Outsourcing may further not lead to the loss of internal expertise and competencies to such an extent that the continuity of the Office's mission is put at risk.
4. A decision in line with point 2 above shall be an operational decision to be taken by the unit responsible for the performance of the respective tasks or services at the appropriate hierarchical level, taking into account the impact of the decision, the need to co-operate and co-ordinate with other areas within the Office and the need to ensure consistency.

This policy will enter into force on 1 August 2012.

President of the European Patent Office

European Patent Organisation and the Republic of Austria of the International Patent Documentation Center

(INPADOC) into the European Patent Organisation

THE EUROPEAN PATENT ORGANISATION (hereinafter referred to as "the Organization"),

Having regard to the Convention on the Grant of European Patents of 5 October 1973 (hereinafter referred to as "the Convention"), and in particular Article 33, paragraph 4, thereof,

and

THE REPUBLIC OF AUSTRIA

HAVE AGREED AS FOLLOWS:

Article 1

- (1) With the entry into force of this Agreement, the assets of "INPADOC, Internationales Patentdokumentationszentrum Gesellschaft mit beschränkter Haftung" (hereinafter referred to as "the Company") shall be transferred to the Organization as its universal successor in title. Accordingly, but without prejudice to Article 2, paragraph 2, and Article 4, the Organization shall become party to all contracts and agreements concluded by the Company.
- (2) The Organization waives any claim to payment of outstanding contributions to the Company's capital.
- (3) Upon transfer of its assets under paragraph 1 the Company is dissolved. The Republic of Austria shall forward to the Organization a closing statement of accounts signed by the executive management on the date of transfer, and a provisional balance sheet for the Company. A balance sheet showing the position on the date of transfer shall subsequently be adopted by common accord between the contracting parties.
- (4) The Company's executive management and supervisory board shall be considered discharged within the meaning of Section 35, paragraph 1, of the Austrian Law of 6 March 1906 (RGB1. 58) concerning limited liability companies, as currently worded.
- (5) Nothing in this Agreement shall entail a foreclosure or constitute any acknowledgment whatsoever of debt vis-à-vis the Company's creditors, each of whom shall have to furnish evidence of his rights and substantiate his claims.

Article 2

- (1) The European Patent Office shall perform for the central industrial property offices of the Member States of the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) the services for the purposes of a worldwide patent documentation service provided for in Articles II and III of the Agreement of 2 May 1972 between the Republic of Austria and WIPO concerning the establishment of an International Patent Documentation Center.

- (2) Where a central industrial property office is unable or unwilling to pursue with the Organization an existing contractual relationship with the Company or to enter into such a relationship with the former, the services referred to in paragraph 1 shall be performed through the Austrian Patent Office. The relevant arrangements shall be determined by the President of the European Patent Office in agreement with the President of the Austrian Patent Office.

Article 3

- (1) With the entry into force of this Agreement the Organization shall establish a sub-office of the European Patent Office in Vienna.
- (2) The task of the sub-office shall in particular be to perform services of the kind referred to in Article 2. Other tasks of the European Patent Office may also be assigned to the sub-office.
- (3) The Organization and the Republic of Austria shall conclude an agreement supplementing and implementing the Protocol on Privileges and Immunities of the Organization and concerning the headquarters of the sub-office.
- (4) The Republic of Austria shall assist the Organization in obtaining suitable premises for the sub-office.

Article 4

- (1) The Company's executive managers and salaried employees ("Angestellten" within the meaning of the Austrian Law on salaried employees) who are on permanent contracts when this Agreement enters into force shall be appointed permanent employees of the European Patent Office upon their request. Appointment shall take effect on the date this Agreement enters into force.
- (2) Staff appointed under paragraph 1 shall simultaneously be assigned to the posts listed in the appendix to this Agreement, taking into account their duties at the Company before the Agreement entered into force. Part-time staff shall have no entitlement to full-time employment.
- (3) Permanent employees appointed under paragraph 1 shall be assigned step 1 in the grade carried by their post. A higher step may be assigned if, given the provisions governing recruitment to the European Patent Office and the circumstances of the particular case, this seems appropriate in the light of the individual's qualifications and the duties performed with the Company or a previous employer.
- (4) Except where this Agreement provides otherwise, as from entry into force of this Agreement the Service Regulations for permanent employees of the European Patent Office (Service Regulations), the Pension Scheme Regulations of the European Patent Office (Pension Scheme Regulations) and their implementing rules shall apply to permanent employees appointed under paragraph 1. Article 13 of the Service Regulations concerning the probationary period shall not apply.

- (5) Notwithstanding Article 7 of the Pension Scheme Regulations, permanent employees appointed under paragraph 1 and with at least five years' effective service at the Company shall be entitled on request to a retirement pension under those Regulations after at least a further five years effective service with the European Patent Office.
- (6) In lieu of the retirement and survivors' pension rights acquired under their contracts with the Company the executive managers shall be credited with reckonable years of service within the meaning of Article 6, paragraph 1, of the Pension Scheme Regulations in accordance with separate agreements between each executive manager and the President of the European Patent Office. Such agreements may dispense with the requirement of a minimum period of effective service at the Company under paragraph 5. In calculating any severance grants under Article 11, sub-paragraphs (ii) and (iii) of the Pension Scheme Regulations, the amounts payable under Article 12, paragraph 1, of the Pension Scheme Regulations for the crediting of a corresponding number of reckonable years of service shall be considered as paid to the Organization upon entry into force of this Agreement.
- (7) As soon as possible after signature of this Agreement the European Patent Office shall indicate to each salaried employee of the Company entitled to request appointment under paragraph 1 the post, grade and step applicable in his case. The request for appointment as a permanent employee of the European Patent Office must be made in writing within one month of the date of receipt of this information, and is valid only if it contains an irrevocable declaration that the requester assents to termination of his contract of employment with the Company upon entry into force of this Agreement.
- (8) For the Company's executive managers, assignment of grade and step under paragraph 3 and the procedure under paragraph 7 shall be regulated by the separate agreements concluded between them and the President of the European Patent Office when this Agreement is signed.
- (9) Persons still employed when this Agreement enters into force and not entitled to request appointment under paragraph 1, or who within the period under paragraph 7 have made no written request for appointment as permanent employees of the European Patent Office, shall have their employment terminated by the Organization as soon as is permissible under the law applicable.
- (10) Appeals alleging non-compliance with the employment-related provisions of this Agreement may be filed by permanent employees appointed under paragraph 1 under the same conditions as appeals alleging non-compliance with the Service Regulations. For all other matters, national courts shall have jurisdiction.

Article 5

Any dispute between the Organization and the Republic of Austria concerning the interpretation or application of this Agreement which is not settled by negotiation shall at the request of either contracting party be referred for final decision to an arbitration tribunal consisting of three members. One arbitrator shall be nominated by the President of the European Patent Office and one by the duly authorised representative of the Republic of Austria; these two arbitrators shall then nominate a third who shall chair the arbitration tribunal. If the first two arbitrators fail to agree within three months after their nomination on the nomination of the third, he shall be nominated by the President of the International Court of Justice at the request of the Organization or the Republic of Austria.

Article 6

The date on which this Agreement enters into force shall be determined by an exchange of notes between the President of the European Patent Office and the Federal Minister for Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Austria.¹
